This new West-end Club, which now numbers 1,500 members, is open in one of the best portions in the West-end, being at the corner of Pall-mall, opposite the Athenæum Club.

This Club is established to meet the wants of Gentlemen who, owing to the almost dead-lock existing among the leading West-end Clubs, are at present without the advantages of one.

The Club is intended for members of Town and Country Society, and one of its objects also is, as its name also denotes, to offer a place of resort for Men of Travel and other Gentlemen who have associated in various parts of the world.

The Entrance Fee at present is Ten Guineas, which will be raised when the strength of the Club is completed.

The annual subscription is Eight Guineas, but Members residing beyond a radius of fifty miles from London are admitted as Country Members at an annual subscription of Four Guineas.

The Subscription of Officers on Foreign Service is One Guinea, and other Gentlemen residing abroad Two Guineas.

This Club being strictly proprietary the Members incur no liability.

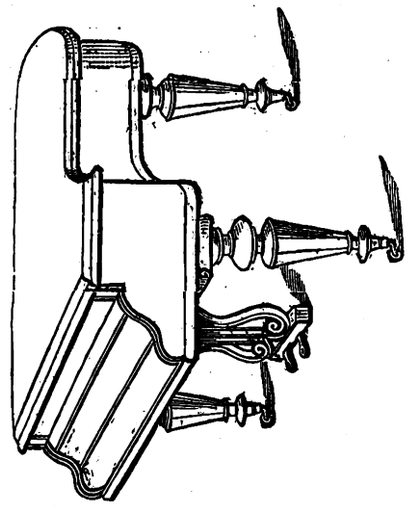
KIRKMAN AND SON,

ESTABLISHED NEARLY 150 YEARS.



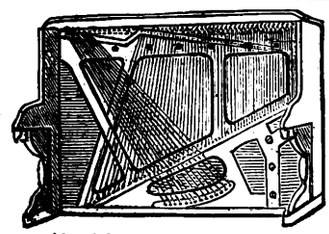
3 and 9, SOHO-SQUARE, LONDON, W.

KIRKMAN AND SON'S

PATENT STEEL FRAME

SHORT GRAND PIANOS,

SIX FEET LONG, IN ELEGANT ROSEWOOD OR WALNUT CASES,



Are considered by all who have heard them to combine a greater amount and resonance of tone, consistent with adaptability of size, shape, and elegance of appearance than those of any other manufacturer.

KIRKMAN AND SON'S

OVERSTRUNG

GRAND AND COTTAGE PIANOS.

Is being considered by some competent judges that the German method of over or cross-stringing Pianos is attended with great advantage, Messrs. Kirkman and Son are now manufacturing both Grand and Cottage Pianos on this principle, the latter having the plain sticker Action, which is not the case with Pianos of this class manufactured by other makers; in fact, the extreme simplicity of the action used by Messrs. Kirkman and Son in all their Pianos render them eminently suitable for exportation to the Colonies, where skilled workmen are few and far between. All useless checks and complications are carefully avoided, thus enabling any tuner, with however superficial a knowledge of the business, to regulate them or repair any damage they may sustain.

KIRKMAN AND SON

Have a reputation extending over nearly a Century and a-Half.

There are now in the possession of the house Harpsichords and Virginals dated 1758 and 1778, manufactured by Jacobus and Abraham Kirckman.

The present members of the firm beg to call the attention of shippers and exporters to the fact that in ordering of this house they are dealing with a firm who manufacture on principles derived from experience of this almost unprecedented length.

KIRKMAN AND SON

Have at present a Fine Selection at their Extensive Show Rooms in Soho-square.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, Feb. 14; Madras and Allahabad, Feb. 13; Calcutta, Feb. 12.

THE following is the report on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending Feb. 3, 1880:—Slight rain fell in the Madras Presidency and in parts of Sind and the Punjab. The want of rain is felt in parts of Madras, Bengal, and Upper India. The general prospects of the spring crops remain good. Madras: General prospects good. Bombay: Crop prospects continue good; fever in Kanara, Nasik, and Karachi Districts; six deaths from cholera in Puna. Bengal: General prospects continue favourable; rice still being reaped in Pooree; elsewhere harvest over, outturn on the whole a good average one; rabi crops generally promising, but still want rain in places in Behar and Chota Nagpore; early rabi ripening, and being reaped generally with good outturn; spring rice doing well, land being ploughed for early rice; general health good, but small-pox and cholera in places and fever still prevails in Poree. North-West Provinces and Oudh: No rain during the week; health good and rabi prospects fair; rain is wanted for unirrigated land, especially in Allahabad and Partabgarh; cattle disease has appeared in Agra. Punjab: Prospects and health generally good, and prices of food grains falling in most districts. Central Provinces: Clear and cool; kharif threshing continues in some districts; rabi generally good; prices stationary. British Burma: Small-pox still prevalent, otherwise general health of province satisfactory. Bangalore: Standing crops in good condition; prospects generally favourable; fever prevalent in parts, otherwise health good; prices stationary. Hyderabad: Agricultural prospects still unfavourable; weather fair; no disease. Indore: Health and prospects good. Ajmere: Clouds still about; prospects good.

THE negotiations with Mahomed Jan are reported to have proved abortive; but there has been no activity on the part of the hostile Afghans. The advance on Ghazni is expected to take place after the 20th. The reports of the fighting at Herat are confirmed by later intelligence.

THE special correspondent of the Standard telegraphed on Monday that a Ghazi had shot Surgeon M'Cartie, of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry, through the shoulder. The injury was not serious. A Ghazi boy also slightly wounded Graves, of the Artillery.

FROM the Kuram Valley it is reported that Lieut. Humsden, 13th Bengal Cavalry, was murdered by robbers on the night of Feb. 19 while asleep in his tent. No such name, however, is to be found in the "India List." Lieut. Lumsden, late 70th Regiment, probationer Staff Corps, is noted as serving with the 3rd Bengal Cavalry, Eastern Afghanistan Force.

COL. H. C. WILKINSON, lately commanding the 16th Lancers, has been selected to succeed Col. R. Preston, C.B., as military secretary to the Commander in Chief in India.

SIR JAMES FERGUSSON, of Kilkerran, Ayrshire, has been appointed Governor of Bombay, in the room of Sir Richard Temple. Sir James was Under Secretary for India in 1866-67, afterwards acted for a short time as Under Secretary for the Home Department, and served successively as Governor of South Australia and Governor of New Zealand from 1868 to 1874.

THE Queen has been pleased to direct letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal granting the dignity of a knight of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland unto Mr. Nicholas Gustave Bestel, barrister-at-law formerly senior puisne judge, and lately acting chief judge, of the Supreme Court of the Island of Mauritius.

THE Cabul correspondent of the Times says that it will probably not create surprise in England to learn that Sir Frederick Haines has removed General Massy from the command of the cavalry with this force. This unusual act of energy is attributed, and probably with justice, to the wholesome influence of the new adjutant general. The extraordinary apathy in consequence of which the Afghans were enabled to withdraw unmolested on the night of the 8th of October from their position on the Cabul heights has always been the subject of severe comment, and still greater disapproval has been generally expressed at the want of prudence and military ability displayed by the cavalry commander on the unfortunate 11th of December.

THE Standard understands that the Government of India have decided to undertake, with as little delay as possible, the construction of a bridge across the Indus at Attock. A second bridge at Sukkur is also contemplated.

THE Army and Navy Gazette has reason to believe that Lieut. and Adjutant M'Innis and Lieut. Trower, 9th Lancers, will be recommended to her Majesty for the Victoria Cross, in recognition of their conspicuous bravery inaction before Cabul. All accounts from General Roberts's headquarters testify to the intrepidity displayed by these young officers, who set an example of soldierly devotion of which the officers and men of the regiment are justly proud, admirable though the behaviour was of all ranks on the occasion of what has not heen inaptly termed "a second Balaclava charge."

THE services of the medical officers in the Afghan campaigns have received well-deserved praise from the Secretary for War, who paid a special tribute to the late Surgeon General Porter. Col. Stanley said:—

"In Afghanistan the generals in command have spoken in the highest terms of the efficiency, zeal, and self-devotion of all ranks of officers, and I am afraid that in this respect there is even melancholy evidence in the large numbers who have succumbed to hard work, especially among the Indian forces. I must refer to the loss which the medical service and the medical world in general have sustained by the death at Sherpur of Deputy Surgeon General Porter, an officer whose arrangements for all the medical duties of the campaign left nothing to be desired. He leaves, both among the medical world and those who are his countrymen, a reputation to which his friends may look back with satisfaction, and a memory which will be dear to all those who knew him."

SIR RICHARD TEMPLE has returned to Bombay. Before leaving Karachi he delivered a public address in which he dwelt at length on the great future before that place, and anticipated the time when the completion of new railways would make it the port of Kandahar and Herat.

ACCORDING to a telegram received by the owners, the names of the officers lost in the wreck of the steamer Vingorla are:—Sturt (captain), Conry (chief officer), Mowbray (clerk), Byrne, Wilden, and Knight (engineers). The steamer is supposed to have struck on a sunken bagalow. A later telegram has been received from Calcutta stating that the Anchor Line steamer Britannia had landed at Karachi Mr. Conry, chief officer of the Vingorla, and two natives. The Chilka saved one native and remained on the spot eight hours.

IT will interest deputy surgeons general of the Indian service to know that under G.G.O. No. 13 of 1880 they are not entitled to retire on the full pension to which they would be entitled on the completion of their tour in the grade of deputy surgeon general, but only on the pension to which their length of service at the time of their retirement entitles them, plus the extra pension of a deputy surgeon—£250 per annum. This is the ruling of the Military Department on the point.

A CALCUTTA paper hears that Lord Cranbrook has recently expressed his opinion that the provincial and district officers of the country concerned are mainly responsible for the Rampa disturbances; for, argues his lordship, if those officers had duly acquainted themselves with the feelings and requirements of the people with whom they were brought into contact, the disturbances would probably not have arisen.

THE retirements of Deputy Surgeon General Irving and Captain C. H. Jackson are gazetted.

THE Madras Mail announces the death of a distinguished native astronomer, Chintamanay Ragoonath Charry, F.R.A.S. Mr. Chintamanay, who had been seventeen years attached as a head assistant in the Madras Observatory, was the only native of India who has yet entered the lists as a discoverer of new celestial objects, having detected two new variable stars, viz., R. Reticuli in 1867, and V. Cephei in 1878. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society in Jan., 1872, upon the joint recommendations of his immediate chief, the Government astronomer, and Mr. E. B. Powell, C.S.I., then director of public instruction.

THE Secretary of State has approved of the measures taken by the Government of India, in connection with the assumption of authority over their States by the Raja of Rutlam and the Chief of Dewas. In connection with the subject Lord Cranbrook remarks that the results exhibited in the papers "testify to the remarkable ability with which, during the minority of the chiefs, the States in question have been administered by the native gentlemen to whom the conduct of their affairs was entrusted, and to the judicious supervision which has been exercised" by the Agent to the Governor General in Central India. The record of the administration of Rutlam is regarded as most gratifying and as thoroughly justifying the various marks of commendation which the superintendent, Mir Shahamat Ali, has, from time to time, received from the Government of India. The grant of titles and honours recommended by Sir H. Daly for the four native gentlemen connected with the administration has been approved by the Secretary of State.

A TELEGRAM states that a committee has been appointed in Calcutta to collect funds for the relief of Irish distress. A large sum has already been subscribed. At a meeting at Hyderabad over Rs.50,000 were subscribed, of which the Nizam gave Rs.20,000. About Rs.2,000 have been collected at Kandahar.

DURING the week preceding our mail dates the Bombay committee remitted another sum of Rs.6,000 to the Duchess of Marlborough's fund, and a like amount to the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who telegraphed his thanks for the contributions of Bombay. A successful municipal public meeting was held at Madras, from which city £1,000 had been remitted, the fund having reached Rs.18,000. A meeting was also held at Colombo on Feb. 5, and a committee, headed by the Lord Chief Justice, appointed to collect subscriptions. Mr. C. J. O'Donnell, B.C.S., has published an appeal to "Hindu and Musulman charity" in the Hindu Patriot. He writes that the Duchess of Marlborough's attempt in England to raise a fund has been the reverse of a success, and warns "the readers against any attempt by the English press to minimise the calamity." A North West paper says that province is treating the appeal from Ireland with supreme indifference, while the Punjab has subscribed less than Rs.300. Among the contributions from other parts of India are mentioned one of Rs.2,000 from H.E. the Ameer-i-Kulri, of Hyderabad, and Rs.500 from each of his two sons; Rs.2,000 from Sir Salar Jung, and Rs1,000 from Rai Dhunpur Singh Bahadur of Azim Gunge.

THE Pioneer regrets "to hear of rumoured difficulties in the administration of the Marine Survey Department. Differences of opinion between two of the senior officers of the department have most unfortunately been allowed to come to a head, the result being, we fear, the loss to India of the services of the senior of the Royal Navy officers attached to the survey, and one who is, moreover, probably one of the ablest and most accomplished marine surveyors of the present day, Lieutenant Jarrad. It appears that Lieutenant Jarrad entertained some professional objection—the etiquette of the Royal Navy being very precise in such matters—to the arrangement by which he became liable, in the absence of Commander Taylor, to receive orders from Mr. Carrington, the deputy superintendent of the Marine Survey Department, but not a naval officer. This led to a reference to Government, and a decision against Lieutenant Jarrad, which has the effect of replacing his services at the disposal of the Admiralty. A little tact on the part of the authorities, and a little private pressure brought by them to bear on the parties concerned, would have prevented the present contretemps."

THE balance of deposits at credit of the accounts in the Government district savings banks at the close of the past financial year was, we see, Rs.32,87,537, as compared with Rs.28,43,462 at the close of 1877-78, while in the Presidency savings banks the balance was Rs.1,38,70,933, as compared with Rs.1,44,43,435, and in the regimental banks Rs.22,20,752, as compared with Rs.2,274,678. The decrease in the case of the regimental banks is attributed to some of the regiments having left India; that in the Presidency banks partly to a more strict observance of the rule regarding the limits of deposits, and partly to the extension of the district savings bank system to the Mofussil treasuries. The increase in the rate of interest lately allowed, together with the additional facilities offered, will probably lead to a large increase of deposits during the current year.

THE amount of cash in the reserve treasury of the Government of India on Feb. 5 was Rs.1,47,16,376, the return for the previous week having been Rs.1,74,97,044, thus showing a decrease of Rs.27,80,668.

THE applications for passages to England for families of officers proceeding on service being more numerous than the accommodation on board the troopships, priority will be given to the wives of subalterns and captains on service. The claims of widows and orphans will next be attended to, and after them those of the wives of field and general officers.

OUR Bombay friends have been occupied in pressing for the Friday evening departure of the homeward mail. Meanwhile we hear grave complaints of the inconvenience of the present Thursday arrival, and we call the attention of the authorities to the excessive time now consumed in the transit from Brindisi to London.

LORD LYTTON ON INDIAN FINANCE.

AT Tuesday's sitting of the Legislative Council at Calcutta the bill amending the License Acts passed without opposition. The chief feature of the measure is the exemption of poor traders from taxation. General satisfaction was expressed by all the speakers at the condition of the finances, but some objected to charging the war expenses upon the revenues of India, and advocated a loan and the abolition of the famine taxation. Sir Ashley Eden, Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, and others made speeches strongly urging that it was a grave mistake to reduce the expenditure for the railway and irrigation works.

The Viceroy then reviewed the whole financial policy of the Indian Government, referring to the success of the measures adopted, which, he said, had largely increased the consumption of salt, and the revenue from that source, notwithstanding the reduction of the duty over the greater part of India. His Excellency indicated a hope that a further reduction might be effected, and pointed out the good result arising from the recent reductions in the expenditure, urging continued effort in the same direction and immediate attention to the recommendations of the Army Commission. The Viceroy expressed his confidence in the ultimate total abolition of the cotton duties. The Viceroy then made allusions to errors in the recent speeches of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Forster, comparing the expenditure of the last four years with a corresponding period under the governorship of Lord Northbrook, and he showed that, excluding the famine relief expenditure and the loss of exchange—circumstances which were not under the control of the Government—there had been practically no increase in the actual expenditure incurred, while the average net revenue in 1878-79 and in 1879-80 exceeded that of 1868-69 and 1869-70 by more than £6,500,000, resulting from improved procedure and the natural growth of revenue. Notwithstanding the reduced taxation, the annual actual charge for interest on the debt had only been increased by £2,500,000 during the last forty years in spite of the addition to the Empire of five provinces with forty-two millions of people, and the cost of six wars, besides the suppression of the mutiny, and several great famines. The Viceroy, all the members of the Executive Council, and Sir Ashley Eden strongly opposed the proposal to throw any portion of the Afghan war charges upon England.

Lord Lytton denied Mr. Gladstone's allegation that the receipts from the taxes for the relief of the famine had been devoted to any other purpose. He asserted that the financial object for which this taxation was proposed had been completely accomplished. Lord Lytton expressed astonishment at the charge which had been brought against the Government of concealing the real cost of the war. His Excellency showed that, far so from this being the case, the Indian Government had included in the war charges the cost of the frontier railways, permanent telegraphs, and other similar expenditure. The Viceroy shared the regret expressed by Sir Ashley Eden and others at the reduced expenditure for productive works, and expressed a hope that it would only be temporary. He vindicated the character and conduct of Sir Frederick Roberts in regard to the attacks recently made upon him, and declared that no Afghan had been executed for rebellion or for taking up arms to repel invasion, or on any charge not punishable with death by the ordinary practice of war. Lord Lytton absolutely denied the truth of the statements recently made by the Duke of Argyll. He and the members of the Executive Council declared that there was complete unanimity in the Councils of the Indian Government, and that they were in entire concurrence with her Majesty's Government in regard to the policy of the war, which they desired to bring to the speediest possible conclusion compatible with the attainment of the purely defensive objects aimed at.—Reuter's Telegram.

H.H. MAHARAJA OF DARBANGAH'S BALL.

THE ball given on Feb. 5 to their Excellencies at the Town-hall of Calcutta by H.H. the Maharaja is declared by a correspondent to have surpassed in magnificence all previous balls, and to have been the best ever given. We quote a description of the internal decoration of the Town-hall. Lady Lytton's drawing-room was furnished most elegantly, the furniture being ebony and gold, upholstered with the richest Roman satin (gold) procurable. Beautiful oil paintings adorned the walls, and elegant articles de luxe aided in assisting in the generally beautiful tout ensemble. The usual supper-room was furnished as a withdrawing-room, with richly carved mahogany chairs, settees, and couches, cushioned with red rep and velvet. Next to this drawing-room was a marvel in the shape of a dense forest, which looked so really like a wood that we could hardly believe it the work of man. Then the great hall. At the east end was a bell-shaped tent, which reached from the floor up to the ceiling, made of crimson cloth, beautifully embroidered in gold. It was luxuriously furnished with an immense mirror and gold and silver thrones for the use of the distinguished guests of the evening. On each side of this were tastefully arranged bowers, made up with every conceivable tree, plant, and creeper procurable in Bengal. At the western end of the hall was an exquisite little Swiss cottage with trellis work all round, up which grew creepers and flowers in abundance, making one for the moment forget his exile, and fancy himself once more in some quiet country place at home. In the centre of this cottage was a Vandyked oval, behind which were huge blocks of ice with his Highness's initial D and crest (a dolphin) frozen in; on each side of it were pretty fountains playing, giving a generally cool aspect to the scene.

NAGA RAID ON THE BALADHUN TEA GARDENS.

BALADHUN is at the extreme north east corner of the Cachar district, and is distant about thirty miles by road from Silchar, the headquarters station. The nearest gardens to it are Lydia Cherra and Dicksia. About ten miles west, along the foot of the hills, is the large Koombrigram group of gardens, while to the south of Koombrigram is Scotpore. Between Scotpore and Lydia Cherra, to the east, are Dewan and Bortoll, and south of these Lallong and Labak. Due south of Baladhun, at a distance of about seven miles, is Jeerighat, astride the Munipore-road. The police and postal station is eight miles west of Jeerighat on the same road; eighteen or twenty miles south by east of Lukhipore is the other police station of Mynadhur. At Silchar there are the headquarters of the 34th N.I. The whole country between Silchar and Lukhipore, to the south, and the hills to the north, is dotted with gardens. These represent a very large amount of capital as well as a very large coolie population.

THE NORTHBROOK INDIAN CLUB.

THE reading-room in connection with the National Indian Association has been opened at 6, John-street, Bedford-row, W.C., under the name of the Northbrook Indian Club, and several English and Indian members have already joined it. It is supplied with the best Indian and other newspapers, books from Mudie's, &c., and consists of a reading-room and smoking-room. A third room is occupied by the office. The club is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.; the annual subscription is one guinea. As affording a permanent address for members, and as a convenient place of meeting, it will probably become a successful and appreciated institution.

CASUALTIES IN AFGHANISTAN.

A PARLIAMENTARY return has just been issued showing "the numbers killed or dead of disease or invalided in each of the three armies operating beyond the Indus in the late campaign in Afghanistan, from the date of the advance beyond the Indian frontier up to the return across the Indus of the regiments ordered back at the close of operations in the field." By this it appears that of British troops 1 officer and 11 men were killed in action or died of wounds, 12 officers and 349 men died of disease, and 19 officers and 925 men were invalided—total, 32 officers and 1,285 men. Of the native troops there died in action or from wounds 1 native officer, 3 Europeans, and 49 men; 7 European and 14 native officers and 794 men died of disease; while 14 European and 17 native officers and 960 men were invalided. Of the British troops the loss in action was confined exclusively, and the loss from disease chiefly, to the Peshawur Valley Forces, which also suffered the most severely in respect of its native troops. The Kuram force shows the smallest list of casualties in all respects. Not a single European belonging to it died or was invalided, and only 82 deaths and 102 men invalided are reported from its native contingent.

THE ECCLESIASTICAL DEPARTMENT.

A RETURN, moved for by Mr. Baxter in July, 1879, has been recently issued, showing in detail the expenditure of the Ecclesiastical Department of the Government of India for the year 1876-77, including the name, official style and designation, ecclesiastical connection salary, and allowances, of each chaplain or minister in the service of the Government, with the average attendance of the civil and military servants of the Queen at the religious services conducted by them. Two sets of returns have been furnished. The expenditure returns relate to 1876-77, while the clergy and attendance returns furnish information for 1879. This is owing to a misunderstanding on the part of the local authorities, which necessitated a second reference, with blank forms, the results of which were not received till last August. Since 1876-77 reductions have been made, and more are hoped to be effected. From the first return it appears that in 1876-77 the total net expenditure was Rs.19,87,646, as Rs.10,095 accrued as fees for baptisms and burials, Rs.9,913 of which appear under the head Church of England, which Church received Rs.12,96,271 for salaries; Rs.3,09,566 for church establishment, &c.; and Rs.1,49,638 for burial-ground charges. The accounts under these heads apportioned to the Church of Scotland were Rs.1,10,018, Rs.22,180, and Rs.381. To the Roman Catholic Church Rs.67,690, Rs.41,416, and Rs.583. The second return gives a total of chaplains and ministers amounting to 283, apportioned as follows:—Church of England, 201; Church of Scotland, 21; Roman Catholic, 61. The services of the Church of England were ordinarily attended by 23,842 military and 3,191 European and Eurasian servants of Government, exclusive of their wives and families. The Church of Scotland numbered 2,782 soldiers and 479 officials; and the Roman Catholic Church averaged 10,586 military and 621 civilian worshippers. In the year 1876-77 the average attendance of British soldiers was 50,880—the difference is accounted for by the war. The uselessness of the attendance return is shown by the fact that the total number of Christians in India (European and Eurasian) is 179,680, and is strongly insisted on by the Lord Bishop of Calcutta, who writes that the directions have been so variously interpreted that no confidence can be placed upon the returns. His lordship further shows that the chaplains are bound to minister to the families of Government servants, and that there is a considerable population "indirectly connected with Government employment." In fact, it appeared in 1873 that in Bengal the average number of Europeans under charge of a chaplain amounted to 700.

TRADE OF BRITISH BURMA.

A SUPPLEMENT to the British Burma Gazette contains a report on the inland trade of British Burma for the official year 1878-79. The total value of the year's trade is shown to have been £4,061,739 as compared with £3,552,623 for the previous year. There is no doubt that this trade would assume very large proportions were it not for the restrictions placed upon it by the King of Burma and the corrupt and obstructive behaviour of the Burmese officials on the frontier who levy black mail upon traders. At the beginning of the official year in question the late King of Burma held monopolies of jaggery, tobacco, gram and pulse, wheat, pickled tea and petroleum. He bought the entire produce of the year at his own price, and resold it through brokers at arbitrary rates, and in this way, although there was in some cases an actual decrease in the quantities imported into British Burma, the value was higher than in the previous year. The most elementary principles of political economy are not understood, evidently, by those who have the control of Burmese policy, as many monopolies besides those already named are assumed under the royal prerogative; and even when an import duty is the only drawback to the freedom of trade the Burmese customs officials aggravate the matter by a peculiar process of their own. For instance, if the price of unrefined sugar is Rs.12-8-0 per 100 viss, it is reckoned as being Rs.25, and duty is levied on this value, or at the rate of 10 instead of 5 per cent. A boatman will declare his cargo to be, say, 10,000 viss. This the customs officer estimates at 13,000 viss, and asks the boatman if he will pay duty on the latter quantity. If he refuses, the cargo is ordered to be weighed; but, as this causes expense and delay, the duty demanded is usually paid. After this is done a demand is made by the preventive officers, or searchers, of one rupee from each small boat and two rupees from each large one. Should the boatmen refuse to pay what they demand the cargo is ordered to be landed on suspicion. The same process is adopted in the case of boats coming down the river.

P.W.D. ENGINEER STAFF.

THE following is the distribution according to provisional scales :—

PROVINCE.	Chief Engineers, I. II. and III.	Superintending Engineers.	Executive Engineers.				Assistant Engineers.
			1	2	3	4	1	2 and 3
Bengal	2	6	7	9	9	11	16	32	92
North Western Provinces and Oudh	2	4	9	11	11	13	20	39	109
Punjab	2	5	7	10	10	12	18	35	99
Local administrations ...	2	5	9	9	10	16	19	38	108
Military works	1	5	5	6	7	8	12	23	67
Railways	5	12	18	24	24	30	43	86	242
	14	37	55	69	71	90	128	253	717

The provincial and irrigation branches under the respective local Governments have been treated as one, and it was intended originally that the executive and assistant engineers under local administrations should be brought on one list for promotion on April 1 next. In dealing practically with the reduced establishment, it was, however, found necessary to anticipate this arrangement. The strength of the establishment actually on the permanent list, compared with the provisionally sanctioned scale, is eighty-nine officers in excess of requirements, who will be borne on the several lists as supernumeraries. The promotions, therefore, on the whole, will be as follow :—

Superintending engineer to chief engineer, III. 2*
2nd grade to 1st grade superintending engineer 2
3rd grade to 2nd grade superintending engineer 6
Executive engineer to superintending engineer, 3rd grade... ... 9†
Assistant engineer, 1st to 4th grade executive ... ... 41‡

* 14 — 12 = 2 (A).
† 37 — 30 + 2 (A) = 0 (B).
‡ 285 — 253 + 9 (B) = 41.

But before these promotions are made some transfers are necessary, and all Civil Engineers in the Military Works Branch will be replaced by military officers. As, however, so many Royal Engineer officers of the Military Works Branch are absent on field service, the Civil Engineers will remain temporarily attached to the branch until the inspector general is able to dispense with their services. The transfers are to have effect from the 31st of December last, and the promotions to existing vacancies from last New Year's Day. In making the promotions from the rank of executive to superintending engineer the recommendations of the local authorities have been accepted, but further advancement in the class and promotion to the position of chief engineer (the salary of which appointment in future will be irrespective of the post on which an officer is employed) will be regulated by the Government of India "on general considerations." The subject of temporary promotions from grade to grade has been under the consideration of the Governor General in Council, and his Excellency has decided that there shall be no further promotions of the kind. Temporary promotions from class to class are, however, to be continued under existing rules. No province administration or branch of the department is to be allowed any margin over strength of staff required to fill sanctioned appointments on account of absentees on furlough, and, where the total number of officers on any list exceeds provisionally sanctioned scale, those in excess are to be entered as supernumeraries, beginning at the junior officer in the lowest grade.—Times of India.

THE FRENCH INDIES.

THE financial statement of the French possessions in India has been already published in the Moniteur at Pondicherry, from which we see that the "budget estimate for last year was 1,702,042fr., while the actual receipts were 2,299,177fr. This excess of receipts over expenditure was due to a munificent legacy left to the Government by Souprayapoulle, a member of a distinguished family in Pondicherry. The budget estimates for the year is estimated at 1,872,432fr., towards which Pondicherry will contribute 1,145,138fr.; Karikal, 429,241fr.; Chandernagur, 201,223fr.; Mahé, 54,162fr.; Yanaon, 42,667fr. The expenditure is given as follows:—Pondicherry, 1,321,459fr.; Karikal, 315,240fr.; Chandernagur, 140,843; Mahé, 49,988fr.; and Yanaon, 42,907. The direct taxes (contributions directes) for the year yield 518,297fr.; the indirect taxes, 1,103,805fr.; the miscellaneous receipts amount to 262,690fr. The house tax is levied only in Mahé, which brings in a small sum of 790fr., the land tax (impôt foncier) for the whole of French India brings in 518,297fr. Of the indirect contributions, stamp duties, &c., brings in 69,057fr.; port duties, 21,396fr.; the duties on the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors, 412,186fr.; and the sale of salt, tobacco, and betel yields 490,802fr.; post office receipts amount to 17,991fr.; miscellaneous indirect duties, 92,372fr. On the expenditure side we read that 6,654fr. will be be paid on account of pensions. The personnel of the Government and the establishment of the Directeur de l'Intérieur cost 225,296fr.; public instruction, 145,000fr.; gaols and workhouses, 44,220fr.; police department, 118,298fr. A certain sum of money is set apart by the Government for orphans. The upkeep of the public library at Pondicherry, which contains about 10,000 volumes, costs the Government 5,480fr. The French monetary system is in vogue in Pondicherry for official purposes. The legal rate of the rupee is fixed at 2fr. 40c., but this rate varies considerably in commercial transactions, and sometimes falls so low as 1fr. 97c."

OFFICIAL PAPERS.

THE KANDAHAR RAILWAY.

THE following observations by the Government of India, Public Works Department, are dated Fort William, Feb. 6, 1880:—The Government of India has viewed with great satisfaction the remarkable progress that has been made in the prosecution of this important work. Platelaying was commenced at Rukh, the junction of the Sukkur-Quetta State Railway with the Indus Valley State Railway, on Oct. 5, 1879, and the line was brought into Sibi on Jan. 14, 1880—a length of 133½ miles having been laid in 101 days. This rate of progress is unprecedented in the annals of Indian railways, and when it is considered that at the time the work was commenced there was little permanent way material in Sind, that all the rest had to be drawn from the various broad-gauge lines in India, and that most of this material had to be carried through about 100 miles of country devoid of water, there are perhaps few, if any, other instances in the world where rail-laying has been pushed along with such rapidity against such impediments.

Resolution.—The thanks of the Governor General in Council are due to his Excellency the Governor of Bombay, but for whose personal supervision, cordial and influential co-operation, as well as warm interest in the work, the officers charged with this undertaking could not possibly have accomplished their task in so short a time.

His Excellency the Governor General in Council desires also to record his high appreciation of the excellent services rendered by Lieut. Colonel J. G. Lindsay, R.E., engineer in chief; Mr. J. R. Bell, superintendent of works; and Messrs. Monk, Peel, Tait, Baxter, Moyle, and Roberts, the engineers employed under their orders. In consideration of the severe labour and hardships undergone by these officers in the discharge of their duties, the Government of India sanctions the grant to them of three months' special leave on full pay, to be taken between the months of June and October, when their services can be spared. The only restriction on this leave is that it cannot be taken into continuation of other leave, or vice versâ. Should the leave, however, not be desired, the immediate grant of a bonus of one month's pay in lieu thereof is hereby sanctioned. These privileges are also to be extended to three upper subordinates to be named by the engineer in chief of the line.

THE ACCOUNTS BRANCH, P.W.D.

THE following resolution of the Government of India, dated Feb. 5, has been published :—The Governor General in Council has had under consideration the necessity of determining a provisional scale of establishment for the superior officers of the Accounts Branch of the Public Works Department, and, in accordance with the principle laid down for the Engineer Establishment in the resolution now read, has been pleased to sanction the following :—Examiners—Class I., grade I., 3; grade II., 2; grade III., 2. Class II., grade I., 5; grade II., 5; grade III., 6. Deputy examiners—Grade I., 18; grade II., 9. Assistant examiners—Grade I., 5; grade II. and apprentices, 7. But, as the rank of examiner of public works accounts in at least one province is now under consideration, the number in the two higher grades of examiners will be for the present respectively two and three instead of three and two. Promotions in accordance with the sanctioned scale will be published in notifications Nos. 42 and 43 of this date. The general rules laid down in Public Works Department Notification No. 303 G., dated Jan. 30, are applicable to the accounts branch of the department.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

A NEW GUIDE TO CONTINENTAL TRAVELLERS.* WE have received the first monthly number of a dictionary of Continental Railways and other means of travel, which is the newest success of Charles Dickens. The plan of the work is fairly described as extremely simple. "About thirty-five important continental towns have been selected which have been treated as centres of travel. From each of these centres are shown the routes to the localities most frequented by the travelling public, the average of radial towns being about forty to each centre." Thus the traveller, whatever be his motive, business or pleasure, can most easily find out the route he prefers, the time taken, the hour of arrival and departure, &c. There are numerous rough but clear sketch maps interspersed; other interleaves also occur, one of which we protest against, in the form of a most objectionably vulgar pictorial advertisement. One feature is worthy of notice: the trains a.m. and p.m. are distinguished by a marked difference of type, which is a useful guide to the eye. The cheap and handy volume thoroughly deserves its name of an easy guide: easy to understand, easy to carry, easy to follow, it will dispel the perplexities and smooth the way of many travellers.

INDIAN NOTES.*

THIS unpretending volume contains a very large collection of facts, interspersed with good advice and sound maxims, for travellers and residents in India. Some of the papers are reprints from English and Indian medical journals; and we must say that, while the author was about it, he might as well have completed his reprints, and not referred his readers for information about Mean Meer and Mooltan to that very accessible publication, the Indian Medical Gazette. He would also have made his work a much more agreeable one had he expanded his very stenographic style, and not adhered so closely to the pages of his note-book. His minute and accurate observations are so presented as to remind us of compressed vegetables. But if the inquirer after the conditions of existence in the principal stations of Upper India and "the Hills" is not repelled by the brusque and jerky style, and will contribute mentally some auxiliary verbs, pronouns, and other parts of speech, he will derive a very sufficient supply of information on the social, sanitary, and general surroundings among which his lot, or the lot of his friends, may be cast. We leave to our medical readers the recommendation of Mooltan as a resort for "rich young plethorical persons from Europe." The chapter on "Herbs and Simples" goes far to show that the proposed Ayur Veda would be a superfluous institution, and that Indo-European medical science has succeeded to all the real treasures of the old Hindu pharmacopœia.

JOURNAL OF THE NATIONAL INDIAN ASSOCIATION.—(MARCH).

WE are not surprised to find that the unmeasured attack on the education, manners, and habits of the "Modern Parsee Girl" has called forth able and gallant defenders of their countrywomen. Messrs. Khory and Davar make a very good case for the defence; the latter especially says that English education has rescued Parsee women from the abyss of ignorance and superstition. "Life in India," and a short paper entitled "Brethren or Niggers," deal with the surroundings of life in Calcutta and the existence of amiable and charitable qualities in the natives, which should call forth more sympathy from "the young men who go to India impressed with a sense of their own enlightenment and importance, and who unduly despise all who differ from them in habits, language, and colour." We think that too much is made of this view taken by "young men;" public schoolboys at home look down upon the "cads;" undergraduates entertain supercilious contempt for shopkeepers, and the "British snob" everywhere despises what he is unused to. The man-and-brother theory is too fine a weapon to prune these youthful excrescences with. The influence and advice of superior and older officials will have more effect than the study of the mutual kindliness of natives. The recent reply of Sir Ashley Eden, and his scathing criticisms on "Young India," may be read with advantage by many who are prone to throw upon "Young England" all the blame for occasional friction between officials and natives. The pages of the Journal might, we fancy, be put to a worse use than reproducing and preserving the minute referred to. We are glad to see the start of the reading room under its new name of the Northbrook Club. The scheme deserves success and support from all interested in the true and sensible development of our Indian fellow-subjects.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE CHARITIES OF THE MADRAS PRESIDENCY. THERE are 248 charitable institutions supported by Government, such as dispensaries, poor-houses, rest-houses for travellers, &c., in which 5,660 persons are aided daily at a yearly cost to Government of Rs.2,37,179. Besides these there are 1,859 charitable institutions supported by the public, at which upwards of 21,000 persons are aided daily. The Government does not contribute Rs.10,000 a year towards the upkeep of these places, but the public gives more than three lakhs yearly, while other three lakhs appear to be derived from certain lands. If we take the figures in another way we find that Government keeps up 220 places in which indoor relief is afforded, and the general public maintain 1,473 such places. The Government also maintains fifteen institutions for outdoor relief, and the public 136. Of institutions partly supported by the public and partly by the Government, there are fifty-six, which afford daily aid to 2,060 persons, and to which Government contribute Rs.43,370 yearly, while the income from other sources is about 2½ lakhs. The Government also contribute more than a lakh of rupees a year to institutions supported either wholly or in part from local taxation, such as those for the cure of sickness, for the relief of paupers, and for travellers, &c. Throughout the Presidency there are altogether 2,494 charitable institutions, at which 32,495 persons are aided daily, and to which Government contributes Rs.456,830 yearly, while the income from other sources is upwards of nine lakhs of rupees, in addition to four-and-a-half lakhs subscribed by the public. Of course these are very small sums when we remember that in this country there is no poor rate; and they prove clearly that the public will not, without compulsion, provide adequately for the necessitous sick and poor. The cost of the maintenance of the civil dispensaries has been very wisely transferred to the shoulders of the ratepayers, and in due course the various local municipalities and local fund boards will, no doubt, be entrusted with the duty of administering to all local wants and have complete control over the funds they are empowered to raise, provided they employ them according to certain general principles laid down in clear and distinct language by Government. Luckily, the social conditions under which the vast majority of the people of this Presidency live render unnecessary the introduction of a general poor law, but there is still room for much to be done in the way of alleviation of the very destitute.—Madras Times.

THE INDIAN COUNCILS.

A CALCUTTA paper mentions a rumour, said to be circulating at home, to the effect that a Government bill is likely to be introduced into Parliament this session for the reconstitution of the Indian Councils here and at St. James's-park. In all probability the popular impression that some such bill is needed has more to do with the report than definite information. India bills have often brought Ministries to grief, and the present Government is unlikely to court embarassments it can avoid at a time when it will not want to give any handles to the enemy that can possibly be kept out of reach. If the election should terminate in favour of the Conservatives, who would thus be ensured another long tenure of power, the constitution of the Councils might very properly come up for consideration. Meanwhile, it is easier to see that serious friction has been felt of late than to sketch out the rules and regulations that would prevent its recurrence. The Governor General's Council is not a Cabinet, and yet its members would be unworthy of the position if they were content to be mere heads of departments. The theory, of course, is that members of Council are to be independent thinkers on public questions till such time as the Government collectively has come to a decision. Then they are to throw all their previous ideas overboard and work with enthusiasm for the realisation of the collective idea. The principle is not calculated to work well when the people who have to make the sacrifice are a majority, and yet, of course, the viceregal supremacy must be maintained; sometimes a majority must make up its mind to give way. The solution of the deadlock, perhaps, may be that, necessary as a viceregal prerogative is, its exercise at any time must be regarded as so tremendous a measure that the disintegration and reconstitution of the Council should always follow, as a matter of course, on any occasion when it had been found necessary to bring the exceptional force into play. No doubt the internal embarrassments of the present Government have all begun from the state of feeling engendered by the affair of the cotton duties. The war, even, failed to prove a sufficiently powerful bond of union between unsympathetic elements of the administration. Eventually we see the disintegration of the Council actually beginning. If the established rule were such that the break up would beforehand have been recognised as the inevitable result of the lit de justice held in reference to the cotton duty affair, perhaps that unfortunate incident would never have transpired. Another direction in which a change in the present constitution of the Council might avert some disagreeable complications, in certain contingencies, would be this. Among the criticisms now falling fast and furious on the head of the Commander in Chief there is one which is partly unjust. The unfortunate arrangement by which the Commander in Chief is burdened with a seat on the Viceroy's Council is inevitably calculated to put him in a dilemma in time of war. If he devotes himself to his duty as councillor he must necessarily do this at the sacrifice of his efficiency as a Commander in Chief. And, vice versa, he cannot play that part in a war which a Commander in Chief is expected to play if he has to be attending political councils at a distance from the scene of warlike operations. Without any very formal India Bill this anomaly could be rectified, and there is some reason to anticipate that such a change may be made, because the Army Commission is supposed to have embodied a recommendation to that effect in its as yet mysterious report. The small and unpretending amendment bill which would suffice to carry out that recommendation would not excite party strife, and might thus be introduced by the Government at home on the mere humble and prosaic principle that it was wanted. If there is a military member of Council to play the part of War Minister it is manifest on the face of things that the presence of the Commander in Chief as well is an anomaly.—Pioneer.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

THE BRAHMO SOMAJ.—At a general meeting of the Brahmo Somaj of India, held at Calcutta, a resolution was passed offering the greetings of the society to "all theists and liberal thinkers in Europe and America, and to all philanthropists and reformers who are engaged in advancing the cause of truth." Connected with the resolution was the name of Professor Max Müller, "whose works on comparative theology had so much benefited the liberal cause both in Europe and in India." The conference also gratefully recognised the work done by the British Goverment in the country, and declared its "stanch loyalty to Empress Victoria, whose reign has conferred such signal benefits on the land she governs." In a report submitted to the meeting it is stated that "in founding new churches, new congregations, and a new order of self-devoted missionaries, in uniting new communities and races, such as the Punjabis, Mahrattas, Billavars, Telugus, Guzeratis, Hindustanis, Sindhis, Englishmen, Scotchmen, Germans, Americans, &c., and permeating these races with its own spirit and ideas of universal brotherhood, the Brahmo Somaj of India has, during the last decade and a-half, sufficiently vindicated its existence as a separate, wide, militant church."—Times of India.

THE BENGAL STATE RAILWAY REPORT.—From a resolution of the local Government on the State Railway revenue report for the year 1878-79 we see that the capital outlay during the year was Rs.66,41,043, bringing the total to March 31 last up to Rs.2,75,91,838. The amount of interest payable to the Imperial Treasury on this sum being Rs.10,92,210, and that of the net receipts Rs.3,96,666, the balance for which the provincial resources were liable was Rs.6,95,544. The gross receipts for the year amounted to Rs.18,11,043 against Rs.7,56,183 in the year 1877-78, and the working expenses to Rs.14,14,377 against Rs.5,87,942, thus leaving a net balance of Rs.3.96,666, as above, against Rs.1,68,241. This is a considerable improvement; but the working expenses seem disproportionately heavy, especially on the Northern Bengal line, where they amounted to Rs.9,15,451, against Rs.1,65,411 in 1877-78. This increase is in a great measure due to the opening of the line throughout its entire length, but the Lieutenant Governor regards it as unduly heavy, and steps have been taken, the resolution says, to obtain a better result in future. The percentage of working expenses to earnings were 79·72 per cent. on the Northern Bengal; 75·22 per cent. on the Tirhut; 73·96 per cent. on the Calcutta and South Eastern, and 77·45 per cent. on the Nalhati branch line. The receipts increased from Rs.1,83,784 to Rs.11,48,284 on the Northern Bengal, and from Rs.3,47,865 to Rs.4,53,641 on the Tirhut Railway.—Englishman.

COOLIES.—Owing to the large percentage of deaths, the Chief Commissioner of Assam has forbidden the importation of coolies from the North West Provinces, Oudh, and Behar for the Scotpur and Kumbirgram tea gardens in Kachar.—Englishman.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At an extraordinary meeting of the Calcutta Jute Manufacturing Company held Jan. 29, the following resolution, passed on Jan. 20, was confirmed:—"That the rate of interest on the whole three lakhs of rupees already sanctioned to be raised by the issue of debentures be increased from 8 to 9 per cent., and that such increased rate of interest on the amount of debentures already issued commence from the date of the confirmation of this resolution."—At the general meeting of Watson's Patent Press Company, held Feb. 2, the report and accounts were passed.—At the general meeting of the Seebpore Jute Manufacturing Company, held Feb. 3, the report and accounts were passed.—Englishman.

CALCUTTA PUBLIC LIBRARY.—At the general meeting, held Jan. 30, the Hon. Maharaja Narendra Krishna was re-elected president, and Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar was elected vice-president. The following gentlemen were elected members of the council for the current year:—Messrs. J. E. Maclachlan, J. Hechee, C. T. Davis, C. C. Robinson, J. Hart, Peary Chand Mittra, Babu Judronath Ghose, Babu Govin Chunder Dutt, Babu Amerendra Nath Chatterjea, and Babu Goecsh Chunder Ghose. Messrs. H. H. Blechynden and David Waldie were appointed auditors. The president stated that the circulation of books in the past year had exceeded that of previous years.—Englishman.

DR. RAJENDRA LALA MITRA.—We hear that the Government of Bengal has recommended the Government of India to grant a special pension to Dr. Rajendra Lala Mitra, in consideration of his meritorious services as director of the Wards' Institution, Calcutta. With a view to inquire into the working of that institution, the former Government has appointed a committee, composed of the Hon. H. L. Dampier as president, the Hon. Maharaja Jotendra Mohun Tagore, the Hon. Rai Kristo Das Pal, Bahadur; the Hon. R. G. Reynolds, Mr. Peacock, and Mr. Lyall, as members, with Mr. A. W. Croft as member and secretary.—Englishman.

SIKKIM.—With regard to the late disturbances in Sikkim, the Darjiling News tells us that the Sikkim Raja sent for the Pemiongchi Llamas for the purpose of confronting them with the Padong Llama, who has been for some time with the Raja at Toomlong, to ascertain which party was to blame for causing the late disturbances at Rhenok, and thereafter to deal with the culprits according to law. The Pemiongchi Llamas, however, have not shown any sign of their readiness to wait upon the Sikkim Raja in obedience to his wishes. The Pemiongchi Llamas have petitioned the deputy commissioner of Darjiling, and his Honour the Lieut. Governor in connection with the recent doings at Rhenok and other places, and nearly twelve villages have joined in the petition, the exact nature of which is yet unknown. The Sikkim Raja, we further learn, intends making Yang Gong Gamba his permanent place of residence.—Pioneer.

A PUNKAH PULLING MACHINE.—His Excellency Lord Lytton recently inspected the new machinery for pulling punkahs invented by the Hon. R. C. Parsons, mechanical engineer, set up in the Dalhousie Barracks in Fort William. The invention is a very simple one, and is far from being expensive. The punkahs have been put up in the fourth floor of the barracks in three aisles, the motive power being supplied by the pressure of air pumped into gas pipes, communicating from the ground floor, where the apparatus is set up. There is a weight attached on either side which, through the pressure of the pumped air, causes a counter balance to spring up on the opposite side, and this motion keeps the punkah swinging to and fro. The regulating levers when screwed down, stop the motion, and when open, the punkahs are in full swing. Lord Lytton remained some time looking at the experiment with great interest, and the modus operandi was explained to his lordship, who went over the ground and examined the whole apparatus, and seemed apparently satisfied with its success. His Excellency the Commander in Chief had inspected the machinery during the day, and had also expressed his entire satisfaction. The machinery had been put up by Messrs. Burn and Co.—Englishman.

KHEDDAH OPERATIONS.—Private letters from Mymensing mention the serious illness of Capt. Hennessy while elephant catching in the Natai Hills. It appears that Mr. Sanderson parted from Capt. Hennessy going to the Natai Valley—Capt. Hennessy with one party of 308 men, or sixty-two short of the established complement of 370, proceeding up the Sommaisooree Valley, where he erected three stockades, and, our correspondent says, got bowled over by jungly fever on January 12, became delirious, lost consciousness on the 17th, and was carried into Doorgapore in that state, from Hussunghiri in the Sommaisooree Valley, whence he was taken to Mymensing, where, by last accounts, he was in an exceedingly debilitated condition. We learn that he had succeeded in driving a herd of sixty elephants into stockade on the 8th, but the animals managed to escape, leaving only three of their number behind, which were kept back with much difficulty and at great risk, Capt. Hennessy standing astride the gateway and firing bullet after bullet into the faces of the desperate brutes, as they attempted to escape, driven frantic by fear and rage. The gate, being secured by beams and supports, remained immovable, but, on an attempt being made to haul the elephants by a rope or hawser, it parted, causing confusion. Capt. Hennessy has since, however, captured twenty-one large elephants.—Bengal Times.

THE SIMLA EXODUS.—The committee which sat last year at Simla to decide upon the allowances to be granted to officers of the different departments under the Government of India who annually proceed to Simla has sent in its report, the recommendations in which are said to have been sanctioned as follows:—All allowances hitherto granted for travelling to the hills to officers and their families will continue to be given only for the ensuing season. Those who desire to settle down with their families at Simla will be allowed this one opportunity of doing so. Henceforward, that is, after March and April next, wives and children will not get their expenses paid to Simla. If they return to Calcutta in November, 1880, or desire to go up again in 1881, their husbands and fathers must provide the expenditure. For the purpose of reckoning travelling allowances to officers only, up or down, they are placed in two classes—viz., the first including all civil as well as military on the staff of the Government of India, covenanted or uncovenanted, drawing salaries down to and not less than Rs.400 a month; the second, all below that salary. The first class will be limited to bare travelling allowance at the rate of three annas by rail and eight annas by road; the second to 1½ annas by rail and four annas by road, nothing more. All Simla allowances to the uncovenanted are to be abolished, except one-third of salary; provided that, in the case of men provided with quarters, it does not exceed Rs.50; or, in the case of those unprovided with quarters, Rs.75 a month. Under these circumstances many of the poorer class of officials will have just cause to dread the Simla exodus—Englishman.

BENGALEE CLOTHES PHILOSOPHY.—The Indian Mirror, speaking for the Bengalees, says:—"We have adopted European trousers almost in their entirety, and find them quite comfortable." The same paper is very indignant with Sir Ashley Eden for his recent order on the puggree question. The Mirror says the Lieutenant Governor is greatly mistaken in imagining that the turban or puggree is the natural headdress of the people of Bengal, and says this fact is known to the most superficial observer. Our contemporary denies emphatically that a native gentleman when he wears a "brimless cap" imagines he is imitating European customs. "On the contrary, those of our educated countrymen who wear caps do so in order to avoid imitating European customs. Most of them are convinced that the hat is the best possible headdress, more especially in a tropical climate like this. If, with this conviction, they abstain from wearing sola topis, it is only because it would lead to their being confounded with Goanese cooks."—Times of India.

COURT MARTIAL.—For striking an armourer sergeant, being drunk, and violently resisting the escort ordered to confine him, Private Edward Roxby, of the 2nd Battalion 6th Foot, has been sentenced by a court martial sitting at Cawnpore to five years' penal servitude.—Ibid.

MR. JUSTICE LINDSAY.—The public entertainment given at Lahore to Mr. Justice Lindsay and Mrs. Lindsay, on their approaching departure from India, was held on Feb. 6 in the Lawrence Hall. Between ninety and a hundred people, including the Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab and Lady Egerton, sat down to dinner, the arrangements for which are described as having been thoroughly successful.—Ibid.

A FATAL KICK.—At Calcutta the coroner's inquiry into the death of the lad, Shaik Mungloo, who, it is alleged, died from the effects of the kick given him by Mr. Charles Berry Fergus, has been concluded, and the following verdict was recorded:—"Found by a majority of four that the deceased died from the effects of a kick dealt by the accused, C. B. Fergus, and that the said C. B. Fergus is guilty of having caused the death by a rash and negligent act, and also of having caused hurt."—Times of India.

THE death is announced of the well-known Maharaja Baroda Kaunt Roy, Bahadur of Jessore, which took place on Feb. 4.

SERIOUS DACOITIES NEAR LUCKNOW.—No less than three dacoities occurred during the night of Feb. 5. The Sitapur mail van between that place and Lucknow was attacked by a band of dacoits alleged to have numbered twenty-five men. The travellers were seriously maltreated, and, in addition to many letters destroyed on the spot, the remaining letters and postal packages were carried off. A traveller by the van reports that the gharrie was overturned by the dacoits, the horses maimed and hurled into a neighbouring ravine, and the passengers threatened with immediate death unless they remained passive spectators of the outrage. The camel dak plying between Sitapur and Lucknow was waylaid and looted by the same band, and a bullock cart conveying a Thakoor and his family to Lucknow was also "bailed up" by this band, with the result that all were clean stripped of their property and the Thakoor killed. The objective aim of the dacoits was understood to be a rich prize of some Rs.30,000, said to be in possession of the Raja of Khaireeghur, who, fortunately for himself and his treasure, instead of starting for Lucknow on Thursday night, left the same morning, thus avoiding the undesirable attention of the dacoits, who have such a splendid field of operations between Sitapur and the capital.—Lucknow Times.

ZENANA MISSIONS.—The Calcutta Missionary Conference lately addressed the Bengal Government on the subject of Zenana missions. In his annual report the director of public instruction (Mr. Croft) made certain complaints about the inefficiency of the instruction imparted by the Zenana teachers, who, he declared, were frequently unfit for their work; and he further asserted that, owing to the keen competition which the several missionary agencies were in for the approval of the home societies, the work had to be extended at all costs, and that thus there was much connected with it that was not real and genuine. Mr. Croft declared that of the teachers employed only a few were Europeans, and of these again few were so familiar with the vernacular that they could dispense with interpreters in their intercourse with the pupils. In their memorial the members of the conference contest most of the statements made by the Director of Public Instruction, and state that for some years past they have observed with growing concern various indications that the confidence of Government which their work formerly enjoyed had been withdrawn. In his reply, written on behalf of Government, Mr. Croft admits that the European teachers employed in Zenana work are not now open as a general rule to the charge of ignorance of the language of those whom they are engaged to teach, and assures the memorialists that Government in the Educational Department is by no means indifferent to the value of the educational work which the missionary societies have undertaken. It is, he says, "fully aware of the great opportunities which their organisation gives them for advancing the cause of female progress in India; and that, in its comments on that work, the Government has been actuated by the sole desire of improving its character and increasing its efficiency."—Times of India.

THE INDIAN GUARANTEE AND SURETYSHIP ASSOCIATION.—The directors' report of the Indian Guarantee and Suretyship Association for the year ending Dec. 31, 1879, cannot help but be most satisfactory to the shareholders. We notice that "during the past year fifty-seven proposals for guarantee of sums amounting to Rs.2,20,600 have been made to the association and considered by the directors. Fifty-one new bonds, guaranteeing Rs.2,06,400, have been issued, producing in new annual premiums Rs.3,132-8." The eighth report shows that the year's income from premiums and interest was Rs.10,657-7, and the claims nil. The total charges were Rs.4,743-14-3, leaving an insurance balance of Rs.5,063-6-5. The association will now have paid sums amounting to 83 per cent. of the paid-up capital in dividends; also placed a sum nearly equal to 45 per cent. of the paid-up capital to the reserve fund; and reduced premiums on policies of six years' standing 20 per cent., the average dividend being 10½ per cent. Nothing but good management and rigid economy would produce such results as these. The directors now propose issuing a considerable number of the remaining shares of the association at par, offering them first to shareholders.—Pioneer.

THE young Maharaja of Burdwan is said to have abandoned his idea of visiting England for the present, and the Englishman has received from his Highness the sum of Rs.1,000 as a contribution to the Irish Famine Fund.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—At date of mail the disengaged tonnage had increased to 35,910 tons. The market closed at the following rates:—London, vid Canal—Rice, £2 7s. 6d.; jute, £2 15s. to £3; tea, hides, &c., £3 to £3 5s.; vid Cape—Saltpetre and rice, £1 10s. to £1 12s. 6d.; heavy jute, £1 12s. 6d.; cotton and light freight, £1 15s. to £2. Liverpool, nominal.

SUICIDE.—Mr. Jones, chief officer of the British India Steam Navigation Company's steamer Purluia, committed suicide on the voyage from Calcutta to Rangoon by shooting himself with a revolver.

MADRAS.

THE BLOCK IN THE MADRAS CIVIL SERVICE.—The following facts show at a glance the retardation of promotion in the Madras Civil Service. There are only fifty-one permanent appointments equal to or superior to that of collector or judge. These cannot fall to any man appointed since 1865 for the next fifteen years at least, as there are sixty-five men now in the service who were appointed in the years 1860-65 inclusive, besides seniors, and, until there are less than fifty-one left in the service above him, no man appointed since 1865 can get such an appointment. There are now five men of twelve years' service and twelve men over ten years' service not yet confirmed head assistant collectors. The appointments available for the service are yearly growing less. Thus there is no Madras officer a member of the Viceregal Council (which is rather a loss to the Presidency), the third civilian judge of the High Court, the director and deputy directors of revenue settlement, and the Small Cause Court judges have been done away with within the last four years. Only one member of the Madras Civil Service (Mr. Turner, officiating postmaster general) is employed under the Government of India—Madras Times.

THE SOUTH INDIAN RAILWAY.—In acknowledging the receipt of a manuscript copy of the revenue account of the South Indian Railway for the half-year ending June 30, 1879, with a note thereon by the consulting engineer, the officiating deputy secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, made the following observations:—As compared with the first half of 1877 the cost of the engineering establishment exhibits a reduction of about Rs.11,000, but in the opinion of the Government of India a greater reduction should have been made. It is, however, noticed with satisfaction that steps have been taken to limit the staff to requirements. The supervising charges of the locomotive and carriage and wagon departments appear to have increased from Rs.32,038, in the corresponding half of 1877 to Rs.37,079. The difference is not large, but it deserves notice to prevent further expansion. In the traffic department the cost of general superintendence has also increased in the same period from Rs.16,691 to Rs.23,772, or upwards of 42 per cent., against an increase in length of line of 9 per cent. and in train mileage of 11 per cent., and against a decrease in the goods earnings of 15 per cent. In the same manner the traffic charges have generally expanded by nearly a third, while the gross receipts have only increased by one-fourteenth. This increase is visible under every head of charge, especially in the pay of train and station staff. The tendency to expansion requires careful watching, and the Government of India trusts that the matter will receive the attention of the Government of Madras. The total establishment charges, which show an increase of about Rs.17,000, also require attention. The present account is, on the whole, far far from satisfactory. It shows a stationary goods traffic and an accumulation of establishments. Unless steps are taken to develop traffic and reduce expenditure the result will be a gradual enhancement of the percentage of working expenses to earnings. The figures of the corresponding half of the previous year should have been exhibited in the account.—Gazette.

THE FINANCIAL POSITION OF THE MADRAS MUNICIPALITY.—A statement published in the last Fort St. George Gazette shows the financial position of the Madras municipality during the calender year 1879. Although the returns come down only to the end of November we take it for granted that they include the month of November, for it is not distinctly stated that such is the case. We would suggest to the president in all future returns, he should state distinctly whether the month mentioned is or is not included. The estimated income for the year 1879 was Rs.7,54,575, and of this sum Rs.2,74,652 were collected. This includes, for arrears on account of the tax on arts, professions, &c., Rs.33,659, and Rs.10,982 for arrears of house tax. The estimate of income from vehicles, &c., and animals was Rs.40,000, whereas the collections to November were Rs.41,971. A similar increase is noticeable from the tax on carts and other vehicles without springs, the estimate being Rs.12,500, and the actual receipts Rs.13,685. The proceeds from the tax upon places used for the sale of spirituous and intoxicating liquors also exhibit an increase, the estimate being Rs.12,500, and the actuals to the date mentioned being Rs.13,303. There was also an increase over the estimate of Rs.339 for fees for licenses for dangerous and offensive trades, markets, &c. We are particularly glad to notice a falling off in the income from fines, the estimate being Rs.11,500, and the actual Rs.8,541. This proves that the protests of the Press have not been altogether ineffectual. The miscellaneous receipts show an improvement over the estimate of about Rs.4,000. The total income for the year from all sources, the unbudgeted and opening balances, leaving out the suspense accounts, was Rs.8,39,378, and the actual collected to the date above mentioned was Rs.7,51,676. On the whole, therefore, we may consider the municipal staff to have been fairly energetic. When we turn to the accounts showing the expenditure we find the figures less satisfactory, for the total estimate was Rs.8,39,156, whereas the actual disbursements to November were Rs.8,98,327. But this appears to be entirely due to the payment of Rs.77,474 on account of the imperial license tax. Were this item deducted, then the actual expenditure would be somewhat less than the estimate. It must not, however, be forgotten that the returns are brought down only to November. It would appear from this statement that only one instalment has been paid on account of interest on the waterworks loan, and the same remark holds good with regard to the sinking fund, and nothing appears to have been paid for the Red Hills water.—Madras Times.

MADRAS RAILWAY.—The officiating deputy secretary to the Government of India, in acknowledging the receipt of the revenue account of the Madras Railway Company for the half-year ended June 30, 1879, with a note thereon by the consulting engineer for railways, remarked as follows:—"The improvement in the gross earnings and profits per train mile during the last half-year is noticed with satisfaction. The cost of oil, tallow, and other stores under locomotive expenses has increased by Rs.3,152, or 12 per cent., as compared with the corresponding previous half-year, and that of cleaning and oiling carriages and wagons by Rs.242, or 0·5 per cent. With a decrease of 81,997, or nearly 8 per cent. in train mileage, a decrease might have been expected rather than an enhancement of these charges. The audit and accounts charges are higher than they should be, being nearly 2 per cent. of gross receipts. The charges under electric telegraph are also heavier than during the three preceding half-years. The Government of India would be glad to see these reduced. The increase in the number of passengers, resulting from a reduction in fares, is regarded as a very satisfactory feature of the account, and the Government of India trust that the low class passenger traffic will continue to develop under the influence of cheap carriage. I am to take this opportunity of inquiring whether there are not some articles of produce which might be brought in larger quantities to the railway by a judicious lowering of rates. From the comparative statement forwarded herewith, showing the cost of traffic supervision per train mile on certain railways, it will be observed that the charge on the Madras Railway should be susceptible of reduction. The Government of India understands that extensive reductions are in progress in the staff of the Madras Railway. These reductions when completed, it is hoped, will result in a considerable improvement in the position of the undertaking."—Gazette.

THE "HINDUSTAN."—The wreck of the steamer Hindustan, when put up to auction, realised Rs.13,800, as follows:—The hull and its appurtenances, Rs.11,100; the cargo, Rs.2,400; some cement lying at Sadras, Rs.300. The whole was purchased by a company of seventy to eighty persons, who put up the same property to auction themselves. It fetched Rs.26,500.—Times of India.

A RELIGIOUS DISPUTE.—A local paper announces that a summons has been taken out against Nassar-ud-din, proprietor of the Shumshul Akhbar, on behalf of Mahomed Ali Mekkari, charging the defendant with having used indecent and threatening language against the complainant. There has of late been a serious dispute among the Mahomedans of Madras, the question at issue being whether the Koran can be translated from Persian into Hindustani, or whether such translation would not conflict with the principle recognised for the past 1,200 years by the Sunnis and Sheahs. This dispute gave rise to the charge.—Times of India.

THE MADRAS HARBOUR WORKS.—Mr. Thorowgood reports as follows regarding the progress of the works during the past year:—"The amount of progress in the year has not been so great as we had hoped it would be, but the causes of delay were quite apart from any difficulty in the work, and were beyond my control. The want of diving dresses in the early part of the year, and of cement during the whole year, must account for certainly 300 feet of each pier more than we have to show. From 26th March to 26th May (the best season) the north pier was at an absolute standstill for want of diving dresses, and the south pier suffered in a less degree. The failure in General Morgan's cement supply was an item which could not certainly have been foreseen, but its result was an almost complete stoppage of work at the south pier from 6th September to 1st November. The length of north pier advanced in 1879 has been 1,021 lineal feet, and of the south pier 1,018 lineal feet, in each case more than was built in 1878. The amount of stone deposited in the base of the piers has been, for the north pier 134,129 tons, and for the south pier 124,523 tons, giving a total for 1879 of 258,652 tons."—Madras Times.

BOMBAY.

THE BARODA SCHOOL FEAST.—Sir Madhava Rao, who is one of the first fruits of our system of higher education in India, and who was for a short time professor of mathematics in the Madras University, naturally takes a deep interest in the subject of education. During his premiership at Baroda he has done all in his power to promote the success of education in the Baroda State. Sir Madhava Rao is a firm believer in higher education. He argues that one good Bachelor of Arts, educated up to a European standard, does more good among his countrymen than a dozen vernacular schools. The statement is perfectly sound, but unfortunately, in the present day, the public have no guarantee that the degrees in any Indian University are genuine proof of solid acquirements. A thoroughly well-educated native can do an infinite amount of good, but a man, who has just scraped through his degree is one of the most discontented and mischievous members of society. University examiners ought zealously to guard the value of a university degree; but, unfortunately, university examiners are too often educational officers, and Government is too prone to judge of the success of educational institutions by the number passed. Sir Madhava Rao belongs to the time when there were few undergraduates, and they received more personal attention from their teachers. It would be impossible to find a graduate in the present day who can write and speak English as well as Sir Madhava Rao. The Prime Minister must have felt some honest satisfaction at the success which has crowned his endeavours to encourage education when he saw seated before him on New Year's Day some 4,000 school children. There was a good deal to appeal to the artistic feeling in this open-air distribution of prizes to the school children. In the front row sat 400 girls, and there are fewer prettier sights than young Oriential children with large, soft eyes and fair features, dressed in bright-coloured garments. The Gaekwar read to the assembled children a neat speech, and the Resident tried to say a few words to the boys, but they were lost in the din of the crowd. He then gave the signal for the guests to depart, and the children were left to enjoy the sweetmeats provided for them and a grand display of fireworks.—Pioneer.

THE HOLKAR-NEEMUCH RAILWAY.—The Holkar-Neemuch Railway is rapidly approaching completion. The line is now ready from Rutlam to Mundesor, thirty miles from Neemuch, and will soon be finished to the latter city. A large sum has been sanctioned for the Nusseerabad-Neemuch section, and the railway telegraph between the two places is to be taken in hand immediately. The country over which the latter passes is described as wild and barren, not like that farther south, where large cities like Rutlam and Oojein give hopes of traffic. Of Oojein it is sufficient to say that the celebrated Vikramaditya, the founder of the Hindu era, made it his capital. The place is prolific in dogs, and sometime since, when Sir Peter Filose, the governor of the province, fearing an outbreak of hydrophobia, began to put an end to a few of them, the banias as one man closed their shops, and refused to open them again till the knight ate humble pie, which he was compelled to do. There is an air of departed grandeur about all these towns in Central India, and their inhabitants, we hear, are running away in all directions. Possibly, now that there is a prospect of the country being opened up by the railway, their former prosperity may return, but it will take years of patient effort and unceasing care to restore what has been lost.—Bombay Gazette.

CURIOUS MARRIAGE CUSTOM OF THE KUDWA KUNBIS.—The present year marks the termination of the period of twelve years at which alone marriages take place among the Kudwa Kunbis, or cultivators, in Guzerat. In the interval of twelve years no marriages take place among the members of that caste. Accordingly, whether boys or girls have attained a marriage age or not, they are given in wedlock lest they miss the opportunity for another twelve years. Thus children and adults from two years of age to twenty are married by hundreds and thousands on one or the other of the appointed days. The way the marriage days are settled among these Kudwa Kunbis is somewhat curious. The original seat of the Kudwa Kunbis is Oonza, a village near Vishalnagar, in the northern division of the Gaekwar's territory. In this village is a temple of Mata, or tutelary goddess of the class. Here are assembled representative leaders from twelve villages, or gaums, in which the Kunbis reside, and lots are cast as to the dates when the marriages should be performed. Different dates are written on bits of paper, which are wound up into the forms of small pills, and an unmarried girl is asked to pick up any two of these paper pills. They are then opened in the presence of the goddess, and the dates marked are the dates agreed upon as the marriage days. These days are then made known to all the members of the caste in whatever part of Guzerat or India they reside, by means of letters addressed to them by the heads of the caste in the principal towns.—Times of India.

A NEW FEATURE IN PUNA PROGRESS.—A very large company of native ladies assembled recently in the Town-hall, Heerabagh, to witness the distribution of prizes to the young ladies attending Mrs. Mitchell's Training College and the schools under Mrs. Mitchell's superintendence. The total number present from the Normal Training College and the schools throughout the city was 375. It was decided that invitations should be sent out to the native ladies of Puna, and seventy-five ladies of the best families in Puna attended. There were several of the ladies present from the families of the sirdars of the Deccan, and the chair was occupied by Lady Ramabai, alias Bejabai Maharaja, the widow of the late Tatta Maharaja, who also distributed the prizes and made a very touching speech to the children of the schools. The children were examined by Mrs. Mitchell, and then Mrs. Durgabai, the senior lady in the Training College, addressed the ladies present in an excellent speech, in which she thanked them for their presence and explained to them the benefits of education. Mr. Gunnesh Wassudeo Joshi made a good speech and expressed his pleasure at seeing the ladies of Puna present on such an occasion. It was entirely a gathering of native ladies, and the members of the committee appointed by Government to co-operate with Mrs. Mitchell in her work. The sight was very gratifying, and shows that education is making progress in Puna.—Deccan Herald.

THE PRINCE'S DOCK.—A Government resolution has been published, which, after summarising, the work done, says:—"In thus reviewing the main features of this great work, which, his Excellency in Council confidently believes, will be found in time to be of the greatest benefit to the mercantile and shipping interests of Bombay, his Excellency in Council desires to place on record his high sense of the value of the services rendered by Mr. Thomas Ormiston, who designed this most important work, and under whose superintendence it has been carried out. Before Mr. Ormiston came to India he had attained distinction on the works of the Clyde Navigation, those of Glasgow Harbour, and in Plymouth Sound. In India he commenced the Elphinstone Reclamation and constructed the fine lighthouse (the Prongs) at Bombay. His present achievement in constructing the Prince's Dock is an earnest of future successful engineering works. His public services will cause his name to be enrolled amongst the eminent men of the time, and will advance the material prosperity of the country, whose Sovereign has already evinced her appreciation of the services thus rendered by conferring on Mr. Ormiston the high distinction of admission into the Order of the Indian Empire. Mr. Ormiston has brought to the notice of Government the valuable assistance he has received from Mr. George Ormiston, who has been in resident charge of the works, and from his assistant, Mr. Bedford. Both these officers have worked with unsurpassed zeal and assiduity, and have carried out safely operations involving considerable labour and risk as well as professional knowledge of a high order, such as placing in position a gate, each leaf of which weighs over 80 tons, and the jib of the 100 ton crane, which weighs 40 tons, and had to be lifted to a height of 100 feet above the ground. His Excellency in Council gladly acknowledges the important services rendered by both these officers, and more especially those of Mr. George Ormiston, on whom the executive management of all the operations has fallen. His Excellency in Council desires also to record his acknowledgment of the services rendered by the contractors for the masonry and excavation, Messrs. Glover and Co., who have not only upheld the reputation they had previously obtained in all parts of India, but have added to it by the prompt and efficient manner in which they have carried this present work to completion in the face of many difficulties."—Government Gazette.

DISASTER AT SEA.—Telegrams received at Lloyd's state that the Vingorla, steamer, has been lost through springing a leak in the main hold when 7omiles north of Bombay, and sank. Of the crew, the second and third officers and all the natives were saved; the others drowned. Of the passengers, seven second class and 52 deck passengers were drowned; eight first, two second, and 39 deck passengers were saved. A later telegram reports that the captain, chief officer, clerk, three engineers, and 62 native passengers were drowned. The saloon passengers were saved. The Vingorla, which was bound from Bombay for Karachi, was built at Greenock in 1875, and was an iron screw of 578 tons gross, classed 100 A1.

Elliott, Bombay Staff Corps; Lieut. E. J. A. Robbins, 33rd Regiment.—Times of India.

IRRIGATION.—The report of the Chief Engineer for Irrigation, Bombay, shows that, although owing to heavier and better distributed rainfall, the area irrigated in 1878-79 was much less than in the previous year, there was no decrease of revenue, as the area of superior classes of crops increased considerably. The raintall in some cases waa quite unprecedented.—Ibid.

MR. VENAYEK WASSUDEO.—Subscriptions are being raised to commemorate the useful public services rendered by Mr. Venayek Wassudeo, late Oriental translator. A circular has been issued to Mr. Wassudeo's friends by Sir Munguldas Nathoobhoy, C.S.I., Mr. Byramjee Jeejeebhoy, C.S.I., Rao Bahadur Nana Morojee, and Mr. Cumroodeen Tyabjee. Already the sum of Rs.1,500 has been subscribed.—Ibid.

DACOITY.—Thirty-six persons were recently tried at Puna on charges of dacoity. Twenty-eight were sentenced to transportation for life, five to seven years' penal servitude, and one to five years' rigorous imprisonment. Two were aquitted. Another village has been punished for harbouring and assisting dacoits, Jogowdi, in a taluka of the Puna district. The offending community are called upon to maintain additional police constables for a couple of years.—Times of India.

THE Secretary of State has decided that no staff need be permanently attacked to the Dhond and Manmad State Railway. Major T. F. Dowden, Royal Engineers, therefore, reverts from the Revenue to the Engineer Establishment of the Railway Branch, Public Works Department. Captain W. J. Engledue, Roya Engineers, is placed in charge of this useful little line as well as of the Berar State Railway, with powers of manager.

THE F Battery, 2nd Brigade, R.A., were to leave Kirkee on Feb. 14, reach Bombay on the 21st, and embark about the 23rd on board the Chilka and Tenasserim. The 18-8th R.A. go from Aden to Attock, instead of to Agra. The 12-9th R.A. go from Attock to Cabul, instead of to Karachi, on relief by the 18-8th R.A. H.M.S. Crocodile arrived at Karachi on 9th ult., but was unable to cross the bar. All the troops were landed safely. The Puna Horse arrived on the 11th ult.—Times of India.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS.—The B.I.S.N. Company's steamer Culna, Captain Brown, arrived in Karachi harbour on Feb. 30, at six o'clock, from Bombay, with the 10th Regiment Light Native Infantry and a company of the 7th Native Infantry. The officers with the 10th are:—Colonel H. H. James, commandant; Captain S. G. Humfrey, Lieuts. F. H. R. Chapman, M. B. Salmon, and W. S. Widdicombe, Surgeon Major F. R. O'Kearney, M.D., and Dr. F. THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1880.

THE INDIAN MEDICAL SERVICE.

WE quoted recently an article from an Indian contemporary pronouncing the funeral oration over the Indian Medical Service, which, if the amalgamating orders issued in January last had been delayed for six years, would have attained its century of valuable and honourable service. The amalgamation now decreed was attempted in 1863, when the then Government introduced a bill for the purpose, which was, however, rejected by the House of Commons. What the Legislature at that time rejected has been accomplished by the General Order published on Jan. 3 by the Government of India, which has appeared in our columns. From the 31st of this month the British Army Medical Department and the Indian Medical Department will form one department for the medical administration of the army in the three Presidencies. The results of the changes in the organisation of the administrative medical staff are thus summed up. The General Order reduces the numbers of deputy surgeons general to less than one half the present fixed establishment, and, by abolishing the highest office of surgeon general, and placing the department in each Presidency under a surgeon general of the British Service, converts the Indian Medical Service into a subordinate section of the Army Medical Department. In brief, the members of the service find that the hitherto existing highest rank to which they could aspire, the highest appointments which were, at all events, possible prizes, have been abolished, and, as far as they are concerned, ceased to exist. The possibility of attaining to the second highest official grade and the honours and emoluments thereto pertaining is practically removed from all but the smallest percentage of the present members of the service. In a statement of the case as affecting the great body of the medical officers it is mentioned that in 1862 the establishment of medical officers of the superior ranks in the army of each Presidency was—Surgeons general in Bengal, three; in Madras, two; in Bombay, two; deputy surgeons general, twelve, ten, and five. Referring to the India List, we find that in Bengal there were at the commencement of this year one surgeon general and ten deputy surgeons general; in Bombay, one surgeon general and six deputy surgeons general; in Madras, one surgeon general and six deputy surgeons general. The ukase, which has excited wide dissatisfaction, sweeps away the three surgeons general in the three Presidency armies, but offers no vacancy for promotion, seeing that their successors must be taken from the Army Medical Department. It must, however, in justice be added that in each Presidency the secretary to the surgeon general will be taken from the Indian Medical Service. In Bengal five out of the eleven circles of medical superintendence are reserved for the Indian service, as against six allotted to the Army Medical Department; while in Bombay they are apportioned equally two to each, and in Madras four out of six are given to the Indian Department. After allowing for civil medical administration, the order states that there will be six superfluous deputy surgeons general, and an inducement not only to these superfluous officials, but to the holders of the highest grade, to retire, is offered as follows:—"With a view to provide for the retirement on favourable terms of the surplus officers of the Indian Medical Service, the Right Honourable the Governor General in Council is pleased to offer to the surgeons general and the deputy surgeons general of the three armies their retirement on the extra pension of their grade, with an honorary step of rank, notwithstanding that they may not have completed the qualifying service for their pensions." The number of retirements in each army will be restricted to two. From the date of this order taking effect there will be no surgeons general as compared with seven in 1862, and eleven deputy surgeons general as compared with twenty-seven. But the limitation of the offer of retirement to the few of the two highest grades is, if it were possible, an aggravation of the practical wrong inflicted on the older medical officers, whose prospects of promotion have been thus cut off, and to whom no solatium has as yet been offered. The other day the Secretary for War uttered a well-deserved eulogium on the services of the medical officers in Afghanistan. He spoke officially for the Army Medical Service, but he would not have excepted the tried and faithful officers of the Indian Service, or Department, as it will be called for the future. No history can show a fuller record of gallant and faithful discharge of duty than that of the Indian Medical Service

Both in the field and in the constant campaigns of peace against the insidious and restless armies of plague and sickness; in the administration of important departments; in scientific and educational labours, for the benefit not only of the Europeans but of the natives, the zeal and ability of its members have ever been manifested. Rewarded, not so much by honours as by the lasting results achieved, the officers of the service have emulated the patriotic self-denial of Boughton and Hamilton, and the names of many will live as long as the history of Indian administration is remembered, and honours, "ob cives servatos," are awarded by the peoples of England and India. It is surely not needful, in accomplishing an important and needed reform of departmental organisation, to inflict substantial injury on the members of such a service. We are not going to dispute the advantage of unification, nor is it possible to accomplish any great change or improvement as to secure satisfaction to every one affected thereby. But the recollections of the heartburnings and discussions caused by former changes in the Indian services might, at least, warn the Government of India to make this new reorganisation—unpalatable as it must be—at least as little injurious as possible. There is but a feeble hope of securing a hearing in a moribund Parliament for the complaints of the Indian medical officers, although we expect that Dr. Playfair will yet call attention to them. Their advocates can, at all events, refer to what have hitherto been esteemed legislative guarantees, and these, though they cannot be held to forbid changes, at least may be considered to prohibit the infliction of loss. Strange as it may seem to some, the attainment of a high and honourable rank is as precious to the medical officer as to the civilian or the combatant officer. The endurance of long years of professional toil and danger is considered to render him as deserving of the highest rate of pension held out to him in the future prospect as the command of a regiment or the charge of a district can render their respective incumbents. We have before us a suggestion which it is argued will, at all events, offer compensation to the senior, and therefore most aggrieved, members of the Indian Medical Service. There are now 210 senior surgeons major who may be described as expectant of the rank of deputy surgeon general, with the advantage of being able to retire within a few years with the extra pension of £250 per annum. These numbers include all who entered the service during the Honourable Company's règime, or while the Company's rules and conditions were in force. Of these it is calculated that about eighty will elect to remain for the present in civil employ. The offer to the remainder of such an inducement to retire as the extra pension and nominal rank would remove the burden of wrong, at least in a large degree. It is urged that such a proposal would actually relieve the finances, as the retirement of 130 senior surgeons major would vacate regimental and other posts which would be filled by junior surgeons at lower rates of pay. This is put as a reply to the suggestion that the retirement of so many senior medical officers would be detrimental to the public service. It would be better for once to act liberally, and, whether it be an economy or not, to do as much as is possible to remove the heartburning discontent, the sense of wrong, the complaints of broken engagements and violated guarantees that are now, though publicly unspoken, none the less felt and thought by the members of the Indian Medical Service.

HOME NEWS.

THE INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—At the meeting of this society on Tuesday, March 2—Mr. Brunlees, vice-president, in the chair—it was announced that the monthly ballot had resulted in the election of, among others, Messrs. Attwill Ellis, South Indian Railway, Cuddalore, as a member; Augustus Bythesea Todd, Stud. Inst. C.E., assistant engineer, P.W.D., India; Charles John Henry Fyler Townsend, Stud. Inst. C.E., P.W.D., Ceylon, as associate members; and Lieut. Henry Edward M'Callum, R.E., Woolwich, as an associate.

INDIAN COUNCIL DRAFTS.—Tenders were received yesterday at the Bank of England for £450,000 in Government Bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta £393,300, and to Madras £56,700. Tenders on both Presidencies at 1s. 7⅞d. will receive about 9 per cent.; above that price in full. Compared with last week this shows a fall of 1-16d. The same amount will be tendered for next Wednesday.

THE VICTORIA (PHILOSOPHICAL) INSTITUTE has received a legacy of £100 under the will of the late Robert Napier, Esq.

A CATHEDRAL AT LAHORE.—An appeal is now being made to English Churchmen for the establishment of a cathedral at Lahore, to which a bishop has been recently appointed. At present the services of the Church of England are performed in a Mahomedan shrine dedicated to a murdered slave girl; and it is thought that, as even Mahomedans and Hindus are offering funds to relieve the Church of England from the scandal of worshipping in an alien temple, English Churchmen may respond to the appeal. The Maharaja of Cashmere has offered timber for the new cathedral.

OXFORD MILITARY COLLEGE.—The annual meeting of the proprietors of the Oxford Military College was held on Saturday in the Charing-cross Hotel; Major F. Duncan, R.A., chairman of the College, presiding. On the motion of Lord Waveney, seconded by Lord Powys, the report of the directors was unanimously adopted, and much satisfaction was expressed with the reports from the governor, the headmaster, and the director of drills. On the motion of General Cameron, C.B., seconded by General Lowry, C.B., Major Duncan was unanimously elected chairman of the college.

THE DEVON TRICYCLE.—The well-known outfitters, Messrs. Maynard and Harris, of Leadenhall-street, are the patentees of this machine, which, since its first appearance last September at the Agricultural Hall, has been greatly improved, although, of course, the main principles remain the same. The design is that of two large wheels side by side, with a pilot wheel in front. One of its special advantages is that both the large wheels are driven equally, and yet are capable of acting independently, so that in turning a corner, although the feet may still be working, the inside wheel remains stationary, acting merely as a pivot, and allows the outside or driving wheel (for the time being) to run round it. This enables the machine to turn round in its own space without any fear of the inside wheel, as would be the case were both driving wheels attached, and by this plan the wheels have an independent as well as a continued action, so that one may be lifted and spun in a reverse direction while the other is at rest or being spun in an opposite direction.

INDIAN APPEAL CASES.—In the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on Feb. 21, before Sir J. Colville, Sir B. Peacock, Sir M. Smith, and Sir R. Collier, judgment was given in the case of Marcar and another v. Sigg and another, which related to transactions between merchants, one side advancing sums to the other for the purchase of coffee and other articles. The appellants, who traded as "P. Marcar," were native merchants at Cochin, and the respondents, "Volk and Brothers," were agency and commission merchants in Switzerland, having branch establishments at Bombay and Cochin. They had made advances to purchase coffee, to be delivered at future periods at the market price, when the advances were made, and on one occasion, in consequence of a rise in the price of the commodity, the appellants had sustained a loss of £40,000. Advances to 425 lakhs of rupees had been made, and the present claim was Rs405,779 (upwards of £40,000), and the respondents had obtained mortgages on various properties of the appellants for the amount with "9 per cent. interest." The appeal was from the High Court of Madras, and the appellants prayed to set aside the decision. Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. J. D. Mayne appeared for the appellants; Mr. Herschell, Q.C., Mr. Scoble, Q.C., and Mr. H. Cowell for the respondents. Sir James Colvile delivered the judgment of the committee, and said their lordships would advise her Majesty to affirm the decision of the High Court and to dismiss the present appeal with costs.—On Tuesday last the case of Raja Nilmoni Sing v. Chunder Kant Banerjee was decided. This was an appeal from a judgment of the High Court of Calcutta of March 21, 1876, affirming decisions of the local tribunals at Chota Nagpore and Manbhoom, in the Bengal Presidency. Mr. Doyne was counsel for the appellant. The appellant sued the respondent to recover Rs.2,962 as an enhanced rent of some land lying within his zemindary of Sanchkote, on the ground that the rent then being paid by the respondent was less than that received from ryots of the same class for lands adjacent and similar, and that the increase in the value of the crops grown on those lands and their productive power was not wholly attributable to the respondent's labour and expenditure. The respondent resisted the enhancement on the score that the land in question had been held by him and his predecessors from before the decennial settlement under a peculiar tenure known as "talabi bromutter," at an unvaried rate of rent, and that that rent was not liable to the proposed enhancement. Their lordships affirmed the judgments of the Indian courts, and dismissed the appeal.

A CEYLON EXTRADITION CASE.—In the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice, in the matter of a person charged with an offence at Ceylon, the prisoner, one Bremner, was charged with having committed embezzlement and theft, and a magistrate at Colombo had issued a warrant to apprehend him, but before it arrived he was arrested in this country at the Euston-square station (the prosecutors being in this country), and evidence was taken against him at Bow-street, on which he was remanded. In the meantime the warrant arrived and was endorsed by the Secretary of State, and the evidence was then retaken, and the magistrate, thinking there was a proper case, committed the prisoner to Clerkenwell Prison to await his being sent to Colombo for trial. A summons for a habeas corpus had been taken out on his behalf before Mr. Justice Field, who referred the matter to the court on these points—(1) that there was not a sufficient warrant; (2) that the depositions did not show sufficient evidence of a felony; (3) that no oral evidence was admissible on the charge; (4) that the proper evidence was the depositions taken in the colony; (5) that the arrest was made before the warrant was received and endorsed by the Secretary of State, so that the prisoner had never been apprehended under the Act, and so the custody, having been continuous, was illegal. Mr. Justice Lush gave judgment, overruling the objections on the grounds mentioned in the course of the arguments, and the prisoner was remanded into custody to await his removal to Ceylon.

OBITUARY.

BY the death of General Alfred Huyshe, C.B., in his 69th year, the Bengal Artillery has lost an officer who had done not a little to consolidate the reputation of that famous regiment. A fellow cadet at Addiscombe with Lord Napier of Magdala, Huyshe became a subaltern of Bengal gunners just one year after Robert Napier entered the Engineers, and, like him, passed the first portion of his service without seeing a shot fired. But in 1842 disturbances with Scindia broke out, and Captain Huyshe earned a bronze star for his services in the Gwalior campaign. In 1848-49 he took part in the second Sikh war, and was in command of a battery at the action of Sadoolapore, the heavy fight at Chillianwallah, and the crowning victory of Gujerat. For his distinguished conduct in this campaign he received a brevet majority and the Punjab medal with two clasps. Subsequently, on the Peshawur frontier, Major Huyshe was engaged in more than one of the minor expeditions which took place immediately after the annexation of the Trans-Indus territory; but in the suppression of the Mutiny Colonel Huyshe took no active part. He was inspector general of artillery in Bengal for some years, and on attaining the rank of a general officer retired to England. His commissions bore date as follow:—Second lieutenant, Dec. 13, 1827; first lieutenant, Sept. 28, 1835; captain, Sept. 5, 1845; brevet major, June 7, 1849; brevet lieutenant colonel, Nov. 28, 1854; brevet colonel, Dec. 30, 1859; major general, Oct. 31, 1867; and general, Oct. 1, 1877. General Huyshe was nominated a Companion of the Bath in 1877, when he had completed fifty years' long and arduous service in the army. By his decease a vacancy occurs for an officer of the Bengal Artillery to be advanced to the colonel's allowance pension of over £1,100 per annum.

MAJOR GENERAL HENRY ERSKINE HICKS, retired full pay Royal (Madras) Artillery, died at Biarritz on Wednesday, Feb. 25, aged fifty-six. The deceased general obtained his commission second lieutenant in June, 1841, was promoted to lieutenant in July, 1845, and became captain in June, 1856. He served with the China expedition in 1842, and was present at the storming and capture of Ching-Keang-Foo, in July of that year, and the operations before and landing at Nankin in August. General Hicks also served with the Saugor Field Division during the Indian mutiny, and assisted at the relief of Kirwee and at the action on the heights of Punwarree in Dec., 1858. He had received a medal for his services in China. For some time he was in command of the Artillery at Singapore. He obtained the rank of major in Feb., 1861, lieutenant colonel March, 1865, colonel March, 1870, and major general August 1, 1872.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, FEB. 26.

INDIA MEDICAL STAFF.

In answer to Dr. Playfair, Mr. E. STANHOPE said it had been decided to abolish the double medical administrative staff hitherto maintained in India, and from March 31 the British Army Medical Department and the India Medical Department would form one department for the medical administration of the army in the three Presidencies, the surgeon general at headquarters in each Presidency being an officer of the British Army Medical Department. By this change six deputy surgeons general of the Indian service would be in excess of the requirements of the new service, and the Government of India have offered to the surgeons general and the deputy surgeons general of the three armies their retirement on the extra pension of their grade, with an honorary step of rank, notwithstanding that they may not have completed the qualifying service for these pensions. The number of retirements in each army is restricted to two.

EXECUTION OF AFGHANS.

In answer to Sir C. Dilke, Mr. E. STANHOPE said that the tabular statement of the execution of Afghans by the military commissions at Cabul, on its way home, certainly did include the executions in December and January.

INDIAN CONTRACTS.

Mr. E. STANHOPE, in reply to Mr. Puleston, who asked whether he would produce copies of all contracts entered into by the India-office for the carriage of railway materials to India in shipments of over 1,000 tons, said that to produce copies of the contracts for freight would be injurious to the public interest, and possibly also to some of the contracting shippers. No private firm would disclose its contracts under similar circumstances, and no Government department published the details of its contracts. As regards the departmental report on freight to India, it was quite true that in promising an inquiry last year he said that the report would be laid upon the table; but when the inquiry was made it was found that part, at least, of the evidence could only be obtained under a promise of secrecy, and it would be therefore impossible to produce it.

INDIGO CULTIVATION IN BEHAR.

Mr. O'DONNELL asked whether the attention of the India-office had been directed to a passage in a late report of Sir A. Eden, Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, relative to abuses in connection with indigo cultivation in Behar.

Mr. E. STANHOPE had not yet been able to find the passage referred to by the hon. member.

The Indian Salaries and Allowances Bill passed through committee.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY, FEB. 27.

STAFF OFFICERS ACTING AS NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS.

In answer to Mr. Hopwood, Mr. E. STANHOPE said certain officers of the staff had in the recent war in Afghanistan acted as correspondents to newspapers, and in certain cases last year that employment was undertaken with the knowledge of the general commanding. He could not say positively whether any officers were now so acting, but semi-official orders were issued last year by the Adjutant-General, by the direction of the Commander in Chief in India, prohibiting staff officers from undertaking this employment. No regulations for newspaper correspondents in the field had been provisionally sanctioned or formally adopted by the Secretary of State.

GOLD FIELDS IN SOUTHERN INDIA.

In answer to Mr. Puleston, who asked whether the Under Secretary of State for India could confirm the reports which had appeared in the Times with respect to the gold fields of Southern India, Mr. E. STANHOPE said that a copy had been unofficially received of the report on the Wynaad gold fields, which he should be happy to show his hon. friend, and some part of which could be laid upon the table of the House.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY, MARCH 1.

SECRET RUSSIAN CORRESPONDENCE.

In reply to Mr. Ashbury, who asked a series of questions with regard to the secret correspondence from the Russian Government or its agents to the late Ameer Shere Ali, Mr. E. STANHOPE said that her Majesty's Government had already on more than one occasion stated that they were not prepared to produce the Russian correspondence found at Cabul. He was therefore unable to give any information as to any of the contents of those documents, or of any action which may have been taken upon them.

CARRIAGE OF GOODS TO THE EAST.

Mr. HOPWOOD asked whether the Postmaster-General was aware that a combination of the Peninsular and Oriental with other steam shipping companies was some time since formed for the purpose of "regulating" the freight and carriage of goods from England to China and Japan, with a view to secure a monopoly of the carrying trade.

Lord J. MANNERS said that there was nothing in the mail contract between the Post-office and the Peninsular and Oriental Company which gave him any power to interfere with the proceedings of the company in such a matter.

EAST INDIA LOAN (EAST INDIAN RAILWAY DEBENTURES)

The House having gone into committee, Mr. STANHOPE said the East India Railway had now passed into the hands of the State, although it remained under the management of the railway company. In the Act of last year no arrangements were made for providing money in the future, and it was provided that application should be made to Parliament when the Government wished to pay off the existing debentures of the railway company. Some of these debentures would fall in at the beginning of next year, and therefore the Government had thought it right to come to the House in order to obtain the necessary power to raise money. He concluded by moving a formal resolution authorising the introduction of a bill for that purpose.

The resolution was agreed to and ordered to be reported to the House.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY, MARCH 2.

INDIAN FAMINE COMMISSION.

Mr. E. STANHOPE, replying to Sir D. Wedderburn, said: The report of the Indian Famine Commission is in course of preparation in England. Five of the commissioners are in England. No native members are here, as they excused themselves on account of the climate; but, before any of the members left India, the commission discussed the principal points to be reported on. The first part of the report, dealing with measures for famine relief, will probably be presented this month, and the second and last part before midsummer.

AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. OTWAY inquired whether there was any foundation for a telegram from Lahore which had been published in the Daily News professing to give the conditions laid down by the British Government for the settlement of affairs in Afghanistan.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER: The statement is purely imaginary.

CASUALTIES.

The Prince Oscar, from Calcutta to Dundee, put into Falmouth of Feb. 15 for provisions, and with loss of topgallant bulwarks and forecastle stove; on the following day she dragged her anchors and went ashore at the entrance to St. Mawes Bay, but was towed off, and is reported to be undamaged.

The Iris, for Bombay, has put into Falmouth with rudder damaged.

The Bianca, for Rangoon, arrived at Scilly on Feb. 17 with loss of jibboom and steering gear damaged.

The Culzean, from Karachi, has arrived at Scilly with loss of sails.

The Gitana, from Calcutta, has arrived at Gravesend with loss of topgallant, bulwarks, sails, &c.

The ship Tweed, Capt. Bice, put into Plymouth on Feb. 24, while on a voyage from Calcutta for London, with wheat, jute, &c., having experienced heavy weather, during which two of the crew were lost overboard and two others died from exposure. The Tweed left Calcutta on Nov. 29, and experienced fair weather up to Feb. 15, when a gale sprang up. On the following day a native was washed overboard and drowned, and another native died from exposure. The gale gradually increased in violence till it blew a hurricane, and a heavy sea broke over the vessel, and Robert Michell, the mate, of Greenock, who was working at the pumps, was carried overboard and drowned. The seas continued to break over the vessel, filling the deck cabins with water to a depth of three feet. The water was, however, with difficulty pumped out. Soon after the gale moderated, and fine weather was met with to Plymouth.

Baron Stoet (Dutch steamer), is reported (by cable, from Samarang, March 4), to have gone ashore between Sourabaya and Rembang. Assistance has been sent to her.

MADRAS WIDOWS' AND ORPHANS' FUND.—At the half-yearly general meeting of subscribers of the Madras Widows' and Orphans' Fund held at the Widows' Fund Office—Mr. G. Norton being voted to the chair—the report was adopted, and the election took place of Dr. C. G. Conran, trustee; Messrs. G. W. M. Taylor, W. A. Beeson, and J. T. Greatorex, directors; and Messrs. C. Stolberg, N. Bazeley, W. Fermier, and Samuel D. Simpson, provisional directors for 1880. We gather the following from the report:—There were 604 subscribers in the rolls of the fund at Dec. 31, 1878, which, with a deduction of 53 on account of removals, as there were no new subscribers admitted, leave 551 subscribers at the end of 1879. The results, as compared with those of 1878, show a falling off in numbers of 53. At the end of 1878 there were 146 subscribers in the children's branch and 477 nominees. Additions were made in 1879, giving a total of 146 subscribers and 486 nominees. Taking these into account there were on the rolls of the children's branch 132 subscribers and 432 nominees at the end of 1879, or fourteen subscribers and 45 nominees below the numbers registered at the close of 1878. At the close of 1878 there were 332 widows receiving pensions, aggregating Rs.8,222-3-9. During the past year the fund benefited by the reversion of the pensions of certain incumbents, in consequence of death or remarriage; and by a further reduction of 10 per cent. of the widows' pensions from Jan. 1, 1879. The liabilities of the fund on account of pensions in the children's branch reached Rs.2,418 per mensem on Dec. 31, 1878, and the annual report for that year showed that this amount was drawn by 147 incumbents. During the period under review an addition of nine children was made to the list as under, with claims amounting in the aggregate to Rs.123-6-0 per mensem, thereby increasing the liabilities to Rs.2,541-6-0 per mensem, and the number of incumbents to 156. Against this addition, however, the directors have to report a total saving of Rs.164-1-0 per mensem, and also by the reduction of children's pension of 30 per cent. from Jan. 1, 1879. The number of incumbents on the register at the close of 1879 was thus 138, who are in the receipt of pensions amounting in all to Rs.1,651-15 per mensem. These results, contrasted with those reported in the previous year, show a saving in numbers of nine. The usual abstract statement of receipts and disbursements shows that the pensions paid to widows amount to Rs.86,520, and the orphans Rs.21,513. These, together with the expenses of management, have absorbed the total amount of income during the year derived from subscriptions, donations, and interest, as estimated at the beginning of the year, under the provisions of Rule 40, which necessitated a reduction of 30 per cent. all round in the pensions of both widows and orphans from the full rates of six times the amount of subscription. A continuance of the application of the provisions of Rule 40 would necessitate a further reduction of 4½ per cent. in the pensions of both widows and orphans during the year 1880; this is manifest from the fact that the fund has lost 53 subscribers during the year 1879 by deaths, defaults, and withdrawals, while the number of widows has increased by five. New subscribers could not be expected to join under such circumstances, and each succeeding year, at least for some time to come, would find increased burdens imposed upon widows and orphans by further necessary reductions in their pensions. The directors therefore trust that subscribers and the public will hail with much satisfaction the introduction of the scheme proposed by Mr. E. E. Perrett, which has lately been carried by the votes of subscribers, and that even present widows, although called upon to suffer a further small reduction in their pensions, will find recompense in a relief from the uncertainty which must have prevailed under a continuance of the provisions of Rule 40; while those who have children will be more than compensated by the just restoration of the children's pensions to their original rates.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCING

PYRETIC SALINE.

USE NO SUBSTITUTE.—See perpetual injunction against imitators; also the unanimous judgment before the Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, Jan. 22, 1878, in H. Lamplough's favour.

Important to all, more especially English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in Tropical and Foreign Climates

Her Majesty's Representative the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a letter of request for an additional supply of PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of great value, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a tumbler of cold water. This can be repeated once or twice in two hours, if needful.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sea or bilious sickness.

For BILIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated secretions, Indigestion, and Eruptions on the Skin, teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed. May be obtained of the Proprietor,

H. LAMPLOUGH, Consulting Chemist, 113, HOLBORN, E.C.,

Says page 18:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cockle's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheik, who was impervious to all native medicines, when I administered to him five

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

FRIDAY, MARCH 12, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, Feb. 21; Madras and Allahabad, Feb. 19; Calcutta, Feb. 18.

REPORTS on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending February 10, state that rain fell in most of the districts of the North Western Provinces, Oudh, and the Punjab, and also in Assam, doing much good to the spring crops. There was some rain also in Madras, and there were slight showers in Bengal, but more rain is wanted in both of these provinces. Agricultural prospects are said to continue generally good.

THE Standard correspondent telegraphed from Kandahar on Wednesday that Mahomed Jan's following was increasing. On the other hand, the Hazara chiefs are expected to aid in our attack on Ghuzni, for which the means of transport are sadly wanting. General Phayre and the first Bombay division had arrived. Previous telegrams report the recovery of Capt. Graves, who was wounded by a boy with an awl. Dr. M'Carthy, 2nd Punjab Cavalry, was shot at and wounded, probably by a robber. From Cabul we learn nothing certain as to the hostile movements, but there is a strong expectation of a junction between Abdunahman and Mahomed Jan. The next month will probably see a complete subjugation of the enemies of order, whom some choose to consider patriots.

WE take the following from the Calcutta telegram of the 7th inst.:—

"The expedition through the Lughman Valley has now been completed as far as Adrabadrak Kotal, and communication is open with Jagdalak. The camp was to have been removed last week to Garbandkai. General Bright proceeds to Jagdalak, where his column will remain while he visits Cabul. All quiet in Lughman. A regular Tonga mail service will shortly be established along the Khyber line. The first Tonga arrived at Jellalabad on Monday. The bridge over the Cabul river is now open for traffic. A mile and a half of telegraph wire near Barikab was carried away on Sunday last, and the posts for that distance destroyed. The 3rd Punjab Cavalry has been ordered to proceed from Edwardesbad to Cabul on being relieved by the 5th Punjab Cavalry. Much sickness prevails among the troops in the Kuram Valley. The 85th at Thall and the 8th Foot at Peiwar have suffered severely during the winter. The 13th N.I. are also in a very unhealthy state."

WE learn from the Calcutta telegram of the 7th inst. that despatches by General Roberts, detailing events from the 8th to the 24th December, were published in Saturday's Gazette of India. They add little to the information already possessed by the public. General Roberts bears witness to the assistance rendered him by Lieut. Generals Kennedy and Vaughan, the latter of whom aided him with his experience, gathered during many years' service on the frontier. The following are also mentioned as having rendered especially good service:—Major General Hills; Brigadier General Hugh Gough; Colonels Hogg, Jenkins, and Macgregor; Lieut. Colonels Collett, Fitz Hugh, Lockhart, and Heathcote; Majors Hanna, Kingsley, Hills, Morton, Kennedy, Coombe, Badcock, Woodthorpe, Moriarty, and Hastings; Captains Deane, Hall, Gordon, Eardley-Wilmot, Campbell (Royal Artillery), Holding, Martin, Hunt, Lewis, Stratton, and Pole-Carew; Lieuts. Manners-Smith, Brabazon, Sherston, and Chamberlain; Deputy Surgeon General Porter; Surgeon Major Roe; Surgeons Cotes and Owen; Messrs. Luke and Kirke, of the Telegraph Department; the Rev. Mr. Adams, chaplain of the Church of England; Mr. Manson, of the Presbyterian Church; and Father Browne, of the Catholic Church; Mr. Durand, Nawab Sir Gholam Khan, and Hyat Khan, of the Political Department. General Roberts estimates the force opposed to us at no time exceeding 60,000, and he reckons their loss at about 3,000 killed and wounded.

THE Government of India has issued a memorandum showing the actual state on the 24th February of supplies and clothing in relation to the troops beyond the frontier. From this memorandum it appears that the Cabul force is well provided with food supplies to the end of March. The troops and followers are also well provided with warm clothing. The British troops belonging to the Khyber force had sixty days' supplies of main articles and forty-two days' in others. The native troops and followers had thirty-eight days' supplies of all articles. All are well provided with warm clothing except for some waterproof sheets which are expected from Peshawur. The Kuram force had three months' supplies of everything. The memorandum then goes on to point out the difficulties which stood in the way of organising the transport, and concludes with the statement that orders had been issued to furnish all the forces with six months' supplies by the 1st of May, and that further special provision will be made on the Kuram line in case the troops returning by that route should be delayed by the lateness of the season.

THE Indian Government has presented a battery of six-pounder guns with harness and 2,000 smooth-bore Enfields to Sirdar Shere Ali, the Governor of Kandahar.

THE Times says that Lieut. Col. Stracey, of the Scots Guards, goes out as Military Secretary to Sir James Fergusson, the new Governor of Bombay.

WE (The Broad Arrow) hear that the friends of Brigadier General Dunham Massy have received telegrams from India saying that he has not the most remote fear of not being able to clear himself of any blame concerning the cavalry affair of Dec. 11, in which General Roberts himself practically commanded. General Massy is on his way to Peshawur to state his case personally to the Commander in Chief.

LIEUTENANT C. H. FERGUSSON, of the 72nd Highlanders, who was wounded in the Charasiab action last October, sailed for home on sick leave in the Serapis on Feb. 20. Lady Roberts, wife of Sir F. Roberts, left Bombay in the Crocodile.

NEITHER confirmation nor contradiction has been received of the telegram of the 7th, which reported that the Burmese had made a raid on Munipore territory and killed forty-five natives.

THE Indian obituary of the week ending Feb. 21 included Brigadier General Tytler; Mr. C. J. Kellner; Bhimajee Ramjee (native sculptor and artist); Mr. A. H. Steedman; Mr. J. Lacey (deputy commissioner, Mysore); and Brigadier General Jebb.

A MOVEMENT is being inaugurated through the Bengal Chamber of Commerce to further the objects and extension of the tea trade with the Australian markets.

IT is said that the orders of the Government of India, published in May last, forbidding the appointment of any but natives, that is, persons born in India, of parents permanently domiciled in the country, to posts with salaries of Rs.200 per mensem and upwards, have been made applicable to temporary as well as substantive appointments.

THE Inspector General of Registration, Bengal, has been appointed ex officio deputy superintendent of the census operations in that Presidency. The census will be taken throughout India in the early part of February, 1881, and already the local government has issued a circular giving instructions to the commissioners of the several districts in Bengal.

THE army expenditure of Shere Ali is computed by Lieut. Chamberlain at 19,21,195 Cabuli rupees, of which Rs.17,81,233 went for pay to the army, Rs.1,20,235 for arsenal expenses (not including Herat and Turkistan), and Rs.19,727 for uniform. Considering that Major Hastings, chief political officer at Cabul, has calculated the whole revenue of Afghanistan at only Rs.79,82,390, it will thus appear that nearly one-fourth of the revenue was lavished in military expenditure.

THE accounts of the trade and navigation of British India for the first nine months of the current financial year, as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year, show that the value of merchandise imported was Rs.29,52,69,716 as against Rs.28,81,01,234, and that of merchandise exported Rs.44,39,14,894, as against Rs.42,27,57,903. The value of treasure imported was Rs.8,79,05,409, as against Rs.3,99,54,699, and that of treasure exported Rs.1,74,74,551, as against Rs.2,40,15,270. The gross amount of import duty collected was Rs.2,99,88,836, as against Rs.3,02,46,868, and of export duty Rs.92,50,323, as against Rs.32,64,980.

THE Bombay Committee have received, through Mr. Javerilal Umishankar, agent to H.H. the Rao of Cutch, a donation of Rs.1,100 from his Highness, including Rs.100 from his private purse, Rs.200 from Maharanee Naniba Saheb, Queen Dowager; Rs.50 from Major H. N. Reeves, political agent, Cutch; Rs.50 from Prince Kulubha, brother of the Rao; Rs.50 from Rao Bahadur Manibhai Jusbhai, Dewan of Cutch; and Rs.50 from Rana Jalumsingjee, member of the Council of Regency, in all Rs.1,500. £1,000 sterling has been sent to the Madras Committee by the family of the late Maharaja of Vizianagram. The Nizam has subscribed Rs.20,000; his Excellency Amir-i-Akbir and family have given Rs.10,000; and Sir Salar Jung and his family Rs.8,000 towards the Irish famine fund.

WITH reference to the subject of the amalgamation of the British and the India medical services, a Calcutta paper hears that a proposal has been made by the present Surgeon General, Indian Medical Department, to separate the army from the Civil Medical Department; and that, in the event of the proposal being sanctioned by the Home Government, Dr. Beatson will probably remain in charge of the Civil Medical Department until the tenure of his office expires in November next.

THE Bombay Gazette hears that Surgeon General Ker-Innes will be going home almost immediately, and that Surgeon General Crawford has been ordered to Calcutta from Madras to inaugurate the new arrangements for working the reconstituted medical services in this country, which come into force on April 1 next. It is stated that Dr. Ker-Innes, having been across the frontier in Afghanistan for a few days, has been granted the six months' donation batta, amounting in his case to over Rs.12,000.

THE Government of India have been calling for a report about the prospect of diamonds being found in the once famous diamond district of Sambalpur, in the Central Provinces.

THE following order, which affects a considerable number of persons, has been sent to the military officers who are engaged in civil employ in India:—"Under the authority of her Majesty's Government it has been decided that all officers of the Staff Corps, local service, and General Lists, who were in civil employment for less than five years on October 22, 1879, or who may hereafter be appointed to any civil department, should be informed that they will hold their appointments subject to any change in their position as military officers, which may hereafter be decided on, and the necessary communication may be made accordingly."

THOSE of our readers in India or at home who have been planning a trip to the Happy Valley this season will save themselves trouble by reading the following official notification, which has just been published:—"Owing to continued scarcity in Cashmere, it has been found necessary to limit the number of visitors to the Maharaja's territory this season. One hundred and twenty-five passes have been placed at the disposal of his Excellency the Commander in Chief for distribution of officers under his command. Other persons desirous of visiting the valley must make application to the Secretariat Office of the Punjab Government, Lahore. The only routes by which visitors to the valley will be permitted to travel are those by Murree and Bhimbar, and as there will be difficulty in obtaining supplies in the country, visitors by these routes are enjoined to take provisions with them for themselves, their servants, and coolies, depending on the country for nothing but shelter, fuel, and fodder for horses. Visitors are, however, recommended not to travel by the Bhimbar route, on which arrangements have been, and are still, extremely bad."

THE mofussil police of the Madras Presidency are not very successful as detectives, as the last Administration Report for 1878-79 shows a low percentage of detections of robberies and housebreaking, falling, in some districts, short of 40 per cent. However, some of them make up for remissions in detection by activity in crime. The paragraph headed "Conduct of the Police" is curiously misnamed, for it runs thus:—

"The total number of police officers of all grades convicted by the courts during the year under review was 428. In Bellary one constable was transported for life for murder, and an inspector sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment and a heavy fine for hurt, criminal breach of trust, and bribery. In the district of North Arcot two constables, specially posted near Palmanair to protect travellers, joined four robbers in committing dacoits."

VERY distressing accounts have been received of the distress in North West Persia, portions of Armenia, and Kurdistan. Over an area of one hundred thousand square miles a great dearth has produced an absolute destruction of all the ordinary means of sustaining life, and the population, numbering about one million, are wholly destitute. From Ooroomiyeh, one of the centres of the distress, letters dated November 16 say:—"At the time of the threshing last year there were thirty days of heavy rain, which caused all the grain to rot and destroyed all the grapes—the chief food here; there was very little snow in the winter, consequently the summer brought unheard-of drought; nearly all the grain and cotton fields, vineyards and melon gardens, dried up; and there is no work for labourers. There is no money to borrow and no one can sell his land. In this district, in every hundred houses, ten per cent. have food; fifteen per cent. have food for one month; the rest are destitute." Since that letter the suffering has become still greater, and the people are on the brink of starvation. An influential committee, and including on its list, among others, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Shaftesbury, Lieut. Gen. Sir Arnold Kemball, K.C.B., Major Gen. Sir Henry Rawlinson, K.C.B., Major Gen. Sir Frederick Goldsmid, K.C.S.I., Sir George Campbell, K.C.S.I., M.P., Sir Albert Sassoon, K.C.S.I., and Sir Barrow Ellis, K.C.S.I., &c., has for the last few weeks been endeavouring to raise a fund for the relief of the population. Twelve hundred pounds have been collected, but this is a mere trifle in comparison to the want. Contributions are earnestly invited, and may be sent to Viscountess Strangford, 10, Chapel-street, Park-lane, or to the London Joint-Stock Bank, Craven-road, Bayswater.

THE Ceylon Times supplies an English version of a congratulatory Tamil ode, sung in honour of the Governor's visit to Batticotta, near Jaffna. The following specimen might serve as a model for the Poet Laureate:—

"Her Majesty the Queen shaded by a pure moon-lighted umbrella is a worthy golden vessel set up to shine in all its splendour on the sea of grace, and Sir J. Longden, the Governor, is the gem in it. It is the fortune of glorious Lanka that she is under their splendid sway. We have feasted our eyes with the liberal sight of Sir J. Longden, the celestial sun that rose from the high cliffs of Britain, and that pours its effulgence of benign graces on our soil, and, with the sight of Lady Alice Longden, the attendant lunar orb. We rejoice at the sight of the Governor K.C.M.G., the apple of the eyes on the face of the graceful nymph of world-extolled Lanka," &c.

THE East India Loan Bill now passing through Parliament gives power to the Secretary of State in Council of India to raise any sum not exceeding £2,950,000, chargeable to the revenue of India, by means of bonds, debentures, or capital stock, for the purpose of redeeming the East Indian Railway Debentures. Of these £1,000,000, at 4½ per cent., are redeemable Jan. 1, 1881; and the rest, at 4 per cent., as follows:—£1,279,850 on July 12, and £230,150 Dec. 1, 1882; and £440,000 March 19, 1883.

OUR last advices from Ceylon state that the pearl fishery to commence on the 1st of this month was expected to yield a net result of Rs.300,000 unless any unforeseen accident should intervene.

SIR J. DALRYMPLE HAY writes to the Times that "the new lights he recommends will follow in this order if the voyage is from India:—Minikoi, east end of Socotra, Ras Hafoon (if possible), Cape Guardafui or its neighbourhood, Lightship off Mocha, Abu Ail, Brothers, Galitona or Sorelli Rocks.".

THE loss of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's fine steamer Hindostan has been followed by a similar calamity. The Travancore, en route from Alexandria, went ashore in a thick fog at 3 a.m. on Monday, on the rocky coast south of Otranto. The agent at Brindisi promptly proceeded in a small steamer and brought off the passengers, mails, and specie. The mails arrived yesterday evening. The latest telegrams left no hope of saving either the ship or cargo.

WE subjoin yesterday's telegram from Castro, near Otranto:—

"Travancore same position; still blowing strong from north; sea breaking over steamer; impossible to go near. Opinion here if wind comes strong from the south, south-east, or east, she will break up. Divers can work when it is perfectly calm. Wired Venice to send them, if considered worth while to break out and save damaged cargo.—(Signed) K. du Gué, Agent."

THE QUEEN'S LEVEE.

THE list of presentations to her Majesty at the levée on Wednesday included the following:—By H.R.H. the Commander in Chief—Col. Sir Peter Lumsden, K.C.B., C.S.I., A.D.C. to the Queen, on being made a K.C.B.; Lieut. Gen. J. A. Ewart, C.B., on return from the command of a division in India. By the Secretary of State for India—The Right Hon. Sir James Fergusson, K.C.M.G., on being appointed Governor of Bombay; Mr. Roper Lethbridge, on being made a C.I.E.; Mr. H. S. Cunningham, Judge of the High Court of Calcutta; Col. C. Scott Elliot, Madras Staff Corps; Lieut. Col. H. A. Justice, Madras Staff Corps; Mr. William Henry Crowe, Bombay Civil Service; Mr. John Jardine, Bombay Civil Service; Col. F. P. Mignon, Bombay Staff Corps; Surgeon D. H. Cullimore, Madras Medical Department; Mr. Henry Sullivan, Madras Civil Service; Major W. Vertue, Madras Staff Corps; Mr. F. Napier Broome, Colonial Secretary of Mauritius, on being made a C.M.G.; Mr. C. T. Maude, Third Secretary in her Majesty's Diplomatic Service, on appointment to her Majesty's Legation at Pekin; Lieut. Col. Falkland Warren, E.A., on appointment as Chief Secretary to Government, Cyprus; Lieut. Col. J. U. Bateman-Champain, R.E., on promotion, by the Inspector General of Fortifications; Capt. Mark S. Bell, V.C., R.E., on appointment as Assistant Quartermaster General, Intelligence Department in India, by the Adjutant General; Col. Madden, C.B., 51st Light Infantry, on being made a C.B., and return from Afghanistan, by the Adjutant General; Major H. R. Thuillier, R.E., on promotion, by Lieut. Gen. Sir Henry Thuillier, C.S.I., R.A.; Lieut. Reginald Clare Hart, V.C., Royal Engineers, on return from service in India, by Col. Fitz Roy Somerset, R.E.; Lieut. Francis Henry Penny, 101st Royal Bengal Fusiliers, by Lieut. Col. the Hon. George Windsor Clive; Second Lieut. George Campbell, 8th (King's) Regt., by Sir George Campbell, K.C.S.I., M.P.; Rev. Hugh M'Neill Mansfield, M.A., by Sir Joseph Fayrer, K.C.S.I, M.D., F.R.S.

MILITARY OFFICERS IN CIVIL EMPLOY.

REFERRING to the circular memorandum issued by the Military Department to military officers in civil employ, the Pioneer says the notification is likely to cause considerable consternation, and presumes this circular is one of the first fruits of the Simla Army Commission. "Hitherto, contemplated changes have not had retrospective effect, but we now seem to be entering on a new régime, when all vested interests are to be swept away—pledges, promises, and Henley clauses alike disregarded. It is startling to find that commissions borne by her Majesty's officers in the army are to be considered of as little value as the parchment on which they are written. An officer's commission has hitherto been considered safe; not liable to be taken away except by sentence of a general court martial, or the direct personal command of her Majesty, issued on account of disgraceful conduct. Apparently, her Majesty's Government think it disgraceful in its officers to have entered its civil employ, and considers itself justified, without any warning, in changing their position as military officers; in other words, depriving them of their commissions. However deluded officers may have been in accepting civil employ, they had not hitherto considered it disgraceful to do so; and why they should be punished by the loss of their commissions they will doubtless fail to understand. There is as much injustice in making the present circular affect officers who have five years' civil standing as there would be in applying it to those who have been five and twenty years in civil employ. In the latter case, the order would have the merit of effecting some considerable savings; in the former, the saving will be inappreciable; but the bad faith is equally great whether it affects fifty or five hundred persons."

THE BATTLE OF BEMARU.

AT noon word was brought to the 72nd Highlanders that the enemy (the 67th Foot and 92nd Gordon Highlanders) had occupied the strong fort on the eastern end of the Bemaru heights. Without delay the regiment fell in 500 strong, and, reinforced by the 9th Lancers and some artillerymen, marched with banners flying and drums beating to the attack. The banners were those lately captured on the Takht-i-Shah Peak and the Asmai heights, and the drums were various cooking pots. On nearing the enemy's position the attacking force was joined by a detachment of the 5th Goorkhas under their British officers; skirmishers were thrown out, and the bugle sounded the assault. The storming party were headed by the standard bearers, the cry of "Ghazis to the front!" being answered by a rush of these reckless men up the hill-side. They were met by such a terrific fire, the air being darkened by snowballs, that the assault seemed hopeless. A desperate resistance was made, but the bugler with the 72nd succeeded by a ruse in turning the fortunes of the day. They crept round in the enemy's rear, and sounded the regimental call of the 92nd, followed by the "retreat;" the 92nd fell back, and, with a cheer, the attacking party captured the position. Many prisoners were taken, and the usual atrocities were committed—one gallant officer having three men sitting on his chest at once; while others, equally gallant, were buried alive in the snow. The conduct of all concerned fully bore out the estimate formed of the splendid fighting powers of our men, and several "V.C's." are to be awarded. The number of wounded was unusually great, but all are now doing well. The expenditure of ammunition was beyond all precedent, and in this respect the battle of Bemaru is noteworthy above all the actions hitherto fought. The defeat of the enemy was so complete, that they at once sued for peace, which was signed at the club later in the day by the principal leaders. In consequence of the ink being frozen, curacoa and brandy had to be used.—Pioneer.

LOGAR.

IN speaking of "Logar," it should be understood that the whole of the valley of that name is not meant, although a considerable stretch of country is embraced by the term. The Logar river rises in the mass of hills south of the Lughman range, sixty or seventy miles south west of Cabul, and runs from west to east until it crosses the Ghazni road at Sheikabad, twelve miles south of Beni-Badam. A few miles below Sheikabad, at Doaba (the "Two Waters") it is joined by the Shiniz River, which runs nearly due north from the Sher-i-Dana Kotal (9,000 feet high), ten miles from Ghazni. The road from just below Sheikabad to the Kotal is along the Shiniz Valley, which has a total length of thirty miles, and is fairly fertile. From Doaba the Logar, still flowing eastwards, trends slightly to the south and passes through the Wardak country, in which Mahomed Jan is the leading chief. Wardak was always notorious for turbulence, and some of the best soldiers in the Ameer's army were drawn from its villages: it was Shere Ali's favourite recruiting-ground. Fifteen miles east of Doaba the stream turns sharply to the north and takes its course through fertile fields to Zahidabad, and thence through the Sang-i-Nawishta defile. It afterwards enters the Cabul plain between Butkhah and the city, and finally joins the Cabul River seven miles east of Sherpur. The term "Logar" is usually applied to the country watered by the stream between Wardak and the Sang-i-Nawishta. The explanation may, perhaps, be more clearly understood when it is added that Kushi lies twenty-five miles due east of the Tangi Wardak, and it is half way between the two that the Logar stream turns northwards. A road connects Kushi with Wardak and Doaba, and gives an alternative route from Ghazni to Cabul. The usual road is from the Sher-i-Dana Pass, along the Shiniz Valley, through Sheikhabad and Maidan, over the Argandeh Kotal into the Chardeh plain. The alternative route is through the Wardak country from Doaba, and thence along the Logar Valley to Charasiab. There is also a shorter road which leaves the Shiniz Valley twenty miles south of Doaba, avoids Wardak altogether, and enters the Logar Valley at Kila Nawab, seventeen miles west of Kushi. Just where the Logar turns northward the country is covered with valleys, the chief of which are Baruki Rogan, Padkhow Rogan, Padkhow Shana, Baruk Barak, and Sainda, while a few miles to the north are Wazir Kila, Hissarak, Khojani, Wishana, Kolangar, Purak, and Babus. —Pioneer.

INDIAN RAILWAYS.

THE accounts for the gross receipts and expenses of Indian railways for the year 1879, from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, have been published. The guaranteed lines, which showed an increase over 1878 up to Dec. 20 of Rs.24,21,296, closed the year with an increase of Rs.15,17,010 only. The falling off is entirely due to the decadence of traffic on the Great Indian Peninsula line. Thus, the East India main line showed an increase of Rs.28,74,593, with Rs.1,66,958 for the Jubbulpore line. The Sind, Punjab and Delhi contributed Rs.19,45,151; the South India, Rs.41,345, and the Bombay and Baroda, Rs.1,70,301. Against these increases we have to set the following :—

	Receipts less in 1879.
Great Indian Peninsula	Rs.31,19,714
Oudh and Rohilkund...	2,98,823
Eastern Bengal	1,69,141
Madras...	93,640

The falling off on the Great Indian Peninsula is so large as to be accounted for only in one of two ways. Either some staple, such as cotton, has fallen out of trade demand, or it has found new markets. But as the Jubbulpore line does not show a large increase towards the main line, that is towards Calcutta, the conclusion on the figures is that Bombay cotton is in very much less demand. The State railways yielded an excess of receipts in 1879 of Rs.54,05,072, to which result the Indus Valley contributed Rs.25,88,849; the Punjab Northern, Rs.9,11,962; the Rajputana, Rs.6,07,084; the Northern Bengal, Rs.3,46,034; the Dhond-Manmad, Rs.3,32,109; and the Patna-Gya, Rs.2,28,417. Five lines, the Khamgaon, Amraoti, Nizam's, Rangoon, and Sindia, showed a total decrease of receipts of Rs.1,27,518, of which the Nizam's line is responsible for Rs.81,584, and Sindia's line for Rs.257. The increase in the estimated expenditure was Rs.34,94,655, and, after providing for this, the net receipts were better in 1879 by Rs.34,27,427.

THE TRANSPORT DEPARTMENT.

THE following general order was issued on Jan. 22 in acknowledgment of the services of Col. Mark Heathcote in the Transport Department :—"Lieut. Col. Mark Heathcote having handed over the office of Director of Transport, Sir F. Roberts wishes to place on record his sense of the services rendered by that officer. At the request of the Lieut. General, he undertook the arduous duties of the appointment when the Cabul field force was in motion upon Cabul and when the transport organisation was far from being complete. By the exertions of himself and his assistants, reforms have been introduced and improvements made which have enabled the recent operations to be carried on with greater facility, and which promise in course of time to place the Transport Department on a thoroughly efficient footing, and Sir F. Roberts begs to thank Lieut. Col. Heathcote for the assistance he has afforded him."

THE BOMBAY RESERVE DIVISION.

WE believe that the Government of India has approved of the concentration of the Bombay reserve division as originally suggested by the Bombay authorities, but no orders on the subject have yet been issued. According to the proposed arrangement the troops composing the reserve division will be concentrated as follows :—At Jacobabad, three native cavalry regiments; at Sukkur, 3rd Regt. Native Infantry; at Hyderabad, F-2 Royal Artillery, 24th Regt. Native Infantry; at Karachi, D-B Royal Horse Artillery, headquarters 2-11th Regt., 15th Regt., 9th Regt. Native Infantry, 23rd Regt. Native Infantry; at Bombay, Wing 2-11th Regt. All the troops named above have been, or will be, equipped for service, so that if the reserve division has to take the field during the forthcoming campaign it can move forward at once.—Times of India.

AFFAIRS AT MANDALAY.

THE Rangoon correspondent of the Daily News, under date Feb. 13th, writes as follows :—"Negotiations with King Theebau's Ambassadors may possibly be expedited by the sudden return to Rangoon last night of the chief commissioner, owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Aitchison. He is hardly likely to start into the district again, now that the hot weather is so near at hand, or rather has already begun; and, in any case, he would hardly go without letting the Woondouk know that the intentions of our Government are with regard to a new treaty. In Rangoon the feeling is very strong that the Embassy should be called upon to express regret at the discourteous treatment by King Theebau's Government of our Resident, and that till that regret is expressed no approach should be made toward a new treaty. Something should certainly be done to persuade the Burmans of our province that we are not quite at the beck and call of King Theebau. The result cannot but be prejudicial to our authority, if they are left in the firm conviction that we withdrew our Residency from Mandalay because Theebau told us he wanted it to be withdrawn, and, in fact, was determined not to have it there; and now again that we are going to enter upon a new treaty with him because Golden Foot has got that whim into his head, and has called upon us to submit to his sovereign will and pleasure. Meanwhile King Theebau, on the strength of having called upon the British to conclude a new treaty with him, continues to make expeditions out of his palace every few days—a thing which no King of Burma has been known to do before, and which even Theebau would hardly venture to do were he not sure that he has killed or driven away all of the blood-royal, and that there is no one sufficiently prominent in the country to have any chance of turning him out by the old-fashioned coup of seizing the palace while the monarch was away. Even as it is, Theebau would scarcely venture so far were it not that the people now firmly believe in his fairy spear, his charmed slippers, his magic looking-glass, and, above all, in the fact that he has dished the British."

THE BARODA ADMINISTRATION IN 1874.

IN the course of last session Sir J. Eardley-Wilmot moved for a return of "a statement in reply to remarks in the Baroda Blue-books of 1875 concerning Dadabhai Naoroji and his colleagues," by Dadabhai Naoroji, addressed to the Government of Bombay on Nov. 25, 1875, and a copy of which has been forwarded to the Secretary of State for India by the Bombay Government. The return was not granted by the Secretary of State for India, and the statement has now been published on his own account by Dadabhai. We have received a copy, and record the fact of its publication. Annexed to it are several letters from Sir H. Bartle Frere, which we presume were not in the original copy as proposed to be laid before Parliament. The controversy treated of in the pamphlet is mainly personal, and might have been considered closed. A conscientious perusal of its pages compels us to wonder whether the honourable member who moved for the return had preceded us in that task.

MADRAS FINANCES.

THE Madras Administration Report for 1878-79 says that the finances of the Presidency, which were considerably affected by the famine in 1876-77 and 1877-78, materially improved in 1878-79, so much so that the revenue was slightly in excess of that of an ordinary year like 1875-6. The gross revenue from all sources, including the transactions of provincial and local (that is, the unfettered, fettered, and excluded), funds, and of the military, public works, postal and telegraph departments, but excluding the adjusting credits on account of provincial and local deficits, amounted in the four years from 1875 to 1878 to Rs.948,28,000 in 1875-6, Rs.791,61,000 in 1876-77, Rs.798,75,000 in 1877-78, and Rs.1,026,81,000 in 1878-79, and the charges, excluding the adjusting debit on account of provincial and local surplus, to Rs.722,84,000 in 1875-76, Rs.898,56,000 in 1876-77, Rs.1,144,49,000 in 1877-78, and Rs.780,83,000 in 1878-79. It will thus be seen that the excess of revenue over expenditure was Rs.20,54,000 more in 1878-79, than in 1875-76 and Rs.352,93,000 and Rs.591,72,000 more in the present year, than in 1876-77, and 1877-78 respectively. The excess of receipts over expenditure in 1878 was Rs.246,000 lakhs, augmented by Rs.116¾ lakhs, if we exclude military charges borne by the treasuries of other Governments. And when to that surplus were added 34 lakhs from railways and 20¼ lakhs from other sources, the result was that Government had at their disposal 417 lakhs, which enabled them to lend 35½ lakhs to Mysore and other States, and to pay 36 lakhs for interest on Government securities and miscellaneous payments on account of other Governments. Besides all of which, 30 lakhs were devoted to refunds of deposits and other miscellaneous disbursements, under debt account, and 338¼ lakhs were remitted to other Governments, making a total of 493¾ lakhs. The excess in disbursements of 22¾ lakhs over the receipts was met from the cash balances, which were reduced from 243¾ lakhs at the beginning of the year to 221 toward its close. During the previous year, on the contrary, other Governments had remitted 245 lakhs to that of Madras for the relief of the pressure to which it was then subjected. The land revenue collections showed a considerable increase, having amounted to Rs.494,90,473, in 1878 79, against Rs.454,50,128, Rs.329,65,750, and Rs. 349,48,839, realised from 1875-76 to 1877-78 respectively. To make the state of the case quite clear, we add the following particulars. The excess of revenue over expenditure was Rs.20,54,000 more in 1878-79 than it had been in 1875-76; Rs.352,93,000 more in 1878-79 than in 1876-77; and Rs.591,72,000 more in 1878-79 than in 1877-78. The increase in 1878-79, compared with 1875-76, is Rs.40,40,345, or 8·9 per cent.; while the result in 1877-78, compared with the year last mentioned, was a decrease of Rs.105,01,289, or 23 per cent. The increase in 1878-79, compared with 1877-78, is nearly 42 per cent., and it is noted that the absence of expenses incidental to the famine in 1878-79 diminished the charges connected with land revenue by Rs.1,68,182, compared with those for 1877-78.—Madras Athenæum.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

MR. CONYBEARE'S DUDHI TAPPAS.*

WE flatter ourselves that neither Opoponax amongst perfumes, nor Rothomago amongst dramatic efforts, is quite so calculated to perplex and astonish as the title of the treatise under immediate notice. Art being long, and life comparatively short, we are certainly not going to undertake to initiate the general reader into the full mystic signification of this cabalistic term. Enough explanation will be afforded if we state that in a certain wild and hilly tract of the district of Mirzapur, in the North West Provinces, India, local custom has permitted the Government to try the experiment of dispensing with any zemindaree settlement, and contracting directly with the cultivators for a short term of years. This state of things is interesting to those who have made any scientific study of Indian revenue systems, because in a great measure it represents the introduction of ryotwaree into a part of the country where it is an exotic. We need not remind those who care for such points that many experts, including, we believe, Sir Henry Maine, look upon ryotwaree as a possible solution of an increasingly difficult problem.

We, however, naturally have no wish to dwell on the uninviting side of the subject, but simply draw attention to Mr. Conybeare's report, to show how the daily task in India is calculated to call forth the powers and the knowledge of a well-educated young man, which might for years lie unemployed in a London profession. If a particular tract comes temporarily into notice, it is not thought at all out of the way to expect some junior official to give a clear physical account of it, to trace its history as far as may be, to describe all the tribes, to explain their patois, their customs, their superstitions, to go carefully through both flora and fauna, to examine agricultural conditions and results, to report on trade and manufactures; then to enter minutely and exhaustively into the particular revenue question raised by the accidental condition of the locality, and to wind up with the proposed establishment of a land bank. We were greatly amused with the effect of this last project on the Board of Revenue. The senior member thought it "rather beyond the scope of a settlement report," but the opinions of the commissioner and collector might be asked. That is the old story. First, if possible, get a new question out of the department into somebody else's department, or, if that won't do, quash it, by making it the subject of endless correspondence. There is no sort of doubt that the peasantry of the North West might have been saved years ago from the deadly clutches of the moneylender by some such establishments as land banks, prepared, in bad seasons, to lend that aid at moderate interest which capital supplies in other agricultural countries. But such propositions are shelved in India because they do not fall exactly into any existing department. Mr. Conybeare comes of a family distinguished for scientific and general attainments, and we are sure, from the marked ability of his report, that we shall soon hear of him again.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—The able leader in your last issue on the impending annihilation of the old Indian Medical Service opens up a question of vital importance to the officers of the Civil Service and Staff Corps. The medical officers are not, I consider, so much interested, as the seniors, who are covered by parliamentary guarantee, must be adequately compensated for retarded promotion and loss of privileges, and, the longer reparation is delayed, the larger form it will take, as in the case of the officers who elected to remain on the cadres of their regiments when the Staff Corps was formed. Had any reasonable compensation been offered in 1864 to the 150 or so subalterns of this class they would have gladly accepted it and relieved Government of all its subsequent difficulties concerning them. Instead of this being done their claim to any redress was resisted until a Royal Commission awarded them more than they could have ever dreamt of, and the Indian Government found itself saddled with some 150 boy lieutenant colonels of from eleven to fourteen years' service, for whom no possible employment could be found, and the majority of whom have since been "kicking their heels" about the several large stations in India, and a few accepted the compromise offered to them of £1 a day to reside in Europe unemployed until qualified to receive their off reckonings of £1,200 a year.

As I have said, the medical officers concerned can look after their own interests. What I wish now to call attention to is, how very seriously the recent changes are likely to affect the married officers of the Staff Corps and Civil Service. Hitherto there has been no difficulty in obtaining any number of the best qualified candidates for the Indian medical service, and at the very last examination forty-four competed for twenty-three appointments, and all of very superior professional attainments; so much so, that only two of the successful candidates (first and second) for the Army Medical Department, with all its recent attractions and advantages, would have been placed for the Indian service, but the degradation of the service was not then known. It is now partially known in London, and twelve young surgeons, most of them the best students of their respective hospitals, who were reading for the next examination, have abandoned the idea and elected other careers. Within the next week G.G.O. No. 13 of 1880 will be published with very full explanatory remarks to the students of Edinburgh, Dublin, and the Queen's Colleges, and I have no hesitation in predicting that not a single young surgeon whose services are worth having will appear at the examination advertised to be held in August next. There will, however, be a sufficient number of candidates for all the vacancies, as there are now in this city fifteen Parsees, Bengalese, Armenians, and Eurasians preparing for it, and it is believed a few more of the same races in Edinburgh. The personnel of the Indian medical service will consequently be in future Asiatics, or men of mixed race, educated in the Indian medical colleges. How this will work we have had some means of judging, as since 1855 the service has been open to natives of India, but in consequence of the rigour of the competitive examinations very few succeeded in obtaining commissions, altogether not more than 3 per cent. of the entire strength, and to find suitable employment for even this small number has since proved one of the greatest difficulties in the administration of the medical department of the several presidencies. Belonging, as they all do, to the non-military races, and regarded with the utmost contempt by Sikhs, Goorkhas, Pathans, and Rajputs alike, they have utterly failed in the discharge of regimental duties, and if sent to a civil station their appointment is considered a serious grievance and pecuniary loss by the civilians of the district. Unsupported statements are worthless, so I will give one instance that came under my own personal observation. I believe every Indian officer now in Europe can adduce similar cases. In 1874, during the absence of the surgeon of the corps, a Bengalee held medical charge of the 42nd Bengal N.I. for about four months, and during this short period the mortality among the men was greater than ordinarily occurred in as many years. The sepoys (Sikhs and Goorkhas) resolutely declined reporting themselves sick, and did not go to hospital until their cases were hopeless, or nearly so. Two of the European officers who required obstetric attendance on their wives during the time he was with the regiment elected to employ, at their own expense, the English civil surgeon of the adjoining station, and the fees they were called upon to pay him were a very serious drag on their limited allowances, and crippled their finances for many months afterwards. The regiment was then ordered to the Dufla expedition, and, as it would have been courting disaster to send a Bengalee on field service, the deputy surgeon general of the circle procured his transfer to a small civil station in Lower Bengal. In his new position he was, however, not more successful, as the civilians of the district, having, in common with all Europeans in India, an insurmountable prejudice against their families being attended by a native, applied in a body for his removal, or for their own transfer to a district with a European doctor. The native surgeon referred to was a highly educated, well-informed man, and a good specimen of his class. He is now dead, or I would not have named the regiment or other circumstances that could lead to his identification. Whatever outlet before existed for native surgeons in military employ, there will assuredly be none in future with a British surgeon general in sole control of the department, and, as they will soon form a majority of the junior surgeons, they must be provided for somewhere, and it is therefore not unreasonable to calculate that within five years from this date every civil surgeoncy in India (excepting presidency towns and headquarters of commissioners) will be held by natives. Under these altered circumstances civil servants now at home who contemplate matrimony are strongly recommended to take Mr. Punch's advice, and those who are married will do well to retrench expenditure, as they will have to provide in their future domestic budget estimates for the cost of sending their better halves to a presidency town whenever an interesting event is expected.—Yours faithfully,

TERNSTROM.

London, March 11, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—Referring to your article of the 4th instant on the subject of the amalgamation of the Indian Medical Service with the Army Medical Department, allow me to say that I had hitherto imagined that officers of the H.E.I.C.S. who were handed over to the Queen were protected by the Henley clause of the last India Act against the supersession to which you call attention, and I agree with you that they are entitled to ample compensation such as you suggest. There is, however, another aspect of the present crisis to which I should like to call the attention of your medical readers now in the service, and to indicate the greatness of the grievance, that, just at the very time of the reduction of the number of administrative medical officers, the Government of India has sanctioned the appointment of Dr. Payne to be surgeon of Bengal, although he had for private reasons refused promotion years ago, and was, therefore, not again eligible for promotion. It is also said that another job of the same kind is imminent, viz., the appointment of Dr. J. M. Cuningham, who has also previously refused promotion, to be civil sugeon general, or medical adviser of the Government of India in reference to civil matters. He is so now, but does not hold rank in the Medical Department, nor is he entitled to extra pension, but if he is to take rank as well as place now occupied by Dr. Beatson in regard to civil medical administration, his juniors in the service ought to call out lustily, and an endeavour should also be made to obtain some guarantee that civil medical administrative appointments shall be given on the same principles as those in the Military Department. Few medical officers in Bengal doubt that Sir A. Eden appointed Dr. Payne to be surgeon general in Bengal in order to provide for a friend to whom he was under peculiar obligations. The "public interests," no doubt, were said to demand the appointment, but none believed that the officer entitled to the step could not have done the work as well as he. In all future cases it will be equally easy to bring forward the "public interests" when a job is to be perpetrated.—Your faithfully,

THE NATIONAL INDIAN ASSOCIATION.

THE ninth annual report of this useful society is now before us. Characterised by a steady adherence to the principles of non-interference in religion, their efforts to advance educational and social progress in India, and to promote increased sympathy and union between the people of England and India, have been multiplied rather than relaxed during the past year. The support given to them might well be increased. As Lord Sandon remarked of international lighthouses, these things are a question of money. The association has inaugurated a scheme for benefiting the young Indian students who visit England, and, it may be said, for lighting and buoying the shoals and dangers on which, without some such precaution, they might be wrecked. In this effort the committee deserve all encouragement and aid. Yet we find that their balance-sheet only presents as received the very modest sum of £415, of which £215 are derived from subscriptions. The expenditure is certainly small, being only £258. Besides this, during the year £63 has been usefully expended on scholarships for girls' schools in Bombay, Bengal, and Madras, the latter being provided by a special fund from Clifton. The directors of public instruction consider that these scholarships have had a decidedly advantageous effect, and the committee is justified by their approval in hoping that "members of the association will generously come forward to renew the scholarship fund, which much requires additional support if grants are to be continued." The Calcutta branch had been the most active, especially in its efforts to promote unsectarian Zenana teaching. An interesting item in the report is that H.H. the Princess of Tanjore, C.I., has offered to endow a girl's scholarship in the Madras Presidency in memory of the late president of the association, H.R.H. the Princess Alice of Hesse.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE TRADE OF CALCUTTA, 1878-79.

THE trade of Calcutta during the past official year—which, by the way, in spite of the general commercial depression, compare very favourably as regards value, and favourably even as regards qualities, with that of either 1876-77, or 1877-78, presents some noteworthy features. One of these is the tendency of cheap salt from the Punjab mines and the Sambhar Lake to displace the produce of Liverpool, not only in the North Western Provinces and Oudh, but also in Behar. Thus, while the imports of Liverpool salt into the North Western Provinces and Oudh amounted to only 1,83,000 maunds, as compared with 6,33,000 maunds in the previous year, and the imports into Behar fell from 30,87,000 to 22,55,000 maunds, the quantity of Sambhar Lake salt consigned to the North Western Provinces and Oudh was 13,43,000 as compared with 6,29,000 maunds. Another circumstance that deserves to be marked is the preference shown for boats over the railway for the carriage of jute. Thus the quantity of this staple brought down by the Eastern Bengal Railway fell from 39,37,661 to 30,07,813 maunds, while there was an increase of more than ten lakhs of maunds in the quantity carried by native boats, and of nearly a lakh and half of maunds in that carried by steamers. The compiler of the official report from which we take these particular remarks that this is the more surprising as the opening of the Northern Bengal State Railway justified a contrary expectation. The fact, we suspect, is that the choice of carriage depends a great deal on the state of the Calcutta market. If prices are steady, or rising, the cheap native boat is preferred, while, if the delay involves risk of a fall, recourse is had to the more expensive but speedier means of transport. Very general surprise has been created by the comparatively slight effect which the good harvest of the year had in reducing the high prices of rice prevailing; and those who regard prices as dependent on the caprice of traders, rather than on natural causes, will, no doubt, have found in the circumstance a strong confirmation of their views. The question is discussed from a more rational point of view in the report before us. "The first step towards a true solution," says the writer, "lies in an appreciation of the enormous quantity of rice which is produced and consumed in the country as compared with what is exported, and, therefore, the vast amounts which may be absorbed in stocks before rice can become really plentiful and a serious fall occur in prices. The total population of Bengal is, in round numbers, 60,000,000, and, after making every allowance for the portions of the population who do not live almost exclusively on rice, the total consumption of this article of food in an average year, including waste, loss, consumption by animals, and seed rice, probably exceeds rather than falls short of 40,00,00,000 maunds of husked rice. In Calcutta it has been ascertained that the stocks held at any given time are generally equal to about six months' consumption. A large portion of this is of course intended for export; but, on the other hand, what is intended for local consumption is imported into Calcutta for sale at a very early date after harvest, while in the mofussil large stocks are held with no intention whatsoever of early sale. The surplus stock may be considered, primarily, as that held by mahajans for sale; secondarily, as that held by cultivators for their own consumption; and from the universal preference for old rice this would ordinarily amount to a very large supply. Both these sources would, to some extent, be drawn on and depleted by the Madras famine, but it is the first source that would be primarily exhausted, and even though the requirements of the Madras famine would make but a small impression on the total surplus it might well so deplete the more sensitive portion of the surplus as to require more than one year of good crops before the normal amount in mahajans' hands is made good, and, consequently, before a marked fall in price would set in." True as they no doubt are, the above remarks, perhaps, do not contain the whole truth of the matter. Not only have stocks been depleted by the Madras famine, but the money which the high prices caused by it have put into the hands of the dealers, has increased their power of holding surplus stocks, which the frequent recurrence, during late years, of periods of scarcity has, no doubt, led them to regard as a good investment. Under the auspices of Messrs. Mylne and Thompson of Beheea, the rapid adoption of whose mills throughout the country we noticed some time since in these columns, a very bright future seems to be opening up for the Indian sugar trade. Hitherto the demand for Indian sugar at home has depended almost entirely on prices in Europe, simply because the quality of Indian sugar is considered so inferior that it is called for only when prices are abnormally high. There is no reason, however, why India should not produce as good sugar as any other country, and there is good ground for hoping that the improvement commenced will go on till that desideratum is attained. A feature in the year's trade more remarkable, perhaps, than any we have yet noticed, is the large excess of the exports of piece goods from Calcutta to the moffusil over the imports by sea, the former being valued at Rs.13,63,47,000 and the latter at only Rs.8,17,57,000. About 25 per cent. of the excess represents difference of price, but this leaves a large margin of excess in actual quantity, which must have come out of the surplus stocks accumulated during the previous two years, and have considerably depleted them. The registered exports from Calcutta into the interior show a steady increase during the past three years, having risen from Rs.11,55,39,000 in 1876-77 to Rs.12,23,06,000 in 1877-78, and Rs.13,63,47,000 in 1878-79, and, as regards the last of the years, it is noteworthy that there was a simultaneous increase of some forty-five lakhs in the consignments from Bombay to the North Western Provinces. —Englishman.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

THE JUTE COMPANIES.—The condition of the jute industry is by no means improving. While the price of the raw material is rapidly rising to exorbitant rates, the manufactured goods turned out by the Bengal mills are decreasing in value. In illustration of this general statement we give a synopsis of the working of two or three mills for the past six months. Fort Gloster—The revenue accounts show a loss of Rs.56,351, and when we add to this profit and loss charges, such as directors' fees, insurance, interest, law charges, &c., amounting to Rs.38,020, also bad debts Rs.13,190, we reach a grand total loss for the past six months of Rs.1,07,561. The directors treat as an asset a debt of Rs.33,360, due by Messrs. R. Macallister and Co. Oriental—Last six months show a manufacturing loss of Rs.81,022; with previous losses, this swells the debit balance at profit and loss account up to Rs.221,182. Seebpore shows a debit balance of Rs.1,095. Balliaghatta gives a debit balance of Rs.23,770. None of these mills have made any allowance for depreciation, a due regard to which would have made the debit balances considerably larger.—Statesman.

THE BHOOTAN SUBSIDY.—A correspondent writes :—"At Buxa the great event of late has been the Durbar to hand over the annual subsidy of Rs.50,000 to the Bhootan Government. This was done early in January by Mr. Forbes, Deputy Commissioner of Julpigori, to the Teeng-pen sent down to receive it. Last year only a Ta-pen ('master of the horse') was sent, and, on the Deputy Commissioner objecting to so inferior an official, the Deb Rajah consented, reluctantly, to send one of higher rank, according to the terms of the treaty. The Tsingor Zing-pen is the governor of a division. The reluctance to send such an official arose, it is said, from an unwillingness to inflict so large a following, as he considers necessary, on our hospitality, but more probably from a fear lest he should find a difficulty in reinstating himself on his return to his charge. Anyhow he and his 200 followers show no signs of any hurry to go back, and as they are fed at British expense during their stay, besides getting several cases of spirits for the greater swells to regale on, it seems very likely that they will spin out their visit till they have a broad hint to go."—Statesman.

INDIAN PAPER MANUFACTURE.—So very little has been done in Upper India in the way of introducing European industries that the launching of the Upper India Paper Mills Company is almost an event in the history of that part of the country. This company has been organised by the well-known Munshi Newal Kishor, the editor and proprietor of the Oudh Akhbar, and the whole of the necessary capital, six lakhs of rupees, has been subscribed. The first meeting of shareholders was held at Lucknow on Jan. 31, and steps have been taken with a view to obtaining from England mills of such power as will be able to turn out thirty tons of paper per week. Not only will the manufacturers of that coarse quality of paper so largely used in the North West find a powerful competitor, but the manufacture of a superior description of paper is, we believe, also intended by the company. The project is decidedly deserving of success.—Englishman.

OPIUM SALES.—The opium returns show that the last sale of Bengal opium produced Rs.11,04,625 more than the estimate, and that the pass duty for the tenth month at Bombay was better than the estimate by Rs.22,66,250, so that the increase over the estimates for the month stands at Rs.34,70,875, a most satisfactory outcome.

PETROLEUM AT AKYAB.—News has been received at Rangoon by telegram from Akyab that Messrs. Gillam and Co. have been successful in striking oil in the Buroogas. They had carried their borings down 275 feet when they came upon a large reservoir. The extent of the yield is not mentioned, but it is believed to be considerable. Hitherto the company have been able to get a daily supply of between 170 and 180 gallons of oil, not thick like the ordinary crude mud oil, but much more liquid, and of the appearance of dark brown sherry.—Bombay Gazette.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At the general meeting of the Ballighatta Company, held Feb. 7, the report and accounts were passed.—At the general meeting of the Fort Gloster Jute Manufacturing Company, held Feb. 9, the report and accounts were passed.—Englishman.

NEW LIGHT AT FALSE POINT.—On the evening of the 1st Feb. the new first-class light at False Point, which has been in course of erection for the last three months, was exhibited for the first time. The port officer of Calcutta proceeded in the I.G. steamer Undaunted to superintend the arrangements and to inspect the light apparatus after completion. On the evening of the 1st the distance at which the light was visible seaward was practically determined to be twenty miles from a height of twenty feet (or eighteen miles from a ship's deck). The light was visible most distinctly until it disappeared below the horizon owing to the curvature of the earth. This light is a fixed one of the first order, with the arrangement of dioptric lenses and reflecting prisms, called "holophotal," by Stevenson. It is visible over an arc of 200 degrees, from a bearing of S.S.W. to N.E. ¼ N., the light towards the land being intercepted and reflected seaward through a set of dioptric mirrors, consisting of curved class prisms. There are six concentric wicks, of which three only are generally required, the whole being only used in fogs. The light will be of the greatest value to vessels making the port, especially in the south west monsoon.—Englishman.

THE MAHARAJA of Durbhanga has accepted a seat in the Bengal Legislative Council, in succession to the Honourable Babu Mohiny Hohun Roy, whose term of office will expire on the 16th inst.

DACOITIES.—The Agra paper hears that the Ikran station on the Rajputana Railway was plundered on Tuesday night by dacoits who made free with the station people even to the extent of ill-treating their families.—Times of India.

THE NAGA HILLS.—The latest intelligence from the Naga Hills is given in a telegram received by the Englishman, which says that on the 9th a party was sent out from the Konoma to the southwards, up the Barrail Range, to intercept the supplies which the Nagas obtain from the Poplongmai direction. The enemy soon discerned the movement, and poured out in much superior numbers. A brisk skirmishing was kept up during the forenoon. Another party of the 44th was sent against a Sangah to the eastwards, which was soon captured, and the Nagas driven back to their position in Barrail. Our casualities were five in all: two killed, three wounded, all belonging to the 44th Regiment. These active measures, it is added, prevent the Konoma Nagas raiding in Kachar or elsewere.—Ibid

TERRIFIC GALE.—At two a.m. on the 19th ult. a gale of a terrific nature passed over the village of Goyeshpur, in the subdivision of Magurah, in the Jessore District. From the details we have received it would appear that the wind rose to nearly cyclone pitch, blowing from the S.W. The gale only lasted for five or six minutes, during which it completely destroyed the black dhal and mustard crops of Goyeshpur and the surrounding villages. A great many huts were entirely blown away, and nearly 200 boats were sunk between Alfapur and Sreepur. The lives of two men only have, so far as at present ascertained, been lost, and these were drowned in the river Kumar. It is further reported that hailstones fell of such an extraordinary size as occupied from ten to twelve hours to melt.—Englishman.

THE KURAM VALLEY.—The troops in the valley with their stations on Feb. 12 were as follows :—The 8th Foot are at the Peiwar Kotal, with two screw guns. There is so much snow there, that snow-balling and toboggening are the only out-door amusements. The men of the 8th are reported very fit. The 21st Punjab Native Infantry are at Habeeb Kheyl, and the 29th Punjab Native Infantry, with two guns, at Shalozan. At Kuram are stationed the 13th Native Infantry, 13th Bengal Lancers, and two field guns. From Kuram to Thull the posts are held by the 11th Native Infantry, with headquarters at Balesh Kheyl, and the 20th Punjab Infantry, with headquarters at Chuprek. At Thull we have the 85th Foot, 5th Native Infantry, and 18th Bengal Cavalry, with headquarters and two guns, 1-8th Royal Artillery.—Pioneer.

THE CHOLERA OUTBREAK AT HURDWAR.—All went well till the 24th of March, when a fatal case of cholera occurred; but still seeing that up to the 8th of April only one other fatal case was discovered, the local authorities—commissioner, magistrate, and civil surgeon (with the sanitary commissioner to advise) did not consider it advisable to suggest a summary stoppage of the fair. It was not, in fact, till within 36 hours of the great bathing day, on the 10th April, that a serious outbreak occurred. On that day it was found that cholera had broken out among the hill-men of Kumaun, who were encamped at Chandi, on the Bijnor side of the Ganges. Among them 62 fatal cases are known to have occurred within the three days following, and this does not probably represent anything like the full mortality. The Chandi camp was immediately broken up, and the pilgrims dispersed to their homes without crossing the river. In a separate resolution the main facts connected with the outbreak of cholera among the hill-men have been fully set forth; it is unnecessary to add to what is there said on the subject. Suffice it to say that the crowd was unable to shake off the fatal disease to which many succumbed in their homeward journey. Meanwhile, at Hurdwar and its neighbourhood, prompt steps were taken to alleviate the outbreak by every means available. From the 24th of March to the 30th of April, by which date cholera had virtually disappeared from Hurdwar, there were 228 admissions to hospital and 161 fatal cases. But these figures do not represent the actual mortality. The police returns show 227 deaths; and it is to be feared that many died of whom no account was kept. By the morning of the 13th the vast crowds had dispersed to their homes, and Hurdwar was left to itself. Under the commissioner's orders arrangements had been made to cope with the expected outbreak of the disease at various camping grounds along the chief lines of march. Native doctors (and vaccinators where doctors were not available) were sent to these centres, with a liberal supply of the usual appliances; cleanliness was insisted on; the police were warned; and everything was done that care and foresight could suggest. Prior to dispersing the assemblage, the magistrates of neighbouring districts and the military authorities had been made aware of the outbreak; and measures had been taken to prevent the returning pilgrims from entering large cities or going near cantonments. This timely warning would appear to have been most beneficial; for among outsiders (i.e., non-pilgrims) the deaths were comparatively few, while not a single case occurred in any of the cantonments. It was not to be expected that these vast crowds, bearing with them the seeds of cholera, would be able to rejoin their homes without leaving many of their number dead on the way, and spreading the disease among those by whose homes they passed. It is impossible to say what numbers succumbed, of both these classes (pilgrims and non-pilgrims), to the disease; of this no reliable estimate can be formed. But efforts were made to collect statistics on the subject along some of the great routes (omitting the sub-montane route along Garhwal by which the hill pilgrims returned); and the commissioner's letter gives a partial résume of the results. At Dehra, Rajpur, Mussooree, Bijnor, Saharanpur, Roorkee, Muzaffarnagar, Meerut, Meerut (rural), there were at least 2,605 admissions to hospital and 1,839 deaths. Excluding Muzaffarnagar, of which the details of pilgrims and non-pilgrims were not given (and where the number of admissions is identical with the number of deaths, 345, a curious fact which should be explained), there were recorded in these places 1,529 admissions of pilgrims and 723 admissions of outsiders. The details of deaths in the two classes are not given; but the results of such data as are available would seem to point to an average deathrate on admissions of 77 per cent. among pilgrims and 55 per cent. among non-pilgrims. Naturally, as the crowds dispersed, the virulence decreased: all traces of it were lost after the Meerut western border was passed, and no cases were known to have occurred in Bulandshahr. Many pilgrims returned home by rail; and these would appear, after getting to Saharanpur, to have entirely escaped attack.—Government Report.

NORTH WEST PROVINCES.—The crop and weather report of the North West Provinces and Oudh states that slight rain has fallen everywhere except in Meerut, which has been of great benefit to the crops. The prospects are said to be fair, and the public health good. Cattle disease has appeared in Agra.—Bombay Gazette.

THE PUNJAB.—The health statistics of the Punjab for the week ended the 10th January have been published. There was a very marked improvement on the returns for the preceding week. The death total was more than two thousand less, the fever and small-pox cases showing each a very considerable decrease. The districts of Rawul Pindi, Gurgaon, Rohtak, and Delhi showed the largest diminution of fever cases. The Shahpur, Hoshiarpur, and Dera Ismail Khan districts were the chief sufferers from small-pox. Not a single death was registered from cholera.

THE BENGAL CAVALRY.—General Roberts issued a complimentary order for Feb. 19 regarding the services of the 12th Bengal Cavalry, 5th Punjab Cavalry, and 14th Bengal Lancers while under his command, as they are about to return to India.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—On Feb. 28 the disengaged tonnage in port stood at 41,645 tons. For London, via Canal, the market closed with upward tendency at—Rice, £2 5s. to £2 7s. 6d.; jute, £3; cotton, £3 7s. 6d.; hides, £3 5s. Via Cape: Saltpetre, £1 12s. 6d.; rice, £1 13s. 9d. to £1 15s.; jute, £1 15s.; cotton, £1 17s. 6d.; rape, £1 15s. Liverpool, via Canal: Unchanged. Via Cape: £1 10s. to £1 15s. for rice, jute, &c.; £1 15s. to £2 for gunnies, oils, &c.—Englishman.

RICE.—The Bengal Government estimate the stocks of rice in and around Calcutta during the first week in February at 18,08,961 maunds, of which 7½ lakhs were available for export. —Englishman.

MADRAS.

EMIGRATION TO MAURITIUS.—Among the many annual reports which have reached us during the last six weeks that of the protector of emigrants for the Island of Mauritius is not the least interesting. The island contains a total Indian population of 140,000, besides Creole Indians, or, as the protector calls them, Indo-Mauritians. 4,800 emigrants went from India to the Mauritius during 1878, of whom more than half went from Madras. The famine made recruitment easier than usual in Madras; nevertheless, the South Indian emigrants do not seem to have been weakened by want, as the inmates of Madras gaols were during 1877-78, for only two per mille of the Madras emigrants died on the voyage, as against eight per mille among Calcutta immigrants. The proportion of women among immigrants and among the Indian population of the colony is gradually rising. Life must be very healthy and easy for Indian coolies in the Mauritius, for the death-rate among them is only twenty-six per mille, or somewhat lower than among the general population of the island; among labourers and their families on sugar estates the death-rate is even more favourable, being only twenty-three per mille. 67,000 immigrants, besides thousands of Creoles, are employed on sugar plantations, where they earn an average wage of Rs.7-5 a month. The wages paid to labourers on sugar estates amount to eight lakhs of rupees a year. During 1878 the number of emigrants returning to India were 2,008, of whom all but 246 paid their own way home, the cost of passage being about Rs.25. These people took with them three lakhs of rupees in declared money savings, besides what they may have taken in the shape of ornaments or without declaration. Complaints by coolies for non-payment of wages have gone down from 4,713 in 1876 to 471 in 1878; the number of Indians convicted of heinous crimes has fallen 20 per cent.; and of petty offences 10 per cent.; and the number of vagrant paupers is 1,882 in the year 1876 to against 539 in 1878. The number of suicides among Indian immigrants continues to be strangely large, forty-nine in 1878, the same figure as for 1875, whereas among the general population of the island there were only three suicides. Indian women must have happy times then in Mauritius, for out of the forty-nine suicides only five were women; whereas Dr. Macleod's interesting lecture on Indian suicides last year showed that in this country suicides were far more frequent among women than among men. The deposits belonging to Indians in the Government savings banks of the island now amount to 13½ lakhs, having increased this year by Rs.1,14,000. Out of the emigrants of 1878 as many as 275 were persons who had previously emigrated to the Mauritius and returned thither after revisiting their homes in India. On the whole, it would seem that Indian immigrants in the Mauritius are well off, and their condition is still improving. The protector may well say that the facts given in his report are "proof of the increased prosperity in the Indian immigration of the colony."—Pioneer.

BELLARY-HOSPETT RAILWAY.—We are informed that the directors of the Madras Railway have urged upon the agent the advisability of Government sanctioning the raising of funds for the construction of this portion of the railway, as they consider that it will be a very remunerative undertaking, seeing that a great portion of the earthwork has already been finished by famine labour, and but little remains to make it fit for "metals." This subject has been frequently forced upon the notice of Government by the Chamber of Commerce, who are of opinion that the line will foster the cotton traffic.—Madras Times.

DEATH OF BRIGADIER GENERAL JEBB.—Our Madras correspondent telegraphs that Brigadier General Jebb, formerly of the 67th Regiment, and Adjutant General of the Madras Army, died on Feb. 19 of Bright's disease, after only a month's illness. The late general, who, we believe, was about to visit England for the benefit of his health, joined the army in 1854, and served with the 23rd Fusiliers in the Crimea, including the siege and fall of Sebastapol, for which he received the British medal with clasp and the Turkish medal. He commanded a detachment of the 67th Regiment, which marched in the early part of 1862 from Sientsin to Niu-Chuang, 350 miles, for the protection of the British community at that port, when closed by ice, from the depredations of the Ma-tardzer robbers. General Jebb was appointed Adjutant General of the Madras Army in August, 1877.—Times of India.

FATE OF CHENDRIAH.—Telegrams from Rajahmundry state that Chendriah has been beheaded, and that his head has been brought to Chodaveram by his own followers. Four hundred men under a new leader have risen in Yerran-gudiem-taluq. A police force under Inspector Millet has been sent to quell the disturbance. The Madras Mail says:—We trust that we shall not bring down the wrath of "atrocity" agitators on our heads if we say the news that comes from Rumpa is good news, on which we may congratulate the troops and police who have been engaged in the wretched campaign against the Rumpa rebels. As we have ourselves received two separate telegrams bringing the news of Chendriah's death, and have been favoured with a view of a third conveying the same intelligence, we imagine there can be no doubt about the fate of the rebel leader. If it be true that his followers, tempted by the reward, have killed their leader, it is safe to conclude that Chendriah's cause is considered hopeless, and that the rebels now intend to give in. It is surprising, indeed, that they should have held out so long, seeing how completely they have been hemmed in by the military and police for many months past. In the opinion of experienced police officers, the best thing the Government could have done at the first was to have offered such a large pecuniary reward for the delivery of the rebel leaders that their lukewarm followers, or the villagers in the district, would have been tempted to give them up at once. A few thousand rupees spent in this way would probably have saved the heavy expenditure subsequently incurred in sending regiments to Rumpa. Sickness alone has caused a loss in the strength of the regiments employed in the district, which can hardly be estimated in rupees. Some of the troops will no doubt soon be returning to Madras, but we imagine that a garrison will for the future be kept at Samulcotta.—Times of India.

VOLUNTEERING.—The Government of Madras have sanctioned the formation of the "Wynaad Mounted Volunteer Rifles," which will have its headquarters at Vythery, and be attached to the Nilgherry Volunteer Rifles. As the laudable attempt of General Warre to make the Bombay Volunteer Rifles a sort of artillery corps as well as an infantry corps failed, perhaps a spurt might be given to the volunteer movement in Bombay if the example of the southerners were followed here.—Times of India.

BOMBAY.

PROGRESS OF KARACHI.—Karachi is progressing. The construction of the Keamari pier, Karachi harbour, is to be carried out on the plan recommended long ago by Mr. W. H. Price, who has rendered such great and lasting services to that rising seaport. The new pier will afford room for two or three large steamers to load and unload, and ready access to the S.P. and D. Railway Company's wagons. The Lahore paper is very sanguine of the future of the Sind port. It writes:—"Most probably the Home Government itself will very soon become alive to the importance of Karachi as the sea terminus of the quickest route for troops and stores required in the Punjab and beyond the frontier. As for general traffic, we hear that the Anchor Line is about to start a monthly steamer to Karachi direct. Another company is spoken of as likely to run a second. It is not unlikely that the British India Company may soon think it safe to resume its fortnightly sailings. Thus with four steamers a month the Karachi mail question would be in a fair way to settle itself."—Bombay Gazette.

SHORT-STAPLED COTTON.—Members of the cotton trade in Bombay have become alarmed at the increasing cultivation of Kandeish cotton in the Berars, to which we called attention some time ago, and the consequent growth of a practice of mixing it with Oomrawuttee long-staple cotton shipped to England; and a special meeting of the Cotton Trade Association was held recently with a view to putting a stop to the practice. With this object the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—"That, under contracts of cotton made for forward delivery, fair staple of the description must be tendered, and if, in the opinion of the arbitrators, or of the committee on appeal, the cotton is not of fair staple, the lot may be rejected."—Bombay Gazette.

PORTUGUESE INDIAN CURRENCY.—The currency in the Portuguese territories in India is to be assimilated in weight and form to the British currency and divided into rupees and annas, preserving the stamp of the Portuguese King. The new coins will be a legal tender throughout British India.—Ibid.

PILGRIMS AND OVERLOADING.—The Persian Navigation Company's steamship King Arthur, from Jeddah for Bushire with pilgrims, had to put into Aden en route, and got into trouble for having more passengers on board than she was competent to carry. A heavy fine has been named, but not imposed, pending reference to the Bombay Government. The fact of vessels leaving Busreh and Bushire crowded with pilgrims is well known; but, owing to their evading British ports, they have hitherto escaped the penalties prescribed by law. If the penalty is carried out in the instance of the King Arthur it may tend to check the inhuman practice.—Bombay Gazette.

DEPARTURE OF H.M.'S TROOPSHIP "SERAPIS."—Her Majesty's Indian troopship Serapis, 4,179 tons, Commander Guy O. Twiss, sailed on Feb. 17 for England with 29 officers, 20 ladies, 28 children, 790 men, 87 women, and 222 children of H.M.'s different regiments. The following are the names of officers and their families:—Surgeon Major F. F. O'Dwyer, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major M. Quinlan, A.M.D.; Major and Mrs. F. W. Roberts and child, R.A.; Major D. K. Evans, 2-6th Foot; Surgeon Major and W. H. B. Clapp and five children, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major C. E. Richards, A.M.D.; Capt. and Mrs. A. G. Lowry, 2-8th Foot; Capt. T. M. Tingcombe, 72nd Foot; Capt. W. Linsdale, 1-17th Foot; Capt. G. R. W. Hervey, R.H.A.; Capt. W. Gordon, 68th Foot; Capt. E. R. Reid, 44th Foot; Lieut. D. A. Scott, R.E.; Lieut. and Mrs. E. R. Coke, R.H.A.; Quartermaster R. Green, R.A.; Lieut. W. B. Orme, 2-8th Foot; Lieut. C. H. Ferguson, 72nd Foot; Lieut. W. Jones, 89th Foot; Lieut. A. D. D. Kelly, 34th Foot; Lieut. M. G. Moore, 88th Foot; Lieut. G. A. Collins, Staff Corps; Lieut. W. W. H. Hervey, 4th B Rifle Brigade; Quartermaster and Mrs. J. Gillard and four children, R.A.; Lieut. G. M. Lys, 48th Foot; Lieut. W. S. Stewart-Saville, 1-17th Foot; Lieut. G. S. Goldsmid, 2-2nd Foot; Second Lieut. E. H. Griffith, 1-17th Foot; Second H. H. Smyth, 1-21st Foot; Lieut. G. S. Hogg, Puna Horse; Major F. Beauchamp, 2-7th Foot; Surgeon Major R. W. Davies, 6th Dragoon Guards; Capt. T. Groube, 2-7th Foot; Capt. M. W. Storm, Bombay General List; Mrs. Law; sister of Capt. C. M. Kingley, Bl.S.C.; son of late Capt. J. Becke, S.C.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS.—The hired transport steamer Chilka, with the I.G.S. Czarewitch in tow, left Feb. 20 for Aden, vid Vingorla, taking the 14th N.I. and bringing back the 25th N.I. The Government hired transport Culna, towing H.M.'s ship Czarewitch, sailed on Feb. 19 for Aden, vid Vingorla, with the families of 9-8 R.A., 14-8 R.A., 2-9 R.A., details of 6th Regiment, and 14th Regiment. On Feb. 14 the Puna Horse embarked from the Apollo Bunder on board the British India transport Chilka, with European officers 2, native officers 7, rank and file 161, public followers 109, private followers 83, horses and baggage animals 243. The two European officers were Major Stevenson, Puna Horse, and Captain Hoyle, 59th Regiment. The Tenasserim sailed on Feb. 15 for Karachi with 9 European officers, 4 native officers, 88 rank and file; 70 public and 92 private followers, and 130 horses. Some of those embarked belonged to the Puna Horse, and the remainder to the E Battery, B Brigade, R.H.A. The following are the names of the European officers:—Colonel La Touche (commanding Puna Horse), Major Walker, R.A., Captain Erskine, Captain Corbett, (R.H.A.), Lieut. Anderson, Surgeon Major Redditch, Surgeon Stewart, Surgeon O'Nial, and Surgeon Roe. In addition to the troops, the Tenasserim conveyed fifty lakhs of Government treasure.—Times of India.

BARODA.—It is said that the Government of the Gaekwar have resolved to establish municipalities in all the chief districts, Naosari, Amroli, Kharri, and Puttun, which will be placed under the control of a municipal commissioner on Rs.800 per month. Mr. Dinshaw Ardeshir Taleyarkhan will, it is said, be the first municipal commissioner.—Times of India.

CAPT. STOPFORD.—We regret to learn that Captain Stopford, deputy assistant quartermaster general, is very ill at Quetta, and that he is compelled to return to India at once. This officer has been with the Southern Afghan force ever since hostilities commenced, and the hard work he has had to go through seems to have told upon him. Captain Watling, deputy assistant quartermaster general at Ahmedabad, has been ordered to proceed to Quetta immediately. —Times of India.

THE engineer officers lately transferred to the Kandahar State Railway from the Bombay Public Works Department have been posted to divisions as under:—Major M. J. Macartney and Lieut. Fuller, Pishin section; Major Twemlow and Lieut. Davidson, Kandahar section; Lieut. Robinson and Lieut. Whiteford, Amram section; Lieut. Hickson, transferred to the Sukkur and Quetta Railway.

THE BHEELS.—The Puna paper hears that the Bheels have been creating disturbances all round the districts of Ahmednuggur, and that recently Major Daniell despatched a gang of Ramoosis, headed by some of the police officials, to Ahmednuggur, to assist the Ahmednuggur police in quelling the disturbances.—Pioneer.

CEYLON.

THE following items are from the Ceylon Times of Feb. 13 and 16:—

WEATHER AND CROPS.—Accounts of the weather from the planting districts of the interior continue very favourable, the present dry season is all that coffee planters can desire, and with a continuance of it for another fortnight we may expect an abundant blossom towards the end of the month or early in March. All our advices thus far go to show that the preliminary blossom which appeared so generally between the 28th and 31st ultimo set successfully on the trees; it is, however, too early to speculate in regard to crop prospects at the present time.

LEAF DISEASE.—Leaf disease has appeared in some of the older districts where trials of lime and sulphur are being made on a large scale. Mr. Ward, the Government mycologist, is at the present time engaged in watching some of these experiments in the Matale District, whence he would shortly proceed to Dimbula and Dickoya.

THE CEYLON COMPANY.—There can be no doubt that the resolve of the Ceylon Company to persevere in working their valuable Ceylon properties in preference to "crying over spilt milk," and abandoning everything just when prospects are brightening, is not only the wisest but the only proper course to adopt. The cheering accounts which must be now reaching them from Ceylon, of the prospects for the coming crop, will help to reassure them in the future. Their situation, so far as their Ceylon properties are concerned, is by no means singular: there are scores of private properties in nearly a similar position, though we do not forget that what has all along embarrassed their efforts at redemption has been the heavy handicapping of the fated sugar estates in Mauritius. To have wound up after making sacrifices in that direction would have been in our opinion most unwise, as it appears unnecessary. The shareholders may rely upon it they have acted wisely in electing to carry on their properties.

EXPORTS OF COFFEE.—The exports of coffee to date are 298,588cwt. as compared with 367,708cwt. at the corresponding period of last year.

THE "EL DORADO."—The following passengers proceed home by the El Dorado:—Mr. N. S. Kennedy, Rev. B. Darley, Mr. P. Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. H. Marshall, Mr. W. E. Bradshaw, Mrs. Walters, and Mr. L. Siedle.

WHARF AND WAREHOUSE COMPANY.—At the general meeting of this company, held at Colombo on Feb. 13, the report, which was adopted, showed an available profit for the half-year ending Dec. 31 of Rs.3,574, of which Rs.3,000 were applied to the closing of suspense account and the balance carried forward. The company has in the last five years divided an average of 7½ per cent. per annum; the dividend for last year, earned in the first six months, having been 5 per cent.

THE COLOMBO HOTELS COMPANY.—The report presented to the general meeting, held on Feb. 13, showed a profit of Rs.7,102 for the five months since the opening of the Grand Oriental Hotel, which the directors proposed to apply in reduction of the suspense account or carry forward to the next half-year. The meeting was adjourned to March 12, without passing either the accounts or report.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

FRIDAY, MARCH 12, 1880.

THE WYNAAD GOLD MINES.

IN reviewing the events of the year 1878 we ventured to express a prediction that the Presidency of Madras would ere long assume an importance in India, conferred upon it by the results of goldmining in the beautiful taluk of Wynaad or Wainad. That "lovely country of hill and forest and rushing streams and rich coffee plantations," was, in olden times, the source whence were drawn those immense masses of gold, which, as Dr. Burnell says, "made, in the eleventh century, gold the most common precious metal in India." The recent impetus given to speculation in enterprises intended to develop anew the goldmining in Wynaad is not the result of new discoveries. In his brief chapter on this subject the learned author of the Madras Handbook enumerates fifteen reefs in the auriferous country. Here both open and underground workings, shafts from 70 to 100 feet deep, and the traces of washings on an enormous scale by sluices, attest the industry of the early miners. Their primitive mode of working could not touch the highest and boldest reefs, or follow the gold deep. Their method was to make three shafts in a triangular form and light fires in two of them to calcine the rocks, while the third afforded them, first, a means of escape, and next an air shaft to maintain the needed fire draught. The traces of their ancient works, numerous as they are, do not show the full extent to which the mining of past centuries was carried. The quartz workings on grazing land may be supposed to remain now very much in the same state as the miners left them. It is different, says Mr. Smyth, in his report on the Nanjanad Valley, with what may be called the alluvial workings in the old stream bed. Though numerous evidences of the work done in former times are to be seen, they have been obliterated. They have been obliterated by the Burgher (or Badakar) cultivators over an area whose limits cannot now be discovered. In Southern India, as in Australia, the cultivator follows the miner, and a goldfield which at one time afforded employment to thousands of persons becomes in a short time unrecognisable by its former inhabitants. The bright green crops of grain and the removal of trees and scrub completely alter the character of the landscape, and render it as unlike a goldfield as any tract can well be. The Kurumbars still manifest a skill in prospecting and mining that is the inheritance derived from successive generations of ancestors, who, however, left but scanty results to be obtained by the unscientific labours of their descendants. In 1832 the reefs of the Wainad, which extend over five hundred square miles, were prospected on behalf of the Government, but nothing was done until private enterprise set to work in 1865. It was impossible for the coffee planters to resist the attractions of the tempting reefs, with their evidences of gold and gold mining present and past. The memory of those enterprises is too recent not to make many who suffered in them, and are still sore from their losses, to predict like failure for the new schemes that have been started to achieve success where the former adventurers failed. But Mr. Brough Smyth, in his report summarised, attributes this failure mainly to the unsuitability of the appliances employed and to the absence of skilled supervision. His words of warning on this head need to be dinned into the ears of many. He says :—

"It is to be feared there will be other failures not unlike this. If there is gold, it is assumed, except in countries where men have been taught by experience, that any kind of machinery, and any person willing to receive payment for managing it, must, as a matter of course, bring about satisfactory results. Mining for gold cannot be conducted successfully in a haphazard way. It would be as reasonable to place a landsman in charge of a ship as to give the control of a goldmining machinery to one who has not qualified himself to perform satisfactorily the work required to be done."

These are the words of the cautious Australian expert whose services the Government of India have during the last two years employed to thoroughly examine and test the probable value of the Wainad goldfields. That much-abused Government, which a noisy, if not numerous, party delight to charge with doing all in its power to promote the poverty of India, has desired to prevent ruinous mistakes on the part of those who, relying on the traces of ancient mines and the signs of existing gold, might seek their fortunes in the reefs of Devala. On the other hand, the Government have sought to attract capitalists to fully develop the resources of the Wainad if it should be shown by careful examination that the old miners have left rich reserves unworked. That the general result of Mr. Brough Smyth's explorations have been very favourable our readers know. We learn from Madras that land at Devala is selling by the square yard. We know in London that successive companies have been and are being formed; their shares are quoted at a premium, and the losses of the Glasgow Bank are, by some, expected to be repaired by the gold of Southern India. Owners of coffee estates who have found that the leaf disease, or their own careless cultivation, has marred their prosperity, see in the possible sale to the promoters of a future Indian Goldmining Company a sovereign cure. There is ample grounds for confidence and hope in the results announced by Mr. Smyth. A table of ten reefs, from which collectivly ninety samples were analysed, shows an average of 2oz. 13dwt. 2gr. of gold per ton, varying from 18oz. down to 3dwt. Omitting an exceptional sample which gave 204½oz. per ton, and picked specimens from the same working, which gave 25½oz. per ton, the final results gave eighty-eight samples yielding an average of 1oz. 8dwt. 22gr. of gold per ton. Australian and Californian experiences show that profitable mining operations have been largely carried on when the yield only averaged from 2dwt. to 4dwt.; and in Australia Mr. Smyth has proved that in hydraulic or jet sluicing, even when hired labour is employed and water is paid for, a yield of eight grains per ton has sufficed to cover expenses. The full reports will show the exact area and extent of promising reefs, for Mr. Smyth has carefully given the results of his failure to find gold where his predecessors had been misled by apparent indications. Thus he says that some samples of quartz, collected by direction of the Duke of Buckingham when his Grace visited Sispara, which yielded minute particles of gold by amalgamation, were shown to him; but after an exhaustive examination of the coast lying between the northern part of the Nanjanad Valley and Sispara, he pronounces the verdict that there is no reason to believe that it will yield gold in remunerative quantities. Hence abundant grounds for delusions such as promoted the belief that this district was auriferous. The "Lagenian mines" may be found, and doubtless will be discovered and put forward in Wainad, and the old story of really valuable properties being discredited, and capital wasted on unremunerative, but cleverly manipulated, schemes will be retold. In the meantime the Government of India have done all in their power to place the means of discrimination before the public. They recognise the fact that it is of great importance to India that these gold sources should be worked to the best advantage, and that, if gold should be produced in large quantities, the effect of such production on the exchange between England and India would be of great value. The terms, accordingly, on which goldmining leases of Government lands will be granted are made as simple and liberal as possible. No royalty or tax will be levied, but leases of land in lots of from one to thirty acres, for a term of ten to twenty years, at Rs.5 per acre, will be granted subject to the conditions that not less than five labourers are regularly employed per acre on bona fide mining operations such as the Government may approve. Six months' breach of this rule will involve forfeiture. The future renewal will be on such terms as may be settled by the Governor of Madras. These terms are formed after the Australian pattern. The Government remarks that "the cost for bringing machinery for quartz crushing to the spot will be heavy. The pioneers of the undertaking will have to buy their experience in many directions, and it is very undesirable that the first ventures now to be made should be unsuccessful." We have already hinted that the aforesaid experience may be bought at home by pioneers who only visit the Wainad by deputy. It is devoutly to be hoped that the goldfields of Southern India may not become the happy hunting grounds of promoters, and that those desirous of investing their capital in what ought to be an enterprise profitable to themselves and to India will see that it is not wasted in purchases of useless estates and imaginary workings. There are plentiful advantages in their favour. A rainfall of 100in. to 200in. prohibits the expenditure for water that so often paralysed a promising Californian mine, the essentially needful timber and wood are abundant, and although the Madras Administrative Report shows that in the Nilgiris artisans receive higher wages than in any other district, being Rs.27.8 per mensem, or Rs.2.8 higher than four years ago, yet the labour difficulty is not a serious one. The whole matter is well summed up by Mr. Brough Smyth, who says, finally:—

"The reefs are very numerous, and they are more than of the average thickness of those found in other countries; they are of great longitudinal extent, some being traceable by their outcrops for several miles; they are strong and persistent and highly auriferous at an elevation of less than 500ft. above the sea, and they can be traced thence upwards to a height of nearly 8,000ft.; near them gold can be washed out of nearly every dish of earth that is dug; the proportion of gold in some of the soils and reefs in the neighbourhood of Devala is large; and the country presenting the greatest facilities for prosecuting mining operations at the smallest cost, it must be apparent to all who have given attention to this question that sooner or later gold mining will be established as an important industry in Southern India. The retardation of this event will be caused, not by the meagreness of the resources—they are large—but probably by the mistaken notion that wherever there is gold all the care, all the forethought that would be deemed requisite in other pursuits may be disregarded in conducting mining operations."

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—Tenders were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England for Rs.45,00,000 in Government bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs.36,35,000; to Bombay, Rs.8,05,000; and to Madras, Rs.60,000. Tenders on all Presidencies at 1s. 7 15-16d. will receive about 20 per cent.; above that price in full. Compared with last week this shows a rise of 1-16d. The same amount will be tendered for next Wednesday. The silver market is dull, bars being quoted at 52d.

SUEZ CANAL.—The revenue for the first two months of this year is officially returned at £282,487, as compared with £189,432 in the corresponding period.

THE MAURITIUS.—The Crown Agents for the Colonies announce that applications will be received by them on the 15th inst. for the conversion of the debenture debts of the Government of Mauritius, authorised by the "Consolidation Loan Ordinance, 1879." It is proposed to issue, in exchange for the various Six per Cent. Debentures now in circulation, new debentures payable at the offices of the Crown Agents, and charged on the public revenue of Mauritius. The present Six per Cent. Debenture Debts of the colony amount to £600,000, and the new debentures will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent., in exchange for old Six per Cents. The amount of new debentures offered for every £100 of the old ones is £108 for Ordinance 19 (1862) Loan of £200,000; £118 for ditto 15 (1864) Loan of £300,000; and £118 for ditto 15 (1864) Loan of £100,000.

INDIAN FIVE PER CENT. STOCK—ORDER OF COURT.—The Lord Chancellor has issued an order directing that, as there is a large amount of India Five per Cent. Stock now standing to the credit of the Chancery Pay-office account at the Bank of England, and as it is for the advantage of the persons interested in that stock that it be converted into a like amount of India Four per Cent. Stock upon the terms of a notice given by the Secretary of State for India in Council, the Paymaster General shall signify, in the manner directed by the notice, his assent to the conversion of all such India Five per Cent. Stock as shall, on March 1, be standing to the credit of the Chancery Pay-office account at the Bank of England, and cause the same to be delivered at the office of the Chief Accountant of the Bank of England. His lordship has further ordered that, when such stock shall have been transferred, the Paymaster General shall place such stock to the credit of the several causes on which such stock shall be standing, and write off the Five per Cent. Stock from such causes; and that the Paymaster General shall, as far as may be practicable, give effect to all directions contained in any order made in the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, or in Lunacy, and to all powers of attorney and other instruments which shall be in force, and refer to any stock to which this order applies, as if they referred to Four per Cent. Stock instead of Five per Cent. Stock.

PENSIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.—In the Court of Bankruptcy, on Tuesday, a curious case came before Mr. Registrar Hazlitt. The bankrupt, who was formerly a lieutenant in the Madras Army, was adjudicated in July, 1878. He subsequently passed his examination on a balance-sheet which returned liabilities amounting to £21,020; assets nil. The case was now brought before the court upon an application by the trustee for a declaration that he was entitled to the pension of £45 12s. 6d. per year granted to the bankrupt by the Secretary of State for India from the Military Fund, formerly termed Lord Clive's Fund. It appeared that the bankrupt entered the service of the Madras Army in the year 1855 and was promoted in 1857. He afterwards left the service and became entitled to the pension in question. The Registrar, after some consideration, held that the trustee was entitled to the pension, and he granted the application.

EXPENSES OF THE AFGHAN WAR.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer supplemented his Budget speech by saying, in reply to Mr. M'Iver that he regretted that he he had omitted to say anything with regard to the Afghan war. The fact was that he had no proposal to make nor any intention to submit a vote for any contribution on the part of the Government to the expenses of the war. But he might repeat what he had said on former ocassions. The whole question of whether India ought or ought not to bear the expense of the military operations in Afghanistan was one which had been before the House in former times, and he had expressed the view of the Government very much to this effect: "That India should be a self-supporting and self-protecting country, and that her self-protection involved the necessity of maintaining a frontier which should not only guard her against an advancing enemy, but should also inspire confidence in those who lived within it. It was also considered that proper relations should exist between the Government of India and their neighbours beyond the frontier. But the consequence of certain events of late years had been that it had been thought necessary to undertake an expedition which had involved a certain amount of cost, and he would repeat now that he thought it would be a bad example if England were to allow the doctrine that the Indian Government might go to war and that England should be called upon to bear the expense."

DEPARTURE OF TROOPS FOR INDIA.—The Jumna, Capt. Parsons, embarked at Portsmouth on Tuesday and Wednesday the following troops for Bombay:—Second Lieut. the Hon. R. H. Westenra and 82 men of the 9th Lancers; Second Lieuts. Pocklington and De Crespigny and 48 men of the 15th Hussars; Major Stewart, Lieut. Boyd, Second Lieut. Robinson, Quartermaster Lonsdale, and 61 men of the 2nd Battalion 1st Foot; Capts. Evetts and Bennett, and 53 men of the 90th Foot; Second Lieut. Staunton and 83 men of the 92nd Foot; 90 men of the 2nd Battalion 11th Foot; 24 men belonging to various corps; 34 women and 35 children; and the following individual officers:—Lieut. Grant, 8th Hussars; Capt. Dowse, 12th Foot; Lieut. Briggs, 67th Foot; Capt. Metcalfe, 83rd Foot; Lieut. Jefferson, 33rd Foot; Major Beddon, 85th Foot; Lieut. Claridge 2nd West India Regiment; Second Lieut. Saulez, 101st Foot; Second Lieut. Steele, 64th Foot; Veterinary Surgeon Mills, Royal Horse Artillery; Second Lieuts. Crowther, Finch, and Morse, 30th Foot; Second Lieuts. Sitwell, Neville, Cowley, and Southey, 5th Foot; Second Lieuts. Howton and Dolphin, 4th Foot; Second Lieut. Cox, 25th Foot; Second Lieut. Codrington, 63rd Foot; Second Lieuts. Olivey and Barr, 66th Foot; Second Lieut. Goff, 59th Foot; Second Lieut. Phillott, 40th Foot; Second Lieuts. Greenway and Lamb, 39th Foot; Second Lieuts. Mardall and Reade, 85th Foot; Second Lieuts. Little and Hatch, 85th Foot; Second Lieut. Hill, 89th Foot; Second Lieuts. Stavert and Tribe, 100th Foot; Second Lieut. Smithson and Ridingmaster Hubbard, 13th Hussars; Second Lieut. Alexander, 10th Hussars; Capt. Tidy, 54th Foot; Lieut. Day, R.E.; Lieut. Lister, 1st West India Regiment; Capt. Yates, R.A.; Lieut. More-Molyneux, Bengal Staff; Surg. Major Kelly and Surg. Sanders, Indian Medical Service; Surg. Majors Tulloch, Maxham, Ekin, Hoad, and O'Reilly, and Surgs. Lane and Duke, of the Army Medical Department. The Jumna will embark at Queenstown, on the 13th, Capts. Keyser and Adderley, Lieut. Anderson, and 124 men of the 2nd Battalion 7th Foot; Capts. Dundas and Le Mottée, Lieut. Low, and 226 men of the 2nd Battalion 15th Foot; Capt. Brind, Second Lieut. Murray, and 116 men of the 88th Foot; Capt. Beadwell and 37 men of the B Brigade, Royal Horse Artillery; Lieut. Cubitt, 12th Foot; Lieuts. Bellers and Bellingham, 57th Foot; Second Lieut. Thompson, 18th Foot; Second Lieut. Pile, 59th Foot; Second Lieut. Browne, 83rd Foot; and Surg. Major Longhead, Army Medical Department. Ridingmaster Draper, R.A., will embark at Malta.

INDIAN APPEAL CASES.

IN the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on Friday, March 5, before Sir James Colvile, Sir Barnes Peacock, Sir Montague Smith, and Sir Robert Collier, the following appeals were decided:—

ADRISHAPPA BIN GADGIAPPA V. GIRUSHIDAPPA BIN GADGIAPPA.—This was an appeal from a judgment and decree of the High Court of Bombay of July 28, 1875, reversing a decision of the political agent of the Southern Mahratta country. Mr. J. Graham and Mr. Kenelm Digby were counsel for the appellant; Mr. Leith, Q.C., and Mr. J. D. Mayne for the respondent. The suit was brought about by the respondent and one Kadappa, since deceased, against their elder brother, the appellant, to obtain possession of their two-thirds share of an Inam village and other property, which they alleged to be a joint and divisible family estate. The appellant contended that he held the property as Desai—that is to say, an officer employed in superintending the collection of Government revenue, and that the estate was impartible, his brothers being only entitled to maintenance from it. The political agent held that there was no invariable rule regarding the partition of such property, but decided that the usage or custom would not warrant a partition. The High Court, by their decree, reversed that decision, holding that the appellant was bound to make out by evidence the alleged custom of impartibility, and had failed to do so, and they accordingly decreed one-half of the property in the suit to the respondent and the other to the appellant. The question at issue was whether the property in dispute was impartible or not. It was stated that the office of Desai had for several generations been held by the family to which the litigants belonged. Their lordships, in the result, discharged the decision of the High Court, and said they would humbly advise her Majesty that the property was partible, but that provision should be made out of the estate for upholding the ancient office of Desai, which the appellant had inherited. After that provision the property would be equally divided between the litigants. They directed the High Court to carry out this arrangement and division, and they ordered the costs to come out of the estate.

GOUR CHUNDER ROY v. PROTAP CHUNDER DAS.—This was an appeal from a decision of the High Court of Calcutta of May 16, 1878, reversing a decree of the subordinate judge of Dacca. Mr. Cowie, Q.C., and Mr. Doyne were counsel for the appellant; Mr. Leith, Q.C., and Mr. J. Graham for the respondent. The respondent is a merchant and zemindar at Dacca, and in February and May, 1875, he cashed for the appellant two bills of exchange for Rs.10,000 each, drawn by Mr. N. P. Pogose, an Armenian resident there. In September, 1875, the bills being overdue and unpaid, two fresh bills were drawn, in substitution of them, by Pogose on and accepted by the appellant, payable ninety days after date, and endorsed to the respondent. They were dishonoured on maturity, and notice to that effect was given to the appellant and Pogose. Subsequently an arrangement was come to that the respondent should accept the overdue interest and also six weeks' interest in advance to cover the period at which Pogose was expected to return to Dacca and be in a position to take up the bills. The interest was accordingly paid. In July, 1876, the bills continuing unpaid, the respondent brought the present suit against the appellant and Pogose. The Dacca court ordered a decree against Pogose for the full amount, but dismissed the suit against the appellant on the ground that he had been merely a surety in the transaction, and had been released by Pogose's payment of interest in advance. The High Court reversed that decision, and decreed that the appellant was liable to the respondent, as the payment of interest in advance had been with his concurrence and approval. Hence the present appeal. Their lordships, without calling on the counsel for the respondent, affirmed the High Court's decision, and dismissed the appeal, with costs.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, MARCH 4.

LIGHTHOUSES.

On the motion for going into Committee of Supply, Mr. T. BRASSEY rose to call attention to the necessity for additional lighthouses on the island of Galita, in the Red Sea, and the Gulf of Aden. After showing that a great and rapidly increasing proportion of our trade to the East was carried by the route of the Suez Canal and mentioning that in 1878 no less than 1,217 British vessels passed through the canal, he said it was needless to say more in order to show how deeply interested we were in everything which could add to the safety of navigation on this main route from Europe to the East. Cape Finisterre was the first point on the route to the East to which he desired to call attention. It was one of the most important land-falls in the world. A first-class light was exhibited from Finisterre; but the position was badly chosen, and the light itself was not in good order. A first-class light was also required on Cape Villano, twenty-five miles north-east of Finisterre. Continuing eastward and entering the Mediterranean, the southern shores of Spain, and the north coast of Africa, in the harbours of the French Government, were well protected with lights. [illegible] when we reached the coast of Tunis the lighthouses were too few in number. The island of Galita, which was under the jurisdiction of the Bey of Tunis, was one of the most important pivot points on the voyage to the East. The necessity that existed for such a light on Galita had been repeatedly urged by the Committee of Lloyd's. Captain Angove, the commander of the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Poonah, had written as follows:—"The absence of a light on the island of Galita has often caused me great anxiety. In the winter months the weather is frequently dirty in that vicinity, and the currents are strong." Passing onwards on the voyage to the East the navigator was assisted by an adequate number of lights until he emerged from the Gulf of Suez into the Red Sea. At a distance of ninety-five miles north of the light on the Dædalus shoal, which was the southernmost light at present shown in this part of the Red Sea, the track of steamers ran close to two rocks called "The Brothers," only twenty feet above water. A light of the second or third order, visible at a distance of say ten miles, was very necessary at this point. Proceeding down the Red Sea for a distance of 720 miles no lights were absolutely required, until a point within one hundred miles of the island of Perim. Here the experienced commanders in the Peninsular and Oriental service urgently asked for two additional lights—a light with a range of twenty miles, on the islet of Aboo-Ail, off the north end of the island of Jebel-Zuker, and a light on the bank off Mocha. The Peninsular and Oriental steamer Alma was wrecked on Jebel-Zuker, and the steamer Penguin was quite recently lost on the same spot. The next important point on which a lighthouse was required was Cape Guardafui. Here twelve large steamers had gone ashore within the last six years. The list included the Meikong, of the French Messageries service, and the Garonne, a steamer of the Orient Line, recently established between London and Australia. Ten of these ships were totally wrecked. Among the shipowners interested in the trade to the East who had strongly recommended the establishment of a light on Cape Guardafui, he might more particularly refer to the General Shipowners' Association, and the owners of the Glen, the Castle, and the Ducal lines. The directors of the British Indian Company, while expressing a strong opinion as to the desirability of establishing a light on Cape Guardafui, recommended that it should be erected by the British Government, under international arrangement, and not by the Egyptian Government. It might be necessary to explain that the Egyptian Government had contemplated the erection of two lighthouses—the one on Ras-Hafoon, the other on Guardafui, in compliance with suggestions from the British Government. The objections of the British Indian Company were fully shared by Captain Roberts, the superintendent of the Peninsular and Oriental Company at Suez. The expenditure for the two lights, as estimated by the Egyptian Government, was £48,000, and they proposed to levy an additional tax upon passing ships of 2d. per ton. Efficient lighthouses could be erected at a much more moderate cost. He would not enter into the various considerations which had been urged by those who doubted the utility of a light on Guardafui during the period when the south west monsoon was at its height. Opinions were unanimous as to the value of the light through at least eight months of the year. A light on Ras-Hafoon, ninety miles south of Guardafui, would be valuable at all seasons to ships engaged in the important trade with the Mauritius and the east coast of Africa. He had only to mention two other points on the route to the East on which lights were required. One was the east end of the island of Socotra, which was passed by all vessels bound to and from Bombay, and in the south west monsoon also by vessels navigating to and from Galle. The other point was Minicoy, a small island of the Laccadive group, upon which some years ago the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Colombo was totally lost, and which must be passed by every vessel bound from the Red Sea to Ceylon, the Bay of Bengal, the Eastern Archipelago, China, and Japan. None of these lights, however, could be erected except under international agreement, and in bringing the subject under the notice of the House his desire was to urge the Government, without delay, to secure the concerted action of the maritime Powers. He concluded by moving for papers.

Sir J. HAY, in seconding the motion, said every one must agree with him that the immense amount of trade which now passed through the Suez Canal and traversed the Mediterranean and the Red Sea rendered it highly desirable that the channel should be safely lighted. Every one acquainted with the shores of Bombay must be of opinion that the great channel by which they were approached ought certainly to be lighted. On one occasion one of the largest steamers, filled with passengers, ran on the island of Minicoy, and was eventually relieved after three months' detention. On going towards the Gulf of Aden during the south western monsoon, all vessels, except those of the greatest power, usually went to the southward and approached the coast of Africa. It was desirable that a light should be placed on Ras-Hafoon, but that was not so important as a light on Cape Guardafui. It was said that there was great difficulty in procuring water at that place, but it was an easy matter to obtain water by the process of distillation. If, however, it was not intended to place a lighthouse on Cape Guardafui, it would be necessary to build one in a small valley about eight miles south-south-west of that point; though the better plan would be, if possible, to light the promontory itself; for during the south west monsoons a thick yellow haze made it all but impossible to observe the land and necessitated the erection of a powerful light. He agreed with his hon. friend as to the desirability of placing a light on the east end of Socotra, where powerful steamers often took shelter; but, before that was done, Cape Guardafui ought to be lighted. Proceeding up the Gulf of Aden, and after Perim, ships encountered a variety of dangers which materially impeded their progress. A lightship might be very usefully established in the Turkish waters off the town of Mocha, and then the lighting of the Red Sea would be complete. He strongly recommended the erection of a lighthouse on "The Brothers," a very dangerous shoal further north, which lay right in the fairway and caused much loss of time to vessels in the endeavour to avoid all risk in connection with it. Coming to the Suez Canal, he found a light necessary at

Galita, west-south-west of which were the Sorelli Rocks, which were still unlighted. Those rocks belonged to Tunis, on the coast of which State there were already severable creditable lights, and it would be necessary to make an arrangement with the French and the Tunisian Governments in order to remove the last danger of the Mediterranean. With the lighting to the west of those rocks he was quite satisfied, but the points he had mentioned—"The Brothers," Cape Guardafui, Socotra, the Sorelli Rocks, and the coast near Mocha—ought to be lighted, and he hoped that his suggestions would be considered by the Government.

Viscount SANDON thoroughly agreed with his hon. friends as to the desirability of having more lighthouses in difficult and dangerous seas, but the first difficulty was that they were not independent in the matter, but had to negotiate with other Powers, some of whom were not very largely provided with funds. He could assure his hon. friends that the Government had not been idle. It was not easy to interfere with respect to the first point to which attention had been called; but, as regarded Galita, the Government had been in communication with the French Government, and had received assurances that France and Tunis were likely jointly to erect a lighthouse there. He might remind the House that the existing lights in the Canal and the Red Sea were owing to the exertions of former British Governments. In the year 1870 the hydrographer of the navy and Col. Clarke had been sent to the Red Sea to make investigations into the subject and had made a report thereon. They had pressed the matter on the Khédive, and had asked the French Government to enter into an arrangement. The question mainly turned on the necessary expense, and the French Government set the matter aside for the time. It had been raised again by the Indian Government in 1874, but France had not been willing to make any pecuniary engagements till 1879. But in 1877 the Khédive had agreed, on the representations of the British Government, to erect a lighthouse on Cape Guardafui provided that certain tolls were allowed; and the British Government had then attempted to bring about an agreement between the maritime Powers. The Khédive next sent engineers to survey the country near Cape Guardafui, and from their report, only recently received, it appeared that they recommended not the promontory itself, but Wadi Sahoum as the site of the lighthouse, but it would be necessary to wait till the Egyptian Government had made up its mind. The country had been surveyed and the maritime Powers had come to an agreement. He could hardly give an opinion as to the Indian lights, but he might assure hon. members that the Government fully acknowledged the importance of the subject, and would do their best to induce other Powers to co-operate with them.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY, MARCH 8.

CHAPLAINS IN INDIA.

In answer to Mr. Baxter, who asked questions with reference to Return No. 37 of the present session (East India Ecclesiastical Department), Mr. E. STANHOPE said that the return showed that some chaplains and ministers of the Church of England received salaries out of public funds, although their congregation consisted of few civil and military servants of the Queen; but, as pointed out by the Bishop of Calcutta, the duties and responsibilities of Government chaplains could not be measured merely by the number of Government servants attending their ministrations. The returns excluded the families of civil and military servants, pensioners, and others. Since 1876 this expenditure had been reduced, and, as the Government of India stated that they were considering the whole subject, and hoped to make further reductions during the coming financial year, no further step was at present contemplated.

THE ATTOCK.

In answer to Mr. Onslow, Mr. E. STANHOPE said that the work of constructing a bridge over the Attock was in progress. Contracts had been entered into for some of the spans, and tenders had been invited for the remainder.

The India Stock (Powers of Attorney) Bill, and the East India Loan (East India Railway Debentures) Bill were read a second time.

INDIAN FAMINE COMMISSION.

Mr. E. STANHOPE said, in answer to Sir G. Balfour, that the amount now being paid monthly for salaries and allowances to the officers employed on the Famine Commission in England was Rs.10,777, besides a guinea a week to a messenger. The allowances paid in India to officers acting for the commissioners who were in England were given under the general rules of the service, which prescribed that each officer so acting received 20 per cent. of the pay of the substantive appointment of the absentee. But as the absentee received only two-thirds of his Indian salary while working for the Famine Commission in England the saving so effected more than covered the allowances in India.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, MARCH 11.

THE AFGHAN CAMPAIGN.

In answer to Dr. Cameron, Mr. E. STANHOPE believed that the number of camels which died or disappeared in the winter of 1878-9 was 31,000, but he had not yet very complete information on the subject. Full compensation was ordered to be paid on the spot for animals actually certified to have been killed by the enemy. As regards all others the fullest inquiry possible under the circumstances was ordered to be made before the claim was submitted, the superintendent of transport and the commissariat officer noting on each claim and giving an opinion as to the amount to be allowed.

THE GOVERNOR OF KANDAHAR.

In reply to Mr. Onslow, who asked whether there was any truth in the telegraphic information from the correspondent of the Times to the effect that "the Government had presented a battery of six pounder guns with harness and 2,000 small-bore Enfields to Sirdar Shere Ali, the Governor of Kandahar," Mr. E. STANHOPE feared that there was no information on the subject. No communication had been made about it. The whole policy to be adopted towards Afghanistan had been the subject of constant communication between the Viceroy and the Secretary of State.

MR. WILLIAM TAYLER.

In answer to Sir E. Wilmot, Mr. E. STANHOPE said that if any hon. member liked to move for Mr. Tayler's reply, it would be laid upon the table. The date when it would be placed in the hands of members depended upon the printers, but looking to its length he should very much doubt its being completed before the dissolution.

THE DISPATCH OF INDIAN TROOPS TO MALTA.

Mr. MUNDELLA asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer why a return, ordered by the House on the 27th of March last, as to the cost of bringing the Indian troops to Europe in 1878, had not yet been furnished to the House; and whether he would cause such return to be forthwith laid upon the table and printed and circulated.

Colonel STANLEY said that his return when about to be presented in June last year was found to be inaccurate, and further advices had to be received from India. These having been obtained, it was found that further corrections were required, and the subject had again been referred to the Indian Government.

Mr. MUNDELLA felt bound to press for a fuller explanation of the matter, and with that view he would conclude with a motion. Now it was two years since the Indian troops were brought to Malta, and hon. members were to go to the country in ignorance of the amount of expenditure which that measure had involved. Trusting that the Chancellor of the Exchequer would give some further information on the subject, he begged to move the adjournment of the House.

Colonel STANLEY said he would take upon himself whatever blame there might be for the delay which had arisen. As the House would see, however, he had been actuated in what he had done by a desire to procure information of a perfectly accurate character. The last advice from India was that communications respecting the return were still passing between the different departments of the Government of India.

Mr. CHILDERS said this was a grave case, and they must really demand an explanation from the Government. A committee was appointed the session before last to inquire into the cost of the Indian troops going abroad. He had the honour, together with others, of representing that side of the House on the committee. They were informed that the figures had not yet arrived from India, but that if possible they should be presented in the next session. On the receipt of that assurance from the Government, he consented to the adjournment of the inquiry till the following year. But that adjournment was assented to with the distinct understanding that the Government would reappoint the committee, and that the figures would be presented early last session, whereas now, in the middle of another session, the Government had so contrived as not to give any information whatever.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER said that as an appeal had been made to him he must frankly own that when he saw the question on the paper he was not able to give any answer to it of his own knowledge. All he could do was to make inquiry at the War-office and the India-office, and his right hon. friend the Secretary for War undertook to answer the question, and had, in fact, done so as far as he could. He was informed that the position of affairs was as follows:—There was but a small difference between the figures sent from India and those which were believed at the India-office here to be the correct figures; and although it was not possible or proper to lay a formal return on the table until the actual figures had been agreed upon, still he believed his hon. friend the Under Secretary for India was prepared to give the amount approximately.

Mr. STANHOPE said the accounts were not absolutely settled, but he was told that the approximate amount was £470,000.

Mr. ANDERSON said the Under Secretary for India had not only laid a dummy report on the table, but had stated to the House that the report itself had been presented. Consequently, the hon. member misled the House.

Mr. STANHOPE desired to make a personal explanation on this point. The facts were simply these: When the question was put to him he understood that his right hon. friend the Secretary for War had, the day before, laid the report on the table, in the way commonly adopted—viz., in dummy. It turned out afterwards that the information received was not altogether accurate, and for that reason and for that reason alone the delivery of the return was delayed. The object of giving a dummy return was that hon. members might at the earliest possible moment be in possession of the information required. In this case, if a dummy return had not been presented and if it had turned out that the information in the hands of the Government was correct, the House would never have had it at all until the beginning of the next session.

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN said the hon. gentleman had told the House that the approximate cost of bringing the troops to Malta was £470,000, but he thought the cost of freight alone was something like £750,000. He wanted to know what was the total cost of bringing the troops to Malta, and under what heads of expenditure that cost was distributed.

Mr. ONSLOW was of opinion that this discussion had been got up altogether for electioneering purposes.

Mr. STANHOPE observed that he had been called upon suddenly to make a statement on a question of facts. He had no idea that he should be called upon to make such a statement that night, and he had not been able to refresh his memory. If hon. members desired to act fairly, they should give notice of a question on this subject. He would then give them such figures as he was able to produce. He had told the House already that he had given almost the exact figures.

Mr. MUNDELLA gave notice that to-morrow he would ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer to order the complete return to be laid on the table of the House as soon as possible.

MEDICAL OFFICERS IN INDIA

Mr. STANHOPE informed Sir T. Bazley that the regulations affecting retiring medical officers in India are under the consideration of the Secretary of State in Council.

In the House of Lords on Monday the Indian Salaries and Allowances Bill was read a second time. On Tuesday the bill passed through committee, and on Thursday was agreed to.

In the House of Commons on Wednesday the India Stock (Powers of Attorney) Bill and the East India Loan (East India Railway Debentures) Bill passed through committee.

HOME BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS.

BIRTHS.

BROWNE—March 8, at Windsor, the wife of Col. C. R. Browne, late Bengal S.C., a son.

THE LOSS OF THE "VINGORLA."—The British India Company's steamer Vingorla has been lost in an extraordinary manner. She left Bombay for Karachi at noon of the 28th ult. The same evening, while in twenty fathoms of water, with a calm sea, she was found to be in a sinking condition, and went down in about two hours. The captain, the third officer, the engineers, and about sixty-eight persons of the crew and native deck passengers perished. All the first and second class passengers were saved in boats. The captain refused to leave the ship, and was last seen standing on the bridge. One boat sank in launching. Some were picked up by another of the company's steamers the following morning. The chief officer and two natives clung to some pieces of wood and were saved by the steamer Britannia, after being eighteen hours in the water. The Vingorla was a steamer of 588 tons, built on the Clyde in 1875. She was believed to be perfectly seaworthy when she left Bombay. The cause of the accident is most mysterious. One theory is that the hull was perforated by running unobserved on a fisherman's stakes outside the harbour. Some suspicions of foul play seem also entertained. An inquiry into the affair has been opened at Bombay.—Times Telegram.

THE TROOPS IN BURMA.—We learn that orders have been received at Rangoon from the medical authorities in Madras that all the men of the different regiments stationed in Burma who have been suffering from fever for more than a month are to return in order to be sent to the hills.—Englishman.

INDIAN CO-OPERATIVE AGENCY (Limited),

26, HOLBORN VIADUCT, LONDON.

Proceedings of an Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders, held at the Offices of the Company on the 4th February, 1880.

Major General SAXTON in the Chair.

The Honorary Secretary read the Notice convening the present Meeting.

The Honorary Secretary read the proceedings of the Meeting held on the 10th February, 1879, which were confirmed and signed by the Chairman.

The Report of the Directors and the Accounts appended thereto were taken as read, and unanimously adopted.

Proposed by Mr. Drysdale, seconded by Mr. Prout, and carried unanimously—That a Dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, as recommended by the Directors, be declared, free of Income-tax, to be paid within one month at the Offices of the Company.

Major General Saxton and Lambart Cowan, Esq., having retired from the direction by rotation, and Mr. Cowan offering himself for re-election, proposed by Mr. Drew, seconded by Mr. Stutchbury, and carried unanimously—That Mr. Cowan be re-elected.

Proposed by Mr. Chandler, seconded by Mr. Ann, and carried unanimously—That, with a view of increasing the business element on the Board of Direction, Mr. James Mackenzie Miall be elected as Director, subject to his qualifying within one month.

Proposed by Mr. Crawford, seconded by Mr. Drysdale—That the Board of Direction be increased by the addition of Mr. F. W. J. Waugh as a member.

After some discussion this motion was withdrawn on an amendment by Major General Mercer.

Proposed by Mr. Drew, seconded by Mr. Cowan—That the Auditors be remunerated for their services with a grant of Fifteen Guineas. Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. M'Guire, seconded by Mr. Ann, and carried unanimously—That the Auditors, Messrs. Leslie, Straith, and Co., be re-elected for the present year.

After votes of thanks to the Chairman, Board, and Officers of the Company, the Meeting closed.

By Order,
LAMBART COWAN, Honorary Secretary.

N.B.—Shares are still available at par.

THE NEW DIAMONDS, DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS,

have created an extraordinary sensation in Paris, and are rapidly and deservedly superseding real diamonds. Their cost is about 1-300th less. These magnificent Stones, first attracted notice at the Paris Exhibition last year, where they were exposed side by side with real diamonds of great value, and they are now introduced into England for the first time. They are absolutely identical in size, brilliancy, lustre, and durability with real diamonds of the first water, and defy detection even by jewellers and experts. They are immeasurably superior to real diamonds of second-rate quality. THE MANUFACTURER GUARANTEES THE SURPRISE AND PLEASURE OF PURCHASERS. These brilliants can be worn in the strongest daylight, which is practically the real test of perfection, and the most sceptical will be utterly deceived. They can be mounted side by side with real diamonds of the first quality, and will be found undistinguishable therefrom. They are worn at the Court Balls, and upon all occasions in Paris and St. Petersburg. The prohibitive prices charged in England for real diamonds render their acquisition impossible to the middle classes, and the imitation diamonds hitherto sold are worthless, the imposition being manifest to the most careless observer. The DIAMANTÉ BRILLIANTS can, on the contrary, be worn with absolute and entire confidence at all times and for a lifetime, and, as we have said above, defy the closest scrutiny. Purchasers invariably repeat their purchases. The investigations and labour of two generations have been expended in bringing these remarkable jewels to their present state of perfection.

200 ,, 15 ,,
100 ,, 10 ,,

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consu at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, 1st Dec., 1864.

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

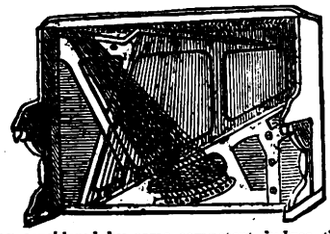
KIRKMAN AND SON'S

PATENT STEEL FRAME

SHORT GRAND PIANOS,

SIX FEET LONG, IN ELEGANT ROSEWOOD OR WALNUT CASES,



Are considered by all who have heard them to combine a greater amount and resonance of tone, consistent with adaptability of size, shape, and elegance of appearance than those of any other manufacturer.

KIRKMAN AND SON'S

OVERSTRUNG

GRAND AND COTTAGE PIANOS.

Is being considered by some competent judges that the German method of over or cross-stringing Pianos is attended with great advantage, Messrs. Kirkman and Son are now manufacturing both Grand and Cottage Pianos on this principle, the latter having the plain Sticker Action, which is not the case with Pianos of this class manufactured by other makers; in fact, the extreme simplicity of the action used by Messrs. Kirkman and Son in all their Pianos render them eminently suitable for exportation to the Colonies, where skilled workmen are few and far between. All useless checks and complications are carefully avoided, thus enabling any tuner, with however superficial a knowledge of the business, to regulate them or repair any damage they may sustain.

KIRKMAN AND SON

Have a reputation extending over nearly a Century and a-Half.

There are now in the possession of the house Harpsichords and Virginals dated 1758 and 1778, manufactured by Jacobus and Abraham Kirckman.

The present members of the firm beg to call the attention of shipppers and exporters to the fact that in ordering of this house they are dealing with a firm who manufacture on principles derived from experience of this almost unprecedented length.

Says page 13:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cockle's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheik, who was impervious to all native medicines when I administered to him five

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, Feb. 28; Madras and Allahabad, Feb. 26; Calcutta, Feb. 25.

THE reports of the weather and the crops for the week ending Feb. 17, 1880, are as follow:—Rain fell during the week throughout Northern India, and has greatly benefitted the spring crops. The rain in Behar has done some little harm. There were a few showers in Rajputana, Central India, the Central Provinces, Bombay and Madras. More rain is wanted in some districts of the last-mentioned province. Public health and agricultural prospects remain good on the whole. Madras: General prospects good; rain urgently wanted in North Arcot, Trichinopoly, Tinnevelly, and Coimbatore for dry and tank-raised crops. Bombay: Weather cold; slight rain in parts of Gujrat and Sind; one death from cholera in Puna City; no fresh cases at Igatpuri; crops healthy. Bengal: Rain general over province, except in Chittagong division and in Backergunge, Tipperah, Pooree, Balasore and Singbhoom; it has greatly benefited all standing crops and also ploughing for aus, but damaged in some places crops in blossoms and those being reaped; slight injury done by hail in Culna; small-pox still prevalent in Cuttack, Pooree, Cooch Behar, and in some places in Chumparun, and cholera in Rampore Haut; cases of small-pox and cholera also reported in some other places; public health otherwise good. North West Provinces and Oudh: Rain has fallen in every district, which has benefited the rabi crops; prices have slightly fallen; slight damage done in Allahabad and Bareilly by hail; clear weather now wanted; cattle disease continues in Agra; health continues good. Punjab: Prospects continue favourable, rain having again fallen over a considerable portion of the province. Central Provinces: Cloudy and close at the commencement of the week; clear and cold now; linseed and pulses being gathered, also wheat in some districts; prospects continue good; prices stationary. British Burma: Public health generally good, small-pox somewhat prevalent; a little cholera and cattle disease. Bangalore: Crops in good condition; prospects favourable; fever prevalent; murrain amongst cattle in parts; prices generally stationary. Indore: Weather cold; health and agricultural prospects good. Ajmere: Cold; prospects excellent. Ulwur: Rain much wanted; health good.

THE weather at Cabul has become genial and warm, and is splendid at Kandahar, while at the present at least no hostile gathering is known to exist, but reports still circulate of opposition preparing to the advance of our troops. Other items of telegraphic news are as follows:—

"It is credibly reported that Abdurrahman, accompanied by the Meer of Badakshan and two Russian officers, arrived in the early part of this month at Jakhtapool, the Military Cantonment of Balkh. The Governor of Turkestan, Gholam Hyder, demurred to receiving him, but his objections to such a step were overruled by Abdurrahman's troops. The Sirdar's further movements have not yet been disclosed.

"Herat accounts represent Ayoob Khan as having stripped his people of all they possessed, so that they would gladly welcome any change of rule. Two commissioners from the Persian Government had arrived at Herat and had been welcomed by Ayoob. Despatch caravans from Herat to Kandahar are rigidly interdicted. All the troops at Herat have announced their intention of dispersing at the Nao Raj and proceeding to Turkestan.

"The troops at Cabul are about to be reinforced by four additional regiments of native infantry—the 22nd, 24th, 27th, and 45th. This will bring up the infantry to the strength of sixteen battalions. Two divisions will be formed, each to consist of two brigades. The present reserve division will cease to exist under that name, and its present commander, General J. Ross, C.B., will take command of one of the Cabul divisions, while General Roberts will command the other as well as the whole of the troops in Northern Afghanistan. General Bright will command the troops holding the line of communications from Butkhak, the march from Cabul to Jamrud, one march from Peshawur. General Bright and staff left Jellalabad on the 6th for Gandamak and Cabul. Mr. Lepel Griffin, C.S.I., new political officer for Northern Afghanistan, has arrived at Jellalabad and visited Pesh-Bolak. The latter place will probably be selected in preference to Basawal and Dakka as the site of the summer cantonment. Syed Mahomed Badshah, an important chief, was expected to meet Mr. Lepel Griffin at Jellalabad on the 11th. Col. Tucker, director of transport, is ordered to push all available carriage to Cabul, two dates being prescribed him, March 15, and May 1. The former date may specify the time of the advance of a moveable column from Cabul, either to co-operate with General Stewart towards Ghazni or to move in the direction of Bamian. The second date may specify the time, after the occupation of Ghazni, for a portion of the troops at Cabul to be withdrawn towards India.

"There is no news of importance from the Lughman Valley. The road through it to Jagdalak is nearly completed."

ACCORDING to the Standard Major General Sir Francis Roberts, V.C., K.C.B., will come to England for a short time, on vacating the command of the Cabul field force, but will return to India to take up a permanent appointment on the Staff of the Indian army.

THE Cologne correspondent of the same journal informs us that a force numbering 20,000 men is marching on Cabul. These forces are under the command of Sefer Khan, former aide de camp of Shere Ali. Many Afghan families are deserting Cabul, as they fear an attack on the town.

THE St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that it is finally decided to send General Skobeleff against the Tekkes, but with a small command only. He will operate from the Caspian. No expedition will be organised from Turkestan, and Merv, in all probability, will be considered beyond the sphere of action.

A LAHORE telegram states that, owing to the almost complete failure of the recruiting department and the prospect of an early campaign, the Government is contemplating the re-enlistment of the native pensioners to supply the place of the troops despatched to the front. Twenty thousand, it is believed, would be immediately available for garrison duty in the three Presidencies.

FROM the Kuram come some further particulars of the murder of Lieut. Lumsden. He had gone to his tent about eleven at night. Next morning at seven his servant, entering, found him lying across the foot of the bed quite dead, with seventeen dagger wounds, chiefly on the right side of the chest, five of them mortal. A number of things belonging to him were missing, including a bag containing Rs.1,000 in notes, his sword, pistol, boots, and clothes. The murder was evidently the work of a robber, who had managed to elude the sentries. From the position in which the body was found it is supposed that a struggle occurred in the tent. Apparently no sound was heard in the adjoining tents. Next morning a man carrying a heavy bundle asked a boy to watch it while he crossed the river to get help. As soon as he was out of sight the boy gave the alarm. The bundle was brought into the camp and found to contain everything missing from Lumsden's tent. No trace of the murderer has yet been obtained.

GENERAL FRASER has been appointed Public Works member of the Supreme Council during the absence, on leave, of Sir Andrew Clarke.

A REUTER'S telegram of the 12th inst. states that a convoy of supplies proceeding to Konoma on the 10th was attacked by Nagas, and obliged to return, as the coolies deserted. Three of the escort were killed. A later telegram says that news of some slight skirmishes comes from the Naga Hills. The general commanding is preparing to cut off supplies from the fort occupied by the Konoma men.

FROM Rampa we hear that fresh batches of prisoners continue to be brought in, and hopes are entertained of an early termination of operations. The evidence obtained against Ammalreddi is sufficient to justify his committal for trial on a charge of wilful murder. Chendriah appears to have met his death in ambush laid for him by a private enemy.

ACCORDING to this week's telegram the Factory Bill, which should have been brought forward at Friday's meeting of the Legislative Council, has been adjourned sine die. The Select Committee have very properly proposed that the bill should be made binding throughout India. The selfish and interested opposition, misnamed as public opinion, has proved too strong for social humanity and common sense.

THE announcement of the bestowal of the well-deserved honour of K.C.B. upon Brigadier Generals Keyes and Ross for the successful expedition against the Jowakis, has been followed by the bestowal of the decoration of C.B. upon Major H. C. P. Rice, S.C., commandant 1st Sikh Regiment. To quote the words of Brigadier General Keyes' despatch of March 8, 1878, "Major Rice commanded his regiment with much skill and gallantry up to Jan. 16, 1878, when he was dangerously wounded whilst personally conducting the retirement of the rear skirmishers of his regiment through the Nani Khula. This officer has always distinguished himself by his zeal and intelligence. I am much indebted to him for a valuable reconnaisance which he made by my desire previous to the attack on Jamu, and other prominent services during the operations."

THE Rumpa rebellion seems to have collapsed rather than to have been suppressed by the Madras Government, which has nothing to be proud of, either as regards the origin of the disturbance or the means adopted to bring it to a close, which have been neither politic nor vigorous. We noticed last week the condition of the Mofussil police force, as revealed by the Government report, which is discreditable to the administration that permits without prompt remedy such a state of things to exist. Another complaint comes from the Presidency town itself. The municipality of Madras, having propounded their budget, and successfully equalised their income and expenditure have been ordered by the Government to amend their ways, though not their means, and incur an additional expense of more than a lakh of rupees for "lock hospitals, sanitary inspection, quitrent and allotment for police." The municipal commissioners have no power to resist the Government order, but they have no funds to defray the charges imposed upon them, which, they consider, ought to be borne by the Government. They have, therefore, performed a dignified act of surrender, and resolved:—

"That, as under existing laws they were compelled to frame their budget as directed by Government, they have no option except to insert the additional and new items of expenditure ordered. But in submitting the budget as thus revised they would respectfully point out that every tax they were authorised to levy was already at its maximum, and that they were unable to suggest any means, either by reductions of expenditure or increase of income whereby the estimated annual deficiency of Rs.1,76,000 could be met."

But it seems to lookers on from this side that this sort of thing is likely to still further impress the neighbours in "French India" with the idea that municipal institutions are fraught with much evil; in fact, Pondicherry points to Madras as a warning example of what ought to be avoided in local administration!

SIR RICHARD TEMPLE, hitherto Governor of Bombay, embarked there on Saturday last on his return to England. His Excellency received an enthusiastic ovation from the large masses of people who lined the roads to witness his departure A large meeting of Europeans and natives was held on Friday to express their sense of his services, and in the evening he was entertained at dinner by the Byculla Club. A proposal has been made to erect a statue in his honour. Pending the arrival of Sir James Fergusson, the newly-appointed Governor of Bombay, the duties of the post will be discharged by Mr. L. R. Ashburner, a member of the Council.

BETWEEN three and four thousand men employed at the workshops of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway at Bombay struck work against increased hours of work.

THE Indian papers contain a full report of Sir J. Strachey's speech introducing the Budget, of which a telegraphic summary has already been published. We give elsewhere the estimates for the ensuing year.

THE first Russian consulate in India has been filled by M. Vouillon, manager of the French Bank in Bombay, who has been appointed Russian Consul there.

THE net amount of Indian sea and land customs revenue (excluding salt revenue) for the first ten months of the current financial year was Rs.1,68,18,253, as against Rs.1,76,26,717 during the corresponding period of last year.

THE Egyptian Government have decided to construct lighthouses at Guardafui and Ras Hafoon.

OUR Ceylon advices, under date Feb. 24, received to-day, contain little news. The season prospects were good, although some fear was entertained of an injurious excess of rain. The export of plantation coffee had up to date amounted to 287,930 cwt, as against 365,447 last year. Dr. Trimen, successor to Dr. Thwaites as director of the botanical garden, had arrived and assumed charge. Dr. Thwaites has decided to remain in Ceylon.

IT has been decided to limit the grant of the medal with clasp for "Jowaki" to those troops only which were in the field against the Jowaki Afreedis from the 9th November, 1877, to the 19th January, 1878, inclusive.

IN concluding his speech introducing the Budget, Sir John Strachey took occasion to make the following statement of present expenditure compared with twelve years ago:—

"I will briefly compare the accounts of our next expenditure in 1868-69 and 1869-70 with the accounts of 1878-79 and the estimates of 1880-81. That this comparison may be effective, I have eliminated the expenditure from local funds, recently incorporated with the rest of the public expenditure, and also the expenditure of the war in Afghanistan. In like manner I have removed, throughout, the credits from the extinct military funds. I have then divided the net expenditure thus ascertained into four groups, as follows:—1. Land revenue (except charges of collection, surveys and settlements), post-office, administration, minor departments, gaols and penal settlements, law and justice, police, marine, education, ecclesiastical, medical, stationery, printing, political, and miscellaneous. 2. Interest, loss by exchange, furlough allowances, pensions, and famine. 3. Public works, telegraphs, railways and canals. 4. The army. The whole net expenditure thus classified is as follows:—

Group I.—	1868-69.	1869-70.	1878-79.	1880-81.
Effective civil administration	£10,084,000	£10,566,000	£10,901,000	£11,166,000
Group II.—
Non-effective civil expenditure ...	7,054,000	6,543,000	11,177,000	10,536,000
Group III.—
Public Works ...	8,195,000	6,235,000	3,999,000	1,882,000
Group IV.—
The Army ...	15,137,000	15,251,000	15,442,000	15,330,000
Total ...	£40,470,000	£38,596,000	£40,918,000	£38,915,000

IN a general order his Excellency the Commander in Chief announces to the army in India the death, on the Feb. 14, of Brigadier General J. A. Tytler, C.B., V.C., on active service in the field. General Tytler, says his Excellency, "has won for himself a high reputation, and by his death the army loses one of its best officers at a time when, as commanding a brigade in Kuram, his services were of great value to the State." The death of General Tytler, indeed, is a sad loss, for he was a commander who had justly earned the confidence and admiration of the Government and his country.

THE REPORT OF THE ARMY COMMISSION.

THE following are the principal recommendations of the Army Commission:—The native army is not to be reduced, but reorganised on the following strength:—Infantry regiments, eight companies, or 912 men; cavalry, for squadrons, or 600 men; two European officers to be added to the present complement. Four territorial army corps to be formed, one for employment in Bengal, Assam, the North West Provinces, and Oudh; the second for the Punjab, the Trans-Indus frontier, and advanced posts; the third for Bombay, the Central Provinces, Central India, Rajputana, and Scinde: the fourth for Madras, Hyderabad, and Burma. Each army corps is to be commanded by a lieutenant general, with a complete staff, consisting of representatives of all arms and a military secretary. The pay of the commandant of each army corps is to be Rs.4,500 monthly. He is to have full control of his territorial army, the administration of its affairs being decentralised. The commanders of the army corps are to be selected equally from the Indian and the British Army—in the former case by the Commander in Chief in India, with the approval of the Viceroy; in the latter case, by the War-office or the Horse Guards. The Commander in Chief is to lose his seat in the Council and to hold the same relative position in regard to the Military Secretariat of the Indian Government as the Duke of Cambridge to the War Department. The Viceroy to be the supreme head of the army in India. The military member of the Council to be a Cabinet Minister in charge of the War Department. Garrisons to be rearranged, and several single battalion stations to be abandoned. The commands at Julpigoree, Berhampore, Daka, Bhaugulpore, Seegowlee, Gowhatty, Tezpore, Dibroghur, Jowai, and various Assam posts, as also Hazareebagh, to be abandoned. As regards European troops in the North West, Chunar, Goruckpore, Seetapore, Moradabad, Shahjehanpore, Mutra, Sepree, Lullutpore, and Jhansi. In Bombay, Hyderabad, Sind, Bhooj, Mehedpoor Anjar, Deesa, Malligaum, Hoshungabad, and Dharwar to cease to exist as stations for troops; and possibly the British troops at Jubbulpore and Kamptee to be removed to Pachmaree. Troops to be removed from Vellore, Quilon, Trichoor, Trivandrum, Pallamcottah, Merkara, French Rocks, and Vizianagram in Madras, and British troops from Cannanore and Wellington. Arrrangements to be so made that at any time an army corps consisting of 55,000 infantry, 12,600 cavalry, 240 field guns, eighteen siege guns, and twenty-one companies of Sappers may be immediately mobilised. Plans for mobilising the same and for attack and defence to be always ready in the Commander in Chief's office. The strength of the British cavalry regiments in India to be four squadrons, or 586 men; of the British infantry regiments to be eight companies, or 1,044 men; the horse artillery to be reduced by five batteries. The number of mountain batteries to be raised to eight, field batteries to 28, and heavy field batteries to 17. A new corps of sappers to be raised of three companies. A new guide corps to be formed; also two native pioneer regiments. Each army corps to have a reserve in the Native Army consisting of 200 per regiment, to be formed as the first reserve, and to consist of sepoys with from 12 to 21 years' service, with pay at four rupees monthly. The reserve to be embodied at a regimental depot for training by European officers every two years. These men after 20 years to be drafted to the second reserve, or pension list, on the same pay. They are only liable to garrison duty or to duty on an emergency up to 32 years' service, when they must permanently retire. There is to be no European or native cavalry reserve. No local army recommended, but the short-service system to be modified. European troops to be located on the hills as much as possible. Army commands to be divided into eight first-class districts, commanded by a general officer with pay at Rs.3,500 monthly; eight second-class districts, commanded by a general officer with pay at Rs.2,500 monthly; eight third-class districts, commanded by a general officer with pay at Rs.2,000 monthly. Besides these commands, six important garrisons to be given to colonels on the staff, with staff allowance of Rs.800 monthly, in addition to pay of rank. Minor station commands divided into two classes—first, with Rs.300 added to pay of rank; second, with Rs.200 added to pay of rank. Native regiments to be recruited at certain fixed recruiting grounds. Promotion to the rank of native officer to be made in Bengal and the Punjab by direct appointment from among cadets of good family who have received a military education at a military school. In other army corps promotion to be by selection. Native States to be induced to reduce their armies gradually. Native contingents to be regarded as separate and purely local bodies. The troops of native States to be forbidden to carry arms of precision. Their field artillery to be reduced to the smallest limits. Unnecessary interference with Scindia deprecated, but the Nizam is to be induced gradually to curtail his forces. The civil employment of military officers to be discontinued. Those choosing a civil career to resign their commissions, political employ being the exception. Staff corps to be gradually abolished—first, by grouping three or four native infantry regiments into one regiment, and promoting officers in regiments so formed; secondly, by forming a general list of officers of each army corps, and making promotions in each list as vacancies occur in the army. The ranks for the native infantry to be one lieutenant colonel, one major, three captains, and four lieutenants; for the native cavalry, one lieutenant colonel, one major, four captains, and four lieutenants. Officers joining the army hereafter to be promoted in army rank in the list of the army corps to which they may be posted. Regimental promotion to be according to regimental list. Officers who joined the staff corps before 1866 to be exceptionally dealt with. Officers now in civil employ to be kept on a separate list and promoted therein. Until they disappear they will be considered non-effectives, unfit for regimental or departmental employ. Those whose appointments are abolished will, if of over 27 years' service, furlough counting as service, be granted the next grade of pension, plus annuity or bonus, under the retirement scheme of 1879. Those of from 30 to 38 years' service, pensions as above, with additional annuity or bonus. The system of colonel's allowances to be recast. For the future these allowances to be considered as pensions, those succeeding to them being regarded as non-effectives. One thousand pounds fixed as colonel's allowance. Consolidated retirement after 32 years' service to be the rule. Future servants retiring before 32 years' service to be liable to recall to service in case of national emergency, or if required. Medical department to be recast. The civil medical service to be separated from the military, and the latter amalgamated with the British Army Medical Department, forming one list. Netley Hospital to be abolished. Volunteering to be encouraged, but not made compulsory on Government servants as was proposed.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

THE following extract from a letter from the Adjutant General of India, dated Feb. 9, to General Roberts, has been published at Cabul:—"In acknowledging receipt of your despatch of the 23rd ultimo, with its enclosure, I am directed by the Commander in Chief to express to you the extreme pleasure with which his Excellency has read your reports, conveying, as they do, in a most soldier-like and graphic manner, a full and vivid description of the events recorded. Sir Frederick Haines desires me to congratulate you and the troops under your command on the ability and gallantry with which the operations from the 11th to the 23rd December, against overwhelming numbers, have been carried out from first to last, and I am to request that you will communicate his Excellency's sentiments to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of your force. The condition in which you were placed, owing to defective information as to the extent of the combination against you, in having your force scattered in various directions, was most serious, and his Excellency considers that very great credit is due to you for the ability with which you extricated yourself from such a difficult position and concentrated your troops in the cantonment of Sherpur. In this operation you were well and gallantly seconded by all ranks. Sir F. Haines can quite understand the reluctance with which you surrendered the Bala Hissar and city of Cabul to the enemy, but his Excellency is fully satisfied that the decision come to by you was, under the circumstances, the right one. The subsequent defence of the cantonment and the final dispersion of the enemy were most satisfactory. The Commander in Chief has read with pride your reports of the acts of valour and devotion performed by individuals, and Sir F. Haines will take care that your recommendations regarding those whom you believe to have most distinguished themselves receive his fullest consideration and support. His Excellency deplores, in common with the whole force, the loss of so many gallant officers and men, British and native, among whom the following appear to have been most prominent:—Major Cook of the 5th Ghoorkhas, Captains Spens of the 72nd and Beatson of the 9th Lancers; Lieutenants Forbes of the 92nd and Montanaro of the Artillery; Jemadars Jung Bahadur of the Guides and Jhunda Sing of the 5th Cavalry; Sergeant-Major Spittle of the Lancers; Colour-Sergeants Drummond of the 92nd and Yule of the 72nd; Duffadar Jeward Sing of the 5th Punjab Cavalry; and Havildar Sham Sing of the 5th Punjab Infantry. The deeds of such men remain for ever in the memory of the army, which, while deeply mourning their loss, dwells with pride on the noble example of devotion they have set. In conclusion, I am to state that Sir F. Haines quite concurs with you in the reasons through which you originally decided on the occupation of the Sherpur Cantonments in preference to the Bala Hissar, and he further agrees that you acted quite rightly under the circumstances in not destroying the villages, though their destruction, so as to make a clear space round the cantonment, was as a military precaution desirable. Your policy in endeavouring to render the British occupation of Cabul as little irksome as possible to the inhabitants was, in his Excellency's opinion, perfectly correct, notwithstanding that carrying this out you left standing villages and walled enclosures, from which considerable trouble resulted during the subsequent defence of the cantonment."

MR. GLADSTONE AND THE VICEROY OF INDIA.

THE Indian Press Commissioner, Mr. Roper Lethbridge, writes concerning Mr. Gladstone's statement that the vernacular Press of India is "now more completely within the grasp of the Viceroy than the Press of Russia is in that of the Czar." This statement must have been made under an entire misapprehension of the working of the Indian Press Act of 1878. That Act places the initiation and execution of all proceedings in regard to the vernacular Press entirely in the hands of the local or provincial Governments—that is, of the governors, lieutenant governors, and chief commissioners of the various provinces, with their local advisers. All that the Viceroy and his Council have to do in the matter is to act as a check on the proceedings of the local Governments, to see that no proceedings are taken arbitrarily or without very sufficient cause; and this grave responsibility is shared by the Viceroy with the entire Council, consisting of the Commander in Chief, the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal or the Punjab, the Law Member of Council (always an eminent English barrister), and several others, in all cases leading men of the permanent civil and military services of the Empire. Neither the moral characters nor even the political opinions of the permanent Indian services are liable to change with the changes in the political complexion of the home Government. However nefarious may be the designs of a Tory Viceroy, he is absolutely powerless to interefere with the vernacular Press of India, further than to veto or confirm, as the case may be, proceedings that have already been initiated by and received the general approbation of the permanent Indian authorities. And it must be clear to everyone that the Viceroy, even in the exercise of this secondary power of the veto, is amenable not only to Parliament, but also to an ever-vigilant and efficient public opinion, both here and in India. It is quite certain that if the Viceroy were to so much as lift up his little finger in the way of intimidating or coercing an Indian editor, the whole world would soon hear all about the matter. When this happens a comparison may with some show of justice be instituted publicly between an English Viceroy and the Russian Czar.—Times.

POPULAR REPRESENTATION IN INDIA.

A PAPER on this subject was read yesterday afternoon before the East India Association by Sir David Wedderburn, M.P. The chair was occupied by Sir Charles Wingfield, C.B., K.C.S.I. The lecturer said that his object was to elicit the views of old Indians and native gentlemen as to the best means for ascertaining the true feelings and wants of the people of India. He felt convinced that the Legislative Councils in India were the bodies into which an independent elective element representing the Indian taxpayer might be introduced. The admission of even a few representatives to Parliament would be too difficult. The non-official nominees in the present councils were not only in a minority, but could not form an independent Opposition. That these opinions and criticisms were even now sometimes useful was shown by the instance of the opposition offered by Mr. Morarjee Goculdas to the Bombay Irrigation Bill introduced last April. Although the bill was passed it had not, up to the present time, received the sanction of the Secretary of State. The arrangements already in successful operation in the municipalities, of which the municipal constitution of Bombay is the most popular in form, might be applied to the Legislative Councils. In the case of these municipalities, there existed already constituencies to whom might well be entrusted the privilege of electing representative members for the Legislative Councils. A commencement might at once be made by conferring this privilege upon the three Presidency cities and a few other large centres of population; thus adopting a course similar to that proposed by the present Prime Minister in the India Bill of 1858—viz., to give seats in Council to five members elected by the principal commercial cities of the United Kingdom. The lecturer proceeded to quote various authorities on the advantage to be gained by consulting the natives, especially on financial questions. Among others, he adduced the opinions of Lords Minto and Mayo. The letters of the former showed his conviction that the chief impediment to the improvement of the native race, and the chief disadvantage under which their European rulers laboured, was to be found in their reciprocal ignorance of each other's language and modes of thought. "One of the first objects of Government should be to assist them to understand each other." Lord Mayo speaks also in the clearest possible language: "There are large and rich districts from one end of India to the other wherein there are men of sufficient ability and intelligence who are willing to assist their rulers. What we want is to recognise the principle that we wish to associate with ourselves, whenever it is possible, the natives of the country." In an address to the University, Sir Charles Turner, Chief Justice at Madras, said:—"There are thousands in this land desirous of the privileges of citizenship, hundreds who are capable of them. To this city there has recently been conceded what is by no means the first instalment of such privileges—local self-government. Believe me, when the common acquiescence of the enlightened among your countrymen conceive the hour has arrived for advancing the demand, England will not be slow in conceding to her Indian subjects the full privileges of citizenship, for which so many of her wisest sons have laboured to fit them." Sir Bartle Frere had drawn up a scheme of a representative constitution for India, in which he took the existing village councils as the foundation of his system, and proposed that the village councils should have the right of selecting and sending up representatives to district councils, these in their turn electing members to serve in provincial councils. By these means he considered that we should obtain organisations analogous to those existing in this country for the administration of parishes and counties; and he maintained that the "provincial councils might be unreservedly consulted as to the funds of the province, and that no measure should be adopted affecting the masses of the people till thoroughly discussed in the provincial assembly." Mr. M. J. Shaw Stewart, of the Bengal Civil Service, recently addressed a memorial to the Secretary of State in which he suggested the formation of a central representative council, consisting entirely of unofficial members, before whom all projects of administration should be laid for consideration. The lecturer repudiated the idea of an Indian House of Commons, and advocated cautious and gradual introduction of the principle of representation, and concluded by saying "that Englishmen desire to govern India with a due regard to the wishes and requirements of her people, and that it is knowledge, not good intentions, in which they are mainly deficient. The time seems now to have arrived for the Government of India to apply to Parliament for such powers as may be necessary to develop in India the principle of popular representation, already successfully introduced into the constitution of Indian municipalities, and sanctioned by the approval of many distinguished Indian administrators."

A discussion followed—or rather a series of short and somewhat discursive speeches—in which the general consensus both on the part of the English and Native gentlemen was in favour of some improved mode of eliciting the opinions and enlisting the deliberative help of the Indian populations; but, as Mr. Abul Hussein complained, there was a want of practical suggestions. Mr. Long recalled to the meeting the fact that India was a congeries of States but newly united, and that a vast percentage of the population could not read or write. He urged the giving of full scope to the native press to record their opinions on all subjects. General Cavanagh urged the necessity of making the population acquainted with our feelings and motives, which were often misunderstood. Mr. Krishna Dutt objected to mere consultative bodies without effective control over the measures submitted; and Mr. Hyndman forcibly pointed out what he understood to be the great, if not hopeless, difficulty both in the rural and urban population of procuring representatives. The chairman referred to the greater knowledge of and sympathy with the natives possessed by civilians in old times, which was due to the different circumstances of life and government, and referred to a letter by Sir R. Montgomery suggesting the establishment of consultative councils.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

RAILWAY EXTENSION.—The railway is making such progress from Raepore towards Bombay that another extension is to be opened to passenger traffic, it is said, on March 1. The Delhi Gazette congratulated its Agra readers by anticipation on being able to go to Mount Aboo by rail, if not this hot season, yet in the present year of grace 1880; and thinks there is much probability that the railway route from Agra and Delhi through Rajputana will be open throughout for passengers before twelve months pass.—Bombay Gazette.

THE CALCUTTA MAGISTRACY.—We learn that several Eurasian gentlemen have recently been recommended to the Bengal Government as eligible for appointment as honorary magistrates. This is certainly a move in the right direction, because the honorary bench ought to be, as far as posssble, a representative bench. There are Eurasian gentlemen of great ability in Calcutta who are deserving of this distinction. Such men as Messrs. H. R. Fink, C. A. Andrews, Dr. Konnath Stuart, Mr. Kellner, and others whom we need not mention (if they have not already been so recommended), would greatly strengthen the present magistracy, and their appointment would give great satisfaction to the entire Eurasian community.—Statesman.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At the general meeting of the Chitpore Hydraulic Pressing Company, held Feb. 13, a second ad interim dividend of 6 per cent., or Rs.6 per share, was declared. At the general meeting of the Oriental Jute Manufacturing Company, held Feb. 12, the report and accounts were adopted and passed, and Mr. Charles Halford was elected a director in the place of Mr. Heilgers, who had proceeded to Europe.—Englishman.

MR. DARWOOD AND KING THEEBAW.—An agent of the Bombay-Burma Trading Corporation has been getting into trouble at Mandalay, whence a correspondent writes as follows to a Calcutta paper:—"Within the past week several gentlemen from Rangoon and Moulmein have favoured us with a visit. Among them I will mention Messrs. Wallace and Bryce from Rangoon, and Mr. Kennedy from Moulmein. The first two gentlemen, who are members of the Bombay-Burma Corporation, I am informed, have come up on account of Mr. Darwood, and it is hoped their presence will induce the King to treat Mr. Darwood with a little more consideration than he has done lately. The story concerning Mr. Darwood may be explained in a few words. A monstrous claim has been brought against him, and he was warned not to leave Mandalay till he had settled it up. Mr. Darwood has for some years past been working the Neugan forests, under an agreement with the Burmese Government to pay them so much for every log of timber he brought out. He has been in the habit of rendering yearly accounts of the timber drawn out by him from time to time and exported from the country. By some secret means, however, it would appear that the Ministers have discovered that these accounts were not correct or faithfully rendered, and they have shown a glaring discrepancy between Mr. Darwood's accounts and those furnished by their own agents, proving that the Burmese Government were being defrauded of a large sum of money. This they have now called upon Mr. Darwood to refund, and, as he is intimately connected with the Bombay-Burma Corporation, the gentlemen I have named above have come up to enter into some sort of a settlement. Meantime, Mr. Darwood's work is at a standstill, as the Ministers have given orders for every obstacle to be put in the way of his getting any more timber."—Bombay Gazette.

H.I.M.'s STEAMER "IRRAWADDY."—The steamer Irrawaddy, which had already become somewhat notorious in Burma owing to her nearly colliding with a flotilla steamer up-country through mistaking the rule of the road, and which could not get alongside a wharf some months ago in the Rangoon river, necessitating the chief commissioner landing in a sampan, has now refused to go to visit the lighthouse where she was ordered. Her commander states that she is not fit to go to sea, and as she certainly is not of much use up-country, except as a laughingstock for the Burmese, it might be as well to dispose of her. As the Irrawaddy steamed here from Calcutta only five years ago it seems wonderful why she could not have gone safely in February to the Krishna lighthouse. A small private steamer, the Nagpoota, had to be hired to do the work, and Government will have to pay the cost of the two steamers whilst getting no work out of one. It is a pity, if Government steamers cannot be better looked after, that they do not give their marine work out on contract. It would be done cheaper and much more efficiently.—Englishman.

BURMESE, RANGOON, AND PROME RAILWAY.—The traffic returns on the Rangoon and Prome Railway show a large increase over last year. The passenger rates are kept very low, and if these were raised somewhat there is no doubt the line would pay remarkably well. The present receipts are about enough to pay a 2 per cent. dividend on the cost, which, as this was the first railway introduced in the province, and considering the expense of labour in Burma, is, I think satisfactory. It is to be hoped the Government do not mean indefinitely to shelve the Sittang Valley Railway line from Rangoon to Toungoo, where there will be no large navigable river to compete for the traffic, as is the case with the Prome line. The route from here to Toungoo has been surveyed, but, owing to the financial pressure, we hear nothing more about it at present, and it takes almost as long to send troops there now, after we have had the place for a quarter of a century, as it would for us to get reinforcements from Bombay.—Englishman.

RECRUITING for the native army is being largely attempted in the Punjab. The Lahore paper states that nearly all the regiments under the Commander in Chief have their recruiting parties out of Dogras, Punjabis, and Sikhs. The Punjab Government employs also, for the purpose of recruiting for the frontier force, European officers, who travel through the country.—Englishman.

INDIAN TEA.—The weather so far augurs well for 1880, and a bumper crop is expected. Taking that of 1879 at 36,000,000lb., 40,000,000lb. is a low estimate for the coming year with a continuance of fair weather. The consumption of Indian tea in England has been 35¼ millions in 1879, so that, unless a steady increase takes place in the home consumption, average prices are not likely to exceed, if they equal, those of 1879. This will cause shareholders and others interested in tea to compare the expenditure and revenue of former years with the prospects for the future. The labour question is a serious one for Assam and Cachar. A large crop of rice in most of the recruiting districts makes it a matter of heavy outlay to entice coolies from their homes, and, taking the average of all the tea sold in Calcutta at about nine annas six pies per pound, those gardens which cannot work cheaper than that must eventually go to the wall. Without in any way wishing to write in a depressing tone, there are many garden reports to come before the public in the next two months which will fully bear out our remarks—viz., tea costing ten annas to make and selling at nine annas. The fact is that many of the old concerns of Assam and Cachar cannot hold out against those planted seven or eight years ago unless they can work far more economically than hitherto. It is no use blaming agents and planters; the question is primarily one of supply and demand, and those who can produce the cheapest will be the only winners in a contest which becomes more serious yearly as the supply increases.—Ibid.

A SUPPOSED NEW DISEASE IN CALCUTTA.—Some excitement has been caused in Calcutta during the last two months by the appearance of a supposed new disease, attended with large mortality. Medical men differ as to its nature. The prevailing opinion seems to be that it is identical with the disease known in Madras and Ceylon as "Beriberi." Its main features are thus specified by the municipal health officer:—Swelling of the limbs, fever, occasionally bowel complaints, in many cases burning and pain in the affected limbs, shortness of breathing, great emaciation in fatal cases. Death by this disease is generally sudden. The disease seems to have first appeared in the suburbs of Calcutta in the rains of 1877, but it has not attracted much attention until this year. The most remarkable circumstances in its history are its gradual spread from the southern parts of the town towards the north, its pronounced localisation, and its seizure of whole families. It has hitherto affected only natives, Eurasians, and Armenians, not a single European case having been reported; and this, too, although the disease prevails chiefly in the European quarter of the town. It is said to be now dying out, but may probably break out again in the rainy season.—Times Telegram.

INFANTICIDE.—The criminal statistics contained in the report of the working of the Infanticide Act in the North West Provinces and Oudh during the year 1878-79 show that there were thirty-five suspicious cases of infanticide, of which six were sent up for trial. In four of these convictions were obtained against five persons. In two cases, against six persons, there were acquittals. The charges incurred amounted to Rs.28,370-13-5.—Bombay Gazette.

THE SALWEEN.—The suggestion made by the Rangoon Gazette for a survey of the river Salween to ascertain what would be the cost of making this river navigable for steamers from Moulmain would, I have no doubt, be entered into heartily by the Irrawaddy Flotilla Company, which has done so much for our inland steam trade. If at no great cost the Salween could be made available for steamers drawing, say, 3½ft. of water for 300 or 400 miles from its mouth, I feel sure the Flotilla Company here would guarantee to turn out a couple of steamers for the trade on the Salween within a twelvemonth of the time that competent engineers pronounced it navigable. The trade of Zimmay, which now almost all is borne on the Menam to Bangkok, would doubtless find its way in part to Moulmain, for although a land journey of several days would have to be undertaken before goods could reach the Salween from Zimmay, the route is not a very difficult one, and is every year traversed by timber traders and Shans who carry heavy weights on their shoulders. It is sincerely to be hoped, then, in the interests of Moulmain and her trade, that Government may send a survey party along the banks of the Salween with portable boats and instructions to see the depth in the places where obstructions exist, and at what probable cost such obstructions could be removed by blasting or other operations. As our district officer at the Salween often visits the Siamese authorities, with whom he is on the best of terms, we may be sure that no hindrances would be placed in the way of such survey party from that side. With Upper Burma if any difficulty is anticipated, this survey of the Salween should be one of the points we should insist upon when the next treaty with that Power comes to be revised. But the Burmese Government make such a handsome thing out of the steam traffic on the Irrawaddy that we may be sure they would only be too delighted if there was a prospect of a similar lucrative trade on the Salween, where it runs through their country or through States tributary to their Government.—Stateman's Rangoon Correspondent.

THE LAND REVENUE.—The enormous inequality of the pressure of State burdens on the land in Bengal and in other provinces cannot be too prominently noticed. We reproduce the figures:—

PROVINCE.	Area in square miles.	Population.	Land rent paid to Government.	Total land rent (gross estimated).	Local cesses.
Bengal	189,000	63,000,000	3,663,000	18,000,000	560,000
N. W. Provinces ...	81,000	31,000,000	4,298,000	9,000,000	929,000
Punjab	98,000	17,000,000	2,005,000	4,000,000	300,000
Madras	138,000	31,000,000	3,296,000	9,000,000	802,000
Bombay	124,000	16,000,000	3,344,000	7,000,000	423,000

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—The unfixed tonnage on Feb. 25 stood at 45,430 tons. London via Canal: The market closed very firm at £2 12s. for rice or wheat; £3 10s. for cotton, hides, tea, &c.; £3, nominal, for linseed and jute; poppy and rape nominal. For London via Cape, the market closed firm at £2 2s. 6d. for rice, £2 2s. 6d., nominal, for linseed, £2 7s. 6d., nominal, for poppy; £2 5s. for cotton, and £1 17s. 6d. to £2 nominal, for jute. For Liverpool via Canal, the rates close firm at £2 10s. to £2 15s. for dead-weight, and at £3 5s. for measurement. For Liverpool via Cape.—Castor oil £2 5s., and linseed and gunnies at £2. The market closed steady at the above quotations.—Englishman.

MADRAS.

REVISED GRANT-IN-AID RULES.—His Grace the Governor in Council has sanctioned the revised draft of grant-in-aid rules subject to certain amendments accepted or suggested by the Director of Public Instruction. His Grace in Council considers that in no case should a certificate be granted to a normal student whose period of training has been less than twelve months; but he agrees with the director in thinking that it is expedient to add the theory of school management to the test of candidates for ordinary certificates. The appropriation of the educational building fund will not be disturbed. His Grace in Council considers that grants should be allowed for school furniture, maps, and libraries, but the grant should be allowed once only in the case of furniture, and not more frequently than once in five years in the case of maps. Grants-in-aid to libraries will not be restricted, but the disposal of applications for such is left wholly to the discretion of the Director of Public Instruction. His Grace in Council considers that Rule 22 is sufficiently explicit as it stands. The period during which the privileges secured under the old rules as regards grants will be allowed to operate will be until March 31, 1882, or for a period of two years from the introduction of the rules now sanctioned. His Grace in Council is disposed to admit the force of the subjoined suggestions made by Mr. Marden. The director has been directed to submit draft rules giving them effect for the approval of Government. The provision contained in Rule 11 does not appear sufficient for securing the due employment of a teacher or for gauging the grant which he should receive. The draft rule should, however, be so framed as not to restrain unduly the powers of managers as to the particular employment of a teacher—possibly a provision that a teacher shall not be employed except occasionally on work not specified at the time of application for grant, without intimation of such change to the divisional inspector, would suffice. The code of rules now approved will come into force from April 1, 1880. The following are Mr. Marden's suggestions referred to above:—"As the rules stand, a grant depends only on two conditions—first, that the manager pays his portion; and, second, that the teacher possesses certain qualifications. Nothing is said about the work that the teacher is to perform, it being assumed that no manager will pay his teacher more than the market value of his labour. The first is the case of religious bodies where the mere secular work is a secondary consideration, and where managers will pay a good deal more than a man's value, considered simply as a teacher, in order to secure a person imbued with their own religious convictions. The second is the case of a fraudulent manager who agrees with his teacher to content himself with the Government grant and what can be raised by fees and subscriptions whilst signing a receipt for the full amount of grant. The object of such a manager is to secure a grant above the market value of his man in order to raise the amount payable by Government. To meet these two cases there should be a rule to the effect that no teacher should receive a grant higher than one calculated according to what would be the salary paid in a Government school for the work which he is to perform in the aided school. There is another rule that would be very desirable, and that is that grants should be assigned for certain work, and that the managers should not be at liberty to assign to the teacher any other work without the sanction of the department. As the rules now stand a teacher who has received a grant for teaching a fourth class may be made to teach a third, where his pay is unnecessarily high, or a fifth where his qualifications are insufficient, at the discretion or whim of the manager."—Madras Times.

THE NILGIRI COMMISSION.—The appointment of commissioner of the Nilgiris is doomed, as the Government have decided that, for the future, the civil servant holding that appointment shall be styled the collector and magistrate of the Nilgiri district. The pay of the appointment will not undergo any change, but the collector will have charge of Todanad, Kundanad, and S. E. Wynaad, an arrangement which, we think, will meet with the approval of the planting community of the Wynaad. The collector will, in addition to revenue duties, perform those of sessions judge. He will be assisted by a deputy collector who, in addition to the charge of the treasury, will go through the duties now devolving upon the assistant commissioner, who will, in turn, be transferred to Coonoor and be styled head assistant to the collector of the Nilgiri district. There will be no change in the salaries of these officials. The cost of the establishment for general duties will be Rs.427; for the account branch Rs.220 per month. A sub judge is to be appointed for Ooty on a salary of Rs.500 a month, with an establishment costing Rs.257 per month. The appointment of joint magistrate will be abolished. It is expected that these arrangements will be carried out from April 1 next, and that they will result in a saving of nearly Rs.18,000 per annum to the State. The Nilgiri commission was formed during the régime of Sir William Denison; it was one of the first subjects that occupied the attention of the Madras Legislative Council, who passed an act for establishing the commission. The first commissioner of the district was Mr. A. W. Phillips, C.S., but, as he did not take up the appointment, the late Mr. Breeks, private secretary to Sir William, was appointed pucca commissioner of the Nilgiris.—Madras Standard.

A PEOPLE'S PARK AT TANJORE.—In the south-west corner and on the other side of the ditch which environs the Tanjore Fort about 200 acres of waste ground have been rented by the municipality from the receiver for Rs.200 per annum. This piece has been converted into a garden at a cost of Rs.1,000, and is intended for a people's park. To maintain the park a sum of Rs.8,000 has been raised by subscription, about half of which was paid by Mr. Thavasumuthu Nadar, Abkary contractor. The whole cost of labour was defrayed by Pundi Vandiars, a rich zemindar. We are indebted for this boon to the public to the late collector, Mr. C. S. Crole.—South Indian Post.

THE WYNAAD.—The past season has been a remarkably fine one, rain having fallen in twelve consecutive months, and coffee and cinchona bid fair to thrive. Crops generally have pleased proprietors, and in some cases unexpected bumpers are chronicled. But the great difficulty now being contended with is a want of transit, the available carts being wholly inadequate to the prompt delivery of produce on the coast. The present condition of estates which have been well cared for is most satisfactory, though the labour market in Mysore is deemed uncertain and unsatisfactory by those who are best able to judge of the matter. We have to record the deaths of two well-known planters. Mr. A. H. Steedman, who had been ailing for a short time only, died at Calicut, and Mr. Edward Atkins, who had gone to Australia for change, died at Melbourne. News of the latter sad event was received by telegram.—South of India Observer.

THE LABOUR MARKET IN THE MADRAS PRESIDENCY.—One of the most interesting tables in the last Administration Report for the Madras Presidency is that which gives the average of wages per month in the various districts. Assuming the figures given therein to be correct, there are some curious inferences to be drawn therefrom. In Ganjam a common mason, carpenter, or blacksmith received but seven-and-a-half rupees in 1875. Last year the rate of wages had risen to twelve rupees, an advance of 60 per cent. In Vizagapatam there was an advance from Rs.9-12 per month to Rs.11-4 in the same period, or an increase of but 15 per cent. In Cuddapah, on the other hand, the wages for the same class of men fell from Rs.22-8 in 1875 to Rs.15 in 1878—that is, there was a decrease of nearly 34 per cent. In Madras there was a fall in the five years of ten annas in the monthly wages of artisans. It is somewhat remarkable that the same class of men who receive twenty-two and a-half rupees a month in Madura receive but fourteen rupees six annas in Tinnevelly. We should have thought that such a wide divergence in the rates of pay ruling in two districts so near to each other would have been an impossibility. We cannot account for the fact. It may be that the table is not reliable, or it may be that artisans brought up in one district decline to seek employment in another. The district in which artisans receive the largest pay appears to be the Nilgiris, for their monthly wages are set down at Rs.27-8 a month, being Rs.2-8 a month higher than the current rate four years ago. In the Salem district the rates of wages have fallen slightly, while in South Canara they have risen fully 10 per cent. The compiler of these figures is careful to tell us that common masons, carpenters, or blacksmiths are paid in villages partly in grain and partly in money. It is only labourers and artisans in and about towns that, as a rule, are remunerated for work by money wages. It is only in four or five districts—Kistna, Cuddapah, Nilgiris, South Canara, and Malabar—that able-bodied agricultural labourers receive seven and a-half rupees a month. The conclusion drawn from the figures is that wages of artisans rose in Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Kistna, Nellore, Madras, Malabar, and South Canara; and fell in Bellary, Chingleput, Trichinopoly, Coimbatore, and Salem, but the fluctuations are not very material. Wages remained stationary in the other districts.—Madras Times.

GOLD MINING IN MYSOR.—Gold mining in the Kolar district of the Mysor territory has rapidly improved during the past year. The Ooregum Company, of which I wrote to you in December, 1878, have been doing some excellent business lately by the sales of some of their "claims" in London. Blocks have been secured by two English companies with capital, respectively, of £25,000 and £15,000, and a sum of £7,500 was paid in the city only a few days ago for a small block for private speculation, the tests of the outcrops in which have yielded an average of two ounces per ton. At the present rate of sales, and considering the enhanced outturn of gold which skilful working and improved appliances are now producing, the Ooregum Company's grant of land is now valued at £600,000. The plucky few who put their hands to the plough in the first instance, and have had the nerve not to look back in spite of bad luck at starting, may now congratulate themselves upon the certain prospect of making their fortunes.—Pioneer.

BOMBAY.

CARTS FOR AFGHANISTAN.—Government have acknowledged "the valuable services rendered by Mr. Rowe, the superintendent of municipal workshops, in completing so rapidly the order for carts and their spare appurtenances, despatched to Sind since October last." From January last to the present time 1,900 carts have been made up in the workshops, in addition to hay presses and other supplies. Colonel Willoughby, acting commissary general, reported to Government that "had the factory under Mr. Rowe not given such ready help in making the carts within a limited time, by working day and night, Government would have found it difficult, if not impossible, to complete the transport train in so short a time, and would, in any case, have been put to much expense to obtain skill and energy resembling those which have been shown by Mr. Rowe."—Bombay Gazette.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING OF A NATIVE.—The official report regarding the accidental shooting of a native by Col. Dunsterville, the Karachi Civil and Military Gazette states, shows that a mere trivial skin wound by a spent ball was the real result. Native report magnified this in a dozen ways in Karachi and Hyderabad, the mildest of which made the affair mortal.—Ibid.

THE NEW COURTS.—The actual cost of the High Court buildings at Bombay amounts to Rs.16,44,528, being Rs.43,000 over the estimated cost.—Ibid.

OPIUM.—It is officially notified that, on and after Feb. 25, opium will be issued from all Government depots in the Presidency of Bombay, including Sind, at the fixed rate of Rs.13-12 per pound.—Ibid.

PORTUGUESE OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE.—We learn that, in consideration of permission to establish a British Post-office at Damaon, the Portuguese Government have made a proposal to the postal authorities in Bombay to accord to the interchange of official correspondence between the Governments of Goa, Damaon, and Diu the same rights and privileges which the official correspondence in British India enjoys.—Ibid.

THE STEAMSHIP "VINGORLA."—Inquiry into the loss of this steamer is proceeding at Bombay. Nothing has yet been elicited to account for the accident. The steamer, when docked last January, was perfectly sound, and never touched the ground since then. All her officers declare that she did not touch any fishermen's stakes when leaving the harbour, and that they felt no concussion or shock of any kind. One theory is that the leak may have been due to a neglected pipe of the native passengers' latrine, but evidence, so far, seems to disprove this. Her boat accommodation seems to have been insufficient. When the vessel was discovered to be sinking three boats were launched in charge of the second and third officers. The fourth, and only remaining boat, broke in two while being lowered owing to the rush of deck passengers into it. The captain, the engineers, and a large number of the crew and the native deck passengers sank with the vessel. The chief officer jumped overboard just as she was sinking and swam to some floating wood, on which he and two natives supported themselves for nineteen hours till picked up by the steamer Britannia. The three boats were picked up next morning by the steamer Malda, which at once returned to the scene of the wreck and cruised about for some time, but without finding anyone. A subscription is being raised at Bombay for the captain's wife, who was among the passengers saved.—Times Telegram.

MOVEMENT OF BOMBAY TROOPS.—We understand that the Bombay transport authorities have applied to Government for the use of the Malabar troopship, on her arrival from Natal, for the conveyance of the 15th Regiment to Karachi. A special troop train, conveying the 14-9 and 15-9 Batteries, R.A., under the command, respectively, of Majors Crawford and Arbuckle, and in the medical charge of Surgeon Robert Anderson, arrived in Bombay on Feb. 21 from Deolali. Both batteries were originally ordered to Aden, but the orders were countermanded, and they were ordered to the front. Soon after the arrival of the train in Bombay the men of the 14-9 Battery were embarked on board the hired Government transport steamer Chilka, together with their guns, baggage, and ammunition. The men of the F-2 Battery, R.A., were also embarked on the Chilka. In all about 80 men and horses and 15 bullocks belonging to this battery were embarked. Belonging to the 14-9 Battery there were embarked four officers and 79 men, besides a large number of followers attached to both batteries. The following are the names of the officers embarked:—F-2 R.A., Major Dewar, Captain Blakeley, and Lieutenant Bunbury; 14-9 R.A., Major Crawford, Captain Buckle, and Lieutenants Calder and Ogilvie. Surgeon Major Bunnyman and Lieutenant Whitby, of the 1st Grenadier Regiment N. I., were also embarked on the Chilka, which sailed for Karachi on Monday evening. On Feb. 22 the I.G.S. Tenasserim sailed for Karachi with the 15-9 Battery R.A., the numbers embarked being 7 officers, 151 men, 10 women, 15 children, 160 followers, 51 horses, and 14 bullocks. The following arrangements have been made for the movement of troops still remaining to be embarked:—The hired transport Chilka leaves Karachi about Feb. 27, and arrives in Bombay about March 1. The I.G.S. Tenasserim will leave Karachi the following day, and is also expected to arrive about the 1st proximo. The latter vessel on its arrival will be docked, and will proceed to Madras about March 6. The Chilka will embark on March 4 the D-B R.H.A., consisting of 138 men, 250 followers, 175 horses, and 8 bullocks. The I.G.S. Dalhousie will sail the same day with 20 men, 170 followers, 20 horses, and 13 bullocks belonging to the same battery. Both the Chilka and the Dalhousie will return to Bombay about March 12. The next troops to leave will be the 23rd and 24th Regiments N.I., which will be immediately embarked on the Chilka and Czarewitch. The 23rd N.I. will be of about the following strength:—8 European officers, 15 native officers, 619 men, 206 followers, 8 horses, and 8 bullocks. Of the 24th N.I. there will be embarked 3 European officers, 8 native officers, 315 men, 93 followers, 5 horses, and 4 bullocks. The two boats will leave about March 12, the Chilka towing the Czarewitch. The remainder of the 24th N.I. will leave a day or two afterwards in the Dalhousie, the following being the numbers expected to be embarked:—3 European officers, 8 native officers, 315 men, 93 followers, 5 horses, and 4 bullocks. On the return of the Chilka, Dalhousie, and Czarewitch from Karachi they will then be prepared to move 2nd Light Cavalry, the probable strength of which is as follows:—7 European officers, 16 native officers, 395 men, 450 followers, 426 horses, and 245 mules and ponies. The following circular has been issued by the Quartermaster General, Bombay:—The two squadrons 1st Light Cavalry, at Neemuch, will march at once, without relief, to Khundwa, and there take rail for Puna, to relieve the 2nd Light Cavalry. 2. The squadron 1st Light Cavalry, at Nusseerabad, to march at once, without relief, to Neemuch. 3. Families to accompany the above squadrons. 4. The headquarters of the 1st Cavalry will remain at Neemuch. 5. The 2nd Regiment Light Cavalry, at Puna, will, on relief, march to Bombay for embarkation in accordance with instructions already issued.—Times of India.

OFFICIAL PAPERS.

THE NAGA HILLS.

EXTRACT FROM LETTER FROM THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF ASSAM, NO. T.E., DATED CACHAR, FEB. 4, 1880.

1. In continuation of my telegrams and letter of yesterday's date I am now directed to explain, for the information of the Government of India, the present arrangement of the police posts along the North Cachar frontier where it borders on the Angami country, and the dispositions which the chief commissioner has made for the further protection of this part of the district.

2. The path by which the Nagas would ordinarily come down to Baladhun lies along the lofty range of hills which runs almost parallel with the Jhiri River, some way to the west of it, and is a continuation of the Burhail Kurhail range. On the Manipore road there is a police thannah at Lackhipur, and an outpost of frontier police at Jhirighat. These, however, are behind the advanced gardens, and afford no protection to them. Going from Baladhun along the above path in a north east direction, the first post is Hangram, thirty miles off, where there are eighteen men and a stone stockade; the spot is not marked in all the maps, but is about one mile south of the Hemeo peak. Still following the same path, the next post is Tinglo, seven miles off, with the same number of men in it; and, again, twelve miles in a north west direction, is Semkhar, with eighteen men. These three posts, together with Asalu, form an outside chain, within which are Kuki villages, through which

Angamis would not be likely to pass. All Nagas coming down the track on which these posts stand have to give up their arms, which are kept there till they return; but there is really no means of preventing Angamis, even in large numbers, from evading these posts, as they must have done in the recent attack on Baladhun.

3. The chief commissioner has ordered the guard at each of these posts to be doubled, and has authorised the deputy commissioner to attach to each post for the next three months six Kuki scouts, for the purpose of visiting neighbouring villages, bringing information, and conveying letters. He thinks this is a more likely way (looking to the nature of the country) of obtaining information of the movements of any marauding party than merely patrolling between the posts.

4. The posts themselves are not merely placed so as to protect the road, but they are also expected to protect some of the villages inhabited by what are called tame Nagas, who live in constant dread of the Angamis. The country to the west, especially along the path leading from Asalu to the plains by the valley of the Jatingah, is mainly inhabited by Kuki villages. These Kukis are hereditary foes of the Angamis, and have no fear of them. The path is used by Angamis for the purpose of trade, but the local authorities are convinced that there is no fear of their raiding in this direction, as they would have to run the gauntlet of hostile Kuki villages.

5. For the present protection of the gardens in the north east corner of the district of Cachar the chief commissioner reported in my telegram of yesterday that parties of military and police had been posted at the gardens named in the margin (Baladhun, Dixia, Lydacherra, Bartol, Paticherra, Kumbergram). For their permanent protection he has authorised the establishment of three stockaded posts, one at Baladhun of fifteen men, one at Jeypore of twenty-five men, one at Paticherra of fifteen men—the distance from end to end of this line is thirteen miles, and a regular patrol will be kept up between these points. It is the opinion of the local authorities, in which the chief commissioner concurs, that this measure will suffice to give confidence to the coolies, and the chance of having to come in conflict with armed men, and of having their retreat cut off, will prevent the Angamis from venturing again on such a raid as that on the Baladhun garden.

6. Another additional post will be placed at Kuttracherra, the most advanced garden in the Jatingah Valley, but this will be too far from the other posts to be connected with them by patrols, and will be mainly kept for the purpose of controlling the Nagas who come down to trade, and of checking the supply of arms and ammunition to the hills.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1880.

THE REPORT OF THE ARMY COMMISSION.

THE Under Secretary of State for India has vouched for the accuracy, so far as it goes, of the scheme of Indian army reform recommended by the commissioners who sat last year in India, transmitted to London by the Times correspondent. He would, perhaps, be more correct to state that the entire accuracy of the correspondent's version of the scheme has been vouched for, for he notes the recommendations as being only the principal and not the complete scheme. We are thus able to judge of the reforms by their more important features, and to offer an opinion of each of those features in the order in which they present themselves.

The regimental question is the first in the order of comment. It is proposed that each native infantry regiment shall consist of 912 men, formed into eight companies, and commanded in the higher grades by nine officers. Allowing for native officers and non-commissioned officers, this would give a hundred men to each company and three officers to each wing. This is a vast improvement on the existing system, and we have but one objection to make to it, and that is, that the reform proposed does not go far enough. It would be infinitely preferable to establish the complement of European officers at twelve. This would allow for each regiment a commandant, a second in command, an adjutant, a quartermaster, and four officers for each wing, at the rate of one per company. This would be an arrangement almost perfect. By the proposed scheme three officers for each wing could only be procured by excising the quartermaster.

Referring still to the regimental question, we hail as an unspeakable boon the abolition of the miscalled Staff Corps, and the recurrence to a system of regimental promotion. "Staff corps," it is stated, "are to be gradually abolished; first, by grouping three or four native infantry regiments into one regiment, and promoting officers in regiments so formed; secondly, by forming a general list of each army corps, and making promotions in each list as vacancies occur in the army." For the present, we have to do only with the first of these points—the grouping of four regiments into one, and regulating promotion accordingly. It is a reform long called for, and we give to it an ungrudging and unconditional approval.

We proceed now to the Native Cavalry. Each cavalry regiment will, according to the scheme, be composed of six hundred men, formed into four squadrons, and commanded in the superior grades by ten officers. We have only to approve this reform. He gives one European officer to sixty natives, and that is ample. We fail to understand why, whereas the commission have recognised this proportion in the cavalry, it should allot only one officer to every hundred men in the infantry.

The abolition of the Presidency commands, and the formation of four territorial corps, is a measure which has been long demanded, and which will be hailed with approval by every man acquainted with the India of the present day. The Presidency distinctions, well suited to a state of affairs such as that which existed prior to the year 1817, have become more and more ill adapted to the progressive march of the empire towards the North West. The great military camps now marked out have been designed to meet the existing order of things. The first, including Bengal proper, Assam, Oudh, and the North West, as far, we presume, as Meerut, comprehends very nearly the Bengal Presidency as it existed when Marquis Wellesley made way for his successor, with the addition to it only of Oudh. The second, for the Punjab and Afghanistan, represents the armed force requisite for the territories acquired since 1845. The third takes in Bombay, the whole of Central India in its geographical sense, and Sind. The fourth, Southern India and Hydrabad. Each of these territorial armies will have its own special commander, styled lieutenant general, with a military secretary and complete staff, consisting of a representative of all arms. The anomaly of a commander in chief at each Presidency, with a seat in Council, and taking a keen part in civil and administrative administration is thus removed. Instead of that worn-out plan we shall see our lieutenant generals occupying themselves solely with military details, each with complete and independent control over his own army. Over these four lieutenant generals the commander in chief, relieved also from civil duties, and necessarily from his seat in Council will, we understand, exercise a general military supervision with the view of preserving unity of action. He will be the driver, they will constitute the team. He will be restricted to supervision, so to speak, of a purely active character. The actual working of the army machine in all its administrative departments will devolve on the military member of Council, in direct subordination to the Viceroy. In a word, the military member of Council will be Minister of War, and the Viceroy will be his Premier. We cannot speak too highly of this change. It relegates the commander in chief of the army to his proper position, and places a proper responsibility on the Viceroy and his Minister of War. The main point to ensure the efficient working of the arrangement will be to exercise more care in the selection of the Minister of War than was bestowed when that official occupied a purely ornamental position in the Supreme Council. It remains only to notice on this head the exercise of patronage. The arrangement by which the command of the four great army corps is divided between the Indian and British armies is wise, sensible, and fair. As such we believe it will be universally recognised. Before proceeding to the proposed scheme of redistribution we shall quote with marked approval the following arrangements:—"The strength of the British cavalry regiments in India to be four squadrons, or 586 men; of the British infantry regiments to be eight companies, or 1,044 men; the horse artillery to be reduced by five batteries; the number of mountain batteries to be raised to eight, field batteries to twenty-eight, and heavy field batteries to seventeen. A new corps of sappers to be formed of three companies. A new guide corps to be formed, also two new pioneer regiments." The proposals regarding the reserve are excellent; they go to form cheap and efficient garrisons, and constitute a resting place for the sepoys between active service and the pension list. Similarly do we approve of the scheme to establish fixed recruiting grounds for native soldiers. We hope it will not be forgotten that we beat the Marathas with sepoys recruited in Oudh, and that although the Oudh sepoys mutinied in 1857, they had done excellent service before and are capable of doing it again. The proposal to make native officers of young men of good family, who shall have received a good education, is one which has been advocated by some of the ablest and most practical men in the service. It has our cordial approval. With respect to the European troops, we may be allowed to express our regret that the scheme of a local army has not been entertained. This is a point on which it would be possible to spend reams of paper. We forbear, however, to touch upon it further until we learn the exact substitute that has been proposed. It is, at all events, a consolation to believe that the system of boy soldiers and boy non-commissioned officers will be departed from.

We revert once again to the officers, only to express our hearty approval of the principle whereby a hard-and-fast line is to be drawn between the personnel of the civil and military appointment. Henceforth a soldier in name will be a soldier in reality. The proposals regarding the recasting of the colonel's allowance, and retirement after thirty-two years' service, with liability to recall, appear to us excellent. All the changes affecting officers have been demanded in their interests no less than in the interests of the State.

We turn now to the redistribution of the army. This is a measure which has been long called for, and which the recent changes on our frontier have made more than ever necessary. The following are the proposed arrangements:—"Garrisons to be rearranged and several single battalion stations to be abandoned. The commands at Julpigoree, Berhampore, Daka, Bhaugulpore, Segowlee, Gowhatty, Tezpore, Dibroghur, Jowai, and various Assam outposts, as also Hazareebagh, to be abandoned. As regards European troops in the North West, Chunar, Goruckpore, Seetapore, Moradabad, Shahjehanpore, Mutra, Sepree, Lullutpore, and Jhansi. In Bombay, Hyderabad, Sind, Bhooj, Mehedpoor, Anjar, Deesa, Malligaum, Hoshungabad, and Dharwar to cease to exist as stations for troops; and possibly the British troops at Jubbulpore and Kamptee to be removed to Pachmaree. Troops to be removed from Vellore, Quilon, Trichoor, Trivandrum, Pallamcottah, Merkara, French Rocks, and Vizianagram, in Madras, and British troops from Cannanore and Wellington. Arrangements to be so made that at any time an army corps, consisting of 55,000 infantry, 12,600 cavalry, 240 field guns, eighteen siege guns, and twenty-one companies of sappers may be immediately mobilised. Plans for mobilising the same, and for attack and defence, to be always ready in the commander in chief's office."

Having carefully examined each and all of these, we cannot hesitate to endorse them, one and all, with our approval. The resolutions regarding mobilisation are specially to be commended.

One point only remains now to be referred to, and that is the dealing with native States:—"Native States to be induced to reduce their armies gradually. Native contingents to be regarded as separate and purely local bodies. The troops of native States to be forbidden to carry arms of precision. Their field artillery to be reduced to the smallest limits. Unnecessary interference with Scindia deprecated, but the Nizam is to be induced gradually to curtail his forces."

Whilst cordially approving the principle here laid down, we would urge great and special care and tact in the carrying of it into execution. There is no subject on which native princes are more tenacious than on that of their armed retainers. One inconsiderate act of the British authorities would be sufficient to fan suspicion into mutiny. On the whole, we commend the recommendations to the approval of the public. Evidently great care has been bestowed upon them. They adapt to India the principles which recent experience has shown to be necessary for Europe.

Jellalabad. Head-quarters 2nd Brigade, General Doran, C.B., commanding. The Jellalabad troops are divided into garrison and movable columns as follows:—Garrison—Four guns C-3 Royal Artillery, two squadrons 6th Dragoon Guards (the Carabineers), 100 25th King's Own Borderers, one troop 17th Bengal Cavalry, 100 31st Punjab Native Infantry, 300 4th Madras Native Infantry, one company Madras Sappers and Miners. Movable column—Two guns C-3 Royal Artillery, two guns 11·9 Royal Artillery (Mountain Battery), two guns, Hazara Mountain Battery, one squadron 6th Dragoon Guards (the Carabineers), one squadron 17th Bengal Cavalry, 500 25th King's Own Borderers, 500 8th Native Infantry, 500 30th Punjab Native Infantry. The division has now troops at all the stations from Cabul to Jellalabad; the 3rd Division holding those from Jellalabad to Peshawur. The most important change is that relative to movable columns which are now established at Sufed Sung and Jellalabad, and which at any moment can be moved out if required, provided the necessary amount of transport is available to meet this. Arrangements are being made to have a sufficient number of animals fully equipped and in readiness for any contingency that may arise.—Pioneer Correspondence.

HOME NEWS.

THE COBDEN CLUB.—The silver medal of the Cobden Club, offered to the most successful student in political economy in the University of Madras, has been won by P. Thanu Pillai, a native student, who passed the M.A. degree and obtained the highest number of marks in political economy in the February examination.

SIR HENRY HAVELOCK.—It appears from the Northern Echo of Nov. 1, which contains a correct abstract of the will of the late Robert Henry Allen, Esq., of Blackwell Hall, that the statements circulated relating to Sir Henry Havelock, M.P., were erroneous. The will was executed in January, 1879, and Sir Henry Havelock only now obtains the immediate benefit of a life interest in the Newton Grange estate, or about £400 a year, instead of a legacy of half-a-million sterling as was stated. Moreover, the income from the Barton estates and residuary real estates is to accumulate for twenty-one years from the testator's death, and not from that of the late Sir Henry Havelock.—Broad Arrow.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—Tenders for Rs.45,00,000 in bills on India were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs.32,09,000, at an average rate of 1s. 8d.; to Bombay, Rs.11,70,000, at an average rate of 1s. 8·021d.; and to Madras, Rs.1,21,000, at an average rate of 1s. 8d. Tenders on all Presidencies at 1s. 8d. will receive about 12 per cent.; all above 1s. 8d. in full. This result is rather better than that shown last Wednesday, and betokens an improvement in the demand for the remittances. Next week forty-five lacs more are to be offered.

THE INDIAN MEDICAL SERVICE.—The following is a list of the candidates for her Majesty's Indian Medical Service who were successful at the competitive examination at London in August, 1879, and who have undergone a course of instruction at the Army Medical School, together with the total number of marks obtained at the examinations at London and at Netley:—

INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—On Tuesday, March 23, at 8 p.m., a paper will be read on "Explosive Agents applied to Industrial Purposes," by Professor Abel, C.B., F.R.S., Association Institution C.E.

NEWSPAPER CHANGES.—We understand our old and well-conducted contemporary, the Liverpool Journal of Commerce, one of the most influential provincial, shipping, and commercial newspapers, has recently changed hands, and that Mr. Charles Birchall has become the new proprietor. Mr. Birchall has had great experience in journalistic matters, and under the new proprietorship we expect great things from the Journal of Commerce for the future.

DRAFTS FOR INDIA.—The Euphrates sailed on Tuesday from Portsmouth for Bombay. The Serapis is expected at Portsmouth on Friday, and the Crocodile on Sunday, from India, the former with 28 officers, 579 invalids, 171 time-expired men, and 20 men to join depots; and the latter with 17 officers, 471 invalids, and 64 time-expired men

THE DUTCH INDIES.—A remarkable interest has been recently displayed by the people of Holland in their Indian possessions. After having thrived for a great many years on the Indian surpluses, the Dutch Budget met with severe disappointments, principally through the Atchin war. A Dutch nobleman, Baron Elout, went so far as to recommend a new East Indian Company for bettering the resources of the colony. A paper, Oost en West, edited chiefly by Indian malcontent officials, roused the country to a sense of duty. But, apart from somewhat injudicious counselling, it is a notable fact that the Dutch are daily spreading serious Indian periodical literature. De Indische Gids (Guide for India), a bulky monthly, is already in its second year, and De Indische Mercurer, of which three monthly numbers have appeared, is an unusually large illustrated sheet devoted to the Dutch Indian trade.

DISASTER AT SEA.—A Lloyd's telegram says:—"From information received from Malta, there is little doubt that the steamer Rathmore, which left Cardiff on Jan. 3 for Bombay, has been lost with all her crew. Two life-buoys, marked 'S.S. Rathmore, Liverpool,' have been picked up off the coast of Malta, on the 8th and 25th February respectively. At the same place several pieces of timber hatches, apparently belonging to a steamer, and four casks of grease have also been washed ashore. The Rathmore was owned in Liverpool. She was an iron screw of over 2,000 tons gross, and Sunderland built. Her cargo consisted o coal, which was insured in London. Insurances on the vessel have been effected in London, Liverpool, and Glasgow."

THE BISHOP OF COLOMBO.—Various accounts have appeared of the painful controversy between the Bishop of Colombo and the clergy of the Church Missionary Society in Ceylon. The matter was referred by the society (which, however, did not definitely pledge itself to abide by the decision of their lordships) to the two Primates and the Bishops of London, Durham, and Winchester. The Bishop of Colombo has had a personal interview with the right reverend prelates, in the course of which he has removed two misconceptions—viz., that he desires to get rid of the missionaries or to subordinate them to chaplains appointed by himself. The Archbishops and Bishops suggest that missionaries should have the Bishop's license with an appeal to the Metropolitan at Calcutta, the reissuing of all licenses carefully revised, and that, pending appeals, the analogy of the English law should be followed. Their lordships express a strong opinion as to the conduct of the missionaries in declining to associate themselves with their Bishop in the highest act of Christian worship so long as they are required to do nothing contrary to the declared doctrine of the Church. The Bishop, their lordships think, should control Scripture-readers when in charge of a mission, but not otherwise; and on the crucial question of the Synod they say "our advice is that the Bishop should distinctly state that this so-called Synod is only at present a conference without legislative authority (which, we understand, is not claimed for it) and that the missionaries should not be forbidden by the society to take part in such conferences." In conclusion, their lordships press upon both the Bishop and the society the extreme gravity of the present condition of affairs, and urge them so to act as to show that they esteem the progress of the Gospel far above the maintenance of their particular theories as to how the Church of Christ is to be worked.

ROYAL ASIATIC SOCIETY.—At the meeting onMonday—Sir H.C. Rawlinson, K.C.B., president, in the chair—Messrs Robinson and Gibbs were elected resident, and Major Trotter, R.E., and Messrs. Massey, Maxwell, Harvey, and Sauvaires, non-resident members. A paper was read, contributed by Capt. Durand, giving an acount of his recent researches in the "Islands of Bahrein in the Persian Gulf," where he had found the remains of a vast number of tombs, and, possibly, of temples, and a remarkable black stone, bearing a very early cuneiform inscription. Sir Henry Rawlinson called attention to the great value of these excavations, as throwing additional light on what has been already gained from the interpretations of the legends of Southern Babylonia. The Babylonians, he added, who were mainly instrumental in imparting civilisation to Western Asia, admitted having received all their knowledge from the mysterious islanders of the Persian Gulf, agreeably with the traditions preserved by Berosus of Oannes, the Fish God. The inscription on the black stone, he translated, "The Palace of Rimagas, the servant of Mercury, of the tribe of Ogyr."

THE MAURITIUS SUGAR CROP.—Last year's sugar crop in Mauritius was considerably below the average, only 51,000 tons having been exported between August 1 and the end of January, against 88,000 tons in the same period of 1878-9, and 96,000 in 1877-78, while the stock of sugar in hand at Port Louis on January 31 was rather less than the stock at the same date last year. Of the 51,000 tons of last year's crop exported up to that date, 22,000 tons had been shipped to India and 20,000 tons to Australia, the Cape of Good Hope taking 5,000 tons of the balance. The actual exports for the whole of last year, including the latter part of the crop of 1878 and the early portion of the crop of 1879, amounted to 105,696 tons, against 129,692 tons in the whole of 1878, and 138,505 tons in 1877. The recent weather is reported as very favourable for the growing crops, copious showers having fallen, and the young canes looking healthy and giving promise of an abundant yield to make up for the deficient crop of 1879.—Colonies and India.

ACCIDENT TO A MAIL STEAMER.—A telegram received yesterday from Lloyd's agent at Bombay states that the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Hydaspes, which left London on Feb. 18 for King George's Sound, Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney, has arrived at Bombay, with the loss of two blades of her propeller. The mails have been transferred to the Assam, sailing on March 19

AGRA BANK.—The annual general meeting of the shareholders of this bank was held yesterday at the City Terminus Hotel, under the presidency of Mr. J. Thomson. The report stated that the net profits for the year ending Dec. 31 last amounted to £76,928, and, adding the balance brought forward, there was a surplus available for division of £107,564. They proposed to declare a further dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, making a dividend of 5½ per cent. for the year, to transfer £25,000 to the reserve fund, increasing it to £175,000, and to make a similar appropriation to the contingent fund, leaving £2,564 to be carried forward. The gross profit of the year, after providing for bad and doubtful debts, had amounted to £266,732. The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said the last year had been comparatively free from the financial troubles which characterised its predecessor, but still time was required to restore financial confidence, and meanwhile operations were restricted and the means of profitable investment were limited. Conjoined with this state of things there had been great depression of trade. The depression, however, had lately been succeeded by great animation. Turning to the balance-sheet, he said the current accounts showed a falling off of about £100,000, but at the end of 1878 there was a special amount of £200,000 belonging to those accounts, which was of a character they could not consider reliable. That had been withdrawn, but the difference of £200,000 had been made up to the amount of £100,000 by the improvement of those accounts generally. The fixed deposits showed a reduction of £147,000, mainly owing to withdrawals in Edinburgh. They were now, however, returning. Some misapprehension prevailed as to the interest they paid on them. Comparing that interest with the returns, it appeared to some that they could dispense with the fixed deposits without prejudice to their general revenues. It did not, however, do to take any special time; they must take the whole. They paid 4 per cent. on the current accounts and fixed deposits together, and they yielded the bank, so far as they were employed in investments or business, a return of 7 per cent. When, too, it was said that if they reduced their fixed deposits they could reduce equally their investments in Government securities, which paid them a smaller interest, the fact was overlooked that the current accounts were really liabilities payable on demand. The bills payable showed a considerable diminution—a proof of strength rather than of weakness. He then referred with satisfaction to the reduction of the usance of bills—which applied mainly to bank bills—from six to four months, and said they could have wished the usance had been reduced to three months. They had received 15s. in the pound of their claim on the City of Glasgow Bank, and in a few days they would be paid another 1s. The drawers of the bills they held had also paid 1s. in the pound, so that altogether that made 17s. in the pound. They had maturely considered the offer made by the liquidators of 20s. in the pound and to forego the interest, and the result was that they had declined the offer. He was sure they would receive their full claim, with interest at 5 per cent. He could again assure them that the other assets were so under control that, if necessary, they could pay all their liabilities as they matured. After speaking of the wisdom of making the transfer of £25,000 to the contingent fund as a separate provision to cover fluctuations in the value of Government securities and other assets, and of the importance of strengthening the reserve fund, he alluded to the prejudicial effects of the lowness of the exchange, and said that if Council bills were out of the market they would see silver up to 5s. He referred with great regret to the death of Dr. Richardson. The Earl of Carnwath seconded the motion. Some discussion followed, and an amendment was moved that a bonus of 3 per cent. should be paid. The amendment, however, was afterwards withdrawn, and the motion was carried with two dissentients. The retiring directors and auditor were re-elected, and Mr. J. G. Watson was elected a director in the room of Mr. J. Graham, resigned. A motion in favour of half-yearly meetings was then discussed, but was lost, and the meeting closed with the usual votes of thanks.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

INDIAN TROOPS IN THE MEDITERRANEAN.

Replying to Mr. Courtney (who put a question on behalf of Mr. Mundella, the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER said that the returns from the India and War Offices were as follows:—Number of officers, men, horses, and camp followers brought from India to Malta and Cyprus in 1878:—European officers.—From India to Malta, 128; from Malta to Cyprus, 115. European troops.—From India to Malta, 336; from Malta to Cyprus, 178. Native officers.—From India to Malta, 126; from Malta to Cyprus, 116. Native troops.—From India to Malta, 5,502; from Malta to Cyprus, 5,045. Horses from India to Malta, 1,340; from Malta to Cyprus, 730. Camp followers.—From India to Malta, 2,511; from Malta to Cyprus, 1,777. Cost of transport from and to India, £486,439 2s. 7d.; cost of provisions, pay, and allowances, also allowances to soldiers' families in India and all other expenses incidental to and consequent upon the bringing of the Indian troops to the Mediterranean, whether defrayed out of Imperial or Indian funds, £310,230 19s., making a total of £796,670 1s. 7d. An estimate had arrived from the Government of India showing probable expenditure of about £50,000 in excess of that detailed. A telegram had been sent to India for further information on this point but no answer had yet been received.

Mr. FAWCETT inquired what portion of the expense would be borne by India.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER said that the whole of the expense would be borne by England.

GENERAL ROBERTS'S REPORT.

Mr. E. STANHOPE informed Sir C. Dilke that the report of General Roberts, respecting which inquiry was lately made, had been received, and would immediately be laid upon the table.

AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. FAWCETT called attention to the apportionment of the cost of the Afghan war, and said that the statement of the Chancellor of the Exchequer that it was an Indian war was refuted by statements previously made by the Prime Minister, the Foreign Secretary, the Viceroy of India, and the Chancellor himself. He quoted several speeches to prove that this had been an Imperial war, and protested against the whole cost of the Afghan campaign being thrown on the helpless Indian people. It would be said that the Government of India wished to pay the bill, and that the financial condition of India had much improved. But the Government of India need not, in an unrepresented country, necessarily be the representative of India. The Viceroy and his Council said that India ought to pay the bill, but all the unofficial members of the Council considered it unjust that India should bear the entire burden. As to the improvement in Indian finances it was in the uncertain items of opium and loss by exchange, which might be worse next year. At present the Government of India had been obliged to appropriate the taxes intended for the prevention of famine to the Afghan war and to diminish the expenditure on public works. England would pay for the Cape war, but proposed to make the Indian people, who were not self-governed nor represented, pay for the Afghan war. This policy did not meet with the approval of independent supporters of the Government outside the House, some of whom thought it unjust. He claimed that he was doing the Government a service from a party point of view by appealing to them to throw part of the expenses on England, but he did so because he knew that any party advantage which might be gained would be mere dust in the balance compared with the harm certain to be inflicted on our rule in India if we gave the Indian people reason to suppose that we were less solicitous for their welfare because they had no power to influence our decision or to decide the fate of the Government. He begged to move—"That, in view of the declarations which have been officially made that the Afghan war was undertaken in the joint interests of England and India, this House is of opinion that it is unjust to detray out of the revenues of India the whole of the expenditure incurred in the renewal of hostilities with Afghanistan."

Mr. RATHBONE seconded the motion and agreed with a writer who said that if ever party politics were brought to bear on the government of India it would so demoralise England as to lead to the downfall of her Empire.

Mr. ONSLOW argued that no war undertaken in India could be described as a purely Indian war. He quoted a speech of the Viceroy to contradict Mr. Fawcett's statements. Something had been said of the finances of India; but even after the cost of the war and of the great military lines of railway there was a substantial surplus at the present time. He denied that there had been any reduction in the public works of India; but it would be found that the great military lines of railway would be greatly more beneficial to India, especially in case of famine, than doubtful irrigation works. In the case of the Mutiny the expense was thrown on the Indian finances, and in the case of the first Afghan war this country bore no part of the expenses. The Afghan war was long foreseen. The evil day, which had been postponed, had come at last; but it had, both in this country and in India, done a vast amount of good. It had welded the natives of India more firmly to us than before. It had been the means of dissipating altogether the seditious writing in the Indian newspapers; and from all the accounts he had received he would say there never was a time when the people were more contented with British rule. He had great faith in the future of that great country, which he trusted would always be ruled by such statesmen as the present Viceroy.

Mr. GLADSTONE ridiculed the optimism of the preceding speaker, and denied that the people of India were contented or had consented to the war. There were no expressions of dissent in the vernacular press because it was more completely within the grasp of the Viceroy than the press of Russia was in that of the Czar. He thought the member for Hackney had proved his case that England should bear a substantial portion of the expense of this as an Imperial war. It should be borne in mind that we could not tell what pressure this war might yet bring to bear on Indian finances—that we had not the smallest idea where the war was to end and what it was to cost. Very remarkable, though, of course, true, declarations had been made about the delays in rendering accounts from India. As a consequence of those delays we could not tell what we were spending, and small figures were presented to us while large figures were being prepared for us. With regard to the amount of the expenditure, he was surprised to read in a report of a speech of the Governor General of India the following words:—"The taxation of India shall not suffer, and the Government have always distinctly repudiated any notion of treating the proceeds of the new taxation as a separate fund." He was at a loss to understand that report, and he suggested that it would be more convenient if the speech were placed before the House in an authentic form, for it contained important comments upon matters that had been going on. The Viceroy spoke in this speech of an allegation which he called "Mr. Gladstone's last allegation," and which was "that the Indian Government had deliberately falsified its military accounts to conceal the real cost of the Afghan war." Now, this never was his allegation. It was the allegation of others given to him with such an appearance of truth that he thought it right to mention it publicly in order that, if inaccurate, it might be contradicted. He was afraid the Viceroy was in the habit of commenting upon documents which he had never read. The Viceroy, though quite incapable of any deliberate misrepresentation, received, no doubt, second-hand information as to the contents of documents—a circumstance which would explain his speaking of an allegation as "Mr. Gladstone's" when it was not his allegation at all. The allegation which had been circulated, and which was a very serious one, was to this effect—that the smallness of the figures of the war charge was owing to the fact that very large amounts of material had been withdrawn from stores in England and India and had not been replaced. When such serious allegations were circulated it was well that they should be contradicted, and he hoped, therefore, that his hon. friend opposite would be able to place before the House the means of judging fairly of the allegation in question. In conclusion, he cordially endorsed the doctrine of the hon. member for Hackney.

Mr. BALFOUR said that if the Viceroy had, in quoting the assertion, described it as the last allegation to which Mr. Gladstone had given wide publicity he would have been accurate. The argument that the expense of the Afghan war, as an Imperial matter, ought to be partly borne by England, would prove that India ought to bear part of all expenditure incurred for Imperial purposes, such as carrying the Indian troops to Malta. The Afghan war was clearly an Indian charge. Its immediate cause was an insult to the Indian Government, and it had for its ultimate object the strengthening of the North Western frontier of India. The great Mogul himself, had he been the ruler of India, would have been obliged to enter upon that war in precisely the same way as we did. He could not but give the Government in this matter his cordial support.

Mr. LAING observed that, if they were to go into speculation at all, the safest assertion to make would be that the Indian Government would never have undertaken the war of its own motion. There was no doubt that the war was undertaken in the main for English and European objects, and, considering the state of the Indian Exchequer, it was only just that a portion of the expense should fall upon England. He argued that a large increase in opium revenue must trench on the future, and the gain in exchange was too precarious. Indian finance really depended on the manner in which expenditure on productive works was dealt with.

Mr. E. STANHOPE said that the issue to be decided was, in the first place, ought India justly to bear the whole expense of the renewed hostilities in Afghanistan? and, secondly, if so, could she bear it? Whether India ought to contribute, as well as the origin of the war, had been discussed on more than one occasion, and the House had decided that the contribution made by England was entirely adequate to the purpose. Now, if the former war was really a frontier war, the renewed hostilities were due solely to the foul massacre with his attendants of an envoy sent by the Government of India to reside in a bordering country, and on that account alone we were compelled to invade and capture the city of Cabul. It was impossible to deny that those renewed hostilities were a frontier war; indeed, he had always regarded them as differing only in degree from other frontier wars. In dealing with that war the Government had had the advice and opinion of the Viceroy and of the whole Executive Government, all of whom had come to the conclusion that, though it was right in the first instance to ask the assistance of England, it was unnecessary now for England to contribute a single shilling. The right hon. gentleman the member for Greenwich asked how it could be supposed that the Viceroy and his Council in any true sense of the word represented the people of India. He could only say that if the Indian people were to be taxed only by representatives, and as far as they liked, the probability was that England would have to pay the entire expense of their government. It was eminently desirable in all possible circumstances that India should bear its own burdens and not add to the burdens of this country. The position of India would be lessened in the eyes of the world if it were to be supposed that for a frontier war against barbarous enemies she was obliged to come to England for assistance. He could not imagine anything more dangerous or more likely to make the people of England dissatisfied with their relations with India than that India was to be a financial burden on this country. Next, the main guarantee for economical administration in India was that India should pay her own way. Once take away that guarantee, once let it be supposed that any enterprise it might suit the Indian Government to undertake was to be paid for by England, and all security for economy in Indian administration was at an end. Then it only remained to be considered whether India could pay. Hon. and right hon. gentlemen opposite treated that matter somewhat lightly now, but during the course of the past year he had heard a great deal about financial confusion, and that the loan was financial bankruptcy. His right hon. friend opposite (Mr. Gladstone) certainly did say in one of his speeches in Scotland that there was a widespread belief that the charge on account of the Afghan war had not been made known, and he went on to say he believed only a little had been put forward and that a great deal remained behind, and he shared the general belief that the full cost of the war had not been put forward. Now he, on the part of the Government of India, gave that statement an unqualified denial. They had put forward as honestly as any Government could every item of expenditure that could possibly be included in this war. In the course of the operations on the frontier a large number of the transport animals had died or been killed. In consequence of that loss the cost of the Post-office all over India had increased, and that charge had been included in the cost of the war. The member for Greenwich said the cost of warlike stores had greatly diminished, and suggested that the Government had drawn upon those stores in consequence of the fighting in Afghanistan, and that those stores were now very much reduced. Now, after a careful inquiry this was the result. The saving of £290,000 on ordnance supplies was a real one. It was, however, due to the fact that our expenditure under this head in 1877-78 and previous years was unusually large, owing to the large supplies then made of Martini-Henry arms for Europeans troops, Sniders for native troops, and ordnance for siege batteries. These supplies having been well brought up to their proper complement the expenditure had naturally fallen off. In 1879-80 they expended a good deal; but they now expected a small surplus after all the cost of the war and the frontier railways had been defrayed. By the results of economy they expected an improved revenue. They were better off than they expected during the present year by £4,500,000. Coming now to 1880-81, not only did they expect to be able to pay the whole cost necessary for the war in Afghanistan and to complete the system of frontier railways, but to fulfil every single famine pledge they had ever made and yet have a surplus of £119,000. More than that, they had not been compelled to make any call upon their power of borrowing last year, and they had not borrowed a single shilling of the five millions. They looked forward in the current year in India not to have to borrow anything in that country. With regard to exchanges, why should it be assumed that they were going to be unfavourable next year? The indications were in the opposite direction. Trade showed a considerable improvement, the harvest had been good, and the indications generally did not justify a despondent view, though in the face of the enormous amount of remittances they had to make he would not say positively they should be able to realise all that they expected. But he firmly believed the estimate was a fair one. He now came to the question of famine insurance. The hon. member for Hackney and the right hon. member for Greenwich said very broadly and boldly that the Government of India had broken all their famine pledges, that they had raised by famine taxation a certain amount of money, and that they were not going to redeem the pledges they had given. He would like to give a public contradiction to that statement. He complained very bitterly of the manner in which attacks had been made before the facts of the Indian Budget had reached this country. The Viceroy of India had given to what had been stated a positive denial. The Viceroy said that every pledge given about famine was going to be fulfilled. It was very hard such statements should be made in the face of the distinct contradiction of the Viceroy, and therefore he would say in the strongest possible way that those statements were unfounded. The public works had been reduced in consequence of the policy first proposed by her Majesty's Government, urged upon them by the hon. member for Hackney himself, adopted by a committee of the House of Commons of which the hon. gentleman was a distinguished member, and finally sanctioned by the House in accepting the general proposals of the Government. Therefore it was very hard indeed that in that House, which ought to be most jealous of maintaining a continuity of policy with regard to India, the right hon. gentleman, solely for the purpose of an electioneering address, should try to induce them to depart from a policy they approved and adopted last year and tell the people of this country that the Government of India were reducing the public works for the purpose of getting a balance of income. With regard to opium, they had undoubtedly gained a great deal by the sales last year, but in the coming year the estimates of the sales appeared to be considerably reduced, and he hoped they would be fully realised. As to the increase of the debt of India, it could be indisputably shown that, although the debt had increased, the annual charge for that debt had been annually decreasing. It could not be denied that the statements of the Government of India were in themselves very satisfactory. Nobody standing in the position which he occupied could hesitate to express the anxiety which every Minister connected with India must feel on one or two points. They must always contemplate the remittances which had to be made from India to England with serious thoughts, but it must not be supposed the Government was not alive to the danger. He was fully alive to dangers which had been successfully surmounted in the past, and which they hoped to avoid in the future. He trusted the House would reject the proposal of the hon. member for Hackney.

The motion was withdrawn, after Sir GEORGE CAMPBELL had declared his opinion that if we had audacity enough we should at once quit Cabul, as we did in 1842.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY, MARCH 15.

LETTER OF SHERE ALI TO THE SULTAN.

Lord STRATHEDEN and CAMPBELL concluded a long criticism of the Eastern policy of the Government since 1874 by moving for a copy of the letter from the late Ameer of Afghanistan to the Sultan, dated Jan. 19, 1878.

The Earl of BEACONSFIELD said that the Government had no official knowledge of the letter, and only knew of it as printed in the newspapers. It was, unquestionably, a forgery, which was copied from a small Turkish newspaper which was distinguished for hostility to England. The Sultan himself had declared the letter to be perfectly apocryphal. The Russian Press had stated that the correspondence was undoubtedly false, but had produced a strong impression on the Mahomedan population of India. The motion was withdrawn.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY, MARCH 16.

The East India Loan (East Indian Railway Debentures) Bill and the India Stock (Powers of Attorney) Bill were read a third time and passed.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY, MARCH 16.

THE INDIAN ARMY COMMISSION.

Sir G. CAMPBELL asked the Under Secretary of State for India whether the statement in the Times of March 15 respecting the recommendations of the Indian Army Commission was authentic; especially whether the commissioners propose, in order to form a mobile army, to abolish a very large number of military stations now held, including Daka, Hazareebagh, and almost every station in Lower Bengal; and whether, notwithstanding the determination to abolish the post of Public Works Member of Council, and the departure of Sir Andrew Clarke with no intention of returning, an officer had been appointed to act during the absence on leave of Sir Andrew Clarke.

Mr. STANHOPE said that the statement in the Times of March 15 as to the recommendations of the Indian Army Commission was generally accurate, though of course a telegraphic summary was necessarily incomplete. They had not yet, however, been officially sent home. Sir Andrew Clarke had obtained four months' leave of absence on medical certificate. As soon as his term expired the vacancy would not be filled up. The India-office knew nothing as to any temporary appointment during his absence.

Sir G. CAMPBELL inquired whether the statement was correct that the commissioners proposed to abolish the military stations at Daka and Hazareebagh.

Mr. STANHOPE: Speaking of those places generally, it is correct.

In reply to Sir G. Balfour, Mr. STANHOPE said the recommendations of the commission could not possibly be carried into effect before the next Parliament met. They had not yet been sent home by the Government of India.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17.

"THE BEGUM KOOTE, LUCKNOW."

In answer to Sir C. Russell, Mr STANHOPE said: The facts concerning this treasure were that certain soldiers, while quartered at Lucknow, discovered some valuable articles, which were decided to be, not of the nature of prize-money, but treasure trove. The finders received 25 per cent. of their value, and there was nothing more to be paid. The whole correspondence on the subject was presented to Parliament in May, 1876.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY, MARCH 18.

AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. GOURLEY asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he would be good enough to inform the House how far the negotiations for peace which were reported to have been instituted by General Roberts] with the Chief Mahomed Jan have been successful or otherwise; and, if he could state what prospects there were of an early termination of hostilities in the various provinces of Afghanistan, and the terms upon which her Majesty's Government hoped to conclude peace.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER, in reply, stated that he was not in a position to reply to the latter part of the question. In regard to the first part, General Sir Frederick Roberts was taking all possible steps to ascertain the precise state of affairs in Guznee. The Government had nothing to report as to the negotiations that were going on with the Chief Mahomed Jan.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

SIR GEORGE CAMPBELL has written to the Times to explain that what he said in the debate of Friday last was that if he could think that this Government and the Governments which may succeed them would have the moral courage and audacity to march out as in 1842 and to stay out, he believed it would be best; but he hardly looked for this, and he said that if not we must of necessity advance beyond the so-called scientific frontier. He thought it might be possible at a certain cost to hold a central point and there communicate with the tribes, but that if we attempted to annex the whole country or to establish Governors of our own creation we must incur expenses which would inevitably involve this country in heavy burdens.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE.

A PARLIAMENTARY paper just issued gives a return showing the gross revenue and expenditure of India from 1862-63 to 1879-80, excluding capital expenditure on extraordinary or productive public works from 1867-68, and the surplus deficit in each year (1) including and (2) excluding expenditure on famine relief and loss by exchange, and the surplus or deficit for a period of six years. By comparison with ordinary total expenditure (1) the three periods show respectively for 1862-63 to 1867-68 a deficit of £953,054; for 1868-69, 1873-74, a deficit of £1,909,810; and for 1874-75 to 1879-80, a surplus of £3,322,094. By comparison (2) excluding famine relief and loss by exchange the first period shows a surplus of £2,550,072, the second a surplus of £7,788,296, and the third one of £17,625,652. The return shows the revenues to have been in the first year (1862-63) included, £45,143,752, and the ordinary expenditure £43,316,406, including famine relief, £15,780, and loss by exchange, £272,931. The revised estimate for the year 1879-80, shows revenue £67,056,000, and expenditure £68,092,000, inclusive of famine relief, £80,000, and £2,785,000 loss by exchange. In the first of the last six years the revenue amounted to £50,570,171, and the ordinary expenditure, excluding relief and loss by exchange, to £46,505,509, to which famine relief added £2,242,922, and the loss by exchange a little more than half a million. Without these items the revenue would have exceeded the expenditure in the first of the six years past by about three millions, and the last by nearly two millions. It may be noted that the year 1864-66 present a blank under the head famine relief, and those for 1868-73, the combined totals amount to less than one hundred thousand pounds, as contrasted with nearly fifteen millions expended during the years 1873 to 1879.

INDIAN CO-OPERATIVE AGENCY (Limited),

26, HOLBORN VIADUCT, LONDON.

Proceedings of an Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders, held at the Offices of the Company on the 4th February, 1880.

Major General SAXTON in the Chair.

The Honorary Secretary read the Notice convening the present Meeting.

The Honorary Secretary read the proceedings of the Meeting held on the 10th February, 1879, which were confirmed and signed by the Chairman.

The Report of the Directors and the Accounts appended thereto were taken as read, and unanimously adopted.

Proposed by Mr. Drysdale, seconded by Mr. Prout, and carried unanimously—That a Dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, as recommended by the Directors, be declared, free of Income-tax, to be paid within one month at the Offices of the Company.

Major General Saxton and Lambart Cowan, Esq., having retired from the direction by rotation, and Mr. Cowan offering himself for re-election, proposed by Mr. Drew, seconded by Mr. Stutchbury, and carried unanimously—That Mr. Cowan be re-elected.

Proposed by Mr. Chandler, seconded by Mr. Ann, and carried unanimously—That, with a view of increasing the business element on the Board of Direction, Mr. James Mackenzie Miall be elected as Director, subject to his qualifying within one month.

Proposed by Mr. Crawford, seconded by Mr. Drysdale—That the Board of Direction be increased by the addition of Mr. F. W. J. Waugh as a member.

After some discussion this motion was withdrawn on an amendment by Major General Mercer.

Proposed by Mr. Drew, seconded by Mr. Cowan—That the Auditors be remunerated for their services with a grant of Fifteen Guineas. Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. M'Guire, seconded by Mr. Ann, and carried unanimously—That the Auditors, Messrs. Leslie, Straith, and Co., be re-elected for the present year.

After votes of thanks to the Chairman, Board, and Officers of the Company, the Meeting closed.

By Order,
LAMBART COWAN, Honorary Secretary.

N.B.—Shares are still available at par.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCING

PYRETIC SALINE.

USE NO SUBSTITUTE.—See perpetual injunction against imitators; also the unanimous judgment before the Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, Jan. 22, 1878, in H. Lamplough's favour.

Important to all, more especially English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in Tropical and Foreign Climates

Her Majesty's Representative the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a letter of request for an additional supply of PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of great value, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a tumbler of cold water. This can be repeated once or twice in two hours, if needful.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sea or bilious sickness.

For BILIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated secretions, Indigestion, and Eruptions on the Skin, a teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed. May be obtained of the Proprietor,

H. LAMPLOUGH, Consulting Chemist, 113, HOLBORN, E.C.,

Proceedings of an Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders, held at the Offices of the Company on the 4th February, 1880.

Major General SAXTON in the Chair.

The Honorary Secretary read the Notice convening the present Meeting.

The Honorary Secretary read the proceedings of the Meeting held on the 10th February, 1879, which were confirmed and signed by the Chairman.

The Report of the Directors and the Accounts appended thereto were taken as read, and unanimously adopted.

Proposed by Mr. Drysdale, seconded by Mr. Prout, and carried unanimously—That a Dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, as recommended by the Directors, be declared, free of Income-tax, to be paid within one month at the Offices of the Company.

Major General Saxton and Lambart Cowan, Esq., having retired from the direction by rotation, and Mr. Cowan offering himself for re-election, proposed by Mr. Drew, seconded by Mr. Stutchbury, and carried unanimously—That Mr. Cowan be re-elected.

Proposed by Mr. Chandler, seconded by Mr. Ann, and carried unanimously—That, with a view of increasing the business element on the Board of Direction, Mr. James Mackenzie Miall be elected as Director, subject to his qualifying within one month.

Proposed by Mr. Crawford, seconded by Mr. Drysdale—That the Board of Direction be increased by the addition of Mr. F. W. J. Waugh as a member.

After some discussion this motion was withdrawn on an amendment by Major General Mercer.

Proposed by Mr. Drew, seconded by Mr. Cowan—That the Auditors be remunerated for their services with a grant of Fifteen Guineas. Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. M'Guire, seconded by Mr. Ann, and carried unanimously—That the Auditors, Messrs. Leslie, Straith, and Co., be re-elected for the present year.

After votes of thanks to the Chairman, Board, and Officers of the Company, the Meeting closed.

By Order,
LAMBART COWAN, Honorary Secretary.

CAPTAIN FRED. BURNABY,
Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 13:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cockle's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheik, who was impervious to all native medicines when I administered to him five will never fade from my memory; and a friend of mine, who passed through the same district many months afterwards, informed me that my fame as a 'medicine man' had not died out, but that the marvellous cure was even then a theme of conversation in the bazaar."

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, March 6; Madras and Allahabad, March 4; Calcutta, March 8.

THE following is the report on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending February 24, 1880:—General rain in Madras and Bengal has benefited the spring crops on the whole, though doing some damage in parts of the latter province. In five Madras districts dry and tank-raised crops continue to suffer from drought. Light showers have fallen in parts of all the other provinces. Public health and agricultural prospects continue good.

THE telegrams of this week from Cabul announce a proposal on the part of Musa Khan for a conference of chiefs at Maidan, to discuss the British proposals. The Governor of Turkestan, Gholam Hyder, is reported to be on the march with 6,000 men. Rumours of the advance of an intrigue of Abdurrahman are still flying about. But the only certainty is that careful preparations are being made at Cabul for the strengthening of our position. Later reports from Turkestan state that the Afghan regiments have thrown off the authority of Gholam Hyder, the Governor of that province. The action of the troops seems connected with some movement, actual or expected, of the Sirdar Abdurrahman.

A CALCUTTA despatch of March 22 says that a telegram has been received at Jellalabad directing that the new commands and redistribution of troops shall be held in abeyance.

THE Hazaras, having promised co-operation, have lost no time in successfully attacking the Afghans south of Ghazni. From Kandahar we hear of some outrages by natives, and reports from Herat of negotiations between Ayoob and the Persians.

THE advance from Kandahar upon Ghazni has begun, the order to march having been received on the 21st inst. A correspondent telegraphs as follows:—

"The advance as far as Khelat-i-Ghilzai will be effected by two columns moving up the Arghesan and Tarnak Valleys in the following order:—General Barter's Brigade, consisting of four guns, 11th Battery 11th Brigade Royal Artillery, Mountain Battery, 2nd Battalion 60th Rifles, 15th Sikhs, 25th Punjab Native Infantry, one company of Sappers and Field Hospital, will precede the headquarters and the main body by three days, and march up the Arghesan Valley as far as Sadu Khan's villages, ten miles east of Khelat-i-Ghilzai. The headquarters and the main body, consisting of the A Battery B Brigade Horse Artillery, G Battery, 4th and 6th Batteries of the 11th Brigade Royal Artillery, 2nd Punjab Cavalry, 19th Bengal Lancers, 59th Foot, 3rd Goorkhas, 2nd Sikhs, 19th Punjab Native Infantry, one company of Sappers, ordnance park, and Field Hospital, will march up the Tarnak Valley in two brigades. The 6th Battery 11th Brigade Royal Artillery consists of two 25 pounders and two 6·3 howitzers for battering purposes. These guns, which have just arrived, will be tried previously to the march on the fortifications of Old Kandahar. General Barter's brigade and the main body will, on arrival at Khelat-i-Ghilzai, be within heliographing distance of one another, and both will then continue their march in parallel lines on the left and right banks of the Tarnak at the same distance until they meet at Shahjui. General Barter's brigade will, under this arrangement, march along the western skirt of the Surkhi Koh range, thus avoiding the provinces to the east, where the Taraki tribes are in considerable force and are reported to be mischievous."

Two Austrian travellers have arrived at Rangoon from China by the overland route through Yunnan and Bhamo. They attempted to enter Thibet, but were prevented by Chinese officials.

THE majority of the Indian papers express much sympathy with General Massy. They argue that the censure passed upon him by the Government and the Commander in Chief for his conduct on the day the guns were lost was too severe, if not wholly unmerited, and they devote considerable space to the defence of him.

THE Viceroy leaves Calcutta for Simla on the 5th prox. He will meet the Maharaja of Cashmere at Umballa. Officials have already commenced their annual emigration to the hills, and Government offices will reopen at Simla about the 5th of April.

PARLIAMENT was prorogued yesterday and dissolved by proclamation published in last night's Gazette. The Queen's Speech contained the following reference to Indian affairs:—"I entertain the confident hope that the measures adopted in Afghanistan will lead to a speedy settlement of that country."

THE Army and Navy Gazette furnishes the following items of interest to our readers:—

Colonel Sir P. S. Lumsden, K.C.B., C.S.I., is placed on the paid establishment of Queen's aides de camp, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Colonel R. Phayre, C.B., Bo.S.C., to the rank of major general.

It is generally understood that Colonel H. C. Wilkinson, on arrival in India, will join the staff of the Cabul Expedition as cavalry brigadier, in the room of Colonel Dunham Massy.

Captain C. W. B. Bell, 8th Hussars, who has been holding for some time past the adjutancy of the Yeomanry School at Aldershot, has been offered and has accepted the appointment of professor of Hindustani at the Staff College, vacant by the promotion of Major F. Chenevix Trench, 20th Hussars, to the lieutenant colonelcy of his regiment.

Sir James Fergusson's staff has now been completed. Lieutenant Colonel H. H. D. Stracey, Scots Guards, will, as we stated a fortnight ago, accompany Sir James as military secretary. Lieutenants H. J. Fergusson, Rifle Brigade, and Hon. G. FitzRoy Somerset, Grenadier Guards, have been appointed aides de camp.

THE following shows the amount of money in the public treasuries and at credit of the Government in the Presidency banks and their branches on the last day of the month of January, 1880, with the corresponding figures on the same date in 1879 and 1878:—

1880	13,51,94,041

THE Secretary of State has sanctioned a proposal of the Indian Government that the Accountant General of Bombay should be placed, like the Comptroller General, in direct communication with the Financial Secretary of the India-office in matters of routine; and has suggested that the arrangement might with advantage be extended so as to include the Accountant General of Madras.

THE Government of India have sanctioned, as a temporary measure, the employment of British officers on recruiting duty when they can be spared from their regiments, and the grant to them of free passage warrants by road and rail when so employed.

THE Secretary of State for India having objected to the provisions as to the protection rate under the Bombay Irrigation Act, 1879, a bill has been prepared to repeal Sections 49 to 56 of the Act.

A RECENT Gazette of India contains the comparative statement of the net Indian Sea and Land Customs Revenue—excluding salt—for the first ten months of the official year 1879-80, and for five years. Taking the totals, we find that in five years the revenue from imports has fallen from Rs.1,40,04,343 to Rs.1,29,37,587, or to the extent of Rs.10,66,756, and this notwithstanding that in 1877-78 it rose to the large figure of Rs.1,53,71,248. The revenue from exports exhibits no such fluctuation; it presents a steady decrease, and has fallen from Rs.50,44,568 in 1875-76 to Rs.38,80,666 in the current official year. The general result may be thus presented:—Net Customs Revenue—ten months: 1875-76, Rs.1,90,48,911; 1876-77, Rs. 1,69,68,708; 1877-78, Rs. 1,85,84,672; 1878-79, Rs.1,76,26,717; 1879-80, Rs.1,68,18,253; falling off in five years, Rs.22,30,658, say, roughly, a quarter of a million sterling. Looked at by provinces, the figures stand as under. Result of comparison of ten months' Customs Revenue for five years, 1875-76 to 1879-80 :—

Province.	Increase.	Decrease.
Bengal	—	Rs.16,39,779
Bombay	—	3,09,353
Sind	Rs.40,215	—
Madras	—	6,21,367
Burma...	2,99,606	—

It is strange that Sind and Burma, the extremities of the Empire, should show an increase.

THE local administrations have been empowered by the Government of India to offer the following terms to warrant and non-commissioned officers of the D.P.W. whose resignation they consider would be advantageous to the service:—

I.—Warrant and non-commissioned officers may retire voluntarily, receiving—

(a)—The pensions due to them under the regulations, but not invalid pensions.

(b)—One month's substantive pay for each year's service in the department up to a maximum of twelve months' pay.

II.—Warrant officers must receive the gratuity in India, but non-commissioned officers will only be paid after their arrival in England or a colony.

III.—Retirements under these regulations must take place on or before March 31, and applications for permission to retire must be received by the adjutant general of the Presidency on or before March 15.

As a rule the offer is not to be made to any one under forty years of age, and in no case is it to be considered as "an order to retire." Nor is it intended to preclude warrant and non-commissioned officers above that age from tendering their "voluntary resignations," each of which will be considered on its merits.

THE death rate in Bombay is stated in the latest returns at 37·84 a thousand of the population per annum; that of Calcutta at 27·2; and of Madras 45·2.

A MANIFESTO, addressed to medical students, has been issued by the Indian Medical Service Defence Fund. In it the disadvantages of the formerly favourite service, as compared with the Army Medical Department under the new regime, are forcibly brought out. In the matter of position, pay, pension, and promotion, a large balance is shown in favour of the Army Medical Department. Moreover, there is a prediction hazarded as to the possibility of future attacks on the status of the Indian Service, which, apparently, in the opinion of the committee, has no secure tenure even of its deteriorated position.

WE note from tables published in the Gazette of India that the first seventeen days of January of this year, compared with a like period last year, show a falling off in the receipts from guaranteed railways of Rs.4,29,072, whilst the State railways show an increase of Rs 2,73,360. The net decrease is thus Rs.1,55,712; against this must be set off the saving of Rs.88,914 less expended on the lines. The result is a net decrease in railway receipts for the first seventeen days of the new year of Rs.66,798.

THE possibility of a collision between China and Russia in Kuldja appears to gain ground. The reported execution of the Ambassador who concluded the retrocession treaty has been followed by a large order for ammunition. We hear also of appeals to the Dungans by the Russians.

TELEGRAMS published in this day's issue of the Daily News state that Abdulrahman is advancing on Kunduz, and that the troops sent by Gholam Hyder to oppose him killed the brother of the latter and joined Abdulrahman, whose intentions are unknown. Gholam Hyder, who is reported to have killed one of Azim Khan's sons, has fled.

THE programme of the East India Association for the current session includes papers on the following subjects:—"Indian Appeals," by the Right Hon. Lord Stanley of Alderley; "The Present Position and Prospects of the Ryots of India," by Miss Florence Nightingale; "The Position and Prospects of the East Indian Community," by the Rev. J. Long, late of Calcutta; "The Press Laws of India;" "Indians and Anglo-Indians," by William Tayler, Esq., late Commissioner of Patna; "The Neglect of Public Monuments in India," by Edward B. Eastwick, Esq., C.B., F.R.S., F.S.A., M.R.A.S.

IT is notified in the Gazette of India that indigo and lac of all sorts are exempted from the customs duties to which they have been liable under the Indian Tariff Act.

SURGEON GENERAL C. A. GORDON, M.D., C.B., principal medical officer, British Forces, in the Madras Presidency, has offered a prize of Rs.500 for the best essay on the subject of fevers as affecting British soldiers in India.

RULES for the preservation of game in the Punjab have been promulgated by which the close season is fixed from March 15 to Sept. 15.

THE curious marriage custom of the Kunbis has been described in many of our contemporaries. We hear now that there is a diversity of opinion among them as to the question whether this is or is not the twelfth year, and all proposed marriages are postponed sine die pending the decision. The already married are of opinion that the mystic period has not elapsed, the unmarried youth think it has. Perhaps the question will have to be settled by the Privy Council.

THE Times of India is able to state that Government has issued final orders regarding the abolition of the Barrack Department in the Presidency of Bombay. On April 1 the whole of the duties will be taken over by the Public Works Department, and that department will dispose of existing establishments so soon as it is in a position to judge what establishment will be necessary to carry on the new duties devolving on the executive engineers.

SOME changes in the pay of non-commissioned officers and soldiers on the unattached list come into force on April 1. Sergeants on the unattached list, eligible for promotion to the warrant grades, with the exception of those in the Ordnance and Public Works Department, will draw the regimental pay of a colour sergeant of infantry, with the increase of twopence a-day after two years' service in that rank; sergeants of two years' standing on April 1 will be granted the higher rate of pay from that date.

THE Governor General in Council has been pleased to direct the establishment of a permanent defence committee for India, composed as follows:—President: His Excellency the Commander in Chief in India. Members: Adjutant General in India, Quartermaster General in India, Inspector General of Artillery for India, Inspector General of Ordnance and Magazines, Bengal; Inspector General of Military Works, and Deputy Adjutant General, Royal Artillery in India. For coast defences: Consulting Naval Officer to the Government of India and officer in charge of the torpedo defence. Secretary: An officer of the Military Works Branch, Public Works Department.

INSTRUCTIONS have been issued by the Commander in Chief in India that wives of field officers unaccompanied by their husbands are not to receive passages to England in the remaining troopships this season.

THE CABUL AND KHYBER FORCES.

THE following changes have been ordered in the distribution of the Cabul and Khyber forces:—The Second or Khyber Division is to be broken up, and portions of the troops composing it to go to Cabul. The Reserve Division at Peshawur is also to be broken up, and merged into the line of communications. The force at Cabul is to be divided into two divisions—the first under General Roberts's immediate command, the second under Major General John Ross. General Bright to be appointed Inspector General of the line of communications. This line is divided into three sections—namely, the first from Jamrud to Basawal, under Brigadier Gib; the second from Basawal to Sufed Sang, under Brigadier Doran; the third from Sufed Sang to Butkhak, under Brigadier Hill. Brigadier Roberts, of the 5th Fusiliers, will proceed to Cabul to command the brigade in the Second Division. Brigadier Arbuthnot will command the movable column at Jellalabad and Sufed Sang. The force under General Roberts is to be styled the Cabul Field Force; that under General Bright, the Khyber Line Force. Colonel Gordon, of the 29th Punjab Native Infantry, obtains command of the brigade in the Kuram vacant by General Tytler's death.

The movable column in the Lughman Valley has been withdrawn, enabling the 30th and 31st Punjab Native Infantry to relieve the 22nd, 24th, and 27th Punjab Native Infantry and the 45th Sikhs, which last-named four regiments are all under orders for Cabul. Asmutullah's fort is at present not to be destroyed Should any necessity for such a course arise there will be no difficulty hereafter in doing so, the Lughman Valley being now accessible by Daranta Gorge, Jagdalak, and Seibaba. The proposed route through the valley has been abandoned owing to the difficulty of procuring supplies west of Kuch Mohamed.

General Arbuthnot, with a committee of officers, has been out selecting sites on the slopes of Sufed Koh for summer posts. Nearly all the European troops will be located in the hills ; the cavalry and artillery at an elevation of about 6,000ft., the infantry higher.

An interesting experiment is being made by General Roberts in the formation of a body of mounted infantry. With this view fifty-three men of each infantry regiment, with a proportion of officers and non-commissioned officers, are being trained. With transport ponies the men are taught to mount and dismount rapidly and advance and retire, as also to make flanking movements. The men ride with slung rifles, and carry sixty rounds of reserve ammunition, three days' rations of preserved meat and biscuits if European, corresponding suitable provisions if natives, also one day's grain for the animals. The whole will form a mixed body of about 900 men, likely in many conceivable circumstances to prove most useful.—Times Telegram.

THE UNCOVENANTED SERVICE PENSION FUND.

THE latest published Gazette of India contains an abstract statement of figures, for the fourth quarter of 1878-79, of the position of the Uncovenanted Service Family Pension Fund. The capital of the fund in the hands of the Govenment on the dates set out was as follows :—April 30, 1878, Rs.60,88,657 ; April 30, 1879, Rs.64,91,304 ; increase for 1879, Rs.4,02,647. The increase remained after meeting all liabilities, which, in the aggregate, showed an augmentation of Rs.20,187 to be provided for. This balance of capital of Rs.64,91,304 remained to the fund on April 30 last, after providing for the following calls upon it during the interval since 1837 :—Pensions paid, Rs.56,92,243 ; profits divided to qualified subscribers, Rs.20,94,795 ; cost of management, including exchange, Rs.7,69,420 ; total, Rs.86,56,458 ; receipts since 1837 to 30-4-1879, Rs.1,51,47,762 ; balance in hand, as above, Rs.64,91,304. On the date referred to this well-conducted institution secured a provision for 324 widows and 505 children.

INDIAN RAILWAYS IN 1879.

A LATE Gazette of India gives an approximate statement of the gross receipts and expenses of the Indian railways for the year 1879, which shows a very satisfactory working. The guaranteed lines, the East Indian, the Sind, Punjab, and Delhi, the South Indian, and the Bombay and Baroda, show an increase over the previous year amounting to Rs.51,98,328 ; the Eastern Bengal, the G.I.P., the Madras, and the Oudh and Rohilkund show a decrease of Rs.36,81,318 ; the net increase being Rs.15,17,000. In the case of the State lines the return is even more satisfactory ; of nineteen lines all but five show increased receipts, the excess over the year 1878 being Rs.55,32,190, and the five less fortunate lines, the Khamgaum, Oomrawuttee the Nizam's, the Irrawaddy, and Sindia's, showing a decrease of only Rs.1,27,518 ; the net increase on the State lines amounted, therefore, to Rs.54.05,072. The net receipts of all the railways increased from Rs.5,60,56,974 in 1878 to Rs.5,94,84,401 in 1879, or a net increase of Rs.34,27,427. The Rajputana line shows an increase from Rs.29,72,603 in 1878 to Rs.35,79,687 in 1879, or a clear gain of Rr.6,07,084.—Times of India.

THE KONOMA DESPATCHES.

THE Gazette of India contains the despatches relating to the operations against the Naga village of Konoma on Nov. 22. In acknowledging the receipt of these reports Colonel Johnson, military secretary, writes to the Adjutant General in India :—"The Governor General in Council cordially recognises the gallantry and devotion displayed by the officers and men in the capture of this formidable stronghold, and I am to request that, under the orders of his Excellency the Commander in Chief, the thanks of the Government of India may be conveyed to them. His Excellency in Council shares in the appreciation expressed by Brigadier General Nation of the services rendered by Colonel Johnstone, political officer of Manipur, Captain Williamson, inspector general of police, and Lieut. Maxwell, assistant commissioner, and I am to state that the acknowledgments of the Government of India will be communicated to them through the Civil Department." In submitting the despatches the Adjutant General said it was the Commander in Chief's pleasing duty to bring to the notice of Government the gallantry and devotion displayed by the officers and men engaged under the immediate command of Brigadier General Nation. The letter goes on to say :—"The casualties on our side were heavy, and, in addition to the loss of Lieutenant Forbes, attached to 44th Native Infantry, on probation for the Staff Corps, and so many brave men of the 43rd and 44th Native Infantry, the army has to deplore the death of a most gallant and excellent officer in Major Cock, deputy assistant adjutant general ; but while lamenting this loss, the Commander in Chief feels that the capture of Konoma is well worthy of a prominent place in the long list of gallant deeds performed by the native army of India. When the operations have been concluded it will be his Excellency's duty to bring before Government the names of those whom he considers should be rewarded for their conduct on this occasion. Meanwhile Sir F. Haines has in separate communications submitted the recommendation of Brigadier General Nation that the Victoria Cross be bestowed upon Lieutenant (now Captain) Ridgeway, and that one native officer, one non-commissioned officer, and three sepoys of the 44th Native Infantry should receive the Order of Merit for conspicuous gallantry during the attack.

EXTRACT FROM BRIGADIER GENERAL NATION'S DESPATCH.

I CANNOT help particularly mentioning the brave Col. Nuttall, who was always the first to lead and the last to withdraw when an assault had been made ; the late gallant and much lamented Major Cock and Lieut. Ridgeway also behaved most gallantly, and the manner in which Lieut. Mansel, R.A., assisted by his three bombardiers (John Watts, H. M'Andrew, and Thomas Portman), served the guns, brought up under the very walls of the enemy with little or no cover, elicited most deserved admiration from all. To the medical staff Deputy Surg. Gen. De Renzy, Surgs. O'Brien and Campbell, my best thanks are due, as they frequently had to perform their errand of mercy under heavy fire, and their arduous duties were most nobly and ably performed. I cannot conclude this despatch without expressing my deep gratitude and indebtedness to the following political officers who accompanied the force, as, in addition to their own duties, they have, on every occasion, joined the troops in active operations and proved themselves thorough soldiers at heart. Colonel Johnstone, political officer of Manipur, as his Excellency is already aware, relieved the beleaguered garrison of Kohima with the Maharaja's troops. On my arrival at Suchema he joined my camp and personally accompanied me throughout the operations against Konoma, providing and taking entire charge of the transport train for the carrying of the guns—a most arduous duty on the hills on which they had to act, and which he alone could have performed as the men were Kookies brought by him from Manipur ; the labour performed by these little hillmen was incredible and invaluable ; two of them were wounded. Throughout the latter assault on the village, Colonel Johnstone was at my side and joined in the last attack, and when operations for the day were over he volunteered to return to Suchema to bring up more gun ammunition for the next day's proceedings (our supply having been expended in a day's operations), which was a most dangerous duty, as the road might have been beset with Nagas. Colonel Johnstone's admirable arrangements for the supply of local transport have elicited the praise and thanks of every one, and I feel sure that his valuable services will not fail to receive the thanks of the Government. Captain Williamson, inspector general of police, also joined my camp with Colonel Johnstone, and from his personal knowledge of the country he has been of the greatest service to me ; he further joined in the attack on Konoma, attaching himself to Major Evans' detachment with a small body of frontier police and succeeded in harassing the rear of the enemy ; he was the first who proposed returning to Suchema to bring up a fresh supply of gun ammunition, and he and Colonel Johnstone both did so at dawn the following morning. Lieutenant Maxwell, assistant commissioner, has also been with my camp, but was not present at the assault on Konoma owing to wounds he had received in the attack on Suchema, but his services have been most valuable. I feel that a special tribute is due to the late gallant Major Cock, my deputy assistant adjutant general, who was one of the bravest officers in our army, and, as a staff officer, unsurpassed by any ; his loss to me, both publicly and privately, is irremediable, and his melancholy death has cast a gloom over the whole camp, and I am sure it will be participated in by many throughout India.

THE INDIAN RAINFALL.

THE inquiring mind of Mr. Egerton Hubbard has procured a return of the rainfall in India during the year 1878, as compared with the average rainfall. The return has been prepared by the meteorological reporter to Government, Mr. Blanford, and is complete excepting as regards Bangalore and Secunderabad. Indeed, the return has given Mr. Blanford an opportunity of remarking on "the absolute necessity of taking some steps greatly to expedite the communications of all the Madras meteorological reports" of the twenty-two reporting stations, it appears that sixteen presented showed an excess over the estimated average, and six a deficit. Of the former, the highest was the Concan and Ghats (Bombay) which showed 187 inches, being 41 above the average. Assam and Eastern Bengal returned 131 inches, being an excess of 35 inches, and Eastern Himalaya enjoyed 166 inches, being only 21 above the average fall. In Madras the Malabar and Ghat return was 144, or 30 inches in excess, and the Northern Circars, 64, being 28 inches above average, while the Carnatic only showed nearly an inch and a-half above its normal rate of 35 inches. Rajputana and Guzerat exceeded their allowances of 32 inches by 14, and the small average rainfall of Sind and Cutch, 8·79, was almost doubled. The deficient rainfalls were in the Upper Gangetic Plains, where 35·60 inches fell out of an average of 38, and Western Bengal with 1·25 less than the average of 55·92. Central India and Nerbudda, with a rate of 44 inches, experienced a deficit of 9·19; but the greatest deficiency was in British Burma, Arakan showing nearly 42 inches less than the rate of 192·85; Pegu, 12·69 less than 76·36; and Tenasserim 132 instead of 173. Of the other stations which recorded an excess, the Western Himalaya and Punjab Plains showed a slight excess of two to three inches; while in Khandesh and Berar, seventeen inches of rain; the South Central Provinces, five; and the North Deccan Plateau, eleven fell in excess of the annual average. The incomplete returns of Hyderabad and South Deccan showed an increase of fourteen inches, and the Bay Islands returned an excess of six.

Digitized by Google

OFFICIAL PAPERS.

WE understand that Messrs. W. H. Allen and Co. have completed arrangements for the publication of a new serial, the first number of which will be ready for issue immediately after the meeting of Parliament in May next. This publication will, under the title of "Official Papers," comprise carefully prepared abstracts of all printed parliamentary papers. Everyone who is in the habit of seeing these returns is painfully conscious of the extreme difficulty that exists, when they are at all voluminous, in arriving at the gist of their contents; consequently, these State papers, which often contain most valuable information—and some of the documents comprised in them represent the outcome of lengthened deliberations by the most astute diplomatists of the day—are rarely read, and for the most part, after having been afforded temporary accommodation on the floor in the corner of the library until the session is over, are relegated to the receptacle of waste-paper, and may finally be traced to the numerous butter-shops of the metropolis. It has hitherto been practically impossible to provide space for these papers in any private library, but by the publication of "Official Papers" every member of Parliament will be enabled to possess, for future reference, all that it is important to preserve of parliamentary returns, embraced within the compass of two moderately-sized volumes a year. Besides private libraries, this new publication will be invaluable for all libraries of reference, such as those belonging to clubs and scientific societies; whilst those who do not desire permanently to possess copies of these abstracts will be enabled to make themselves acquainted with the contents of parliamentary returns through the invaluable medium of circulating libraries, and the mass of information thus collected by Parliament on every variety of subject will be brought within reach of those to whom the returns themselves have hitherto not been available.

THE LUGHMAN VALLEY.

THE Lughman Valley does not appear to be so fertile and rich in supplies as was at first supposed; they have not been coming in so freely of late. General Bright received the principal chiefs of the valley in durbar on Feb. 8 and addressed them as follows:—"Chiefs of Alishang, Mandrawur, Charbagh, and other places under the Government of Lughman, I am pleased to see you here before me to-day. Sirdar Asaf Khan has assured me that you were not participators in the movements against order made by certain men who collected bands not only for the purpose of showing hostility towards the British troops, but for robbing and ill-treating peaceful cultivators and others, who would not join their rising, and made the road unsafe for the trading community of Lughman. I am informed that, while this was going on, you remained in your homes, carrying on your usual duties, and not mixing in the intrigues of others. This is as it should be. On my arrival at Futteh, Mahomed Khan's Fort, I had presented to me certain mullicks of this quarter; and now it is with satisfaction that I see nearly all the notables of Lughman present to pay their respects to the British Government. I can assure you that, as long as you remain friends with us, no harm will come to you from our arms; but we are strong enough to punish those who will be hostile to us and oppose our troops. I trust you will support in every way your Governor, Sirdar Asaf Khan, and I feel assured that he will not forget your interests, as he has spoken of your services repeatedly. With these few words I will dismiss you to your homes, as some of you have come from a long distance, with suitable khilluts." This speech was translated to the assembled Khans by Captain Warburton, political officer; khilluts were then distributed amongst them, and they departed to their respective homesteads. If the Dobeyli route to Cabul is found to be practicable and better adapted for traffic than that through the Jugdulluk Pass the advisability of keeping on friendly terms with the chiefs in the Lughman Valley will then be proved, as they are quite powerful enough to dispel any gathering of the Ghilzais, under Asmatullah Khan, should he at any time be disposed to give trouble.—Pioneer.

AFGHAN FASHIONS.

THE dress of the Afghan women, especially those whose husbands have rank or wealth, is extremely picturesque. A short, tightly-fitting bodice of green, blue, or crimson silk confines the bust, but buttons so closely up to the throat that one can only guess at the proportions of shoulders and bosom. The bodice is generally embroidered with gold, and then becomes so stiff and unyielding that it is virtually a corset. In this cold weather the short arms of this sari are continued down to the wrist, and the vest itself is padded with wool for the sake of warmth. Trousers, baggy and flowing as Fatima's, and tightly fastened at the ankles, a broad silk kummerbund of almost endless length, with the ends so disposed that they become skirts; dainty white socks and a tiny slipper or shoe, gold embroidered—such is the indoor dress of a Cabuli lady, while covering and hiding all save feet and ankles is the voluminous white garment drawn over the head and face, and falling to the heels. These veiled beauties have jewellery scattered over their forehead, hands, wrists, arms, and ears; while handsome gold loops secure the yashmak at the back of the head; the hair being lightly drawn from the forehead and tied tightly into a knot, Grecian fashion. The length of a silk kummerbund, which circles a lady's waist, is sometimes astonishing; one must have been 12 yards long by 18in. broad, and the end was even then not forthcoming. The slippers and shoes are of Cabuli make, and are very pretty. On a pale green background beautiful patterns are worked with gold and silver thread, and parti-coloured silk, until the effect is more like that of a fairy slipper than one for daily use. But a stout leathern sole is put on with high heels rudely bound with iron, and then the work of art is complete. The stalls in which their slippers and shoes are made are the gayest in the whole bazaar. A Cabuli lady's foot is small, almost to deformity, and the baggy trousers by contrast make them appear exceedingly petite.—Pioneer.

THE REPORT OF THE ARMY COMMISSION.

SOME further particulars have been supplied by the correspondent of the Times as to the distribution and organisation recommended. The following are the main obligatory points to be held:—Calcutta, Dinapore, Allahabad, Cawnpore, Lucknow, Agra, Delhi, Meerut, Lahore, Rawul Pindi, Mooltan, Karachi, Nusseerabad, Ahmedabad, Mhow, Jubbulpore, Nagpore, Puna, Bombay, Secunderabad, Bellary, Bangalore, Madras, Shillong, and Rangoon. The secondary stations to be those on the frontier and those intermediate to the main centres. The Territorial Army Corps to be divided into district commands, which will be of three classes. The following are the districts proposed:—Bengal Army Corps—first-class districts, Lucknow and Meerut; second-class districts, Calcutta and Gwalior; third class, eastern frontier, Bareilly and Nowgong. The Punjab Corps, including the Punjab Frontier Force, incorporate with the Regular Army first-class districts, Lahore and Rawul Pindi; second class, Peshawur and Kuram; third class, Umballa and Mooltan. The Madras Corps—first-class districts, Hyderabad and Bangalore; second class, Madras and Burma; third class, Belgaum. The Bombay Corps—first-class districts, Sind with Beluchistan and Puna; second-class districts, Bombay and Mhow; third class Nusserabad, Nagpore, and Aden. Colonels on the staff to command at Allahabad, Agra, Lundi-Kotal, Bellary, and Pishin. Under the head of "Military Administration" several changes are proposed. The War Secretary should hold office five years, and have the local rank of major-general. All War Department offices to be concentrated in one building at Simla. The appointment of Chief of the Staff to be permanently adopted. The departments of Adjutant and Quartermaster General to be united under the title "general staff." Each army corps to have a chief of the staff. When the army corps commanded belongs to the British service, its chief of the staff to belong to the Indian service, and vice versâ. An intelligence department to be formed, consisting of one officer from each army corps working under the chief of the headquarters staff. A military education department to be formed. The Judge Advocate General's department to be reduced from fifteen to five. The total number of officers of the general Staff, including those of the War Department, the Commander in Chief of Army Corps, and first and second class stations, to be 136 officers, instead of 209 as at present. The following are the proposals made regarding the British Army in India:—The European garrison to consist of six regiments of cavalry, 43 battalions of infantry, 10 horse, 38 field, four heavy, eight mountain, and 17 garrison batteries. Soldiers under three years' service not to be embarked for India, nor any who have not extended their period of service to nine years. A committee of officers to fix suitable uniform.

OUR AFGHAN POLICY.*

THE artillery duel of speeches and pamphlets which precedes the hand-to-hand struggle at the hustings has begun in earnest. We are not concerned to observe more than the publications which deal with the policy which has, spite of misrepresentation and misunderstanding in England, been thoroughly approved in India, the policy of enforcing our supremacy in Afghanistan and securing the outworks of the gates of India. The true story of the order of events, the mistakes of former years, and the recent endeavours to undo the results of these mistakes in our relations with Afghanistan, and through Afghanistan with Russia in Asia, is succinctly and forcibly told by an Indian officer. Taking the history as divided into five epochs marked off by the former events—of the Umballa Conference in 1869, the Mission of Lord Northbrook in 1873, the commencement of Lord Lytton's viceroyalty in 1876, and the repulse of the Mission in 1878—the author shows from official documents that the policy of indifference and abstention forced on successive viceroys by the Home Government converted Shere Ali from a friend to a foe, and drove him to intrigue with Russia, and that the vigorous action of the last two years succeeded in averting an imminent danger which had already indirectly disturbed the peace of India and threatened the gravest consequences. The brochure before us says rightly, "That no page of our national annals has been more obscured and disfigured by party feeling than that which narrates the course of our recent policy on the Indian frontier." The author deserves the thanks of all who desire to see these mists cleared away and their countrymen enabled to form a true estimate of the wisdom that has directed and the gallantry that has carried that policy into effect. It clears our statesmen from the charge of rashness as effectively as the published despatch of General Roberts exonerates our brave officers and soldiers from the scandalous imputations of cruelty.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—In your epitome of his Excellency the Viceroy's speech, in page 196 of your paper of the 4th inst., I read that his Excellency declared his opinion that the famine relief expenditure and the loss of exchange have been unavoidable expenses. I am anxious to show that this opinion is erroneous. I have endeavoured to convince the readers of your paper that the severity of famines of late years in India has been caused by Indian octroi. Instead of offering facilities for storing grain in cities, Indian octroi has practically prohibited this provision for checking a sudden rise in the prices of food. The enormous losses which have been saddled on India by the Government exchange operations have been caused by export taxes on Indian produce, which taxes are condemned by the first principles of political economy accepted by all civilised nations. These taxes have fallen heavily upon all Europeans who have been obliged to remit money to England, and upon all Manchester, Sheffield, and other merchants who send goods to India. The impolicy of export duties has been repeatedly avowed by Government itself, which has boasted loudly of having abolished the export duty on wheat, and which is now boasting complacently of abolishing the export duty on indigo and shellac, which measure was urged upon it in your paper in December, 1877.

What would we say if the British House of Commons were to exact a tax of 10 per cent. ad valorem on all pigs, bacon, and hams exported from Ireland, or a similar tax on all cows exported from Guernsey and Alderney; or on all manufactures as they left the cities of Manchester, Birmingham, Sheffield, &c.; or on all raw cotton as it left Liverpool; or on all sugar as it left Glasgow; or on all goods sent out of London to country customers? Would not such taxes ruin the trade and prosperity of England? Three reasons are offered for imposing a heavy double tax on Indian rice before permission is given to send it to other countries. 1. That we ought to prevent the export of rice from India, where it may be required to feed the population. 2. That we have a monopoly of rice and can thus force foreign nations to contribute to the Indian Exchequer. 3. That the export tax yields so large a revenue.

1. There are immense tracts of swampy land in India and Burma which would yield rice to the value of millions if Government would but sanction the cultivation. Government by doubly taxing rice, by the land tax and by the export tax, discourages its cultivation. By discouraging the cultivation of rice Government adopts a very peculiar way of supplying its subjects with food. The evil results of its erroneous policy are manifest in Burma, into which under-populated country immigration is discouraged by a heavy export tax on the fruits of industry.

2. Those who assert that India enjoys a monopoly of rice cultivation must be very ignorant. It is true that almost all of the rice consumed in the islands of Mauritius and Ceylon is brought from India, and from India and Burma large quantities are sent every year to the Straits Settlements and the Persian Gulf and the West Indian Islands, to Great Britain, to Africa, America, Australia, Bourbon, China, Gibraltar, &c. But the production of rice in Eastern China is almost incalculable, and that India has not a monopoly in supplying any foreign country might be proved by raising the export tax. That she can secure a monopoly in many parts of the world will sooner or later be proved when the export tax is removed. It ought to be the privilege, as it is in the power, of her Majesty's Government to feed many distant lands.

3. The true reason why the Indian Government will not abolish the export tax on rice is that it yields so large a revenue. Indian statesmen can only see the showers of rupees into the Treasury from the proceeds of this barbarous tax; they fail to see that all of these rupees, and many more, have to be paid to the exchangers of money and to the clever jobbers who make immense fortunes out of the blindness and ignorance of our rulers.

Abolish the export duty on rice and Government and private individuals will be able to send home their savings to London in the shape of document bills on rice cargoes. Manchester would gain more by the abolition of the export tax than by the abolition of all import duties on all kinds of cloths; the natives who buy the cloths with rupees would be able to buy more, and to pay a better price if the exchange value of the rupee were to rise to 1s. 10d.—Your obedient servant,

THE RENTAL IN BENGAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—In an extract from the Pioneer, given in your paper of the 19th inst., at page 247, the land rent in Bengal is estimated at eighteen millions sterling, while Mr. Caird, in his article in the Nineteenth Century for August last on "The Land and People of India," estimates the same rental at only thirteen millions. The great difference between these two estimates would show that either Mr. Caird or the Pioneer has put forward an entirely misleading figure. I bring this discrepancy to notice in the hope that some one who has access to the official documents on the subject will inform your readers which of the two estimates is correct.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE RETRENCHMENTS IN HIGH PLACES.

THE telegram to the effect that a Ministerial bill had been introduced into the House of Commons empowering the reduction in the outfit and allowances of the viceroy, the Governors of Bombay and Madras and their councillors, the commander in chief of India, and the chiefs of Madras and of Bombay, as also in the salaries and allowances of future bishops of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay and of the archdeacons, is the most important news that has reached India for many a long day. It is only surprising that these measures were not adopted long ago. The telegram does not state that the salaries of the firstnamed high functionaries are to be reduced; that reform, however, will come in due course. Some of their pleasant little perquisites merely are to be abolished. It may not be generally known that the allowances of the Governor of Madras alone amount to ninety-five thousand rupees a year, while the cost of outfit is, we believe, somewhere about fifty thousand. We expect to find, when a copy of the bill reaches this country, that nothing more than a sufficient sum to cover the actual expenses of the passage out will be allowed in future, for it is known to all of us that in these days it is altogether unnecessary for any one to incur a large outlay on an expensive outfit. The Government has applied the shears, if not remorselessly, at any rate freely, in cutting down the pay and allowances of its subordinates, and it is, indeed, gratifying to find that the same course is to be now followed with regard to the highly-paid members of Government themselves. The reform has not come a day too soon; but what makes us welcome it the more heartily is that it is to be applicable to those who have for so long enjoyed unnecessary allowances, but which allowances could not be touched by any authority in this country. No one, of course, will be found to deny that our viceroys and governors and councillors ought to be and are handsomely paid. But their salaries are unquestionably sufficient without adding to them practically by granting extra allowances. We are inclined to think that no long time will elapse before the whole question of travelling and other allowances is fully probed and examined. And this leads us to inquire whether the public will ever be favoured with a sight of the "little bill" run up by his Grace the Governor to cover the cost of his recent picnic which has just been brought to a successful termination. We have not the least doubt that his Grace and party have thoroughly enjoyed themselves during their absence from Madras; we shall not be surprised to learn that they are in ecstacies with their trip. But this is not what concerns us, common people, who have to pay the bill. What we want to see is a statement given to the public showing that the country has actually benefited by the great outlay that must have been incurred. We want to see a debtor and creditor account furnished showing the actual money expended on one side and the prospective advantages to the public that will follow on that expenditure. We do not wish to have given to us merely a minute declaring that the canal is a success, that certain districts have improved facilities for traffic afforded them, and so on. All this we know beforehand. What we really want is to learn whether any good and sufficient reason can be offered for the outlay that has just taken place, and, further, we desire to have details of that outlay given us not twelve months hence, but within a reasonable time, in order that we may be satisfied that some justification did and does exist for putting the country to this extra expense. We do not say all this from a captious spirit. It must be remembered that the Press is the mouth-piece of the many millions of the poor of India, who are incapable of fighting their own battles; that it is only by plain homely truths publicly put forth that any real check can be placed on the doings of governors. What we say may in Madras be treated with scorn and contempt by those in high places, but our readers include fortunately the British public, and it rests with that public to decide whether or not justice is to be rendered by England. When Parliament once takes up the subject of the government of India in right earnest we shall get justice done to this country. We shall find our income will be made sufficient to cover our expenditure and to leave us a surplus which we can apply to the reduction of our debt. We shall find many a pleasant little perquisite swept away. We shall see it laid down that when a governor desires to go on a holiday tour he must pay the expenses of that tour out of his own pocket, and not attempt to combine business with pleasure in order that he may obtain the latter without cost to himself.—Madras Times.

UNTIL we know the details of the Ministerial measure for the curtailment of the salaries of the upper score of Anglo-Indian officials it is impossible to form any opinion as to the worth or wisdom of this new measure of retrenchment. While the places of subordinates were being ruthlessly abolished in all directions it was impossible that the large emoluments of the higher placed could escape revision. We recently called attention to the rumours which spoke of the contemplated abolition, not only of the command in chief of these Presidencies, but of the governors and their council, and we pointed out the advisability of meeting the exigencies of the times by timely reductions which would deprive the more drastic measures in favour, in some quarters, of their sole recommendation. We believe that it would be a lasting injury to the Presidencies of Madras and Bombay to be reduced to the position of mere lieutenant governorships administered by mere secretaries without the right or the pretension to resist or gainsay the Government of India upon any point whatever. It may be inferred, from the terms of the Reuter's telegram with regard to the Ministerial bill which has just been laid before Parliament, that the members of Council are not to be disestablished; their salaries are to be reduced like those of the governor general, of the governors, of the commanders in chief, and even of the bishops and archdeacons, but their functions are, apparently, to be left intact. The Civil Service will do well to acquiesce in the reduction with a good grace, and if it be wise it will familiarise itself with the suggestion which which we recently made, that it should strengthen its position by voluntarily formulating a scheme for bringing the emoluments of the higher appointments into nearer accord with the rate of salaries in the sister services. If this step be not taken in good time the temptation to effect sweeping reductions in utter disregard of the fair claims of the service will, some day, prove irresistible to a hard pressed Government anxious to outbid the Opposition by a show of zeal for economy.—Bombay Gazette.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

BENGAL RAILWAY EXTENSION.—During the cold season, 1877-78, surveys were made for extensions of the Tirhut Railway, both east and west, and projects submitted for an extension seventy-eight miles in length, from Muzafarpur vid Motihari and Segowli to Bettia at an estimated cost of Rs.31,70,325. This line would run to within twenty-miles of the Nepal frontier, and would thus open out the trade with that country, and for an extension twenty-four miles long, from Darbhunga to the eastward, at an estimated cost of Rs.12,00,000, or Rs.50,000 per mile. The estimates for both these extensions of the Tirhut system were submitted to the Government of India for sanction in January and February, 1879, but no order has yet been passed. Projects had also been prepared during 1878 and 1879 for a system called the Central Bengal Railway, to serve the Naddia, Jessore, and 24-Pergunnahs districts. Commencing from Bhagwangola on the Ganges, it is taken past the important places of Moorshedabad, Burhampur, Kishnagar, Santipur, to Ranaghat on the Eastern Bengal Railway, and thence vid Bongong and Jessore to Khulna, with a connection from Bongong vid Baraset and Dum-Dum to Calcutta, and another from Santipur to Maimari on the East Indian Railway. The length of this system will be 241 miles, and its estimated cost is Rs.2,20,00,000, or Rs.91,286 per mile. The population of the districts served by this line is 630 to the square mile. Also a project for a short line from Sonarpur, on the Calcutta and South Eastern Railway, to Diamond Harbour on the Hooghly, twenty-eight and three-quarter miles in length, at an estimated cost of Rs.22,10,000, or Rs.76,870 per mile. Next, a project to serve the districts of Dakka and Mymensing. The length of this line to Dakka and Mymensing, including the branch to Narainganj, would be 128 miles, and the estimated cost is, for a broad or 5ft. 6in. gauge line, Rs.1,48,00,000, or Rs.1,15,625 per mile. and for a metre gauge line Rs.1,28,00,000, or Rs.1,00,003 per mile. And lastly, a project for extending the Rangpur branch of the Northern Bengal Railway to Dhubri on the Brahamputra, to serve the trade of the Assam Valley. The length of the line required is only fifty-four miles; but, as it crosses four very large rivers, the cost of its construction is very heavy. The estimate amounts to Rs.22,26,373, or Rs.2,26,416 per mile. Besides these lines, for which surveys have already been made, there is another very important railway required, starting either from Calcutta through Midnapore, or from Burdwan or Ranegunge through Bankura to Chaibassa, and thence to Chatisgar, joining the line now under construction to Nagpur in the Central Provinces, with a junction line from Chaibassa vid Ranchi or Doranda and the Karanpura coalfields to Chatra and Guya.—Englishman.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR COLVIN.—The Government of the North West Provinces have recently raised a monumental tomb over the grave of the Hon. J. R. Colvin, late Lieut. Governor of these provinces, who, dying at Agra during the mutiny in 1857, was buried in the fort there.—Bombay Gazette.

THE MEERUT GAOL.—There has been another serious outbreak of malarious fever, diarrhœa, and dysentery in the Meerut Gaol with most fatal results. It is the opinion of the gaol authorities and the medical officers at Meerut that these constant outbreaks are in some way connected with the water-level of the station, so that the Irrigation Department has been requested to adopt some measures to improve the drainage about the gaol.—Ibid.

GAOL DIETARY.—A lower scale of diet than has hitherto been allowed has been introduced into all the gaols of the North West Provinces and Oudh for short term prisoners. The general opinion of all the medical superintendents of gaols is that the lowered diet scale is sufficient to keep prisoners in health for a few months, provided no hard labour is exacted from them; and that though the prisoners, naturally enough, fall off a little in weight, no evil effects will follow as regards general health.—Ibid.

WILD BEASTS IN NORTH WEST PROVINCES.—During the past year 1,051 persons and 7,214 head of cattle were killed by wild animals, and 3,168 persons died from snake bites in the North West Provinces and Oudh. Wolves and leopards were most destructive both among men and cattle. The total number of wild animals returned as destroyed is 4,495, and the number of snakes killed is set as 1,697; the amount paid away in rewards for their destruction being about Rs.11,000. The number of snakes returned as destroyed (1,697) gives a very imperfect representation of the number actually killed.—Ibid.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At the general meeting of the Chota Nagpore Tea Company, held Feb. 23, a dividend for the season 1879 at the rate of 3½ per cent. was declared.—At the general meeting of the Dunbar Cotton Mills Company, held Feb. 19, a dividend of 2½ per cent., or Rs.2.8 per share, for the half-year ending Dec. 31, was declared.—At the general meeting of the Empress of India Cotton Mills Company, held Feb. 21, a dividend of Rs.25 per share, equal to 10 per cent. per annum on the paid up capital, was declared, payable in shares out of the 318 shares remaining unallotted, or in cash at the option of the shareholders, and the balance of Rs.27,222-1-3 at credit of the profit and loss account was carried forward.—At the eleventh general meeting of the Howra Mills Company, held Feb. 21, a dividend of Rs.3 per share was declared.—Englishman.

THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.—According to a carefully prepared list published in the Delhi Gazette, the number of casualties and retirements in the Public Works Department from the 1st of April to the 31st December was no less than 473, which are classified as follows:—Engineers, military, 32; civil engineers, appointed in England, 55; civil engineers appointed in India, 138; civil engineers, natives, 23; European subordinates, 75; native subordinates, 79. Accountants Branch: Civilian examiners appointed in India, 9. Accountants: Europeans, 29; natives, 33.—Englishman.

THE BENGAL EDUCATION REPORT.—From the report of 1878-79 we learn that this is the first year since the department was constituted that the united contributions from private sources have exceeded the Government grant. The actual sum paid by the people was Rs.23,73,000, while the Government contributed Rs.21,72,000, making a total of Rs.45,45,000. We hope the Government may, in succeeding reports, be able to state that the proportion between State aid and that contributed by the people themselves is exhibiting the same healthy indication of interest and desire of helpfulness. Superior education, with nineteen colleges and 1,963 students, stands much as it did last year. There are forty-eight students less. Secondary instruction numbers 3,338 schools with 175,484 pupils; and primary instruction is given to 531,064 pupils in 29,270 schools. There are twenty-four more female schools, a healthy sign, we hope, and 12,777 pupils; 1,639 of these are returned as in connection with Zenana agencies. In addition to the primary schools above noted there are, Mr. Croft tells us, in existence outside the Government organisation 6,232 schools, primary and unaided, with 84,196 pupils. 759 candidates set down to the first examination in arts, and 208, something less than one-third, passed. For the B.A. 262 presented themselves, and seventy-one passed, rather less than a third. Nine out of nineteen passed the ordinary M.A. Thirteen out of twenty-three passed for honours.—Englishman.

THE NAGA BILL OF COSTS.—The expenses of the Naga expedition are gradually swelling. From Oct. 15 to Feb. 15, 1880, about eight lakhs of rupees have already been disbursed, in addition to the sum of about six lakhs placed at the disposal of the field officers by assignment on the local treasuries to meet local expenditure, which makes a total of about fourteen lakhs of rupees.—Indian Daily News.

THE RICE TRADE.—The exports of the present season up to Feb. 14 were coast-wise, and 3,101 tons had been shipped. The home market is flat, and it is expected that there will be a further decline in prices. The crops throughout India and Burma have been plentiful. It is not anticipated that the Indian demand will be as great this year as it has been of late. Calcutta and Madras are exporting rice; and the rivalry of Siam and Saigon, which have stepped into the trade with new vigour, will, it is feared, help to lower still more the present prices.—Arakan News.

Mr. JUSTICE LINDSAY.—On Wednesday, February 25, the members of the bar of the Chief Court of the Punjab presented a farewell address to Mr. Justice Lindsay on the occassion of his retirement from the bench. The learned judge, who was visibly affected, responded in suitable terms.—Pioneer.

THE DEATH OF ROY ANANDA PROSAD RAI.—The Englishman reports the untimely death of Roy Ananda Prosad, Rai Bahadur, the wealthy zemindar of Cossimbazar. He had come to Calcutta, and it is said to have been the intention of the Bengal Government to confer on him the title of Raja Bahadur, in recognition of his many acts of charitable generosity; but he was attacked with cholera on Sunday, 22nd ultimo, and expired on the following Tuesday.—Pioneer.

MANIPUR.—It is officially announced that the appointment of political agent at Manipur will be amalgamated with the Assam commission.—Times of India.

THE UNIVERSITY.—The undermentioned gentlemen have been appointed fellows of the University of Calcutta:—Mr. A. M. Nash, M.A., Babu Gobind C. Dutt, Mr. H. Levinge, C.E., Syed Mahmud, the Rev. H. Finter, Babu Kristo Behary Sen, the Rev. K. S. Macdonald, M.A., and Mr. G. R. Aberigh-Mackay.—Ibid.

BENEVOLENCE.—Rai Dhunput Sing Bahadur has established a Dhurmsalla for the accommodation of Hindus visiting Calcutta, endowing it with a large sum in Government securities, yielding an income of Rs.12,000 per annum. The Dhurmsalla is situated in the Burra Bazaar, and the Thakore of Wankanir resided in it during his recent visit to Calcutta.—Ibid.

TITLES OF HONOUR.—We learn that the Viceroy has conferred the title of Maharaja upon Raja Komul Krishna Deb, that of Raja upon Rai Surjakant Acharjee Bahadur, of Mooktagacha, Baboo Kristenden Roy, of Bolihar, and Babu Sourindro Mohun Tagore, C.I.E.; and that of Maharaja Bahadur upon Raja Nripendro Narain, of Cooch Behar. The latter title has been conferred "in recognition of the high rank and dignity of the holder."—Ibid.

COURT-MARTIAL.—At a court-martial held at Dinapur, Private James Ashall, 65th Regiment, has been found guilty of drunkenness and insubordination, with violence, and was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.—Ibid.

RAILWAY EXTENSION.—A light railway between Kalpi and Kanhpur, a distance of forty-three miles, has been sanctioned by the Lieutenant Governor of the North Western Provinces, to supplement the Kanhpur-Farakabad line, now being made. The cost of this new line is estimated at about eighteen lakhs.—Times of India.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—On March 3 the disengaged tonnage in port was 43,613 tons. For London via Canal the market closed firm at £2 10s. for rice; wheat, £2 12s. 6d.; cotton, hides, &c., £3 10s.; tea, £3 7s. 6d. Via Cape, rice, wheat, and saltpetre, £2; cotton, hides, &c., £2 2s. 6d. to £2 5s.; rest nominal. Liverpool via Canal—Rice, £2 10s., nominal, £3 15s. for measurement. Via Cape, more inquiry. Saltpetre, £1 17s. 6d. tincal, £2; linseed, £2; oil, £2 10s.—Englishman.

DEATH OF A TEA PLANTER.—The Darjiling News records the sudden death, from an overdose of chlorodyne, of Mr. L. Mandelli, manager of the Land Mortgage Bank and Gardens in that district.—Englishman.

MADRAS.

THE FUTURE OF RAMPA.—We may hope the country will settle down, and a new age and a new order of things will begin for Rampa. The exactions of mansabdars, toddy contractors, and forest darogahs are all to cease, and each Reddy is to live happily under his own toddy tree free of tax. As this is apparently all that the unfortunate inhabitants originally demanded, it is much to be regretted that so large an expenditure of life and treasure should have been found necessary in discovering that their grievances were capable of redress. The collector of the district will hereafter visit the hill taluks more frequently, and, by his special assistant at Badrachellum, he will be kept informed of all that transpires there, so that the chances of another rising will be extremely small, the inhabitants, according to all accounts, being peaceably disposed, and only rising because they were driven to it, having no other means of obtaining a hearing. It is reported that the people on the right bank of the river, who have a grievance of a similar kind, have lately shown a disposition to rise against the authorities. It is to be hoped that some pains will be taken to examine the nature of their complaints before they are allowed to commit themselves to an actual outbreak. It is said that a similar remission of taxes in their case would encourage the Nizam's neighbouring subjects to make the same demand, and the Nizam's Government object to any such concession being made.—Madras Mail.

MYSOR.—The expenses attending the marriage of the Maharaja of Mysor amounted to Rs.2,36,300, of which Rs.1,07,700 was charged to his Highness's personal estate account. It appears to have been decided, says the Madras Mail, to place the administration of the affairs of Mysor in the hands of the Maharaja and his native advisers from the 1st January, 1881. Most of the European officials in the commission will have to retire or be provided for elsewhere at the end of the current year.—Times of India.

THE MADRAS SCHOOL OF ARTS.—According to the report for 1878-79 the attendance in the artistic branch was, in April, 83; May, 88; July, 73; August, 75; September, 82; October, 87; November, 89; December, 90; January, 1879, 96; February, 93; and March, 86. In the examinations held respectively in May and November, 1878, and March, 1879, twelve students passed in free-hand drawing, and were entitled to Rs.10 as apprentices, of whom seven avail themselves of the monthly allowance. In the girls' branch upwards of eight have passed in free hand; two only have entered as apprentices. In the examinations a lower standard was adopted for the girls. The artistic branch has been a success. In the pottery branch the least progress has been made, although the institution has succeeded in making isolated specimens of the most excellent ware. The stained glass work has been perfectly successful, but as yet no orders for work have been received. The expenditure for the year ending March 31, 1879, was Rs.32,371-3-3, and the receipts Rs.38,755-3-9, leaving a balance of Rs.6,384-0-6 to credit. With the sanction of the committee a girls' branch was added to the institution, and suitable industries, such as fan and china painting, will be introduced as soon as the pupils are sufficiently advanced. In the industrial department steady progress has been made. Stained glass manufacture has been quite successful, and all the processes, except the cutting, are now performed by the pupils alone. With regard to the artist proper, in the total absence of works for study the superintendent believed it will be impossible to turn out a single artist, beyond, perhaps, a portrait painter or two. This, Mr. Chisholm said, was the less to be regretted, as there was no demand for works of art of any kind in Madras—not only was there no demand for art, but the people at large do not seem to recognise it when they see it.—Madras Times.

THE ZAMORIN OF CALICUT.—His Highness the Zamorin Maharaja Bahadur of Calicut attained his sixtieth year of age on Feb. 16. Seldom do we see the zamorins live to the age of sixty. Of the seven zamorins during the last sixty years only three have lived up to sixty. Among the Hindus shashtipoorthe (completion of sixty) is considered as a great event, and food and money are generally distributed to the Brahmins on that day. His Highness the Zamorin fed more than 15,000 people and distributed money to the extent of Rs.10,000 to the Brahmins.—Madras Times.

THE HARBOUR.—The Secretary of State has finally decided that Mr. Parkes' scheme for the construction of a harbour at Madras is to be carried out.—Press Commissioner.

THE MYSOR FAMINE FUND.—The total receipts on account of the late famine fund in Mysor, the official returns show, amounted to Rs.16,62,555-6. Of this sum 16½ lakhs were received through the Madras committee from the fund remitted by the Lord Mayor of London; from Bengal subscriptions came to the amount of Rs.2,742-11-3, and the Bengal clothing fund reached Rs.7,375. Small sums were also collected in Mysor in aid of the famine. After all grants that had been made, such as to orphanages, charitable institutions, dispensaries, district relief committees, and officers in charge of relief camps, about Rs.13,000 remained over to be dealt with by the Chief Commissioner. Of this Rs.2,000 has been made over to the Mercara dispensary, owing to the strain on that establishment during the famine. Rs.3,000 have been given to Roman Catholic orphanages; to Wesleyan orphanages Rs.2,000; to the London Mission Orphanage, Rs.250; to Miss Anstey's Orphanage at Kolar Rs.1,000; and to the Cantonment Orphanage Rs.500. The remainder is to be handed over to the Friend in Need Society for the support of sick paupers now in the Pettah Dispensary.—Bombay Gazette.

GOLD PROSPECTING IN WYNAAD.—Mr. J. W. Minchin, secretary of the Wynaad Prospecting Company (Limited), has applied to Government for a mining lease to be granted to the Wynaad Prospecting Company (Limited) for fifty acres of land within the boundaries originally granted for prospecting operations. He states:—"The result of our workings has enabled us to make arrangements for the further prosecution of mining work, which will now be carried on with vigour. The fifty acres required can be pointed out at once to the survey authorities. I have further the honour to request that a grant for prospecting operations may be given to the Wynaad Prospecting Company (Limited) on another portion of 100 acres within the boundaries originally applied for, to be followed hereafter by a mining lease for such portion as may be permitted under the rules about to be framed." The Government have directed the commissioner to request Mr. Minchin to demarcate clearly the two blocks of land he applies for, and to submit sketch-plans of them, showing approximately their position and boundaries. Meanwhile Mr. Minchin's application will be registered, and on the sketches being received the blocks will be surveyed at Mr. Minchin's expense. Possession of the block of 100 acres may then be made over to him for twelve months for prospecting purposes, on the distinct understanding that unless within that period he selects a block of land within the limits of the 100 acres, not exceeding thirty acres in extent, and applies for a mining lease for it, the right of prospecting shall lapse and possession of the land shall be given up to Government. As regards the block of fifty acres for which a mining lease is now asked for, Mr. Minchin should be informed that no gold-mining lease for an area in excess of thirty acres is likely to be granted, nor can any lease be granted at all till the terms on which they are to be granted have been settled by the Secretary of State.—Madras Times.

THE GOVERNOR AND THE BAPTIST MISSION AT ONGOLE.—In the recent trip of the Governor to Ongole he visited the American Baptist Telugu mission at that place. In viewing the ruins caused by the cyclone in November he evinced his interest in the mission by saying he would pay for the restoration of two of the fallen dormitories.—Ibid.

A MADRAS paper hears that Colonel Godfrey Clerk, late military secretary to the Commander in Chief, succeeds the late Brig General Jebb as adjutant general of the Madras Army.

THE MADRAS CABINET.—The "Great Cabinet Case," over which Madras society has been exercised lately, was settled out of court by the plaintiff withdrawing his claim against the Duke of Buckingham and the latter undertaking to see that Mr. Deschamps should not be out of pocket in consequence of what had happened; that is, there will be so much for Mr. Deschamps to pay and—so much for Buckingham. The question was whether the Governor and his military secretary were liable for the price of a cabinet manufactured for the purpose of exhibiting specimens of Indian embroidery at the Paris Exhibition. His Grace had taken the greatest interest in the cabinet in question, but "understood" that its maker was furnishing it as a specimen of his own workmanship for exhibition. Mr. Deschamps, on the other hand, "understood" that he was to get paid for it by some one, and, as usually happens when things are understood in this fashion, trouble arose in the end. The Chief Justice very properly characterised the whole thing as a great mistake on both sides, and expressed his satisfaction that the court had been relieved of the difficult task of awarding relief to any party to the proceedings without occasioning undeserved injury to another.—Times of India.

MUNICIPALITIES IN BARODA.—It is reported that the Gaekwar's Government have resolved to establish municipalities in all the chief districts in the State, such as Nasari, Amraoli, Khari, and Puttun. These municipalities will be under the control of a municipal commissioner on Rs.800 per mensem. Mr. Dinshaw Ardaseer Taleyarkhan will probably be the first occupant of this post.—Indian Daily News.

THE FACTORIES ACT.—The Bombay Millowners' Association recently addressed a letter to the Government, to be laid before the Government of India, which said that "the bill as proposed will be protective in its character, and will, unless applied to the whole of India, be a grave injustice to the Bombay factories. This objectionable feature of the bill will place these factories under a serious, if not ruinous, disability in their competition with other places in India, into which it is apparently the intention of the Government of India not to introduce the proposed law. Large quantities of Bombay-made goods go to the Central Provinces, the North West, Madras, and Calcutta to compete with goods made in factories there. During the year ending Dec. 31 last 29,978 Indian maunds of Bombay-made piece goods and yarns went to the Central Provinces; 52,977 Indian maunds to the North West; 3,317,450lb. of yarns and 15,720,091 yards of piece goods to Calcutta; and 1,524,500lb. of yarns and 671,005 yards of piece goods to Madras, although cotton spinning and weaving mills flourish in all these places. Again, the quantity of Bombay-made goods exported in the same year from Bombay to China was 365,640 yards of piece goods and 18,142,936lb. of yarn; to Japan, 8,400 yards of piece goods and 1,887,980lb. of yarns; and to Burma, 14,050 yards of piece goods and 291,214lb. of yarns. To all these places local-made piece goods and yarns are sent from Calcutta and Madras, so that, in addition to the new and serious disability under which the Government of India propose, by this law, to place the Bombay factories, these factories already labour under the natural disadvantage of having to send their goods a much longer distance, which adds considerably to the cost of the article. With regard to the recommendation made by the association that the hours of work for children should be restricted to seven hours, we are disposed to state that, on further consideration, the association considers that the work for a child should be limited to eight hours. This could easily be arranged conveniently by following the plan adopted, the association understands, in Calcutta, by which the children are divided into gangs. By this arrangement each child works eight hours only, and each mill employs only half as many more. This would work better, both in the interests of the children and of the mill, than the seven hours' arrangement, which would necessitate the employment of a double number of children."—Bombay Gazette.

SIR RICHARD TEMPLE.—Sir Richard Temple's departure from Bombay called forth an ovation in his favour such as seldom falls to the lot of Indian officials. Addresses poured in from all races and classes. The whole city turned out to bid him farewell, and a public meeting voted him a statue, for which £500 was at once subscribed.—Times Telegram.

GENERAL PRIMROSE has left Bombay to take command of the Bombay Division.

ARRIVAL OF THE "MALBAR" FROM NATAL.—Her Majesty's Indian troopship Malabar, 4,178 tons, Commander J. F. G. Grant, arrived in harbour on Feb. 28, from Natal. She sailed from Bombay on the 26th January and arrived at Mauritius on the 28th. After leaving Bombay it was found that the engines wanted repairing. She took in draft of 81st Regiment, and left for Natal on the 31st January, arriving there on the 6th February. She left for Bombay on the 8th, passed the Isle of Bowden on the 14th, arriving at Mauritius on the 16th, and left on the 17th. During the voyage there was one death—that of a child. Fine weather was experienced. The Malabar brought 25 officers, 4 ladies, 1 child, 775 men, 21 women, and 34 children of the 2-4th and 62nd Regiments. The following are the names of the officers and their families:—Lieut.-Col. H. Brackenbury, R.A.; Capt. H. T. Curling, R.A.; Colonel and Mrs. E. W. Bray, C.B., Miss Bray, and child, 2-4th Regiment; Major A. C. Twentyman, 2-4th Regiment; Brevet and Lieut.-Col. Elliot, 2-4th Regiment; Capt. R. A. Knox, 2-4th Regiment; Capt. C. G. Leggett, 2-4th Regiment; Capt. H. B. Lawrence, 2-4th Regiment; Capt. and Mrs. J. R. Sharp, 2-4th Regiment; Capt. H. Moore, 2-4th Regiment; Capt. T. W. Drage, 2-4th Regiment; Capt. M. E. Crofton, 2-4th Regiment; Lieut. F. M. G. Hutchinson, 2-4th Regiment; Lieut. J. Rowlandson, 2-4th Regiment; Lieut. and Mrs. C. S. Shephard, 2-4th Regiment; Lieut. J. M. Gawne, 2-4th Regiment; Lieut. E. R. Penrose, 2-4th Regiment; Lieut. F. B. Mathews, 2-4th Regiment; Quartermaster H. Rowland, 2-4th Regiment; Second Lieut. J. I. Bonomi, 2-4th Regiment; Second Lieut. A. B. Ridley, 2-4th Regiment; Second Lieut. W. L. James, 2-4th Regiment; Lieut. C. H. Alexander, 62nd Regiment; Surgeon Edge, A.M.D.; Major Ashton, A.M.D. Embarked at Mauritius.—Mrs. Gurney, wife of late Major Gurney, 91st Regiment, proceeding home to England. Troops embarked at Natal—655 men, 26 women, 34 children 2-4th Regiment; 117 men 62nd Regiment. Troops embarked at Mauritius—3 men 91st Regiment.

ARRIVAL OF THE "DALHOUSIE" FROM ADEN.—The I.G.S. Dalhousie, Commander W. Powell, arrived in Bombay harbour from Aden at 1.30 a.m. on Feb. 28, having relieved the Royal Artillery stationed there. The Dalhousie brought Surgeon Major Pennington, A.M.D.; Major Candy and Lieut. Baker, 1-9 R.A.; Lieut. Townshend, 15-8 R.A.; Captain Walshe, 18-8 R.A.; Lieut. and Adjt. Marrett, 18-8 R.A.; Lieut. Cassan, 18-8 R.A.; Lieut. Waller, 11-8 R.A.; rank and file twenty, R.A.; rank and file, two details.—Times of India.

CAPTAIN H. F. SHOWERS has been appointed provisional commandant of the corps of Beluch Guides.

THE designation of the Civil Engineering College at Puna has been changed to the College of Science.

MR. LATHAM, as acting advocate general, has been nominated an additional member of the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay.

THE LATE PROFESSOR HARKNESS.—The Bombay Chronicle says that under very influential auspices a movement has been set on foot to commemorate the honoured name of the late Professor John Harkness, the first principal of the Elphinstone Institution. A subscription list, headed by Mr. Dosabhoy Framjee, C.S.I., is being sent round to raise funds to found a scholarship in the name of the late professor.

THE LOSS OF THE "VINGORLA."—The official account of the loss of the steamer says that when it was ascertained the ship was sinking orders were at once given to clear away the boats. The mail boat was placed in charge of Mr. Wood, second officer, and she took all the saloon passengers and their servants; total nineteen souls. The gig, lowered under the superintendence of the chief officer, was filled with women and children, but as it was being lowered into the water a number of native passengers crowded on board and the excessive weight broke the boat. All on board were thrown into the water and drowned. The port life-boat was placed in charge of one of the tindals, and she took one second class, fifteen native passengers, and twenty-four of the crew. The starboard life-boat was lowered in charge of the serang, and she took thirty-five native passengers and twelve of the crew. Under the captain's orders the boats lay to some distance from the ship, and the commander, chief officer, third officer, and the three engineers devoted themselves to ascertaining the source of the leak, but without success, and, with the exception of the third officer, who jumped overboard and swam to his boat just before the vessel sank, all five went down in the ship, the captain being seen as the vessel foundered standing on the bridge burning a blue light. The boats cruised over the place where the vessel sank for some two hours in the hope of picking up some of those left on board the steamer when she foundered, but without success. They then directed their course towards Bombay, and were picked up the following afternoon by the company's steamship Malda. There were no casualties in the boats. The Malda, after picking up the boats, proceeded to the scene of the disaster, but no trace of the vessel or any of those on board where she sank could be seen, and after cruising in the neighbourhood for some hours she returned to Bombay instead of proceeding to Karachi. The following is a list of those drowned in the steamer furnished by the agents of the company:—Mr. A. D. Souza, Mr. Reuben Ezekiel, Mr. D. Framjee, Mr. R. D. Remedios, and Mr. Chatoorsing, all of whom were second-class passengers; fifty-three native deck passengers, names unknown; Captain Stuart, Mr. G. Mowbray, clerk, Mr. J. Byrne, chief engineer, Mr. F. H. Wilden, second engineer, Mr. C. Knight, third engineer, and one topas, name unknown. The following is a list of those saved, also furnished by the agents of the company:—First class—Major Greg, Royal Horse Artillery; Lieut. Colburn, 83rd Regiment; Mr. H. Cloete, Mrs. M. Mayne and two children, Mrs. Stewart and baby. Second class—Serrgeant C. Veale, Royal Engineers, L. C. Rodrigues. Chief Officer Conroy; R. B. Wood, second officer; J. R. Thornton, third officer. Those saved have lost all they had on board except the clothes they were in when the accident occurred. The survivors speak in high terms of the conduct of the captain and officers and of the discipline maintained on board; and the assistance rendered by the second-class passengers in clearing away the cargo in order to ascertain the source of the leak is spoken of in the highest terms by the third officer, who was present.—Times of India.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—FRIDAY, MARCH 19.

FACTORIES IN INDIA.

The Earl of SHAFTESBURY said that last year the Secretary for India held out a strong hope of legislation in India on the subject of the women and children employed in the mills of that country. He wished to ask the Secretary of State for India whether the Government of India had passed any measure for the regulation of the labour of women and children in mills and factories.

Viscount CRANBROOK had hoped that there would have been legislation on the subject before now. A bill was taken up last November for the whole country. It was sent to all the districts of India in order that public opinion on it might be ascertained. It came back to the Governor General and Council to consider as a permissive measure which the local governments might adopt or not as they thought fit. It was referred to a committee of the Council, which committee changed it to a positive bill. Considerable opposition was then raised against it, and it was put aside with the view of its being again submitted to the districts. He regretted that legislation had not been accomplished, but, he must say, that on looking through the bill he did not think it was one which would be applicable to the whole country. What occurred to him was this. The new Governor of Bombay, Sir J. Fergusson, who had been chairman of the Factory Commission in this country, and who was as well acquainted with these subjects as any other person, had not yet gone over to India. He would confer with Sir James before he did go, with a view to securing a legislative measure on the subject as soon as possible.

The Earl of SHAFTESBURY felt much obliged to the noble viscount, and was quite content with the assurance he had just given.

THE INDIAN ARMY.

Lord DORCHESTER asked the Secretary of State for India whether it was true that, "owing to the complete failure of the recruiting department, and the prospect of an early campaign, the Government of India is contemplating the re-enlistment of the native pensioners to supply the place of the troops despatched to the front," and what the numbers of those troops and what those of the pensioners were.

Viscount CRANBROOK said that the question of which the noble lord had given him private notice was one which it was very natural he (Lord Dorchester) should ask. The quotation in that question was from a newspaper which had made certain statements in respect to the army in Afghanistan; but the noble lord must see that the present recruiting could not very much affect the immediate campaign in Afghanistan. As in England, so in India; a recruit could not be sent to the front under nine or ten months of preparation. He had no reason to think that the armies of Afghanistan were not all-sufficient for the purposes which they were intended to fulfil. On the contrary, so far as he was informed, they were in an efficient state and fit for the duties they had to discharge. With respect to the first part of the question of the noble lord, he was able to answer it in the negative, though he was quite willing to say that recruiting in India would require some temporary inducement, as was frequently the case in this country. He did not mean, however, to imply that there was any reason to suppose that a permanent inducement was required to promote recruiting in India; and, as to the re-enlistment of native pensioners to supply the place of troops despatched to the front, he could only say that the report was quite inconsistent with the information which he had received from India. It was not contemplated, nor was it intended, in that way to supply any temporary default in recruiting.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY, MARCH 22.

AFGHANISTAN.

Lord DUNRAVEN, in calling attention to the affairs of Afghanistan, stated his conviction that in a former debate on this question the Duke of Argyll had not made out a case for the policy which had guided him when Secretary for India in ignoring the danger of a Russian advance on India. He thought that the present Government were right in proceeding on different lines, and that the course of events had made it necessary for them to act in Afghanistan. He did not attach so much importance as others did to Herat. He believed that, with Kandahar and the frontier we might now keep, Herat was not absolutely essential to us. But if it were deemed essential he hoped we should occupy it ourselves. To allow Persia to occupy it would be to hand it over to Russia. The only thing worse than that would be co-partnership or co-operation with Russia. He suggested that information was required as to the objects of our present operations, the frontier we desired having been acquired; and condemned as a mistake the sending of a British envoy to Cabul.

Lord STANLEY of ALDERLEY concurred with Lord Dunraven in thinking that no good reasons had been given for the continuance of the Afghan war.

Lord BLANTYRE stated his opinion that the possession of Herat was of great importance to this country.

Lord CRANBROOK said that the Government, in the Queen's Speech, announced particularly that they had no desire to annex Afghanistan, and that they would go on the lines of the treaty of Gandamak. But when it was impossible to know fully the disposition of the natives they could not lay down any definite rule. The treaty of Gandamak did not lay down definitely any plan. With respect to our advance on Cabul there was no reason to suppose that there was such a deep-rooted hostility against us as had been manifested by the attack on the Residency. He did not understand the noble lord to condemn our sending troops to avenge the insult offered to England, or to blame them for having taken steps to vindicate the authority so set at naught. It was, no doubt, our duty to go to Cabul, although our desire was not to do anything which might interfere with the security of the Ameer. Lord Minto expressed himself strongly as to the deficiencies of native envoys. They were trustworthy to a certain extent. They spoke as they were told, and in some instances the reports of those native envoys were actually revised and corrected by the Courts at which they resided. With respect to General Stewart's march, he would pass through Ghazni to India. But rumours prevailed in all directions as to the disposition of the Ghaznis, and it would be very foolish in him at this period to come to any conclusions as to the conduct of the troops. This was the beginning of spring—it was their sowing time; and they knew if they did not sow their fields they would have no harvest to reap. The time was also most important for us, when the passes were open. He was disposed to agree with the noble lord to a certain extent that Herat was not of the infinite importance many attributed to it; and particularly when we were in possession of Kandahar, and the other positions we held, Herat became of much less importance than it was on any previous occasion. But, as to the civilisation of Central Asia, during last year more steps had been taken with that view than had ever been taken before, by pressing on those railways which had already reached Afghanistan, and which it was to be hoped would in 1882 be carried into Kandahar. If that were the case the railways would go further and the trade of Central Asia would come by way of Kandahar, and they might look forward to this great question being solved by their further progress towards Herat. The noble lord expressed a hope that we should have no understanding with Russia on this subject, and he asked whether there was any arrangement with respect to Herat. Persia, no doubt, would be extremely glad to take possession of Herat, and the conditions to which he alluded were, perhaps, not so dangerous as the noble lord seemed to think. He looked forward with great hope to the pacification of Afghanistan, and of its being governed by rulers of its own choice without any interference on our part, only taking care to secure the frontier we had achieved.

In answer to the Earl of Northbrook, Lord CRANBROOK said that no convention had been entered into for the cession of Herat.

THE INDIAN CUSTOMS TARIFF.

THE voluminous address of the Indian Minister of Finance, as Sir John Strachey may be rightly styled, contains several most important statements and arguments. The Budget estimates for the ensuing year, the result of the financial experience of the past, contained so much cause for self-gratulation that there was ample opportunity for defence of the financial policy which had been justified by success. It was the happy lot of the financial member of Council to be able to withdraw an unpopular measure of taxation because he could dispense with the amount likely to be realised by the proposed extension of the license tax. He found himself in a position to carry out the relief of the smaller traders without imposing a new tax on officials and professional men. Contemplating, as the outcome of the expiring year enabled him to do, a surplus for the year to come, he was enabled to indulge himself in a wide review of the fiscal problems and their possible solution. Of the customs tariff, and the various vexed questions connected therewith, he had much to say. Nor is it too much to assert that his utterances thereon will be regarded as of the highest importance as affecting the future of Indian trade. The three main sources of the customs revenue were considered by him under the head of import, export, and salt duties respectively. Taking these in their order, Sir John Strachey first dealt with the import duties, and boldly grappled with the question of the duties remitted as compared with those levied on cotton goods. In another place we record the resolution of a conference held at Manchester urging on the Government the necessity of fulfilling Lord Salisbury's promise to remove the whole of the import duties. We think that the gentlemen who formulated this resolution can hardly have read Sir John Strachey's speech. He stated distinctly that Government does not at present propose to make any alteration in the duties actually levied on cotton goods, yielding still £615,000; but he added that no one could deny the obvious and serious defects in the existing system. Already the effect has been produced of removing all grounds for complaint that protective duties were levied in favour of the Indian mills, although some classes of English goods may be unduly favoured in comparison with others. But the Government is not prepared at present to incur the further sacrifice of revenue attendant on the total abolition. The loss incurred by the exemption from duty of goods made of "thirties and under," which was estimated at £150,000, will probably amount by the close of the present year to nearly £230,000, and is estimated for the ensuing year at £250,000. This arises from the rapid development of the manufacture and import of a new class of goods, made of thirties and lower counts, which, being cheap, have become popular. The process of ousting the finer by the coarser fabrics has reached such a point that, in the month of January, the duty free shirtings and long-cloths constituted more than seventy-four per cent. of these imports. As Sir John Strachey says, this is an unsatisfactory result; so much so, that the Bengal Chamber of Commerce writes that, "to all appearances, these duties are dying a natural death, and, as that process involves serious anomalies and hardships, it is a question whether the present is not a fitting moment to abolish them in toto." We observe that the chamber would much prefer the recall of last year's exemptions and the reimposition of 2½ per cent. on all cotton imports. This is dismissed as objectionable and impracticable. Sir John Strachey utterly repudiates, as far as he himself is concerned, the imputation that the partial abolition of the cotton duties was a piece of time-serving policy intended to catch Manchester votes. From the first he has advocated, in the interests of India, the removal of these and all other restrictions on her commerce. But though in his view "the cotton duties are virtually dead," he is not ready at present to propose a loss of more than half a million of revenue, especially as it would necessitate the freedom of taxation of woollen goods and many other articles. He looks forward to the time, not distant, when the ports of India will be thrown open to the commerce of the world; but he is not prepared to find at once a source of revenue to replace the immediate deficit. The plan of a small registration fee on articles of import is, in Sir John Strachey's opinion, deserving of consideration, but he does not go beyond this. With regard to a treaty of commerce, so called, which has been suggested by Dr. Hunter and others, which may be termed an application of reciprocity, it seems to Sir John unsound in theory and impossible in practice. In this view we entirely concur, and also in the remark that remission of duties on Indian tea and coffee ought to be accompanied by a similar exemption in favour of Indian tobacco, which is enough to dispose of the illusion of the treaty of commerce, or, as Sir John rightly terms it, the old delusion of reciprocity. We should like to see dispelled the (present) Indian delusion that a Factory Act, framed in the plain interests of humanity, would handicap the Indian cotton industries, and we regret that the Government of India have seemed to submit to the Bengal dictation in this important matter. However, the assurance of Lord Cranbrook, that the protection of women and children in Indian factories still engages the attention of Government, may partly console us. The question of export duties is quickly disposed of. Those on indigo and lac have ceased to exist. The sacrifice of revenue is unimportant, amounting to only £54,000; the advantage to the indigo trade of India is obvious. The export duty on rice, which a correspondent denounces in a vigorous letter, is left untouched. Sir John Strachey admits fully the economical objections to export duties, but considers that upon rice less open to objection than some of the other Indian customs duties; but he frankly says, "if we could afford the loss he would be very glad to get rid of it." But the rice duty in 1878-79 yielded a net revenue of £556,000, and, notwithstanding the duty, the trade is now increasing. India, in his opinion, has something approaching to a monopoly in rice, and next year will probably be a time of great activity in the rice trade. We do not see the force of the argument as to the prevention of emigration into Burma being chargeable to the rice duty. The inhabitants of British Burma have multiplied and thriven in an unexampled manner, and the immigration of the Shans has been checked by the oppressive measures of the King of Burma; but we would gladly see the removal of the duty, and we note with approval the remark of the Finance Minister "that Government cannot keep too watchful an eye on the rice trade." But, notwithstanding his expressed opinion that India needs the fullest application of the principles of free trade, and the greatest possible freedom in its foreign exchanges, it is too much to expect an immediate sacrifice of over half a million, with an increasing and elastic export trade in the taxed product. If Sir John Strachey felt upon his defence as to cotton and rice, both as to what he had done; and as to his task begun, but not yet completed, he had ample opportunity to recreate himself with a self-gratulatory review of the salutary effects of the reform in the salt duties. To have accomplished the removal of "that abominable barrier," the inland customs line, with its attendant evils, and its outlay of £100,000 a-year, is a feat which will be a lasting honour to the Administration which achieved it. We need not go over the well-known ground of the equalisation of the salt duties. Let it suffice to refer to the effect on the consumption and revenue. In 1877-8 the gross salt revenue of the year was under 6½ millions sterling; in 1878-79 it had risen to 7 millions; the regular estimates for the current year exceed 7⅛ millions; while the estimate for next year is 7½ millions, an improvement of more than a million in four years. Taking the return for the first ten months of the year now closing, there has been an increase of consumption throughout India of 2,400,000 maunds as compared with that of 1877-78. The increase is more striking if the comparison be instituted a year earlier. Even in Madras and Bombay, with an increased duty, there has been an increased consumption, if we compare this year with 1876-77. But we observe that, as compared with 1877-78, there has been a falling off of 196,000 maunds. This reduction in Madras is, however, believed to be more apparent than real, because a large number of the population consumes untaxed salt. Sir John somewhat plaintively remarks that "the law relating to salt in the Madras Presidency is as yet very leniently enforced, or is, perhaps, not sufficiently stringent." In that Presidency it might have been expected that the reform would for the present pinch, and it is perhaps as well that the first application of it should have been somewhat eased off. A louder complaint than any from India comes from the Cheshire Salt Chamber of Commerce, to the effect that the salt of Northern India is usurping the place of Liverpool salt in the markets of Behar. The Government has promised to inquire into this phenomenon, but it cannot promise to further reduce the salt duty in Bengal. Still, it is an essential part of their policy to thoroughly carry out the actual equalisation of this duty, which has already proved so satisfactory to the population and beneficial to the revenue.

CONCENTRATION OF THE BOMBAY RESERVE DIVISION.

THE following circular has been issued by the Quartermaster General, Bombay:—

"Instructions having been received for the concentration of the second or reserve division of the Kandahar Field Force, the undermentioned corps will be held in readiness to proceed immediately to Bombay for embarkation for Karachi, viz.:—D Battery R.H.A., from Mhow; at Jacobabad—1st Regt. Sind Horse, 2nd Light Cavalry, 3rd Light Cavalry; at Sukkur—23rd Regt. N.L.I.; at Hyderabad—F-2 R.A., detachment 15th Foot, 24th N.I.; at Karachi—D Battery R.H.A., wing 2-11th Regt., 2-15th Regt., 3rd Regt. N.L.I., 9th Regt. N.I.; Bombay—Headquarters and four companies 2-11th Regt.; 2-15th Foot from Deesa, Ahmedabad, Baroda; 2nd L.C. from Puna; 23rd N.L.I. from Ahmednagar, Sholapur, Surat; 24th N.I. from Mehidpur, Agar. The above corps will move without families, and, without the exception of the 2nd Light Cavalry, will proceed by rail to Bombay under arrangements to be made by the general officer commanding the Bombay district. D Battery R.H.A. will march to Khundwa, and move thence to Bombay by rail. Date of move will be notified hereafter. The 2nd Light Cavalry will march from Puna to Bombay. Date of move to be noted hereafter. The camp equipage now in possession and the field service scale of followers as per Quartermaster General's circular, No. 13-10—442 B, dated Jan. 27, 1880, to be taken to Sind. Sepoys' pals for field service will be supplied in Sind, under instructions which will be issued by the Inspector General of Ordnance, Puna. Camp equipage for followers, according to scale, will also be drawn regimentally in Sind. The heavy baggage may be taken to Sind if desired. The families and men unfit for active service will be located at the stations named below, where the depots of the respective regiments will be formed in the event of the division moving to the front:—D Battery R.H.A., Mhow; F-2 R.A., Hyderabad; 2nd Battalion 15th Foot, Deesa; 1st Sind Horse, Jacobabad; 2nd Light Cavalry, Puna; 3rd Light Cavalry, Deesa; 3rd Regt. N.L.I., Sholapore; 9th Regt. N.I., Surat; 23rd Regt. N.I., Ahmednagar; 24th Regt. N.L.I., Mhow. On the advance of the 2nd Battalion 11th Regt. from Bombay and Karachi the depot will be established at Puna. The depot 4th Rifles N.I. will be moved to Surat. To be sent from Karachi by the first Government transport returning to Bombay, thence to Surat by rail. The families of native regiments who may elect to proceed to their homes will be permitted to do so, travelling by rail and sea at the public expense on the understanding that, when the troops return to quarters, the cost of the passages of the families back from their villages must be defrayed by the men themselves. The 3rd Light Cavalry has already been ordered to march by squadrons from Deesa and Rajkote to Jacobabad. F-2 R.A. has moved as per this office, No. 13-10—678 B, dated Feb. 7, 1880, en route to Karachi, from thence it will proceed by route march to Hyderabad (families by rail). The wing of the 2-11th Regiment and the 9th N.I. are now at Karachi. The 3rd Regiment N.L.I. will move to Karachi by rail on relief. The 24th Regiment N.I. will march complete from Mehidpur and Agar to Mhow on relief. The wing at Agar will be relieved by the Bhopal battalion and the wing at Mehidpur by two companies 11th N.I. from Puna. From Mhow the 24th N.I. will move by rail to Bombay under arrangements to be made by the general officer commanding Bombay district. From Karachi the regiment will proceed to Hyderabad by rail. The 23rd Regiment N.L.I. will move from Karachi to Sukkur by rail. To relieve the corps composing the reserve division the following moves will take place:—Cavalry reliefs will be notified hereafter. One company 11th N.I. from Puna to Sholapur to relieve company 23rd N.L.I., by rail. Two companies 11th N.I. from Puna to Mehidpur, to relieve the 24th N.I.; by rail as far as possible. Three companies 29th Foot from Mhow to Deesa, to relieve 2nd Battalion 15th Regiment; by rail. Two companies 78th Highlanders to Baroda, to relieve detachment 2nd Battalion 15th Regiment; by rail. Two companies 83rd Regiment will march at once from Belgaum to relieve the detachment 78th Highlanders at Satara. The latter will then rejoin headquarters at Puna. One company 26th Regiment N.I., now at Bombay, to relieve two companies of the 23rd N.L.I. at Surat; by rail. The other company of the 26th N.I., at present in Bombay, to rejoin headquarters at Deesa. The duties at Ahmednagar will be undertaken by the depot of the 23rd N.L.I., supplemented, if necessary, by a detachment of native infantry from Puna, which will move by rail. Headquarters and four companies 17th Regiment N.I. will march at once from Dharwar to relieve headquarters and wing 8th Regiment N.I. at Satara. The latter will then march to Puna for duty until further orders."

Major General Spurgin entered the Madras Army as ensign, August 10, 1842, and was promoted colonel March 9, 1865, and major general, Oct. 1, 1877. He served with the 1st Madras Fusiliers in the Burmese war of 1852-53, including the taking of Pegu, and its subsequent defence (medal with clasp for Pegu). Served in suppression of the mutiny in Bengal in 1857-58; commanded the troops proceeding by steamer in July, 1857, from Allahabad to Cawnpore, covering the right of Havelock's column, and engaged the enemy on two occasions; on the first landed his force, repulsed the rebels, and captured their 6-pounder gun; was staff officer to General Neill at Cawnpore, afterwards brigade major to the 1st Brgiade, and was with it during its advance and entry into Lucknow on Sept. 25; defence of the Residency and subsequent operations at the Alumbagh under Outram; also served as a brigade major at the capture of Kaiserbagh and capture of Lucknow, received the thanks of the Governor General in Council; brevets of major and lieutenant colonel (medal with two clasps, a year's service for Lucknow, and C.S.I.).—Broad Arrow.

CREDIT FONCIER OF MAURITIUS.—The 16th annual report, in addition to £126 brought forward, shows a net profit of £8,923, which is £7,089 less than in the previous year. In view of this exceptionally heavy loss the directors have taken £1,751 from the interest accrued on the investments forming the general reserve fund, and recommend a dividend of 9 per cent. for 1879.

MAURITIUS LAND CREDIT AND AGENCY.—The reports and accounts for the past year have been issued, showing a net profit of £12,242. The directors have appropriated £2,500 to reserve, making, with amounts already set aside, a total of £27,000, and recommend a dividend of 3s. per share for the half-year, which with the interim dividend declared last September, gives a total of 15 per cent. for the whole year.

EASTERN EXTENSION, AUSTRALASIA, AND CHINA TELEGRAPH.—The accounts to the 31st of December last show, subject to audit, a balance of £106,825, after payment of three interim quarterly dividends. Out of this sum the board propose to pay on the 22nd of April a final dividend of 2s. 6d per share, or at the rate of 5 per cent., for the year 1879, and to carry the balance of £81,856 to the reserve fund.

INDO-EUROPEAN TELEGRAPH COMPANY.—The directors report that the gross revenue for 1879 was £86,359, and the expenses £45,790. After deducting £7,232 payable to Messrs. Siemens as their percentage on profits, and adding £939 brought forward, the net balance is £33,837. An interim dividend already paid took £10,625 of this, and it is now proposed to pay a further 17s. 6d. per share, making 6 per cent. for the year. This takes £14,875. A further sum of £2,588 standing in suspense is paid to Messrs. Siemens, £5,000 is added to the reserve, and a balance of £749 carried forward.

HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI BANKING CORPORATION.—The directors report that the net profits for the past year were $318,881, including $14,820 brought forward. After deducting rebate and directors' fees there remains $303,228 available for distribution, and it is proposed to pay a dividend of £1 per share, which will take $177,777. The reserve is increased by $100,000 to $1,500,000, and a balance of $25,451 is left to carry forward. The bank has a liability on deposits of $22,551,960, and on notes in circulation of $2,399,312. Its principal assets are—cash, $7,889,017; Government securities, $3,528,019; bills discounted, loans, and credits, $13,178,839; and bills receivable, $27,211,364.

CHARGES FOR FOREIGN TELEGRAMS.—On and after the 1st of April the rates of charge to the principal countries in Europe will be as follows for each word:—Austria, 4½d.; Belgium, 2d.; Denmark, 4d.; France, 2½d.; Germany, 4d.; Greece, 7½d.; Holland 3d.; Hungary, 5d.; Italy, 5d.; Norway, 4d.; Portugal, 6½d.; Russia in Europe, 9d.; Spain, 6d.; Sweden, 5½d.; Switzerland, 4d.; Turkey in Europe, 8d.

ARRIVAL OF THE "CROCODILE."—The Crocodile, Capt. Doughty, arrived at Portsmouth on Sunday morning. She is a week after her appointed time, having been detained to transport the 2nd Battalion 7th Regiment and four companies of the 2nd Battalion 11th Regiment, forming part of the Bombay army, from Bombay to Karachi, to take part in the Afghan war.

THE ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE.—An examination for cadetships at the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, will take place at the University of London, Burlington-gardens, W., on Monday, the 5th of July, 1880, and following days; the first day being devoted to the medical examination of the candidates. The subjects of examination, the limits of age, and other conditions will be those specified in the regulations issued with G. O. 88 of 1876 and 69 of 1877. There will be 108 cadetships to be competed for, of which eight will be for candidates for West India regiments. Twelve cadetships will also be offered for competition by University candidates, as provided for in Paragraphs 21 and 22 of the regulations above quoted. The successful competitors will be required to join the Royal Military College as gentlemen cadets on September 1, 1880. Applications cannot be received unless made in strict accordance with Paragraphs 13 and 14 of the regulations above quoted, the 15th of May next being the latest date on which applications can be received. Candidates who have been previously examined should forward with their applications a certificate of good conduct for the intervening period. If intending competitors wish for any further information relative to the examination they should apply by letter to the "Military Secretary, Horse Guards, War-office, S.W."

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—Tenders were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England for Rs.45,00,000 in Government Bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs.26,02,000, and to Bombay, Rs.18,98,000. Tenders on both Presidencies at 1s. 8d. will receive about 2½ per cent.; above that price in full. Compared with last week this price shows no change. The same amount will be tendered for next Wednesday. Previous to the drafts being disposed of, bar silver was sold at 52 1-16d. per ounce. But on its being ascertained that the proportion in which the bills were allotted was reduced, as compared with last week, a firmer tendency in the uncoined metal became apparent. No definite quotation at the close, however, was obtainable.

THE INDIAN IMPORT DUTIES.—At a conference held at Manchester on the subject of the Indian import duties resolutions were passed urging upon Government the necessity of fulfilling Lord Salisbury's promise to remove the import duties on cotton goods, and calling upon those who should be fortunate enough to represent the cotton districts in the next Parliament to devote their attention to the matter.

INDIAN APPEAL CASES.—In the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on March 13, the case of Moniram Kolita v. Kerry Kolitany was decided. This was an appeal from a decree of the High Court of Calcutta of the 9th of April, 1873, reversing the decision of the local tribunal at Sibsagur, in the province of Assam. Mr. Cowie, Q.C., and Mr. Doyne were counsel for the appellant; the respondent was unrepresented. In this suit a very important question was raised affecting the entire Hindu community. Ghinbora and Atma, both now deceased, were Hindu brothers, and they lived within the jurisdiction of the Assam courts and subject to the law of the Bengal school. The appellant is the son of Atma, and the respondent is the childless widow of Ghinbora's son. On the death of her husband the respondent inherited the lands in suit and obtained a deed to that effect from the collector. According to the Hindu law, the appellant, on her (the respondent's) death would be entitled to succeed to the property; but it seemed that since her husband's death she had lived with a man and had a child by him. On this becoming known, the appellant in 1870 instituted a suit against her to recover the lands. The original court ordered a partition of the property, one half to go to the appellant and the other to the respondent for her lifetime, and stated that it was not competent for her to alienate it by sale or gift, and that, as she had no issue by her deceased husband, her son by another man could not be treated as his heir. Against this decision the appelant protested in the court of the deputy commissioner at Sibsagur, alleging that the respondent was living under the protection of a paramour, and that there was no law allowing the unchastity of a Hindu widow unless at the cost of the entire deprivation of her estate. The court decreed in favour of the appellant for the whole land sued for, holding that the respondent had forfeited it in consequence of the unchaste life she had been leading. The respondent upon that appealed to the High Court at Calcutta, asserting that, the succession having once devolved upon her, and the property vested in her, she could not be divested of it in consequence of her subsequent unchastity. A divisional bench of the High Court, consisting of Justices Bayley and Mitter (the latter being an erudite native judge), expressed their concurrence in the decision of the deputy commissioner; but, in consequence of a previous conflicting decision of their own tribunal, they referred the case to the full bench as to whether, under the Hindu laws as administered in the Bengal school, a widow who had once inherited the estate of her husband was liable to forfeit it by reason of unchastity. The question so referred came on for argument before the then Chief Justice of Bengal (Sir Richard Couch) and nine other judges. Of these, seven, including the Chief Justice, were of opinion that, under the Hindu law of the Bengal school, a sonless widow who had once inherited the estate of her deceased husband was not liable to forfeit it by unchastity. The three other judges were of an opposite opinion. The question raised being one of great interest and importance to the Hindu community special leave was given by the Judicial Committee to appeal to her Majesty in Council. On Saturday their lordships held that the unchastity of a Hindu widow did not debar her from inheriting property or cause its forfeiture, and they thus affirmed the decision of the High Court and dismissed the appeal. There having been no appearance on the part of the respondent no order as to costs was made.

AN INDIAN DIVORCE SUIT.—WOODHOUSE v. WOODHOUSE (BY HER GUARDIAN) AND POWER.—In the Probate Court, on March 11, Major Woodhouse sued for a divorce on the ground of his wife's adultery with the co-respondent. The respondent, who is alleged to be insane, appeared by her guardian, and denied the adultery. The co-respondent also answered and denied the adultery. Dr. Spinks, Q.C., in opening the case, stated that the petitioner was a major in the Indian army. In 1862 he was lieutenant in the Madras Native Infantry, and on Feb. 3 of that year he was married to the respondent at Madras. After the marriage the petitioner and his wife resided at Madras and various other parts of India, and six children were born of the marriage, five being alive. In 1877 the petitioner came to England, and soon afterwards his mother-in-law informed him that her daughter had confessed to having repeatedly misconducted herself with Colonel Power, the co-respondent, in India. After this they parted, and the petitioner has never since cohabited with her. Major Woodhouse, the petitioner, was called, and entered into a detail of the circumstances of which the foregoing is a summary. On the conclusion of the petitioner's case Mr. Patchett opened the case for the respondent, contending that there was no evidence whatever against her except her own confession, and that when she made that confession she was not of sound mind. Evidence was given in support of this assertion, as was also evidence tending to show that there had been no undue familiarity between Mrs. Woodhouse and Colonel Power. The evidence of other witnesses, taken on commission in India, was also read. These parties were servants in the employment of Colonel Power and Major Woodhouse, and they swore that they never saw anything improper between the respondent and Colonel Power. Several medical gentlemen gave evidence to the effect that they considered the respondent to be of perfectly sound mind. On the conclusion of the whole of the evidence the counsel for the respondent and co-respondent briefly addressed the court, and Dr. Spinks followed on behalf of the petitioner, contending that the weight of the evidence went to establish that the respondent was not labouring under any delusion when she confessed to her husband that she had committed adultery with Colonel Power. Sir James Hannen said he felt the greatest commiseration for the petitioner, as no fault whatever could be found against him for what he had done. At the same time, he must decide upon the evidence before him, and his opinion was that there was no evidence against the co-respondent. That there was an intimacy there was no doubt, but that was all, and his finding was that the co-respondent had not committed adultery with the respondent. Then, as to the wife's confession that he had done so, he was clearly of opinion that at the time she made that confession she was of unsound mind. That being his opinion he must dismiss the petition with costs.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consu at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, 1st Dec., 1864.

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

This new West-end Club, which now numbers 1,500 members, is open in one of the best portions in the West-end, being at the corner of Pall-mall, opposite the Athenæum Club.

This Club is established to meet the wants of Gentlemen who, owing to the almost dead-lock existing among the leading West-end Clubs, are at present without the advantages of one.

The Club is intended for members of Town and Country Society, and one of its objects also is, as its name also denotes, to offer a place of resort for Men of Travel and other Gentlemen who have associated in various parts of the world.

The Entrance Fee at present is Ten Guineas, which will be raised when the strength of the Club is completed.

The annual subscription is Eight Guineas, but Members residing beyond a radius of fifty miles from London are admitted as Country Members at an annual subscription of Four Guineas.

The Subscription of Officers on Foreign Service is One Guinea, and other Gentlemen residing abroad Two Guineas.

This Club being strictly proprietary the Members incur no liability.

Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 13:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cockle's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheik, who was impervious to all native medicines when I administered to him five

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, March 13; Madras and Allahabad, March 11; Calcutta, March 10.

THE march of the troops commanded by General Stewart has commenced, and it is reported, on the one hand, that Mahomed Jan is disposed to treat; on the other, that strong opposition will be encountered. We may daily look for stirring news. The sirdar of Kandahar has been defeated by the Pagheri rebels, and there are reports that the Hazaras have not defeated Mahomed Jan. The forces now garrisoning Southern Afghanistan amount to nearly 10,000 men, irrespective of the force marching on Ghuzni.

FORT BATTYE, beyond Gandamak, was attacked on the night of the 26th ult. Lieut. Angelo, 31st P.N.I., and seven men were killed and nineteen wounded. The enemy were repulsed, and left six dead behind, but carried off their wounded.

THE knowledge of an intended attack upon the posts between Cabul and Gandamak caused reinforcements to be sent which defeated the attack on Fort Battye. Recent telegrams are as follow:—

"Moghul Khan, of Goshta, who in January was unsuccessful in raising the Mohmands against us, and who then fled to the hills, has collected some men and besieged the fort of Girdab, held by Azim Khan, a chief friendly to us and appointed by us to administer Goshta. A large body of men is also reported to be preparing rafts to cross the Cabul River, evidently for the purpose of raiding on our outposts. A force under the command of Colonel Hodding, of the 4th Madras Native Infantry, consisting of four guns, 300 infantry, and some cavalry, has proceeded from Jellalabad towards Alibogan and Elichpur, to prevent the enemy from crossing, and, if necessary, to assist Azim Khan. As the Goshta district commands the river route it will be advisable to disperse Mogul Khan's gatherings, and rafts for the purpose of crossing the river are accordingly being prepared by us. The following troops have proceeded towards Gandamak and Cabul:—The 9th Native Infantry, the 1st Goorkhas, also a draft of 300 men, the 9th Foot, under the command of Major Morgan, escorting a heavy battery of two 40-pounders and two rifled howitzers. A convoy of forty elephants has also passed through, carrying ammunition. The movable column at Gandamak will probably move into the Hisarak Valley."

LIEUT. THURLOW, 51st Regt., was shot dead on 22nd ult. by marauders, supposed to be Marehti Kheyls. He was riding out near Jagdalak Kotal together with Lieut. Reid, who escaped. The body was recovered by a party commanded by Major Ramsay, 55th K.O. Borderers. Mahalla Khan has reported that he has 400 men at Finjami, and is ready, when ordered, to capture the marauders.

FROM Kandahar we hear that Capt. Showers, 1st P.N.I., commanding the Beluch Guides, has been killed by Kakars while travelling between Chappar and Quetta.

A TELEGRAM from Pera in the Presse of Vienna says that, according to despatches from Teheran, "Abdurrahman Khan has left the town of Kundus and has marched with his troops, by Ghor and Netsherad, on Cabul. In Herat the civil war continues to rage, as Ahmed Eyoub Khan refuses to send a portion of his troops to assist the pretender, as the partisans of Abdurrahman Khan urge him to do."

THE Queen has been pleased to appoint James Gibbs, Esq., C.S.I., late a member of the Bombay Civil Service, to be an ordinary member of the Council of the Governor General of India, in succession to Sir Alexander John Arbuthnot, K.C.S.I., C.I.E.

IT seems that Chendriah's death has not yet had the effect of bringing the Rampa rebellion to a close, and the rebels are still in arms under his lieutenant Yamendora. The villagers of the district, although not actively joining in the rising, would appear to be affording shelter and supplies to the rebels, and it is pointed out that the only effectual way of bringing this miserable disturbance to an end will be through making the villagers understand that their helping the enemy will expose themselves to be treated as enemies. We trust that it has been pointed out forcibly to the Madras Government.

THE King of Siam will leave Bangkok early in April for the purpose of paying a visit to the chief capitals of Europe. After a short stay in England the King will leave for the United States of America, the Government of which will send a war vessel to Southampton to convey his Majesty to the States.

A LATER telegram states that all the Naga chiefs have now submitted to the British, and the operations against them have consequently been suspended.

A MORNING contemporary states that his Excellency Phya Bhaskarrwongse, envoy of his Majesty the King of Siam, is expected on a second visit to England about the middle of May. It had been arranged that the King of Siam himself would come to invest her Majesty with the insignia of the Order of the White Elephant, but it is understood that his Majesty's visit is for the present postponed, consequent upon the indisposition of his Highness the ex-Regent, who would, in the King's absence, have had the reins of Government.

THE late Chinese Ambassador to Russia has not lost his head, but his honours and titles, and awaits the award of the Board of Punishments. China will rather risk a war than confirm the Kuldja Treaty, which has been condemned by six boards. The President of the United States is said to have decided to recall the American Envoy.

THE Pioneer says that it has been decided that the secretary of the principal medical officer of a division of the army shall be considered as attached to the division, and not a personal staff officer of the principal medical officer. Should the principal medical officer be removed to another division the secretary does not accompany him, but continues his post under the successor.

THE following are the chief points in the new arrangement of the Medical Department, which comes into force on April 1. There are to be seven chief medical appointments—viz., one surgeon general with the Supreme Government, at a salary of Rs.2,700 monthly; one surgeon general for each presidency of Madras and Bombay, with a salary of Rs.2,500 monthly; one deputy surgeon general, with the local rank of surgeon general for each of the Provinces of Bengal, the North West Provinces, and the Punjab; and one deputy surgeon general, without local rank, for the Central Provinces.

THE formal constitution of an Intelligence Department at the army headquarters has been announced in the Gazette. It will form a branch of the Quartermaster General's office, and will be presided over by Lieut. Col. Sanford, R.E.

THE total number of killed, wounded, and missing of the 1st Division, Cabul Field Force, during the operations around Cabul from the 10th to the 23rd December was 366. In the same period eighty-three horses were killed and ninety-one wounded.

IN his speech on the Budget the Commander in Chief (Sir F. Haines) said he was always one of those who looked upon Khiva as a mere prologue to Merv, and consequently to Herat, and that, he believed, was now working itself out. Who could say what military complications might bring about, and he hoped in consequence that Government would not anticipate any immediate relief from the army reduction.

SPEAKING at Karachi, where he was entertained by the Sind Club, Sir Richard Temple adverted to the great zemindars of Sind, and begged his audience to remember that these were the native aristocracy of the land, and expressed the hope that, in dealing with the encumbered estates, every effort would be made to sustain as many proprietors as possible in the position they were born to fill and lighten the decadence of those who must inevitably fall. Nor must the smaller landed gentry be dealt with too rigorously, as these were the yeomanry of the State. Beneath the landowners there were the agricultural class proper; these latter must be encouraged by the speediest possible completion of such a land settlement as would secure to them a certain degree of tenure as well as equitable appraisement of the soil. It was a fact to be regretted that Sind, in respect to land settlement, was much behind the other provinces of the Empire; but he was sanguine that advancement would accrue on the measures recently inaugurated, especially on those affecting the village system.

THE Supreme Government has issued another edition, with emendations, of the savings banks rules published last December. Without special sanction no deposit will be accepted for less than one rupee, nor any above five thousand in all, between the 1st April and 31st March following. The interest is to be at the rate of about 4 1-6 per annum, and the largest amount that can be drawn monthly for interest is Rs.17-1-3. It will thus be seen that the maximum interest is sufficiently large to include even the better classes among the lower orders, or rather the lower middle ranks of the native population.

UNDER the authority of the Secretary of State for India it is notified that in the event of the report of a marriage or the birth of a child not being made by a subscriber to the Indian Service Family Pension Fund, during his lifetime, in accordance with the rules, the widow or child will not be entitled to any benefits from the fund.

THE Horse Guards having called the attention of the Indian authorities to the irregularity of permitting regimental officers to act as press correspondents, the Government, with the concurrence of the Commander in Chief, has extended to these officers the prohibition against writing for newspapers which formerly applied only to staff officers. The new order will not come into force for six weeks yet, so as to give papers time to make fresh arrangements. This order will cause much inconvenience both to the press and the public.

GOVERNMENT has sanctioned the bestowal of jemadars' commissions upon native gentlemen bringing fifty good recruits each, and resaldars' commissions for double the number.

AT the conclusion of an elaborate review of Sir R. Temple's career from Rugby to Bombay, the Times of India says:—"We are sure that in the large crowd that will throng the Apollo Bunder there will be no one, no matter what his nationality, his creed, or his politics, who will not wish Sir Richard Temple a prosperous political career at home; and, if the House of Commons should be the short road that some suppose to Simla, if a strong man be needed in times of emergency to seize the helm in India, we can promise him a crowd as large and as earnest to welcome his return."

UP to March 6 the Bombay subscriptions for Ireland had reached Rs.45,000, and at a meeting of Mahomedan gentlemen £1,000 was subscribed for the Turkish Compassionate Fund.

IN the Legislative Council on March 12 Mr. Colvin introduced a bill to provide for the relief of encumbered estates in the Jhansi Division. The North West Provinces Bill was introduced by Mr. Stokes and passed, correcting a clerical error in the Indian Limitation Act, 1877. Mr. Colvin introduced the bill to amend the North Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873. Mr. Colvin postponed his motion that the report of the select committee on the bill to regulate labour in factories be taken into consideration in order to allow further time for the consideration of the bill. The council was adjourned sine die.

THE Ootacamund paper contains the new constitution of the Nilgiri District, a summary of which we give elsewhere. The annual saving is estimated at a little over Rs.4,000. The commissioner becomes a collector and magistrate.

ACCORDING to a Reuter's telegram from Calcutta, intelligence received from Assam states that on the troops occupying Konoma and the adjoining villages the Kheyls of Konoma tendered their submission to the British.

COLONEL BARLOW has been obliged, on account of continued ill health, to resign the command of the 5th Bengal N.I., now on service.

IN view of the approaching visit of the King of Siam, and the probable war between Russia and China, it is high time that the King of Burma should be made to understand that he exists on sufferance. Chin-India must not be a source of trouble, which timely pressure may prevent.

THE Cologne Gazette states that the Japanese Ambassador at St. Petersburg has received information to the effect that in case war breaks out between China and Japan the King of Burma has declared his intention of entering into an active alliance with the latter State. In addition to the Chinese Ambassador Extraordinary, Maryllis Tseng, the Japanese Prince Janachi Varo is expected in St. Petersburg to take the place at present filled by a Chargé d'Affaires, M. Nissi. The rapprochement between Japan and Russia will, it is thought, tend to make the Chinese Government more disposed to go to war with the Japanese.

THE rearrangement of commands and the new disposition of the troops on the Khyber line are to be carried out as recently announced, with the exception that General Bright is directed to report to General Roberts, instead of to the Commander in Chief, who will not proceed to Peshawur. The cause why the new arrangement was held in abeyance was, apparently, as already notified, to settle this question as to which of the two authorities General Bright should report to.

A FURTHER return of patients treated at Cabul Dispensary from Jan. 22 to Feb. 4, 1880, shows an average daily attendance of 141·57 out-door and 27·57 in-door patients. With respect to the dispensary, the Government of India has ordered that an expression of its appreciation of his services in this matter be conveyed to Surgeon C. W. Owen, the medical officer in charge, to whose energetic exertions the success of the institution may be considered to be mainly due.

THE Pioneer correspondence gives the following officers as appointed to the new Mounted Infantry:—Commandant, 1st Brigade, Major Baker, 67th Foot; 92nd, Lieut. Dick Cunyngham; 23rd Pioneers, Captain Eyre; 28th Punjab Infantry, Lieut. Lane. In 45th Sikhs, belonging to 2nd Division, Lieut. Retallick gets an appointment in the Guides Infantry; at present attached to no brigade.

THE Government has decided that officers of the Police or Survey Departments selected to fill vacancies in the transport service shall receive the pay of lieutenant in the Staff Corps with Rs.200 staff pay, in all Rs.425-12-0 permensem.

MR. CHURCHILL, the British Consul at Astrabad, during the Russian expedition against the Turcomans last year sent his son to Chikislar to watch General Lazareff's movements. The young fellow, who is only seventeen years old, accomplished his difficult mission with complete success. The Governor of Astrabad gave him an escort of five Afghans and six Turcomans, and with these he crossed the Attrek and reached the Russian camp, where he made some useful observations. Amongst other things he noticed that the Russian infantry was made up of very young soldiers, and that the expedition was weak in cavalry. Mr. Sydney Churchill received Lord Salis-

THE VICEROY ON THE BUDGET.

THE able and eloquent address of the Viceroy to the Legislative Council held on March 2 contains an elaborate defence of not only the financial but the whole policy of his Government, and we regret that we have only space for a very few excerpts :—

INDIA AND THE EXPENSES OF THE WAR.—The question whether India or England should pay the expenses of the present Afghan war must be considered in connection with the far wider question whether the British rule is, or is not, beneficial to India. If England is ruling India for the advantage of British interests only, and without any reference to India's own welfare, then unquestionably England alone should pay for the protection of her Indian possessions. But, if the British rule is maintained with due regard to the interests of India, and if that rule is presumably more advantageous to India than any other rule which could be substituted for it, then India, if she has the means, should assuredly bear all the charges which are requisite for her maintenance and preservation as a great State, including the cost of wars for the security of her frontier. To distinguish between paying for the maintenance of an army and paying for the employment of that army in the performance of the duties for which it is maintained is not only unreasonable, but impossible. It is the frontiers of India, not the shores of England, that have been threatened by the advance of Russia and the hostility or treachery of the two last Ameers of Cabul. It is for the safety of India's provinces, not for the defence of the British Isles, that war is being waged. My honourable colleague has pointed out that circumstances might conceivably occur in which India would perhaps be required to take up arms for a cause in which she had no special interest of her own, and that, in such cases, England would be rightly liable for the cost of India's armed co-operation. But in a war undertaken solely for the security of India's own frontier no one can justly affirm that the interests involved are exclusively English, or that they are not directly and materially Indian. This at least can only be affirmed with any show of reason, on the assumption that the downfall of the British power in India would be either beneficial or immaterial to India. All argument as to the justice or expediency of the war and all remarks about the people of India having had no voice in it are absolutely and obviously beside this question. The acts of a Government are the acts of the State, whether the administration of that State be republican, monarchical, absolute, national, or alien. Those who affirm that India should not pay the expenses of the Afghan war because that war was the unjustifiable act of a wicked Government, or because her people have had no voice in the matter, might as reasonably urge that the people of France should not pay the cost of the Franco-German war because the Government of France unjustifiably attacked Germany; or that the people of Russia should not pay the expenses of the war lately waged by their Government against the Sultan of Turkey because Russia is ruled by an absolute sovereign, and her taxpayers have no voice in the conduct of his policy. It is, I trust, scarcely necessary to point out that, if England profits by her association with India, India also profits by it, at the very least, to an equal extent. That association gives both England and India a nobler place among the nations of the world than either of them could separately hold; but, so far as regards the purely domestic and material advantages of their union, it is assuredly India that is the greater gainer by it. Her peace at home and security abroad are guaranteed by it. And what constitutes this guarantee? It is not the comparatively small garrison of British and native troops maintained in India—a force which, in proportion to the population, is less than the force maintained for similar purposes by any known State—it is the vast reserve of military power and appliances of all sorts, war material, arms of precision, &c., which India owes to her connection with England. And if we regard, from a purely monetary point of view, the benefits which this connection confer upon India, be it remembered that India is at this moment reaping, in peace and security (for the development of her steadily expanding resources and the satisfaction of her growing commercial requirements), all the advantages derived from many thousand miles of railway, which, under any Asiatic Government—such, for instance, as that of Persia, or China, or the old Mogul Power—she would have either gone without altogether, or obtained only by paying for them the ruinous rates of interest at which alone Asiatic Governments can raise money. The only ground, therefore, on which India could ask England to pay the expenses of the Afghan war would, I repeat it, be the ground of charity. Her position would be that of a poor country appealing to a wealthy one for eleemosynary aid in dire distress. I can imagine nothing more unjustly humiliating to India, nothing more degrading to the dignity of her princes, more corrupting to the character of her people, more destructive, as my honourable colleague rightly pointed out, to all ideas of self-reliance or self-respect. Nor can I imagine anything more certain in the end to subject India to incessant English interference of the most vexatious and mischievous character. She would soon become a corpus vile for the ruthless experiments of administrative quacks, or an arena for the reckless antagonisms of political parties. No; the suggestion to transfer to the English taxpayer the burden of this Indian war, however admirable may have been the motives in which it originated, has, I am convinced, been used insidiously by many whose real object is not to relieve her Majesty's Indian subjects, but to embarrass her Majesty's English Government.

THE WAR.—Now, when this Government is charged with having, in wanton and criminal disregard of the great interests committed to its care, insidiously sought occasion for that war which we first undertook, God knows, in reluctant recognition of its unavoidable necessity, and solely for the preservation of the splendid national heritage I have now endeavoured to describe—a war of which the renewal has been forced upon us by the flagrant violation of the most solemn treaty obligations and the cruel massacre of our whole mission at Cabul—when I say this odious charge is made against our character as Englishmen and our conduct as Indian administrators, I am content to ask all those whose common sense is still unbiassed to consider, first, the startling magnitude of the war power and material which Shere Ali, as the world now knows, had long been accumulating and organising on our immediate border, at a time when we commanded not a single one of its mountain passes; then, to reflect on the ruinous condition of chronic panic and unrest, the intolerably increased burden of permanent military expenditure, which we should have bequeathed to India, if, when fully warned of her danger, we had left this great and growing war-machine planted on the very threshold of her Empire, not only at the uncontrolled command of a Prince avowedly hostile to her, but also under the established influence and undisputed direction of that despotic and aggressive military Power which has for years been steadily advancing to her gates.

VINDICATION OF GENERAL ROBERTS.—In the presence of his Excellency the Commander in Chief, whose personal organisation and constant supervision of all its operations have so greatly contributed to the successful results thus far of a war which will soon, I trust, be satisfactorily finished, it would be presumptuous in me to make any comment on the military conduct of it. But I esteem it nothing less than an imperative, though it is also a congenial, duty to take this the earliest opportunity in my power of vindicating from the cruel aspersions lately cast on it the high character of that fine soldier and true gentleman, Sir Frederick Roberts. To all who have the privilege of being intimately acquainted with General Roberts the marked humanity of his character is well known. The armed mission on which that officer went to Cabul was primarily and essentially one of stern retribution. He has been accused of indiscriminate severity in the discharge of the painful task imposed on him. The number of those who instigated the massacre of Sir Louis Cavagnari and his companions we shall probably never know. The number of those who participated in that crime we cannot accurately estimate, but it may certainly be reckoned by hundreds. The total number of persons tried at Cabul under the authority of General Roberts for that crime and on other charges was 163. The total number of persons executed under his authority was eighty-seven. But it has been alleged that some of the persons thus executed were bona fide combatants punished by General Roberts, under a cruel and fictitious charge of rebellion, for no worse deed than the defence of their country. It is with great satisfaction that, on behalf of General Roberts and this Government, to which he has rendered a strict account of his proceedings, I deny the truth of that allegation. The fact is, that no combatant or non-combatant has been put to death by General Roberts on any mere charge of rebellion, or for openly bearing arms against us; no man has suffered death under any charge not punishable with death by the ordinary practice of civilised warfare, or without the fullest trial compatible with the inevitable condition of martial law in a barbarous country under hostile occupation. General Roberts has explained that his reason for offering rewards for the apprehension of the men who fought against him at Charasiab, and who were declared by the Ameer to be traitors to himself, was the knowledge that the assailants and murderers of the Embassy were to be found in their ranks. But not one of those men had been executed unless and until the court which tried him was satisfied by the evidence before it that he had either participated in the attack on the Residency or committed some other crime to which the recognised usages of war apply the penalty of death. To rummage amongst the refuse of hearsay for every crooked pin dropped there by the recklessness of rumour or the rancour of personal spite, and then to employ these ignoble little weapons in scarifying the character of men who are labouring to serve their country in conspicuous positions of constant anxiety and tremendous responsibility—this, I must be allowed to say, is not merely cruel, it is essentially cowardly. Neither a swaggering patronage of the public conscience, nor ostentatious professions of a superior personal morality, never tested by the dread conditions of responsible public action, can mitigate or conceal—in my opinion they seriously aggravate—all that is either frivolous or despicable in such conduct.

THE DEPARTURE OF SIR R. TEMPLE.

AT a crowded public meeting held in the Town-hall, Bombay, on March 12, the following address was adopted :—

"To his Excellency the Honourable Sir Richard Temple, Bart., G.C.S.I., C.I.E., Governor of Bombay, &c., &c.

"Honourable Sir,—The citizens of Bombay desire to express, on the eve of your departure from India, their high sense of the many benefits conferred upon this city and presidency by the energetic and capable rule of your Excellency during the past three years. Upon arriving amongst us your Excellency was already distinguished as a statesman and an administrator; the solid work accomplished in the brief period of your sway here has justified and augmented the reputation which preceded you to this Presidency, and now, when leaving these shores for England for a new and, we sincerely hope, even more brilliant career in the seat and centre of the Empire, you will take with you the respect and affection of all classes of the community. But one regret is felt, and that is honourable to you—it is that your government has not been extended as we had hoped its full term, and that you are leaving us two years too soon. When you arrived in this Presidency famine was still afflicting a large and important area in the Deccan and Southern Mahrata country. Your great aptitude for administrative detail and your untiring personal supervision contributed largely to the alleviation of the suffering attending the visitation. Under your care measures were adopted to render the recurrence of famine in the Presidency less frequent and its consequences less serious. An admirable system of canals for irrigational purposes has been devised and in great part executed. The disforesting of the country which had been in progress for years and was threatening to turn whole districts into desert was arrested by your intelligent firmness, and a well-considered scheme drawn up by you for the planting of the slopes of the ghats and other suitable localities is now in operation and already producing most satisfactory results. You have personally visited every part of the Presidency and made yourself acquainted with the needs and capabilities of every district, even the most remote. Under your impulse railways and roads and other appliances for developing the resources of the country and securing the prosperity of its people have been undertaken. In this city important measures have been urged on to completion under your Government. The harbour foreshores have been repurchased, and are now again public property available for public purposes. The water supply of the city has been augmented by the opening of the Toolsee Waterworks by your Excellency. A complete system of drainage has been resolved upon, and the work has been already begun. The defences of the island have been reorganised, and the city rendered secure against hostile attack. The Prince's Dock, the greatest, if not the first, work of the kind constructed in the East, has been completed under your rule, and was opened by you in person on New Year's Day. But a few days since you were present at the inaugural ceremonial of the splendid tower of the University library, an ornament and a landmark which Bombay owes to one of its native citizens. You have laid the foundation of buildings devoted to educational purposes which are destined to add to the architectural splendour of this part of the city—the Cathedral High School, the Alexandra School, and the High School of the Scottish Education Society. You have given your active and influential support to every object deserving of encouragement which the citizens of Bombay or any section of them have had at heart.

"While thus expressing our sense of the services rendered by your Excellency to the cause of education in this Presidency it is probable that the public generally has not followed your labours in this department with the same keen interest which it has bestowed on your exertions in more conspicuous fields, and that it is for the most part unaware of the amount of time and thought which you have devoted to the proper working of our educational system. But those who have themselves taken part in the work of our schools and university know well how great has been the interest taken by your Excellency in that work, and how valuable are the improvements suggested or introduced by you. It is from Sir Richard Temple's tenure of government in Bombay that will date the recognition of the proper place of physical science in Indian education, and we believe that, long after the wars and troubles of the present time have passed away, future generations will have increasing cause to be grateful for the intellectual training and material benefits afforded by the branch of study now under your Excellency's auspices duly installed in Western India. In every department of our local life your influence has been distinctly felt and always beneficially. You have watched over the development of free municipal government in this city, and have on all occasions given to the local authorities your support and countenance. With your initiative and sustained help a volunteer corps has been organised which promises to become a permanent institution in Bombay. While labouring assiduously and with conspicuous success to advance the interests of this City and Presidency you have found time and energy to render the Government of India and the Empire at large valuable services. By your care and powers of organisation the Malta Expedition was despatched from this harbour with signal promptitude. In the Afghan war you organised the means of transport for the forces operating in the direction of Kandahar, and it was owing to the means which you had accumulated that at a later period the rapid and brilliant advance upon Cabul was rendered possible. You personally prepared the way for the Kandahar railway—a work of an unexampled character which, thanks to your energetic impulse, is being carried on to completion with unexampled rapidity. The necessary limits of an address prevent us from enumerating in detail the many services, and their advantageous results, which have marked the three years of your Excellency's government of Bombay. We hope to commemorate that government by a statue of your Excellency to be erected upon a suitable site in this the metropolis of the Presidency. Although we have not ventured here to recount the history of the twenty-nine years of arduous and conspicuous services given to India at large by your Excellency previously to your arrival in Bombay in the year 1877, we, in common with the other subjects of her Majesty in her Eastern Empire, entertain the most sincere appreciation and vivid recollections of those varied services. While now reluctantly parting with your Excellency we do so with an earnest aspiration that your future career may be as successful and illustrious as that of which we have been the admiring witnesses in India."

THE DEATH OF CAPT. SHOWERS.

CAPT. HOWE SHOWERS was an officer of great promise, bearing a name well known in India for every soldier-like quality. He was the son of the late Major General St. George Showers, who commanded a brigade at the siege of Delhi, and the nephew of another general of the same name. Educated at the Wellington College, Capt. Showers went to India in 1861, and shortly afterwards joined the 104th Fusiliers, of which regiment he soon became adjutant. On receiving his company Capt. Showers entered the Staff Corps, and was posted to the Central India Horse, which regiment he left in 1872 for the 1st Punjab Infantry. In 1877 he was appointed a garrison instructor in Bengal, but threw up the post in order to join his corps on service. Here his talents as a linguist and a draughtsman brought him into notice, and he was speedily placed by Sir Donald Stewart in the Intelligence Department. Accompanied by a handful of men, Capt. Showers was in the habit of traversing unknown routes, returning with plans full of invaluable information. On more than one occasion he was attacked either by the Kakars or by some kindred clans, escaping only by his personal valour and skill at arms. Recklessly gallant, he has now fallen, and, though her Majesty has lost many brave and good men in the course of the operations in Afghanistan, none braver or better have met a soldier's death than Capt. Howe Showers.—Times.

SIR M. K. KENNEDY.—The following was published as a Government Gazette Extraordinary on March 11 :—"Public Works Department, Bombay Castle, 11th March, 1880.—Lieutenant General Sir Michael Kavanagh Kennedy, K.C.S.I., R.E., having resigned his appointment as Secretary to Government, Public Works and Railway Departments, in this Presidency, his Excellency the Honourable the Governor in Council desires to avail himself of this opportunity of placing on record his sense of the exemplary zeal and the conspicuous ability displayed by this officer at all times in the discharge of his duties in the Bombay Public Works Department. Lieutenant General Sir Michael Kennedy joined the department on the 23rd June, 1843, and served in Khandesh, Surat, Aden, and Satara until the 29th April, 1861, when he was appointed superintending engineer, Southern Division, which post he held till the 18th July, 1863, when he was nominated Secretary to Government, Public Works and Railway Departments. His general acquaintance with the greater part of the Bombay Presidency, combined with his conscientious zeal, excellent judgment, and remarkable ability, rendered his services particularly valuable to Government at all times in disposing of important questions relating to public works of every description; but especially so during the famine of 1876 and 1877, when he rendered Government devoted and able assistance in its efforts to organise a system of relief suitable to the circumstances which then existed, adapting thereto the professional and non-professional resources of the State; developing suitable projects of public works; obtaining an adequate return for expenditure on relief; ensuring village inspection being carried out for the prevention of mortality among the poorer classes; securing on the one hand the safety of the people, and on the other hand economy of the public expenditure; and in all these respects showing a tenacity of purpose and a capacity for administration which proved most valuable to the Government he served. His Excellency the Governor in Council, while congratulating him on the great results of his past labours in this Presidency, desires to express his best wishes for Sir Michael Kennedy's future welfare.

INDIAN HYGIENE.*

ANOTHER of the benefits which have been from time to time rendered to the people of India by the members of the Indian Medical Service is before us. The author says that the daily increasing interest now taken in sanitary matters by all the enlightened classes of the community in the country teems with the promise that preventive medicine in India has a bright future. Mr. Lucas's object in writing his brief but instructive treatise on Indian hygiene is not merely to teach Anglo-Indians how to take care of their own health and that of their families, he further aims at imparting some knowledge of the principles of sanitation which may enable his readers to help forward the much needed sanitary reforms among their humbler fellow-subjects. His chapters, accordingly, on the subjects of water, soil, and the sanitary condition of towns and villages are full of interesting facts and valuable rules, although couched in somewhat pedantic language. In fact, the main defect of the little work is to be over solemn and a little pompous. But the author manages to make his reader understand him, and is definite enough when laying down a rule of life or recommending preventive safeguards against disease. We observe that he gives it as his conclusion, after a most careful study and reference to available literature, "that the principal cause of sickness in the hill stations of India is bad water." He is very earnest in his conclusions about the necessity of making vaccination compulsory under penalty. The declaration made at the debate in the Viceregal Council by Mr. Grant that, with the exception of the two small provinces of Ajmir and Kurg, British India is opposed to compulsory vaccination, would by no means meet with his approval. Indeed, he and all other medical men might justly argue that the Government cannot afford to let antiquated prejudices consign so many victims annually to Shitala. The instruction to the committee to introduce a local option clause into the Hon. Sayyad Ahmed Khan's bill is kindly and well meant. But we think Mr. Lucas would say plainly, "either enforce vaccination just as much as you forbid poisoning everywhere, or let it alone." This part of the work before us would very well deserve expansion, for the subject is of most pressing importance, and all assistance that can be given in the way of counsel and advice, whether directly to Anglo-Indians, or, by their means, to the still prejudiced natives, is a benefit to the country. Some of Mr. Lucas's sensible rules for sound living are, we should fancy, as often violated in England as in India, and need quite as much enforcement at home as in any station. His chart of the annual rainfall, whencesoever derived, differs considerably as to the averages from that of Mr. Blanford so far as it is possible to compare them.

JOURNAL OF THE NATIONAL INDIAN ASSOCIATION.

THE number for April contains several very interesting papers. The authoress of "Life in India" furnishes a second, but, we hope, not a concluding contribution of her Indian experiences. Speaking of changes in the costume of the young girls in Zenana, she writes—"It is much to be regretted that in their zeal for reform many well-meaning English people have quite overlooked the native beauty of their dress and have tried, but too successfully, to induce them to substitute European garments, which, ill made and ill worn as they necessarily are, are a sad contrast to the picturesque appearance of the true Indian dress." Not only "picturesqueness" is likely to suffer, but deeper feelings have been too often ruthlessly dealt with by the uncompromising desire of English philanthropists to make their habits and customs fit every race, whether in India or the South Sea Islands. Professor Rehatsck commences an interesting description of Bombay a hundred and fifteen years ago, translated from the German of the elder Niebuhr. It affords a serviceable contrast of Bombay of 1764 with the great city of the present time. "Proverbs in the Zenana," by Rev. J. Long, are a curious collection of such lore, but of rather too mixed origin to be illustrative even of their parallelism. An article on the "Baroda State" from a Broach contributor is worth perusal, and contains a strong recommendation to the British Government to send the young Gaekwar on a European tour, "where he may have an opportunity of seeing the busy world at large." The present number is a decidedly successful one.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

THE result of the abolition of the duty on the coarser qualities of cotton goods, as described in the statement, accords, even more completely than Sir John Strachey admits, with the anticipations of the mercantile community here and in Bombay. Sir John Strachey declares that, whatever other results may have attended the measure, it has at least effected the object for which it was declared necessary. Whether this is correct or not depends upon the sense in which the words are taken. If the object of the abolition was merely to put it out of the power of Manchester to accuse the Indian Government of protecting local manufactures, it has no doubt been attained. If, on the other hand, the object was to do away with such protection, it has not been attained, simply because the duty never operated as a protection at all. The actual result has been to increase, not the aggregate quantity of goods Manchester can dispose of profitably in this country, but the proportion of coarse to fine goods sent out by her. Where Manchester formerly sent out goods made of yarns ranging from 30's to 40's, she now sends out goods made with 28's to 30's yarns, and as her trade is thus diverted from a class of goods in which the local mills could not, or, at all events, did not compete, to a class in which they can compete, the probability is that the ultimate result will be rather injurious to her interests than otherwise. This is one aspect of the question. The other aspect is its effect on the Indian revenues. When, last year, the Government estimated that it would lose £150,000 by the abolition of the duties, it took account only, or mainly, of the loss of the duty previously levied on the coarser goods. It neglected to make adequate allowance for the loss of duty likely to arise from the substitution of coarse for fine goods to which we have just adverted. The result, so far, is that it under-estimated the sacrifice by £80,000, the falling off in the duties having amounted to £230,000 instead of £150,000. The proportion of duty-free shirtings and long cloths has already reached 74 per cent., while the dutiable qualities of some classes of goods have almost disappeared from the market. But this is not all. There is every reason to believe that the substitution of coarse for fine goods has not yet reached its limits, and Sir John Strachey has been obliged to allow for a further loss of £20,000 under this head in the coming year. In fact, there can be no doubt that the effect of the abolition must be to kill the revenue from cotton goods by inches. If this slow death were being effected by a natural process, or even if it were the direct result of the abolition of the duty, regret for the loss of revenue might be mitigated by satisfaction at the benefit to trade. As it is, the process by which it is being effected is at once unnatural and injurious to the trade. Unless anyone is prepared to justify the handicapping of the finer, in favour of the coarser, class of goods on sumptuary principles, we know of no argument that can be urged in its favour. Yet, as far as we can see, it is the sole fruit to which the Government can point as a quid pro quo for the immediate surrender of a quarter of a million, and the prospective surrender of nearer half a million of annual revenue. That the duties cannot remain on their present footing is obvious to every one. In a few years they will become unimportant as a source of revenue, but none the less, if maintained, will they continue to exercise their maleficent influence, by acting as a premium on the manufacture of the coarser goods. In order that this anomaly may be removed they must either be equalised or entirely remitted. To equalise them at a rate which would yield the present amount of revenue would revive the cry of protection, and, however specious that cry may be, it is improbable that, after what has passed, any Government would have the courage to face it. We look, then, upon the ultimate abolition of the duties as inevitable, and, this being the case, it becomes a serious question whether the bolder would not be also the wiser course; whether it would not be better to find some substitute for the duties and get rid of them at once, thus at the same time freeing the trade from a disturbing element of a most pernicious character, and escaping an annually increasing loss of revenue, than to wait till the revenue from them has ceased to be worth collecting and the trade in fine goods has died out.—Englishman.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

GWALIOR.—A statement of the receipts and disbursements of the Gwalior State during the past year, has just been published, and, glancing over it, we find that the Maharaja Sindia expended in all ninety lakhs of rupees on famine relief operations in his State during the last famine. Of this amount fifty lakhs were borrowed from the Government of India, and, at his Highness's request, the six lakhs of rupees which come to him annually on account of interest on the crore and a-half of rupees deposited with Government for the construction of railways through his State will be retained by the Government of India until the fifty lakhs, with 5 per cent. interest, is refunded. Ten and a-half years will see this debt adjusted.—Bombay Gazette.

IRRIGATION.—The late period of severe drought has had one good result in inducing the cultivators to extend their patronage to irrigation. This is shown by the review of the work done by the irrigation canals of the North West Provinces for the kharif season, or six months ending September, 1879, from which it appears that, although the rainfall was exceptionally favourable, beginning, as it did, early in June, and continuing to the end of September, the area under canal irrigation (555,641 acres) was much larger than in years of good rainfall which occurred before the late years of drought. Thus, though the area of 1879 was 175,942 acres less than that of 1877-78, when the monsoon rain failed, it was 165,934 acres more than the area of 1874, which most resembled 1879 in rainfall. This increase, therefore, represents the real growth of canal irrigation during the five years.—Bombay Gazette.

TOBACCO CULTIVATION N.W. PROVINCES.—We are pleased to learn that much encouraging progress has been made during the past year in these provinces in the cultivation and curing of tobacco. The branch tobacco farm which was, on the suggestion of Mr. Buck, established at Pusa, has proved a success, the tobacco grown there being out of the reach of the dry winds and frost of the North West. The Ghazipur farm is still worked successfully, but all the tobacco produced there is sent to Pusa for curing. There are now employed on the two farms two Englishmen, two Americans, and one Eurasian, besides a large number of natives. The Eurasian assistant was originally placed as an apprentice at the Ghazipur farm; but the chief American curer has now pronounced him competent to superintend curing operations. Mr. Williamson, the chief Virginian curer, went to America in March, 1878, to procure manufacturing machinery, with which he returned in December of the same year, and within three months the machinery rooms were erected and fitted up. Natives were meanwhile instructed in the requisite processes; and in the opinion of the American assistants on the farms there is now no kind of manufactured tobacco which cannot be turned out at Pusa of a quality equal to the same class of American tobacco. Pusa manufactured tobacco has been sold largely in this country at very favourable prices, and in the colonies there is a growing and encouraging demand for this brand. The chief outlook for Pusa, however, is the competition with America in cured unmanufactured leaf for sale in the English market. Fifteen thousand pounds of the 1877 crop grown in Pusa fetched in England a price equal to 3¾d. per pound, and the price would have been 4¾d. per pound had not the English customs tariff been altered just before the arrival of the consignment in London. An offer of 4½d. per pound has, however, just been made by one of the largest London tobacconists for a regular supply of the Pusa tobacco. A small quantity of the Ghazipur tobacco sold for 7d. per pound. Considering that the London market price of tobacco was at a very low ebb at the time these consignments reached England, and that the bulk of the American tobacco in London was selling for about 5d. the pound, the valuations quoted above prove that the Indian leaf properly cured can run the American leaf very close. The 1878 crop grown at Pusa has only just been sent home. One hundred and sixty-five thousand pounds of leaf were cured at the two farms—viz., 80,000lb. at Ghazipur and 85,000lb. at Pusa, of which one half is being manufactured at Pusa and the other half has been cured and bulked and exported to England. The fate of this consignment will go far to decide future operations.—Indian Herald.

PUBLIC INSTRUCTION IN THE PUNJAB.—The report of the Director of Public Instruction, Punjab, says that university education is still unappreciated by the wealthy classes of that province, and that, therefore, it is, and must for the present continue to be, costly to the State. The subject of the education of poor European and Eurasian children is now receiving most careful consideration, and it is hoped that the very difficult problem connected with the education of these children—their employment in after life—will be once for all satisfactorily solved. The Allahabad middle vernacular school returns were very unsatisfactory, only fourteen candidates passing from the entire division; and a resolution by the local Government says that "failure like this is disgraceful." The Director of Public Instruction remarks that it is impossible to expect to get superior men as teachers in normal schools on salaries of from Rs.5 to Rs.12 per month, which is not very surprising, but the Government resolution states that the work of the teacher there is very light, while it is by no means uncongenial, and that in many cases he is only expected to impart the merest rudiments. The Principal of the Muir Central College, who draws attention to the great preponderance of subordinate posts held by those who are not natives of the province, is evidently not a friend of the Bengali. He says that "once it was almost inevitable that Bengal, where education spread earlier, should obtain many of these appointments from the simple lack of properly qualified persons in the North West. But this no longer holds. The result is that the work of the provinces is carried on by aliens in race and social customs, to the injury of the people and to the manifest detriment of the State, whenever, as in the late Cabul campaign, any emergency arises." He adds: "I believe I am stating only that which is notorious in affirming that the difficulties connected with the commissariat, which were neither few nor light, were greatly, if not wholly, owing to the desertion of Bengalis, who almost usurp that department."—Times of India.

AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENTS IN OUDH.—We learn from the Lahore paper that on April 5 an experiment of a somewhat novel and very interesting sort is to be tried at Lucknow under the direct encouragement and support of Sir George Couper. A meeting of native gentlemen is to be held for the discussion of schemes for the promotion of agricultural improvements in Oudh. First among the subjects for discussion comes the subject of irrigation by canals and wells, and the members will inquire how the system can be extended "by the action of the talukdars or of Government, or both." The second point named for discussion is the improvement of cattle breeds and the better supply of fodder. Next follow the topic of seeds, their selection and distribution; improved ploughs; and the extension of arboriculture. And lastly, it has been arranged that this parliament of farmers shall inaugurate itself by an agricultural exhibition.—Times of India.

THE AYURVEDA.—From a prospectus which has been extensively circulated we see that an attempt is about to be made in Calcutta to revive the ancient Aryan literature of India. The projectors say that they intend in the first instance to issue in monthly parts the various works comprising the Ayurveda—(viz., Charak, Artray, Susruta, Dhanavantari, Bahvasta, Kanada, Harita, &c.,) with annotations and a good Bengali translation. The projectors promise to commence the series as soon as five hundred subscribers are secured.—Bombay Gazette.

JEYPORE.—The Secretary of State has expressed to the Government of India his satisfaction with the report submitted to him on the progress of public works in the Jeypore States during 1878-79, as showing the enlightened interest taken by his Highness the Maharaja of Jeypore in the promotion of public works in his territory—a task in which he has been ably, zealously, and economically assisted by the local executive engineer, Major Jacob.—Press Commissioner.

THE BENGAL CIVIL FUND.—At a recent meeting of subscribers to the Bengal Civil Fund it was reported that the families of the late Messrs. F. Macnaghten, J. H. Bax-Ironside, W. H. Smith, Lord Lawrence, F. M. Lind, G. H. Damant, T. F. Harkness, and the posthumous daughter of the late Mr. Gore Ouseley had been admitted to the benefits of the fund.—Times of India.

LIEUT. JARRAD, R.N.—A Calcutta paper said the other day that Lieut Jarrad had not resigned his appointment in the Marine Survey. Perhaps he has not "resigned," but that he is severing his connection with the Government of India is clear from a notification which appears in the Gazette of India, namely, that his services are replaced at the disposal of the Admiralty.—Ibid.

RESIGNATION OF DR. SMITH.—Dr. D. B. Smith, principal of the Medical College Hospital, has felt himself compelled to resign his appointment. This (says the Indian Daily News) is a sufficient comment on the working of Sir Ashley Eden's reforms and upon his singular treatment of Dr. Smith in the resolution of Feb. 24 last.—Ibid.

MR. LALMOHUN GHOSE.—A public meeting was held at the Town hall, on the 4th ult for the purpose of giving Mr. Lalmohun Ghose a public reception on his arrival from England. There was a large attendance, among whom we observed two or three members of the British Indian Association, the leading members of the Indian Association, and the whole of the native bar.—Indian Daily News.

GENERAL DAOOD SHAH AS A HISTORIAN.—General Daood Shah, who is now in Lahore, has recovered from his illness. It is stated that the ex-commander means to write a history of Afghanistan in Persian, giving an account of the Anglo-Afghan wars, including the present, as also an account of his own journey to India. We hope the report is correct. If he would only throw some light on the events of last September, his history, in an English translation, would become the most popular book of the season, and there would be a rush on Daood Shah at Mudie's, such as had not

LOOT.—With reference to certain reports that the chiefs of the late Afghan coalition took away a large sum of money from the Bala Hissar and the city of Cabul, it has been ascertained by inquiry that the sum paid to them by the merchants and other residents of the city amounted to Rs.4,506 among the whole number. The above sum was paid in part payment of customs dues unpaid to the State, and receipts were duly given by the malc ntents to these merchants.—Times of India.

FAMINE IN CASHMERE.—We gather from an interesting letter, sent to us by a correspondent in Srinuggur, that there must be, at the very least, some twenty thousand persons who are in as imminent risk of starvation as they would have been had nothing been done to assist them and if no food existed in the country. So far as food supplies are concerned there is no famine in Cashmere. The whole territory between Jummoo and Srignuggur contains abundant stores, and, in fact, grain is procurable at much lower prices than prevail in the Punjab. The growing crops are believed to be in excellent condition, and in spite of, or rather because of, the generally heavy snowfall, a bumper rubbee crop is expected. The present question, however, is how are the starving twenty thousand in and about Srinuggur to keep soul and body together during the interval; what the amount of distress may be in the remoter parts of the State we have no means of ascertaining. The scale of diet ordered by the Maharaja for the relief of people in workhouses and elsewhere is most liberal, but somehow the doles vanish long before they reach their appointed destination In Srinuggur itself, the machinery for the distribution of relief is extremely defective; the relief houses, for instance, are not furnished each with its kitchen, but are supplied with cooked food from a central depot. What, in short, the country wants is not imported grain but imported capital, and the inauguaration of public works which might both serve the immediate purposes of poor relief and contribute to the future development of the country. For the present, the only persons in Cashmere whose efforts to relieve the distressed have been crowned with success are Dr. and Mrs. Downes and the Rev. Mr. Wade, who have had three thousand people regularly under their charge. The truly noble services which the two gentlemen and the lady we have named have thus rendered deserve the warmest acknowledgment on the part of the Cashmere and Indian Governments.—Civil and Military Gazette.

HILL RAILWAYS.—The Government of India have, with certain modifications, demi-officially approved of the conditions of concession which were agreed on between the Local Government and the promoters of the railway from Bareilly to Ranibagh. This scheme is for the construction of a metre gauge line from the point where the projected Government line from Bareilly to Pilibheet crosses the Bareilly and Ranibagh road (about two miles north of Bareilly) to Bamouri, a village about two miles south of Ranibagh, a total distance of about sixty-one miles. The line is to be modelled on the pattern of the State railways, and to be worked by similar engines and other rolling-stock. The two miles beyond Bamouri being more difficult and costly to make are not to be undertaken at present, and the connection with the Oudh and Rohilkund Railway station south of Bareilly is to be provided by the Bareilly and Pilibheet State Railway. From the point where the last-mentioned line crosses the road the Ranibagh line is to run along the existing route.—Pioneer.

THE STEAM BOILERS ACT.—Under the Act to provide for the periodical inspection of steam boilers and prime movers in the town and suburbs of Calcutta and Howrah, and all places in the district of Hooghly, Howrah, and the 24-Pergunnahs within a radius of thirty miles from Calcutta, the Lieutenant Governor has appointed a commission, of which the Commissioner of Police is to be president, and Mr. W. Duff Bruce, Mr. Bradford Leslie, and Mr. James Walker, members, to carry out the provisions of the Act. The inspector appointed under the Act is to be secretary to the commission, who are to have an office in some convenient part of the town.—Pioneer.

HIS Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General is pleased to confer the title of "Rai Bahadur," as a personal distinction, upon Baboo Lahman Das Hazarika.

THE KURAM VALLEY.—The climate of Kuram is certainly not an attractive one in the cold weather. The prevalence of cold, cutting winds render it peculiarly trying. Native troops suffer severely from pneumonia. The 13th Native Infantry lost between eighty and ninety men from this disease in six weeks; indeed, the regiment was rapidly becoming so decimated that it was ordered down to Chupree and has been relieved by the 20th Punjab Infantry. As far as climate is concerned, the Kuram Valley generally can hardly be called satisfactory. Pneumonia prevails in the cold weather and fever in the summer months. At Kuram itself this is hardly to be wondered at, for the ground is a cold, damp clay, and in part of the camp the water is so near the surface that if a drain is cut a foot deep it becomes a running stream. Transport animals suffered here too during the last snow-storm. Some sixty animals perished in one night, including an elephant.—Correspondent of Pioneer.

MADRAS.

MADRAS RAILWAY TRAFFIC.—From a return showing the fluctuation in the principal staples of goods traffic on the Madras Railway for the month of December last we learn there was an increase of 126 tons in cotton (loose), which was the result of increased exports from Bellary to Madras and from Raichoor to the Adoni cotton press, and from Salem and Erode to the Coimbatore cotton presses. Of cotton (full pressed) there was an increase of 375 tons, owing to increased exports from Cuddapah, Bellary, and Coimbatore to Madras, and from Adoni to Bombay. Of fruit and vegetables there was an increase of 110 tons, due to increased exports from the North Arcot, Salem, and Coimbatore district to Madras and Mysor and larger intra-district movements in Malabar. Of ghee there was an increase of 196 tons, due to increased exports from the Salem and Cuddapah districts to Madras and Bellary. Of grain there was an increase of 196 tons; Madras exported 28 tons more, but imported 780 tons less; North Arcot exported 110 tons more, but imported 280 tons less; Salem exported 750 tons more and imported 130 tons more; Coimbatore exported 600 tons less, but imported 300 tons more; Malabar exported 600 tons more and imported 1,400 tons more; South India exported 500 tons more, but imported 1,900 tons less; Mysor exported 1,250 tons less and imported 470 tons less; Cuddapah exported 420 tons more and imported 150 tons more; Bellary exported 2,500 tons more, but imported 450 tons less; and Great Indian Peninsula exported 200 tons less, but imported 3,300 tons more. Of indigo there was an increase of 107 tons, due to increased exports from the Cuddapah district to Madras. Of jaggery there was an increase of 529 tons, due to increased exports from Salem and Coimbatore to Madras and from Bellary to the Great Indian Peninsula, and increased re-exports from Madras to the North Arcot district and increased intra-district movements in Malabar. Of salt fish there was an increase of 158 tons, owing to increased exports from Beypoor, Tanur, and Tirur in the Malabar District to Madras and North Arcot District. Skins show an increase of 206 tons, owing to increased exports from Great Indian Peninsula and Northern Railways to Madras and Mysor. Tamarind shows an increase of 289 tons, due to increased exports from Vellore, Gudiyatam, and Mailpati, in the North Arcot District, and from Vaniyampadi in the Salam District to South Indian Railway and Madras. In cocoanuts there was a decrease of 190 tons, owing to decreased exports from the Malabar District and from South Indian Railway to North Arcot, Mysor, and Bellary. Dye or red wood shows a decrease of 591 tons, due to decreased exports from Tirupati in North Arcot District and from Marumudoor and Kodor in the Cuddapah District to Madras. Firewood shows a decrease of 301 tons, due to decreased exports from Puttor, Pudi, and Tirupati in the North Arcot District, and from Kodur in Cuddapah District to Madras, and from the Malabar to the Coimbatore Districts. Of luggage there was a decrease of 107 tons, owing to decreased movements from Madras, North Arcot, and Mysor. Timber shows a decrease of 490 tons, due to decreased exports from Palghat in the Malabar District to the North Arcot and Coimbatore Districts and South Indian Railway; but an increase in exports from Madras to Mysor, Bellary, and the Great Indian Peninsula.—Madras Times.

"THE MADRAS ADVERTISER."—This is the title of a paper published for the first time on Wednesday, the 25th Feb. It is well got up, and is issued by the "Lawrence Asylum Press." The proprietors of the paper explain that the Madras Advertiser has been established "with the view of securing to advertisers a more extensive and certain publicity than is afforded by any other available advertising medium—a gratis circulation by post of at least 2,000 copies per issue being guaranteed."—Ibid.

REMITTANCES TO THE BANK OF MADRAS FROM VILLAGES.—The question as to the advisability of discontinuing direct remittances to the bank from villages, and reviving taluk treasuries, is under the consideration of Government, who have communicated with the directors on the subject, and are awaiting their reply before finally disposing of the question.—Madras Times.

DUTY ON AMULSARA.—The question having been raised as to whether the description of brimstone known as "amulsara" should be passed free as a chemical product, or charged with duty as a drug or medicine, and also as to the head of the tariff under which "binmuskh" should be classified, the Government have decided that as "amulsara" brimstone is used exclusively as a drug it should be classed under "drugs and medicine," and charged with duty accordingly.—Ibid.

THE REVENUE.—Looking at the returns for our own presidency for the first six months of the present official year we find an increase of £29,917 in the income, and a decrease in expenditure, when compared with that in the previous year, of £152,199. It is rather remarkable that the Accountant General's office should have taken such a length of time to draw up and publish these accounts for the first half of the year. However, we must, we suppose, be satisfied with small mercies. Excise, assessed taxes, provincial rates, salt, law and justice, police, all showed an improvement, while the largest decrease in expenditure took place under the headings land revenue, salt, law and justice, police and famine relief.—Ibid.

THE HARBOUR WORKS.—The total expenditure on the works to Jan. 31, as shown in the office books, was Rs.35,61,100, but to these figures an addition of not less than Rs.15,000 must be made for cement received, but not brought to account, and of about Rs.16,000 for the sal-wood sleepers from the Forest Department. These amounts bring the liabilities up to about Rs.37,00,000.—Ibid.

THE NILGIRI COMMISSION.—The commission is abolished, and the commissioner becomes collector and magistrate of the district, with special charge of Kodanad, Todanad, and S.E. [illegible]. He is divested of all civil jurisdiction. The assistant commissioner will have his headquarters at Coonoor, and will be styled the head assistant collector and magistrate. His duties will be purely revenue and magisterial. The sub magistrate of Coonoor is relegated to Kotagherry. For civil work an uncovenanted sub judge will sit at Ootacamund, and be invested with the same jurisdiction as the assistant judicial commissioner and be a first-class magistrate. The treasury will be under a deputy collector, who will also be invested with the power of a magistrate, but will not be ordinarily so employed.—South of India Observer

LAND SETTLEMENT.—The settlement of the Conjeveram and the Madhurantakam taluks of the Chingleput District, with which the settlement of the whole of that district has been brought to a close, has been approved by the Secretary of State. Mr. Arundel has written what is described as an interesting report on the completion of the revenue settlement of the entire district. The introduction of the new rates was commenced in 1870, and has thus taken eight years. The cost of the survey and settlement has been Rs.12,53,241, and the increase of assessment Rs.52,964, or 4·3 per cent. on the outlay. The immediate advantage to Government is thus inconsiderable, but it is hoped that the benefit to the people will prove commensurate with the cost. The result of the settlement is an increase of 11·3 per cent. in area and of 3·9 per cent. in assessment. In wet cultivation the area shows an increase of 10·9 per cent., and the assessment of 6·8 per cent., whilst in dry lands the area is increased by 12 per cent. and the assessment reduced by 7·7 per cent.—Times of India.

DEATH OF CHENDRIAH.—A correspondent in Rampa-land sends the following account to the Madras Mail:—"It may interest some of your readers to hear the particulars of Chendriah's death. He had been a long time in the neighbourhood of Gurteru, where there was a detachment of the 5th Regiment, under Major Hands, who, though aware of his proximity, did not disturb him, as he was negotiating for his surrender, and probably knew, if he attempted to move out after him, Chendriah would have quietly walked off. Chendriah being thus left alone, and having nothing better to do, fell in love with the fair daughter of Gool Sing, Potail of Bemaram, and forthwith demanded her hand. To refuse was death, so the paternal consent was given. Now, though Chendriah was called Maharaja, he was not of high caste, besides which one of his wives was already in the gaol at Rajahmundry, and, as there was every probability of the second Mrs. Chendriah eventually taking up her abode in the same place, Gool Sing sets his wi s to work to find out how he could possibly creak off the match. There was but one way, and that was the death or capture of the lover. Gool Sing was a man of considerable influence, and a rebel himself; so, with a little pressure, he induced some of Chendriah's followers to look upon the matter in the same light as himself, amongst them being Kothapilly Ramadoo and Jumpa Pandiah, both rebels, and leaders of rebels. It was decided by the confederates that Chendriah should be led into an ambush to be killed, or captured by Major Hands and his detachment. Chendriah, like Samson, fell into the snare. I believe an invitation from the fair Bemaram was the bait. It was eagerly accepted; but, while proceeding to the rendezvous, Chendriah suddenly became suspicious, accused Kothapilly Ramadoo of treachery, and, in a moment, fired upon him and missed; Kothapilly returned the fire and wounded Chendriah in the arm, breaking it. Chendriah then retired to a tree, placed his back against it, loaded and fired twice, each time placing the muzzle of his gun on his toes, and, raising his foot to the desired level, fired, and was successful in wounding one man. In the meantime Jumpa Pandiah worked round the tree, and, unseen, got behind Chendriah, and, with a sharp billhook kind of affair, gave Chendriah a blow which laid his face open from the ear to the mouth. Chendriah turned upon his unexpected foe, but another cut severed his head from his body. Chendriah died pluckily, and, as he always said he would, fighting to the last."

CAPTAIN JOHN GORDON, 89th Foot, aide de camp to the Duke of Buckingham, is slowly recovering from a bad sunstroke which he sustained while shooting on the Travancore Hills.

THE Government of Madras have permitted Surgeon General George Smith, M.D., and Deputy Surgeon General John Robert Theobald to retire from the service, the former on a pension of £900 and the latter on £800.

THE Duke of Buckingham is to be asked to unveil the statue of Mr. E. B. Powell, C.S.I., late Director of Public Instruction in Madras.

MEYWAR.—In pursuance of certain arrangements for the better execution of the salt agreement between the British Government and the Meywar State, his Highness the Maharana of Oodeypore has consented to the abolition of transit duty within the Meywar State on all articles of commerce save and except the following, namely:—Opium, cotton, cloth, tobacco, jagree, timber, iron, mowha, ganja, silk cloth.—Pioneer.

THE HARBOUR WORKS.—The Government of India has decided to increase the allotment for the Madras Harbour Works, for 1880-81, from 7 to 12 lakhs. Both this addition of 5 lakhs and that of Rs.1,90,000 sanctioned for 1879-80 are assigned from ordinary imperial funds, on the understanding that interest will be paid upon these amounts as if they had been granted as part of the Productive Public Works allotment, and that the Government of Madras will undertake that there shall be no obstacle to the legislation required to secure for the Public Treasury interest upon the whole capital cost of the work as already agreed upon.—Madras Times.

BELLARY HOSPETT LINE.—The Madras Chamber of Commerce having again urged upon the Local Government the necessity of completing the Bellary Hospett line, and the directors of the Madras Railway having also consented to raise the necessary capital, we hear that the Government are of opinion that the completion of the section of railway between Bellary and Hospett is of very great importance to the Bellary District, as well as to the traffic of the Madras Railway. Looking to the fact that a large portion of the work has been executed, which will only deteriorate by the line being left in an incomplete state, the Government, we hear, are of opinion that it is desirable to accept the offer of the Madras Railway Board to raise the funds required for completing the line, unless the Government of India prefer to sanction its being completed as a State railway. We believe the Government of India has accordingly been addressed on the subject.—Madras Times.

PUNA WATER SUPPLY.—The Puna municipality are troubled with a difficulty analogous to that of the Bombay corporation in regard to the Malabar-hill reservoir. The filtering works, now in course of construction on Sunkersett-road, Puna, at an estimated cost of Rs.22,000, have been thoroughly examined, we are told, by engineers, who think that the work is not durable, and that it is not carried on according to the principles of engineering. They have requested the chairman, Mr. Plunkett, and the members of the managing committee to suspend the further execution of the work until they obtain the written opinion of Major Ducat, executive engineer, Puna and Kirkee, upon the style of construction of the filtering beds and settling tank, and as to whether the materials employed are of a superior quality.—Bombay Gazette.

THE DECCAN DACOITIES.—The dacoities of last year have again been brought into notice by the trial of Ismail Khan, the Rohilla jemadar, who promised to supply 1,500 highwaymen to Waradeo Ballwunt Phadhe. He has been sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment, while two accomplices got eighteen and twelve months respectively.—Times Telegram.

THE LOSS OF THE "VINGORLA."—Admiral Gore Jones, naval commander in chief, when presiding at a meeting at the Bombay Sailors' Home, stated that in his opinion the loss of this steamer was due to her not having an English shipwright carpenter on board. Such a man would probably have discovered and stopped the leak, or, at any rate, constructed a raft. He commented on the practice of carrying Chinese carpenters only, and said that the manning of steamers with lascar crews would some day lead to a great disaster.—Ibid.

THE BOMBAY SALT AND CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.—The report on the administration of the Salt and Continental Customs Department, Bombay, for 1878-79, has been recently laid before the Secretary of State. The total receipts under all heads rose from an average during the previous four years of about 109½ lakhs of rupees to over 155 lakhs, while charges decreased from an average of about eight and one-third per cent. to about five and a-quarter per cent. on revenue. In the department of salt revenue the gross receipts rose from an average of a little under 100 lakhs during the previous four years to over 144 lakhs. Of this large increase twenty-one lakhs net are due to the enhanced rate of duty in force during the year under report, and the remaining twenty-three lakhs chiefly to increased consumption, the removals on payment of full duty having risen from an average of about forty-five and three-quarter lakhs of Indian maunds to over fifty-five lakhs. Exports by sea to Calcutta and British Malabar appear to account for something under four lakhs of maunds of this increase, while inland consumption has risen by upwards of five lakhs. The whole of this increase of consumption has not occurred within the limits of the Bombay Presidency, as the use of Bombay salt, especially that from the works at Kharaghora, appears to be extending in the North West and Central Provinces. It seems clear, however, that the recent enhancement of the salt tax in Bombay has not stopped the increase in the consumption of salt, a result which is considered very satisfactory. The progress of the Government salt works at Kharaghora on the Runn of Kucht shows a marked improvement. The quantity of salt sold from these works increased in the year from nine and three-quarters to eleven lakhs of maunds. A part of the excess, some 29,000 maunds, was in local consumption; there was a considerable and very satisfactory rise in exports by railway to the Central Provinces, and by Brinjaras to Malwa and Rajputana, while over 25,000 maunds were for the first time consigned to the North Western Provinces. That it can profitably be sold at a distance by railway of 1,250 miles from the works testifies to the value and growing popularity of Baragara salt. The considerable increase which has taken place in salt smuggling is believed to be due to the stimulus to this offence given by the enhancement of duty.—Press Commissioner.

THE PERSIAN GULF RESIDENCY.—A change has recently taken place in the staff of the Persian Gulf Residency which has excited some comment. Mr. Edwards, the late second assistant, whose post was abolished from the 31st December, 1879, has retired from the residency, where he had served with credit for nearly thirty-six years. It is stated that Mr. Edwards's removal from the residency is matter for regret to all persons concerned, and especially to Col. Ross, who loses his able assistance.—Bombay Gazette.

ACCIDENT TO MAJOR FULTON.—We regret to hear, through the medium of a Puna paper, that Major Fulton, who recently left this station en route to Mehidpore in command of a detachment of H.M.'s 11th Regt. N.I., met with a serious accident on the road, through his horse rolling over with him, by which he sustained a severe injury to his right arm and shoulder, and is confined to his bed, being unable to move without assistance.—Bombay Gazette.

THE ANGLO-PORTUGESE TREATY.—The people at Pernem (Goa) are resisting the execution of the Salt and Abkari provisions of the new treaty. Fears are entertained of a popular rising, as the inhabitants of that province are little amenable to reason.—Bombay Gazette.

MR. J. S. WILLIAMS has been appointed consular agent for the United States at Aden.

AN APPEAL FROM KATTIAWAR.—The Secretary of State has declined to interfere in the matter of a memorial addressed to him by Nasib Khanji Daria Khanji, a talukdar of Kattiawar, in which he appealed against the orders of the Government of India regarding a boundary dispute.—Press Commissioner.

THE DECCAN RYOTS' RELIEF BILL.—The Deccan Ryots' Relief Act has been considered by the Secretary of State in Council, who, in reply to the Government of India's despatch on the subject, expresses his opinion that it fairly carries out the principles laid down in his despatch to the Government of Bombay, of Dec. 26, 1878, and therefore accords his assent to it. With regard to the subject-matter of Chapter VI. of the bill, Lord Cranbrook remarks that he considers that conciliation can only properly be carried out by a functionary familiar with legal procedure and having some authority. In France, where the system has met with success, the conciliator is the ordinary juge de paix sitting in his own court. His lordship further remarks that it is within the scope of Section 38 to nominate the local judge as far as practicable the conciliator in each case, and he presumes this course will be adopted by those entrusted with the carrying out of the provisions of the Act.—Press Commissioner.

WE are glad to hear that Mr. G. R. H. Hart, acting private secretary to Sir Richard Temple, has been appointed private secretary to the new Governor, Sir James Fergusson. Captain Dean Pitt, R.A., will attend Sir Richard to England, and possibly Dr. Waters will accompany his Excellency some of the way.—Times of India.

THE IRISH RELIEF FUND.—The Civil and Military Gazette reports a meeting which was held in the Frere Hall at Karachi to appoint a committee to co-operate with the Bombay committee in collecting funds towards the relief of the distress in Ireland. The Judicial Commissioner (Colonel Grant) presided, and a representative committee was appointed on the motion of the Rev. T. F. Dale, seconded by Mr. Pinhey, barrister at law. Mr. Dale was chosen as secretary, and Mr. J. Grant, agent to the Bank of Bombay, invited to act as treasurer.

HARBOUR BOARD FOR KARACHI.—By an order of the Governor of Bombay in Council a harbour board has been appointed for Karachi to be the intermediate authority to which the conservator of the port will be subordinate. The following local officials have been appointed ex officio members:—The collector, who will act as president, the collector of customs, the executive engineer, Lower and Central Sind, the master attendant, and the port engineer.—Times of India.

MR. G. W. VIDAL, C.S., and Mr. Norman Oliver, collector of salt revenue, have, says the Ultramar, been appointed members of the Mixed Commission under the Anglo-Portuguese Treaty.

THE ALLIANCE BANK.—Upon the application of Mr. Henry Stead, official liquidator, Thursday, April 22, has been fixed for the adjudication of the debts and claims of the Alliance Bank of Bombay (Limited).—Times of India.

GOA.—An order, dated 28th Feb., has been issued by the Governor General of Portuguese India strictly prohibiting the proprietors of the salt pans in Goa from manufacturing salt without the permission of the British agents.—Times of India.

CEYLON.

WE take the following items from the Ceylon Times of March 2:—

THE GRAIN HARVEST.—Until recently fears were entertained for the success of the grain harvest on the east coast, and at one time it seemed doubtful whether the plentiful loans of seed-paddy made by Government to the cultivators would be recovered. These apprehensions, we are glad to learn, have been set at rest by the late rains, which have been abundant and general along the eastern and western provinces. There is now every promise of a fruitful yield; the rain came just in time and lasted sufficiently long to ensure a good supply of water for all cultivated fields.

WEATHER AND CROPS.—The weather, though very unsettled, has on the whole been favourable to the show of blossoms in the chief coffee districts, especially those to the south of Kandy. A second blossom of moderate extent has appeared, and, in the generality of cases, has set well. In some of the higher districts, however, it is thought there has been too much rain, and that a fortnight of bright hot sunny days is now much desired in order to secure a successful blossom.

THE "GAZETTE."—The last Gazette notifies the appointment of R. H. Sinclair, Esq., as assistant at Vavuniya-Vilankulam to the Government agent of the Northern Province, district judge, commissioner of requests, police magistrate, and coroner for the district of Vavuniya-Vilankulam, and superintendent of the Vavuniya-Vilankulam prison, in addition to his own duties as assistant Government agent &c., Mullaittivu. Also that his Excellency the Governor has been pleased to recognise David Todd, Esq., provisionally, pending the arrival of his exequatur, as consular agent at Jaffna and throughout the Peninsula of Jaffna for the United States of America, and to appoint him a justice of the peace for the island.

COLLISION IN THE RED SEA.—We learn that a fatal case of collision has occurred in the Red Sea. It appears that the steamship Kulica, 1,578 tons and 170 horse-power, came into collision with the steamer Eden, and was so badly injured as to cause her total loss.

DEPARTURES.—The Messageries steamer Sindh will leave Colombo for Marseilles at noon to-day. She will take as passengers Sir C. Wolseley, Mr. W. Walker of Kandy, and Mr. Ainow.

ACCIDENT TO A MAIL STEAMER.—Lloyd's agent at Aden telegraphs, under date of March 25:—"The British India Steam Navigation Company's steamer Abyssinia, which left here (Aden) at 3.0 p.m., March 24, for Zanzibar, put back to Aden at 1.0 p.m. (25th), with cargo in her main hold on fire, and was scuttled in 18 feet of water."

INDIAN REPRESENTATION.

No one could charge the claims for some sort of representation put forward recently by Sir David Wedderburn on behalf of the Indian population with exaggeration. The moderate desire that the several communities or nationalities which make up that Indian faggot which the bond of British rule alone holds together should somehow or another have more voice in their common weal is admitted by everyone to be legitimate. It by no means follows that there is at present no representation, nor that the growing youth of India has yet attained quite to the maturity which is required even for universal suffrage. The sense of the impracticability of the proposal seems to haunt all those who make it. It is hardly yet more than a wish; the thought must be the next generation; the practical development may be even postponed for the next but one. In the meantime it is reason for congratulation for all earnest thinkers and workers for the well-being and progress of India that her needs are more and more considered in the great Council of the Empire. To Parliament must come, in any case, the ultimate appeal, as the vexed questions of Indian law courts are referred to the Privy Council. Our Indian fellow-subjects would unquestionably, if a minority were defeated in the Indian Legislative Council, come to Westminster for reversal, if possible, of the unwelcome decision. It is in the House of Commons and House of Lords we must find true representatives of India, no matter what members of the local or the Legislative Councils may be deputed by their countrymen. The idea of such deputies being commissioned to come to England and take their seats at Westminster, however it may have flitted across the brain of young Bengali barristers, has been formally repudiated. Everyone who thinks on the subject knows that under any Government there may be found men on both sides of either House to take up the cause even of an individual Raja who deems himself wronged. It needs not the presence of a member of any subordinate nationality, or even an inferior class, to ensure due and earnest representations of their interests being made in Parliament. If apparently neglected in the bureaux of the Government offices they will receive a hearing there. The officials will be called on to give full explanation; the Press will submit the case to the great external tribunal of the public. Our readers must have remarked for themselves the increasing frequency of questions on Indian topics; of debates on Indian interests. This, of course, has been partly due to the great and predominating questions connected with our North Western frontier and the policy of the Government with regard to the provision of security for India It may be alleged that a fictitious interest has been provided, rather partisan than Indian, and that it would have served the purpose of many speakers just as well if they could have, to use the Scotch phrase, "heckled" their opponents about the welfare of Timbuctoo. The truth of this, though it cannot be gainsaid, and though it has been abundantly illustrated by the excellent ignorance displayed, goes strongly to strengthen the position that India must be practically represented in Parliament. In the Upper House men who have won their coronets by service in the defence or the rule of the great dependency, or who represent hereditary service and ancestral glory, may well be expected sometimes to disregard the claims of party, and give earnest heed to the substantive interests of India. In the Lower House, not only the official members, but others whose experience or whose chosen study have given them especial qualifications, may be expected to give the House the benefit of their knowledge. It must be confessed that the expectation is sometimes disappointed, sometimes so fulfilled as to create a loathing. The complaint is often made that the House of Commons will not listen to speakers on Indian subjects. We take one reason partly to be that there is a sufficient amount of confidence reposed in the Indian administration. It is felt that the knowledge and experience of those administrators who, either on furlough or functi officio, are accessible for consultation has been availed of if needs be. Thus the legislation for India does not in its ordinary progress need to be largely debated. The past two sessions have indeed witnessed startling exceptions to this, and have vindicated both the Houses from any accusation of neglect of Indian topics. It must also be owned that the representatives of India in the House of Commons are not unfrequently to blame for the blankness of the benches when questions of Indian government are discussed. Standing as we do betwixt the ebb and the flow, or just as the flood tide is beginning to make which will bring in new men and perhaps new measures, we will not review the past. It will be within our power to scrutinise the gentlemen who, under whatever leader they rally, can, in right of their experience or their choice, be accounted as members for India. We shall be much disappointed if there be not amongst them one who, if it is possible to forecast a success in the House of Commons, will prove in the highest sense a representative of India. We give elsewhere the valedictory regrets with which Bombay attended the departure of her able and popular governor. Our contemporaries will chronicle the welcome home that East Worcestershire will give to her distinguished countryman, and we hope her future member. In the clash of parties and the conflict of opinions, to hope for the return of a particular candidate is apparently to desire to reckon a vote gained or lost. It is not, however, only because Sir Richard Temple has avowed himself a thorough supporter of the policy which has been denounced or opposed by so many Indian statesmen that we look for his success. This in itself would be a gain however the balance incline. It will be an advantage to have the truth told to the British nation as to the real frontier interest and the actual dangers of India by one who knows them so well. The statesman who, twenty-four years ago, so thoroughly described the frontier tribes, and so ably advocated the policy of strong measures in dealing with them, and who has but just returned from his energetic prosecution of the railway to Kandahar, may be expected to bring to the Council of the Empire all that may be of knowledge and experience on the Afghan question. His active exertions, as Governor of Bombay, to secure success to the plans of the Government will have well fitted him to defend the wisdom and prove the necessity of those plans in the House of Commons. But it is not only as a defender of the forward policy, but as an all-round representative of India, that we welcome the prospect of Sir Richard Temple's return. One whose name would be a warrant for his words declared him to be the foremost Indian administrator, primus inter pares. His career, marked to this hour by the zeal for knowledge that was nurtured in the library, the bodily activity that was so conspicuous in the close at Rugby, has brought him into intimate acquaintance with every part of India. In the words of a speaker at Karachi, "whether in earlier days in the Punjab, or in later times in the Central Provinces, at the Court of the Nizam, at the council board of his Excellency the Viceroy, whether battling with famine in the Deccan, or ruling over the millions of Bengal, that career has always been distinguished." It is certain that few men have managed to accomplish so much thorough work, both mental and bodily, and it is eminently characteristic of him that he should, without stay or rest, hurry home to the "change of air of a general election, and retire upon the toil and harassment of a member of the British House of Commons." He has in his time been perhaps the most abused man in India, and, considering the power of abuse manifested by our Indian contemporaries, that is saying a good deal. But he has ever earned the character of being earnest and sincere in his desires and plans for the well-being of India. To him it has always seemed that "the British Government, has under Providence, a noble mission to fulfil and a purpose of regeneration to accomplish." The words we quote elsewhere show how he has regarded the interests of the native population of all classes; his declarations and his active measures have attested his desire for the commercial prosperity of India, while his own career has identified him with the interests and needs of the services. There is a complaint often made that our Anglo-Indian officers no longer identify themselves with India, but seek to hasten home as soon as they can. And this is alleged as a grievance to India and a detriment to the growth of sympathy between the Europeans and the natives. The returning Anglo-Indian that we welcome to-day will, in his native country, knit more closely the bonds of imperial union and reciprocity. Greeted on his departure with the praise not only of being the ablest Governor, but also the most popular man in India, he has before him, we hope, a long career of usefulness as a representative of India, and, in the words of Sir M. Westropp, we would simply add one observation, and it is this, "that no man could enter Parliament, be he European or be he Asiatic, who has seen so much of India with his own eyes as Sir Richard Temple, or who knows it more thoroughly."

GENERAL ROBERTS'S DESPATCHES.

A RECENT Gazette of India contains the long-looked-for despatches describing the operations of the forces under the command of Lieut. General Sir F. S. Roberts, K.C.B., C.I.E., V.C., at Cabul and its vicinity, from Dec. 8 to 24 last. In acknowledging the receipt of the despatches and letter from the Adjutant General in India, Col. Allen Johnson, military secretary, writes:—"I am to state that the Right Honourable the Governor General in Council unreservedly shares the appreciation expressed by his Excellency the Commander in Chief of the high ability, firmness, insight, and judgment displayed by Lieut. General Sir Frederick Roberts throughout the events recorded in his admirable report, and also of the brilliant conduct of the officers and men under his command, to whose soldier-like instinct, intelligence, and courage on the most critical occasions the success of the result was largely due. The Governor General in Council desires also to add to those of his Excellency his grateful acknowledgments of the great humanity which, from first to last, has marked the conduct of Lieut. General Sir Frederick Roberts in the exercise of his arduous command, and also to express the deep sense entertained by the Government of India of the irreparable loss sustained by the Queen and the whole Empire in the death of the brave men who have so nobly perished in the course of these operations." In forwarding to the Military Secretary a copy of a letter which had been sent to Sir F. Roberts, recording the Commander in Chief's sentiments in regard to the manner in which the operations had been conducted, the Adjutant General said Sir Frederick Haines trusted that the Government of India would concur in the views he had expressed.

We extract the following from the letter referred to:—"His Excellency deplores, in common with the whole service, the loss of so many gallant officers and men, British and native, among whom the following appear to have been most prominent—Major J. Cook, V.C., 5th Gorkhas; Captain N. J. Spens, 72nd Highlanders; Captain S. G. Butson, 9th Lancers; Lieut. St. John W. Forbes, 92nd Highlanders; Lieut. C. A. Montanaro, R.A., Jemadar Jag Bahadur, Corps of Guides; Jemadar Jhunda Sing, 5th Punjab Cavalry; Troop Sergeant Major Henry Spittle, 9th Lancers; Colour Sergeant James Drummond, 92nd Highlanders; Colour Sergeant John Yule, 72nd Highlanders; Kote-Duffadar Jiwant Sing, 5th Punjab Cavalry; and Havildar Sham Sing, 5th Punjab Infantry. The deeds of such men remain for ever in the memory of the army, which, while deeply mourning their loss, dwells with pride on the noble example of devotion they have set. Turning from the consideration of these gallant acts, I am to express to you the pain with which his Excellency feels it to be his duty to refer to the affair of Dec. 11, when so many casualties occurred in the endeavour to extricate the guns of F-A., R.H.A., which had eventually to be spiked and left for a time in the hands of the enemy. It is perfectly clear that, in obedience to your orders, Brigadier General Massy, who commanded on this occasion, should have moved along the road towards Ghuzni and not struck across country, as it must have been evident that the guns should have been kept to the road as long as practicable, and he should not have become engaged with the enemy until he had joined with Brigadier General Macpherson. His conduct in commencing an engagement with the small force under his command, composed only of cavalry and guns, without any infantry in support, against an enemy so numerous and determined as he reports him to have been, on ground such as that described, is, to his Excellency's mind, quite incomprehensible. Brigadier General Massy's subsequent operations in continually advancing arms of precision and long range, such as the guns of the present day are, and thus losing their fire for the time, and in afterwards dismounting thirty lancers with carbines to stop the advance of 10,000 men, show him to have been quite unable to cope with the difficulties of the position to which he had committed himself."

HOME NEWS.

INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—The announcement for the next meeting is Tuesday, April 6, at 8 p.m., discussion on "Explosive Agents applied to Industrial Purposes;" and monthly ballot for members.

THE Shipping Gazette publishes a notification on the part of the Indian Government that, on and after August 1 next, the adoption of the automatic system of ventilation will be rendered compulsory in coolie ships. So far back as June, 1878, the Indian Government accepted this invention for the coolie trade, but, at the instance of some of the contractors, the order was suspended pending the result of further tests and inquiries.

NATIONAL INDIAN ASSOCIATION.—Indian gentlemen residing in London and English ladies and gentlemen interested in the condition of India were invited by the committee of the National Indian Association, on March 24, to discuss the following questions:—1. "What are the causes which lead the educated class of Indians to prefer Government service to commercial and industrial enterprise?" 2. "What means can be suggested for bringing about a different state of things?" The conference was held at 1, Adam-street, Strand, and was presided over by Mr. Hodgson Pratt, who opened the subject. Referring to the prejudice existing against manual labour, he believed that the too exclusively literary character of the education afforded in the Government schools and colleges of India tended to maintain that prejudice. He pointed to the example afforded in the countries of continental Europe, where great efforts were made to provide, alike in schools and colleges, instruction in science and art, so that skilled artisans, foremen, engineers, chemists, and architects might have the best possible training; mentioning particularly the trade schools and polytechnic institutions of Germany and Switzerland. Mr. Pratt then referred to the great economic evil which resulted from the need of industries in India, which should absorb the excess of population depending at present entirely on agricultural occupations. He also referred to the fact that there was so little capital invested by the wealthier classes of India in new forms of industrial enterprise, and suggested that perhaps this arose from the fact that wealthy natives were not, as a rule, in the habit of sending their sons to college. Plans for dealing with this condition of things were indicated for the consideration of the meeting. A long and animated discussion followed, in which Mirza Peer Buksch, Mr. P. N. Bose, Mr. Abul Hassan Khan, and several other native gentlemen took part; also Mr. David Duncan, principal of the Presidency College, Madras; Mr. Frederick Pincott, Q.C. It was urged by Mr. D. Davar that educated Indians do not prefer Government service, but that from the habit of early marriage, and especially owing to want of capital, they take to it as the only means of subsistence easily available. Mr. E. J. Khozy spoke of the climate as antagonistic to energy, and showed that there are various inducements connected with Government employ which tend to make it sought after. Other speakers referred to English competition, the discouragement on the part of Government of native enterprise, and the hindrances caused by caste. Though all agreed that the want of capital is a very great obstacle, Mr. Syud Abdur Rahman and others called attention to the fact that large sums of money are often spent in India on shows and extravagence, and that, with a spirit of enterprise, something might be attempted, and also that a good deal had already been done. The purely literary education which till lately was exclusively afforded at the colleges, and the importance of more technical schools, were points much dwelt on. Mr. Duncan stated that at Madras many facilities now exist for agricultural and other industrial training, but he considered that the help of educated natives was essential to the Government, and that it was natural that graduates of the university should go to the best market for their services. Mr. Pincott urged that money may be made with a very little capital to start with, and Mr. Hodgson Pratt, in closing the discussion, again called attention to the small commencements of many successful co-operative and other enterprises.

A TRIAL which recently took place at the Guildhall before Mr. Justice Field and a special jury, the plaintiffs being the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty and the Secretary of State for India, and the defendants Mr. James Dunn, assistant constructor and chief draughtsman in the department of the controller of the Navy, and others, for damages for alleged fraud in negotiating and procuring a Government contract for a steamship for Indian telegraphic purposes, terminated in a verdict for the defendants.

HORSE GUARDS, WAR-OFFICE, MARCH 22.—MEMORANDUM.—His Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief has been pleased to appoint Lieutenant General Edmund Augustus Whitmore, C.B., to be his military secretary from April 1, 1880, in succession to General Sir Alfred Hastings Horsford, G.C.B., colonel of the 14th Foot, whose period of service in that appointment has expired.—C. H. ELLICE, Adjutant General.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A RETIRED ARMY CHAPLAIN.—While the Rev. J. M. Thomson, the pastor at Burntisland parish church, who was only inducted ten days ago, was preaching on Sunday, he suddenly fell back in the pulpit in a fainting condition, and died soon afterwards. Mr. Thomson was for twenty years chaplain in the army at Calcutta.—Globe.

THE GATLING GUN.—That useful weapon in certain circumstances of modern warfare, the Gatling gun, has of late undergone several modifications in detail at the hands of its inventor, Dr. Gatling, who has recently had it on view at the offices of Sir William Armstrong and Co., in Great George-street, Westminster. In the old pattern gun the cartridges were supplied from a large drum which was placed end upwards over the gun, the cartridges being delivered somewhat to the side of the weapon, and therefore out of line with its axis. The firing handle was placed at the other side, and the barrels and working parts were more or less exposed. All this has now been altered, and the modified gun presents several new features. In the ten-barrelled weapon we recently had the opportunity of examining, the barrels and the working parts are enclosed in a gun-metal casing, 27in. in length and 6½in. mean outside diameter. Each barrel is 18in. in length, the outside appearance of the gun being that of a howitzer. The crank handle is now placed at the rear, instead of at the side, and by a rearrangement of the firing mechanism the speed of the revolution of the gun and the rapidity of its fire has been greatly increased, so that it is claimed for it that it fires 1,000 per minute, the ordinary rate of rapid firing being 750 rounds per minute. That it is well able to fire this larger number appears probable from the rapidity with which it was manipulated with dummy cartridges on the occasion of our inspection. The feeding is now effected from magazines or long cases, each capable of containing forty cartridges. The case is placed vertically over the centre of the lock chamber of the gun and the cartridges fall into the receivers. As soon as one case is emptied another takes its place, there being two attendants required, one for this work and the other to turn the handle. The barrels and locks revolve together, but in addition to this action the locks have a forward and backward motion. This is effected by means of a cam-poth, up which each lock travels and pushes the cartridge home. It then fires it, and returns down this path, ejecting the cartridge case from the side of the gun as it returns. The gun can be fired only when the barrels are in motion from left to right; and so long as the crank handle is revolved and the gun fed with cartridges the the several operations of loading, firing, and extracting are carried on automatically, uniformly, and continuously. Should the crank handle be turned in a reverse direction no harm results to the gun, as the exterior form of the receivers admits of reversing the motion without danger of jamming the cases. The traversing arrangement has also been simplified, and lateral play can be given to the storm of bullets that can be delivered uniformely with the firing of the piece. It will thus be seen that the gun has been greatly modified and improved, and reports from America show it to be capable of some very remarkable performances, both as regards rapidity and accuracy of fire. Dr. Gatling has made one of these guns for our own Government which will fire the Boxer cartridge, although he greatly prefers the more solidly-made cartridges of the American pattern.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.—At the competitive examination held at Burlington House on Feb. 9 and following days, for H.M. Indian Medical Service, the following were among the successful candidates:—Mr. C. C. Vaid, Mr. D. Burjorji Spencer, Mr. F. R. Divecha and Mr. R. H. Cama, all of Bombay. Fifty-two candidates competed for twenty-three appointments. Arrivals.—Mr. M. D. Dadysett, from Bombay, for the study of law. Mr. M. Banerjee and Mr. Sandyal, for medical study.

CREDIT FONCIER OF MAURITIUS.—The sixteenth ordinary general meeting was held at the City Terminus Hotel on Thursday, March 25; Sir J. P. Grant in the chair. The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, regretted that the dividend was no larger; but it would not have been prudent or safe to declare a larger one. In the first half of the year there had been no new business, and although in the second half there had been considerable and profitable business, they had, of course, only half a year's profit to carry to account. With regard to exchanges, which had run up from 12 per cent. to 20 per cent. in the last year, this last rate was the highest ever known; and he was glad to say that there were signs of its return to a more reasonable rate, as it had this year already come down to 17½ per cent. They had, therefore, every prospect of its return to a more reasonable amount, but everything depended upon the position of the silver question. Mr. E. H. Lushington seconded the motion, which, after some explanations, was agreed to unanimously; and the dividend was announced to be paid on the 27th inst. Mr. George Clerihew, M.D., and Sir John Peter Grant, retiring directors; and Messrs. Turquand, Youngs, and Co., auditors, were re-elected, and a vote of thanks to the chairman and directors, and also to the Mauritius board, terminated the proceedings.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—Tenders were received yesterday at the Bank of England for Rs.45,00,000 in Government bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs.37,28,000, and to Bombay, Rs.7,72,000. Tenders on both Presidencies at 1s. 8d. will receive about 6½ per cent.; above that price in full. Compared with last week this price shows no change.

THE ORIENTAL BANK.—The directors of the Oriental Bank Corporation announce a dividend of 2 per cent. for the half-year, making, with the dividend previously paid, 4 per cent. for the year ending the 31st of December last.

CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA, &C.—At the meeting of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China on the 21st of April, the directors will recommend that a dividend be declared at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, free of income-tax (being the same as last half-year), that £5,000 be added to the officers' superannuation fund, and £40,000 to reserve fund, making the latter £190,000.

OUR SOLDIERS IN AFGHANISTAN.—Captain Gildea records the result of his appeal to the editor of the Standard, as follows. He says:—"About four months since you allowed me to make an appeal for newspapers, books, &c., for our soldiers in Afghanistan. I now wish to state that the object undertaken could not possibly have been carried out except for the ready response made to my appeal by the Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company, who undertook to send all packages delivered to them free to Bombay; by the authorities at the India office, who offered every facility, and who arranged to have packages forwarded from Bombay to their several destinations; and by Messrs. Hayter and Hayter, of Queen Victoria-street, whose charges for packing and delivering at the docks were limited to the bare expenses of men's time and material. In all, forty-eight bales have been sent out—sixteen to Cabul, sixteen to Kandahar, eight to Kohat, and eight to Jellalabad, containing together—7,741 illustrated and comic papers, 8,448 newspapers, books, and periodicals, 8,864 testaments and tracts. The sums received towards expenses of packing amounted to £23 13s. 2d.; the amount paid for this and forwarding the bales to be packed (after being sorted and weighed here) to £18 6s. 4d., leaving a balance of £5 6s. 10d., which I propose handing over to the fund now being raised for the much-needed infirmary for 'The Soldiers' Daughters' Home, at Hampstead,' where an epidemic of scarlet fever has recently laid low thirty-eight of our soldiers' children."

CASUALTIES.

A telegram received from the British India Steam Navigation Company states that the Chinsura (s), which was ashore at False Point, near Calcutta, has got off.

Information received at Lloyd's from Malta leaves little doubt that the steamer Rathmore, which left Cardiff on Jan. 3, for Bombay, has been lost with all her crew. Two life-buoys marked "S.S. Rathmore, Liverpool," were picked up off the coast of Malta on Feb. 8 and 25 respectively. At the same place several pieces of timber, hatches apparently belonging to a steamer, and four casks of grease, have also been washed ashore. The Rathmore was owned in Liverpool. She was an iron screw of over 2,000 tons gross, and Sunderland built. Her cargo consisted of coal, which was insured in London. Insurances on the vessel have been effected in London, Liverpool, and Glasgow.

The Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Hydaspes, which left London on Feb. 18, for King George's Sound, Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney, arrived at Bombay, March 18, with loss of two blades of propeller; the mails were transferred to the Assam, which was to leave on the 19th.

THE RAILWAY CONFERENCE.

THE minutes of the proceedings at the conference of railway officials from all parts of India, which sat at Calcutta in the early part of January, have been published. One object of the conference was to revise the code of rules and regulations for Indian railways, for which work, after the general principles had been settled by the conference, a sub committee of ten was appointed, composed as follows:—Two representatives of the East Indian Railways, two of the State Railways, and one of each of the following lines:—Great Indian Peninsula; Bombay, Baroda, and Central Indian; Madras; Sind, Punjab, and Delhi; Oudh and Rohilkund; and Southern India. The names of the members of the sub committee are:—Mr. Molesworth, chairman, Messrs. Carter, Campbell, Hartwell, Ross, Conder, Trevithick, Betts, Prestage, and Rendell. One of the principal resolutions passed by the conference was the following, proposed by Mr. Campbell:—"Proposals having been put forward for the introduction of continuous brakes, it is recommended that one system be adopted on all Indian railways, in order that vehicles belonging to the different railways may be so fitted as to be easily interchangeable, thus avoiding the very great inconvenience, insecurity, and expense at present found to be the case on English railways through so many different kinds of continuous brakes being in use on lines running in connection with one another." A proposal by Colonel Medley, seconded by Mr. Saunders, "That in the opinion of this meeting the time has arrived for the establishment of a Railway Clearing House in some central position (such as Jubbulpore) for the whole system of Indian railways, on the basis of the English Clearing House, and that the Government be asked to undertake the subject accordingly," was negatived. The following was recorded in the minutes:—"The undersigned members of the conference, before separating, desire to submit to Government, and to the home boards of the guaranteed companies, the claims of the members of the railway staff in India to such privileges as regards pensions and retirement allowances as Government has allowed to the members of every other branch of the public service in this country." Mr. Conder brought up the rules lately promulgated for the formation of State railway savings banks, and inquired whether the Government of India would withdraw, in the case of the servants of guaranteed railway companies, the restriction of deposits to a maximum of Rs.5,000 in one year, and also whether Government were disposed to listen favourably to any proposals for the extension of these rules to guaranteed companies. The President, in reply, stated that there would probably, on application, be no objection to cancel the maximum annual limit for deposits, and that the Government of India would be inclined to regard with favour any suggestions for the extension of the State railway savings banks rule to guaranteed companies, but that no pledge could be given, as the question would have to be referred for the orders of the Secretary of State. "The cost of pensions and retirement allowances would, in part, fall on the railway shareholders, and the undersigned are confident that the railway companies would willingly contribute their share on any scale adopted and recommended by Government. The members of the Indian railway staff, whose services Government has frequently in formal resolutions acknowledged, have now, during several years, been looking forward to a settlement of the claims which they have submitted; and, after the meeting of this conference held a year ago, it was hoped that suitable regulations would have been established. Looking to the progressive increase of the revenue from Indian railways and the further growth of that revenue, which may with confidence be anticipated, it is submitted that the provision of pension and retirement allowances for the members of the staff may be made—without disturbing the financial budget of the department—with real advantage to the public service and to the railway companies, as well as to the members of the working establishment. The undersigned, with the conviction that the measure, whilst being only fair to the members of a service which has most arduous duties to perform, would also, by offering an inducement to continuance service, and by facilitating retirement in due time, conduce to efficient and economical working of undertakings which now become of great magnitude, beg most respectfully to submit the subject for the consideration of Government.—A. M. SAUNDERS, Agent and Manager, Madras Railway; W. S. BETTS, Agent, South Indian Railway; F. MATHEW, Agent and Chief Engineer, Bombay, Baroda, and Central Indian Railway; F. PRESTAGE, Agent, Eastern Bengal Railway; J BRANDER, Traffic Superintendent, Eastern Bengal Railway; F. H. TREVITHICK, Locomotive Superintendent, Madras Railway; J. G. COOKE, Locomotive and Carriage Superintendent Oudh and Rohilkund Railway; C. SANDIFORD, Locomotive and Carriage Superintendent, Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway; T COX, Acting Chief Engineer, Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway; D. ROSS, Traffic Manager, Sind, Punjab, and Dehli Railway."

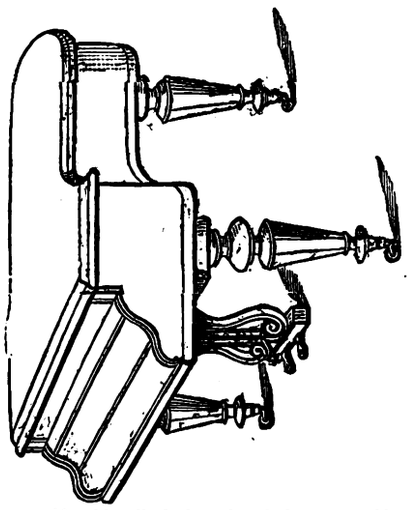
KIRKMAN AND SON,

ESTABLISHED NEARLY 150 YEARS.



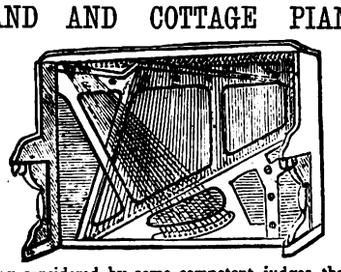
3 and 9, SOHO-SQUARE, LONDON, W.

KIRKMAN AND SON'S

PATENT STEEL FRAME

SHORT GRAND PIANOS,

SIX FEET LONG, IN ELEGANT ROSEWOOD OR WALNUT CASES,



Are considered by all who have heard them to combine a greater amount and resonance of tone, consistent with adaptability of size, shape, and elegance of appearance than those of any other manufacturer.

KIRKMAN AND SON'S

OVERSTRUNG

GRAND AND COTTAGE PIANOS.

Is being considered by some competent judges that the German method of over or cross-stringing Pianos is attended with great advantage, Messrs. Kirkman and Son are now manufacturing both Grand and Cottage Pianos on this principle, the latter having the plain Sticker Action, which is not the case with Pianos of this class manufactured by other makers; in fact, the extreme simplicity of the action used by Messrs. Kirkman and Son in all their Pianos render them eminently suitable for exportation to the Colonies, where skilled workmen are few and far between All useless checks and complications are carefully avoided, thus enabling any tuner, with however superficial a knowledge of the business, to regulate them or repair any damage they may sustain.

KIRKMAN AND SON

Have a reputation extending over nearly a Century and a-Half.

There are now in the possession of the house Harpsichords and Virginals dated 1758 and 1778, manufactured by Jacobus and Abraham Kirckman.

The present members of the firm beg to call the attention of shipppers and exporters to the fact that in ordering of this house they are dealing with a firm who manufacture on principles derived from experience of this almost unprecedented length.

KIRKMAN AND SON

Have at present a Fine Selection at their Extensive Show Rooms in Soho-square.

KIRKMAN AND SON,

Manufactory: BRADMORE, HAMMERSMITH, W.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCING
PYRETIC SALINE.

USE NO SUBSTITUTE.—See perpetual injunction against imitators; also the unanimous judgment before the Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, Jan. 22, 1878, in H. Lamplough's favour.

Important to all, more especially English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in Tropical and Foreign Climates

Her Majesty's Representative the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a letter of request for an additional supply of PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of great value, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a tumbler of cold water. This can be repeated once or twice in two hours, if needful.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sea or bilious sickness.

For BILIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated secretions, Indigestion, and Eruptions on the Skin, a teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed. May be obtained of the Proprietor,

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, APRIL 8, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, March 20; Madras and Allahabad, March 18; Calcutta, March 17.

THE telegraphic news from Afghanistan is chiefly a contradiction of the death of Mahomed Jan, and an announcement of the opening of negotiations with the Ghazni malcontents, who are expected to come to Cabul with the Mustaufi. The Bengal Division is on the march for Ghazni, and General Primrose has taken command, by telegram, of the Bombay troops in Southern Afghanistan. General Phayre commands in Kandahar. The Khugianis have paid Rs.5,000 for their share in the attack on Fort Battye. The Khyber line is said to be threatened by other attacks. A party of the enemy which threatened Jagdalak Kotal on the 2nd inst. were dispersed. Other items are as follow:—

"Colonel Newdigate, of the Rifle Brigade, has been appointed to the command of a brigade in Kuram. From the same quarter comes the news that a fire has occurred in the stables of the 13th Bengal Cavalry. Fifteen horses were burnt to death and fifty were injured, while a large quantity of arms and accoutrements were destroyed. It seems certain that the fire was accidental.

"General Ross has assumed command of the 2nd Division at Cabul, around which place 12,000 excellent troops are now assembled. A brigade will probably proceed shortly into Logar, both to collect the revenue and to show the Afghans that General Roberts does not remain within his defences from any fear of them"

From Kandahar it is reported that the troops of the Sirdar, now the Wali, have defeated the Zemindauri rebels, and that in Herat Ayoub has proclaimed a jehad against the English.

The Times correspondent telegraphs from Kandahar that Col. St. John has brought a letter from the Viceroy to the Sirdar Shere Ali, informing him that her Majesty has been pleased to confer on him the sovereignty of the province of Kandahar, the limits of which are to be fixed hereafter, with the title of Wali. He is also informed of the construction of the railway to Kandahar, where a British force and a political agent are to be permanently stationed.

THE Standard correspondent with General Stewart's column sends the following from Juldak:—

"The advance continues without interruption from the enemy, although shots are occasionally fired at us by fanatics in the hills. A shot came into camp to-day and mortally wounded one of the native camp followers. The troops are in high spirits at their advance, after months of inaction, and we hope to have a chance of fighting. The weather is extremely hot during the day, but bitterly cold at night. The great changes in temperature every twenty-four hours try the men much, and there is a good deal of sickness, but few cases of a serious character. Hughes's Brigade is in heliographic communication with Khelat-i-Ghilzai, also with Barter's Brigade at Argesan. There are no signs of opposition on the part of the tribes in this part of the country; but it is reported that there is a strong gathering near Sharjui, and that the enemy will certainly fight there. There is general satisfaction at the news that Shere Ali has been informed by the Viceroy that his loyal service is to be rewarded by the Queen by his appointment to the sovereignty of Kandahar with the title of Wali. A British Agent, with a British force, is to be stationed there; but in other respects Shere Ali is to be independent. He has done us excellent service and has supported us in every way, and we could have no one in power at Kandahar more devoted to our interests."

THERE is reason to hope that the Naga war may now be considered at an end. The Konoma Nagas have given in and surrendered their arms, and their fortifications have been occupied by the 44th Native Infantry. The Times correspondent says that the impression is general that a more capable commander would have brought this little war to a conclusion months ago.

THE Rangoon correspondent of the Daily News telegraphs that accounts have been received by Chinese merchants of the death of King Theebaw from small-pox. Fears are apprehended of a civil war.

A RANGOON paper asserts that there is scarcity in Upper Burma; but another correspondent wites that the harvest has been good. In British Burma it has certainly been abundant. The reapers have crowded to Mandalay to waste their gains in gambling in the royal lotteries, to the immediate benefit of the flotilla steamers. The correspondent quoted above writes that there is an alarming increase in the criminal population of British Burma.

THERE is an able defence of General Massy's conduct on Dec. 11 in the Pioneer. The gist of it is that he was sent to stop a supposed flying enemy and found himself confronted by Mahomed Jan, whose presence with 10,000 men was unsuspected, swooping down upon Sherpur. General Massy could not stand still to wait for General Macpherson, nor retreat followed by the enemy. He took the only course for a gallant soldier, and, at all hazards to himself and men, tried to save the cantonments by giving time to get up the infantry. The Pioneer adds:—"We are informed by men capable of judging that the Sherpur cantonments were saved by the hour's check which Mahomed Jan received at the hands of the cavalry brigade on Dec. 11. Had General Massy wavered, retired, or failed to show a bold front, Mahomed Jan's strategy would have succeeded, and Sherpur must have been in flames before a single soldier from General Macpherson's or General Baker's brigades could have arrived to avert the catastrophe."

THIS mail brings news of the death of Mr. J. C. Geddes, of the Bengal Civil Service, district judge of Sarun and Chumparun, brother of the professor of Greek at Aberdeen, and Mr. O. B. Irvine, of the Madras Civil Service, acting collector of Vizagapatam, from the bite of a cheetah.

THE Secretary of State has accorded his sanction to Act XXI. of 1879, passed in the Governor General's Council, providing for the trial of offences committed in places beyond British India and for the extradition of criminals.

A NEW official quarterly army list being in preparation at the War-office, the Secretary of State, as editor in chief, has called for statements of the staff and war services of officers of the Indian army. Every officer of the Bengal Staff Corps and Indian army, combatant or non-combatant, is required to prepare and transmit to the adjutant general at Simla as soon as possible a statement of his staff service (i.e., service in appointments equivalent to appointments on the general staff of the army) and the campaigns, &c., in which he may have been engaged, the decorations and rewards he may have received, and any mention that may have been made concerning him in published despatches.

THE Lahore paper is informed that the Government of India have recently established a fund for the benefit of the families of native soldiers killed in Afghanistan, and that the subscription list is headed with a donation of Rs.400 from Thakur Protab Kudr Sing, Talukdar of Rampur Mathura, in the Sitapur District.

THE following consolidated sums have been admitted by the controller of military accounts for the medical charge of field and base hospitals:—For a surgeon major over twenty years' service Rs.1,250 per mensem; for a surgeon major under twenty years' service Rs.1,050; for a surgeon above five years' service Rs.850; for a surgeon under five years' Rs.450.

THE Bombay papers announce the safe arrival from Liverpool of the first Cunard steamer, Batavia.

THE Indian Merchant Shipping Act has received the assent of the Governor General, but will not come into force until June 1. The Act relates to unseaworthy and unsafe ships, distressed seamen, ship surveying, receivers of wreck, inspection of ships with regard to light and fog signals, &c.

THE Merchant Shipping Bill had scarcely passed when curious omissions were discovered in it, which are pointed out by a Calcutta contemporary. For instance, in the matter of surveyors; generally, these will have to qualify under the Act, yet the surveyors for Lloyd's and Veritas are exempted from qualifying under the Act, but the surveyor to the American Lloyd's, American Record, and to the German Lloyd's has not been so exempted, although he has held his appointment for three or four years. This is an oversight which will probably attract the notice of the consuls concerned. Then, again, the bill, as far as we can see, leaves open a wide door for a manœuvre of this sort: Vessels owned by natives, especially by Mahomedan firms, are generally of a class which have passed off their first letter. They are also vessels of a class which is looked after in English ports. Yet the New Merchant Shipping Bill for India takes no thought of the case by which these vessels can be transferred from the English to what is called the Turkish flag, and then be sent to sea in a condition which is best illustrated by the pumps working every four hours. This is a matter the insurance offices and the chamber of commerce might take up. It is a matter which ought not to have escaped the framers of the bill.

THE Government of India has conferred a boon on all officers by having decided to publish monthly, like the War-office, instead of in the Gazette of India, such instructions and regulations relating to financial and administrative subjects connected with the army as may be thought fit. The first monthly number has been issued.

IT is satisfactory to the Englishman to find that some consideration is at last to be shown to the veterinary surgeons of the army, whom a contemporary rightly describes as "the best abused and worst paid" branch of the service. In future, when in charge of transport animals, they are to be allowed Rs.75 per month extra pay.

THE farewell ovation given to the departing Governor of Bombay is described by the local journals as unprepared and unparalleled. There was not time to organise a grand tamasha, but it would seem that the entire population turned out, while all the notables of every caste and colour assembled to bid him God speed. It would be hard for one man to be often exposed to so much enthusiastic demonstration. The change from the flowers with which he was heaped in Bombay to the brickbats with which the Oldbury electors greeted him was truly a striking one. It is a sad imputation, too, on the people of Bombay that all the notables, native as well as European, crowded for a last shake of the hand that Mr. Hastings tells us is red with the blood of the Afghans.

THE Government of India have, thinks a Bombay journal, paid a very high compliment to Sir R. Temple's personal ability in thinking it needful, as the telegraph has already informed us, to assume direct charge of the Kandahar Railway on the very day of his departure.

OF Sir James Fergusson's appointment to the governorship of Bombay, Native Opinion remarks:—"For our part we are glad that a civilian is not to preside over our destinies. However clever civilian governors may be, they are too obedient to the behests of their superiors. Such is generally not the case with those who come out from the free atmosphere of England. Liberal or Conservative, they entertain more respect for public opinion and bring out less of imperialism with them. We therefore welcome Sir James Fergusson to this Presidency."

FROM February 1 to 15 nine lakhs of Government paper were enfaced for payment of interest in London, and five lakhs retransferred to India. This left the balance enfaced against India from June 9, 1867, at 580 lakhs.

THE accounts of the trade and navigation of British India for the first ten months of the financial year 1879-80, as compared with those for the corresponding period of the previous year, show that the value of merchandise imported was Rs.33,55,71,184, as against Rs.32,42,63,047, and that of merchandise exported Rs.51,52,08,937, as against Rs.47,82,12,063. The value of the treasure imported was Rs.9,96,66,956, as against Rs.4,77,42,552, and that of treasure exported Rs.1,89,73,901, as against Rs.3,06,87,560. The gross amount of import duty collected, including salt, was Rs.3,34,04,889, as against Rs.3,40,03,334, and that of export duty collected was Rs.38,57,801, as against Rs.39,05,864.

THE trade and navigation returns for British India for January last show that the imports in that month amounted to Rs.5,20,65,796, as compared to Rs.4,39,49,666 and Rs.5,44,47,905 in the corresponding months, respectively, of 1879 and 1878, while the exports were Rs.7,28,09,620, as compared to Rs.6,21,26,450 and Rs.6,48,80,865. For the ten months, April 1, 1879, to Jan. 31, 1880, the amount of imports was Rs.43,52,38,140, as compared to Rs.37,20,05,599 and Rs.49,87,77,107 for the corresponding periods of 1878-79 and 1877-78 respectively; the exports being Rs.53,41,82,838, as compared to Rs.50,88,99,623 and Rs.54,23,43,464.

THE marine court of inquiry regarding the loss of the Vingorla has been unable to arrive at any decision as to the cause of her foundering; but recommends that an alteration should be made at once in the rules which regulate the boat accommodation carried by passenger steamers so as to provide for such steamers having boat or raft accommodation capable of saving the life of every person on board.

THE Indian Association has again, in view of the forthcoming elections, deputed Mr. Lalmohun Ghose to England to advocate the interests of India, and the association further proposes to send an address on behalf of India to the electors of the United Kingdom. Mr. Ghose on arriving in Bombay at once secured his passage and sailed the same evening. So he has had a chance of trying his hand at influencing the prospective member for East Worcestershire on the voyage.

THE actual receipts from twelve months' sales of Bengal opium and eleven months 'pass duty on opium exported from Bombay have amounted to Rs.9,97,24,949, against an estimate of Rs 8,60,35,000. This is Rs.1,36,89,949 better than the estimate, and of this surplus Bengal has contributed Rs.76,82,861 and Bombay Rs.60,07,088.

DURING the first ten months of the current financial year the value of silver coin and bullion received for assay value at the mints of Calcutta and Bombay was Rs.8,40,74,050, of which Rs.1,84,59,420 was received in Calcutta and Rs 6,56,14,630 in Bombay. The amount coined and examined in the same period was Rs.8,42,19,025, of which Rs.169,25,835 was in Calcutta and Rs.6,72,93,190 in Bombay.

THE faithful of the Brahm Somaj, according to their organ, the Indian Mirror, have been spending eight days with Moses. On the eighth day Moses made a speech, which has been elaborately reported. He spoke of Bengal as the land of the Aryans, and also as modern Israel. The Pioneer says that the former is certainly incorrect, and so the latter possibly is. Socrates was to be next interviewed by the Brahmos.

THE rates of mortality in different parts of India according to the latest returns were:—Bombay, 42; Calcutta, 29; Madras, 38; and Punjab 25 a thousand of the population per annum.

THE United Service Gazette understands that Colonel Godfrey Clerk, Rifle Brigade, who was stated to have been offered the appointment of adjutant general of the Madras Army, is not qualified for the post, as he has not passed the requisite examination in Tamil, although he possesses a good knowledge of Oriental languages. Colonel Clerk has resumed command of the 3rd Battalion in Dublin.

THE report of the Mansion House Committee for the relief of Irish distress acknowledges in the receipts for January and February £3,750 as forwarded from India. From Bombay, £1,500; Madras, £1,000. His Excellency the Nawab Abdul Gunaz, £125; his Excellency the Nawab Khajab Absundoolah, £125; the family of the late Maharaja of Vizianagram, £1,000.

THE Indian papers contain the announcement already telegraphed that the long-expected order about the re-organisation of the Indian Medical Department has at last appeared and was to come into force on March 31. The administrative appointments to be made are one surgeon general with the Government of India on a monthly salary of Rs.2,700; a deputy surgeon general for civil administration in Bengal on Rs.2,250; a deputy surgeon general in the North West Provinces and Oudh on Rs.2,250; a deputy surgeon general in the Punjab on Rs.1,800; a deputy surgeon general for the civil administration in the Central Provinces also on Rs.1,800; a surgeon general for civil administration in Madras and one for Bombay, each on Rs.2,500. The surgeons general of Madras and Bombay are each to have a secretary, who will be paid Rs.800 (consolidated pay). The deputy surgeons-general of Bengal, the North West Provinces, and the Punjab will each have the local rank of surgeon general.

SIR JOHN STRACHEY'S Financial Statement is not regarded with feelings of complete satisfaction by some of the vernacular journals. In an article headed "A loss of Ten Millions from a Surplus of Five," one of the leading journals argues that, the famine relief capital fund having been spent and the public works expenditure limited to two-and-a-half millions, the natural deduction is that, instead of the boasted surplus of five millions, nearly double that amount is due to the wrong side. Another paper complains of the increase in the price of salt which results from the attempt to equalise its rates in all parts of India. The writer thinks the increase to be operating most oppressively to certain classes of people, and is of opinion that their representatives should vigorously oppose the policy that leads to such a mischievous result.

DEPARTURE OF SIR RICHARD TEMPLE.

ON the morning of the day on which the late Governor left Bombay several deputations attended to present addresses, the first being that adopted at the public meeting. The address was read with considerable emphasis by Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, who prefaced the reading by a few well-chosen sentences. In reply, Sir Richard Temple, after expressing his pleasure and gratification at the honour which had been done him, proceeded to address himself to the native gentlemen who formed the deputation, apologising to the European gentlemen present for so doing on the ground that he had already at the Byculla dinner expressed his sentiments to the European section of the community. He remarked that during his sojourn in Western India he had had experience of every class of the native community, from the humblest to the highest, and he might say that he had found virtues in them all. In alluding to the fact that the deputation was made up of members of the mercantile, manufacturing, and industrial classes, he expressed his belief that the manufacturing industry of Bombay would constitute one of the most remarkable features of the present age. He spoke in high terms of the good qualities of the Brahmins of the Konkan, and stated his conviction that the more highly educated they became the more devoted they would be in their loyalty to the British Government. With regard to the Mahomedan population, his Excellency also spoke eulogistically, and in the course of his observations he congratulated them on the progress which education was making amongst them, whilst at the same time he reminded them that the race was to the strong, and that advancement in life fell to the lot of those who were best educated. He enforced upon natives generally the importance of acquiring the art of self-government, by becoming members of corporations, town councils, public companies, and adjurors and assessors, remarking that the more they entered upon such duties the better they would become gradually fitted for that increase of political authority which the British nation generally was anxious to give them. In conclusion, he spoke feelingly of the friendship which he had always had, and always should have, for the natives of India, expressing his firm conviction that the longer the acquaintance of the English with their native friends the firmer were the bonds of friendship between the two. The second deputation was from the Chamber of Commerce, and was headed by Mr. C. Macdonald, the chairman, who read a long address, which enumerated the various important works which had been carried out during Sir Richard Temple's period of office, and referred in high terms to the services he had rendered the commercial community. His Excellency, in reply to this address, referred to the necessity for the extension of the railway system in India, a want which he remarked was ably enforced in the circular addressed by the chamber to the Famine Commission. He mentioned several lines which had been constructed during the time he had been in office, and others which it was desirable should be constructed. Referring to the appointment of members of the chamber to the corporation, to the town council, and to other public bodies, he expressed the satisfaction it had given him to make these appointments, and maintained that during his term of office the chamber had been well represented in the Legislative Council. He trusted that the chamber would be as free and unreserved in communicating with his successor as they had always been with him. The third deputation was from the Bombay Trades' Association, and in reply to their address, which was handsomely engrossed and enclosed in a morocco case, his Excellency directed his remarks more particularly to the importance of the volunteer movement, giving utterance to a hope that all tradesmen in the city would do everything to encourage it by inducing their European assistants to join, and offering every facility to them to attend drills when they had joined. With regard to the question of the mail day, which so vitally affected the volunteer movement, he urged the necessity of continued agitation for the change of the day for the departure of the mails to Friday, and promised to do all in his power to bring about the desired change. The presentation of these three addresses, which were all delivered at Government House, Malabar Point, occupied the whole of the morning, and, with the reply to the Trades' Association address, the farewell ceremonies at the Governor's official residence concluded.

At a garden party given in H.E.'s honour by Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy an address was read from the Parsees of Bombay, another from the Parsee students having been presented en route.—Times of India.

SURGEON GENERAL KER INNES.

AFTER a service of thirty-eight years, Surgeon General J. H. Ker Innes, C.B., is about to retire from the army, having made over charge of his important duties to Surgeon General Crawford. Dr. Innes, having been appointed an assistant surgeon in April, 1842, joined the 78th Highlanders, of which corps he was in medical charge during the severe epidemic of fever in Sind. Having been warmly thanked by Sir Charles Napier for his energy and zeal, he was sent to England in charge of the bulk of the men who survived, most of them being invalids, and, having been subsequently promoted into the 56th Regiment, serving in Bermuda, he was principal medical officer in that station during the outbreak of yellow fever in 1853. For his exertions during that epidemic he received the thanks of Government, and, further, received a special money grant "in acknowledgment of the onerous nature of his duties in that capacity, and of the ability and zeal with which they had been performed. Dr. Innes next served in the Crimea as a volunteer (his regiment being in India) from March 15 to July 4, 1855, and was engaged in the attack on the Redan on June 18 (medal with clasp and Turkish medal.) He next served through the Indian campaign of 1857-58 with the 1st Battalion 60th Rifles, being present at the action of the Hindun, where he was wounded and had a horse shot under him. He was also present at the battle of Badleeke-Serai, at the storming of the heights before Delhi, and at the siege, assault, and capture of the city. He served as principal medical officer of Sir John Jones's force throughout all the subsequent operations in Rohilkund, and with Brigadier Troup's forces in Oudh during the winter of 1858-59, at which period he received his C.B. Dr. Innes was attached to the headquarters of the army of the Crown Prince of Prussia as British medical commissioner during the Franco-German war of 1870-71, and was awarded the steel war medal and Iron Cross. He was promoted to the rank of deputy surgeon general in May, 1860, and to that of surgeon general in April, 1874, so that for nearly twenty years he has filled high administrative posts, having also been appointed honorary surgeon to the Queen as a mark of distinction. Dr. Innes having been transferred from Malta to India in March, 1876, has filled the position of principal medical officer of the British forces in India since that date, has conducted the entire medical arrangements of both the late Afghan wars, and was present at the attack on and capture of Ali Musjid. Under his arrangements the new system of general hospitals has been introduced into the field, thus leading to greatly increased efficiency and diminished expenditure. In taking leave of Dr. Innes we may declare with confidence that he carries with him the respect and good wishes of his important department, which he has always administered with justice and firmness, tempered by kindness to his officers and sympathy for the sick; and, while wishing him farewell, we can only regret that his services should have been so badly requited, and that an officer who has done so much, and has been for twenty years a Companion of the Bath, should be allowed to leave the army without having been advanced to the knighthood he so well deserves.—Pioneer.

MILITARY RANK IN INDIA.

IN future service in the following appointments is to be held as qualifying a lieutenant colonel of the Staff Corps or Indian Army, after five years' service in that rank, for promotion to the brevet rank of colonel, under the provisions of the Royal Warrants of May 1, 1878, and Jan. 28, 1878, respectively:—Adjutant general; deputy adjutant general; assistant adjutant general; quartermaster general; deputy quartermaster general; assistant quartermaster general; secretary to the Governments of India, Madras, or Bombay, in the Military or Public Works Department; military secretary to the Government of the Punjab, to the chief commissioner of Mysor, or to the resident at Hyderabad; deputy secretary to the Government of India, Military or Public Works Department; assistant secretaries to the Government of India, Military Department; judge advocate general; deputy judge advocate general; deputy judge advocate; military secretary to the governor general and governors of Madras and Bombay, and commanders in chief in India, Madras, and Bombay; Persian interpreter to commander in chief; director of garrison instruction in India; chief garrison instructor; command of a regiment; command of a detached wing of infantry or squadron of cavalry when the officer commanding the squadron is also second in command of his regiment; command of a mixed force in the field or in quarters of at least 400 men; command of troops on board ship, if equal to a wing; commandant convalescent depot; command volunteer battalion in India when of the strength of a wing of British or native infantry; commanding station or garrison, when the troops equal a wing of British or native infantry; commissary general; deputy commissary general; inspector general of ordnance and magazines; deputy inspector general of ordnance and magazines; superintendents of ordnance factories; controller of military accounts; military accountant general; chief engineer; superintending engineer; consulting engineers to Government of India for guaranteed railways; in any civil or political situation, provided it be of a nature to afford practical experience likely to be afterwards of advantage in military service. The above order has been made under the authority of the Secretary of State, and it is requested that under the orders of the Governments of Madras and Bombay and his Excellency the Commander in Chief in India the usual rolls of officers who are entitled to promotion may be forwarded to the Government of India, in view to their promotions being notified in general orders, such promotions not bearing an anterior date to October 1, 1877, when the Royal Warrants of August 13, 1877 (consolidated in the warrant of May 1, 1878), and January 28, 1878, came into operation.

THE THIRD BOMBAY FLOWER SHOW.

THE third Bombay flower show seems, from the glowing description in the Gazette, to have been a thorough success, both as regards the exhibits and the attendance. Annuals were disappointing, partly because of the badness of the season, partly because the horticulturists would grow them in the ground and not in pots. For the fruit and vegetables to which the stockholders of the Cawnpore market carried off a long array of prizes, Mrs. Hunter won a prize for ferns, and another for cut flowers, besides other prizes. Among the vegetables were Chinese potatoes no larger than peas. The Governor remarked on the growing taste for horticulture among native gentlemen, instancing Mr. Ranchordas Tulsidas, who received the special gold medal for his crotores. Sir R. Temple took the occasion to state that it had been decided to establish the central botanical garden and herbarium of Western India at Puna, and that there would be under the régime of his successor a grand garden in the Bombay Flats, as well as the Victoria Gardens and that of the Grant Medical College.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—Permit me to offer a brief reply to your criticism of the Indian Customs Tariff in your paper of 25th ult. The Cheshire Chamber of Commerce has complained that the salt of Northern India is usurping the place of Liverpool salt in the markets of Behar, and the Minister of Finance for India has promised to inquire into this phenomenon. The explanation is easy and simple. Government has made a State railway to the Sambhur Lake, and the cost of carriage of Sambhur salt has thereby been greatly reduced. Government has purchased the Sambhur Lake, and imposes upon its own salt a tax about twenty shillings a ton less than the tax it imposes upon Liverpool salt. Cheshire salt and Sambhur salt have for many years competed in the markets of the Behar, Benares, Allahabad, and Oudh Provinces. If the tax were to be equalised Cheshire salt would drive Sambhur salt out of those provinces, and would also find its way into the Central Provinces, into Nepal, and to the frontiers of China. You remark that there has been an increase in the consumption of salt of 2,400,000 maunds as compared with the consumption in 1877-78. Consider for a moment what that means. It means that in 1878 the Government, by its enormous rate of taxation, prevented the consumption of salt essential to the health of man and beast. Is the present consumption sufficient for health? On the answer to this question the whole argument depends. The present consumption of taxed salt per head is less than one-half of the consumption in Great Britain, and about one-half of the consumption in Germany. Parts of India are far removed from sea air and suffer terribly from cholera, which is caused by want of salt in the blood. The vegetable diet of our poor subjects in India requires more salt in it than is required in the animal food of Englishmen. Is the consumption of salt in India sufficient for the preservation of health?—Your obedient servant,

March 26. T.

I append a statement of the salt trade in the North Western Provinces, Oudh, and Behar:—

	1877-78. Maunds.	1878-79. Maunds.
Liverpool salt sent into the North Western Provinces and Oudh	633,000	183,000
Sambhur Lake salt consigned to the North Western Provinces and Oudh	629,000	1,343,000
Liverpool salt sent into the Province of Behar	3,087,000	2,255,000

THE DUTCH INDIES.—The Sumatra Courant learns that the Dutch Government is preparing for an expedition to Djambi. The Courant remarks that the force intended to be sent is so utterly inadequate that defeat is almost certain, and another long and costly war will be the necessary consequence. Most alarming, says the Padangsche Handelsblad, is the condition of the troops in Acheen. Two hospitals alone have 1,850 sick. The war steamer Padang has succeeded in capturing the redoubtable pirate and slavedealer, Taman Intong.—Times.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

A FINANCIAL RETROSPECT.

Now that the recent budget statement is fresh in the memories of our readers, we think this an opportune time for considering a few facts connected with Indian Finance that may be more or less interesting to the taxpayer. From the year 1840 to the year 1878, both inclusive, the gross revenue of this country amounted to one thousand four hundred and fifty-two and a half millions sterling, and the total expenditure to one thousand five hundred and thirty-one and a quarter millions. Of this latter sum, two hundred and thirty-nine millions were spent in England, and the rest, of course, in this country. During the same period there were only ten years in which the country produced a surplus revenue, the total surplus for all the years being about ten millions. We must here remark that in dealing with these large items we give only the millions. The debt incurred in the same period, i.e. from 1840 to the end of 1878 was eighty-nine millions or thereabouts. The net deficit, therefore, in the revenues was close upon seventy-nine millions, or say an average of two millions a year. These facts are, we think, sufficiently startling to induce the most careless and thoughtless of taxpayers to open his eyes and to ponder. In 1840 the total debt of the country was in India £32,750,607, and in England £17,340,300; the interest payable on the former sum was £1,543,950, and on the latter £51,328. Now in 1878 the total debt of the country held in India was £87,007,737, the yearly interest on which amounted to £3,248,108, and the total held in England was £59,677,039; the interest thereon being £2,492,282. To summarise these figures, our total debt in 1840 was £34,384,907, the interest on which amounted to £1,595,778 annually. In 1878 the total was £146,684,770, and the interest thereon £5,740,390. We have actually paid in interest alone no less a sum than £142,094,175 since the beginning of the year 1840 to the close of 1878. We hope our readers will duly cogitate over these figures and draw their own conclusions therefrom. In noticing some of the chief items of income during the period mentioned we shall not enter into very minute particulars. The land revenue during that period has yielded in all £678,275,726. In 1840, the yield was only £12,278,982; but it kept on steadily increasing year by year until in 1850 it reached £15,248,694. In 1860 it amounted to £18,757,400, and in 1870 to £21,088,019. The highest figure ever touched was in 1876, when it yielded £21,508,749. The opium revenue in 1840 was only about three-quarters of a million sterling. In 1850 it had improved to four and a-half millions; in 1860 to five and three-quarters; in 1870 to close upon eight millions, and in 1878 to over nine and a quarter. The revenue from salt in 1840 was £2,696,745; in 1878 it was £6,64c,082. The customs revenue is the only one that has not increased largely. That from excise swelled from a little over three-quarters of a million in 1840 to nearly two and a half millions in 1878. The income from stamps has also gradually grown. In 1840 it was under half-a-million; in 1878 it was three millions. The most wonderful progress is, perhaps, that which is apparent under the head of Post-office. In 1840 the revenue from that source was only £140,378, in 1878 it was £1,206,124. In 1865 a new heading appeared in the country's accounts, viz., Interest. We presume that this heading was partially necessitated by the earnings of the Currency Department. At any rate, whatever may be the real explanation, it is noteworthy that from 1865 to 1878 £5,302,288 were credited in the treasury accounts as interest. From 1858 to 1878 works and railways yielded £27,156,231. In dealing with the expenditure, the figures before us are only from the year 1864 to 1878, inclusive. The total cost of the army in that short period was £237,159,555. Under the head Marine we spent eleven millions; Administration twenty-three and a quarter millions; Law and Justice close upon forty-three; Furlough Allowances a little over two and a quarter, and in Superannuation Allowances £21,498,911. The Ecclesiastical Establishments in the fourteen years cost us £2,343,920; the Medical £4,602,420. On Public Works we spent over sixty millions, excluding railways; and over twenty millions sterling were laid out on extraordinary works. We paid away in the same fourteen years upwards of eighty-one millions sterling in interest, and we lost nearly ten millions by exchange. The collection of the revenue for the fourteen years is said to have cost us £136,948,818. From 1841 to 1878 we imported merchandise to the value of eight hundred millions, and treasure worth three hundred and sixty-four millions; and exported goods and treasure for a little over fourteen hundred millions. These facts will perhaps give our readers a pretty fair idea of the vastness of the resources of this country. Those who may live to the end of the century will probably see the income of the country at more than a hundred millions sterling, and our trade more than doubled. If we do our duty to the land and its people the results will be incalculable. If India has but fair play she will become one of the first countries in the world; but how much depends on that little word if! Her resources must be fostered, not wasted, and her vast capabilities turned to the best account. The land must be well cultivated; irrigation must be extended, and then, if we have the blessings of propitious seasons, India will become—well, let us say a veritable Canaan.—Madras Times.

THE TEA INTEREST AND THE LABOUR QUESTION.

AMONG the industries that are likely at no distant day to render India famous, is one that, fifty years ago, was almost unknown to us, tea. That tea is, for the second time in its career, in a somewhat critical position, those who run may read, and what it may become in the immediate future seems largely to depend on the same Government that originally founded the industry. In India we are face to face with the greatest problem England has yet had to solve. In other parts of the world, and temperate climes, we can colonise in the true sense, and duly send our shiploads of emigrant labourers to form the backbone of new States; but in India the case is different, as not only is the climate against this, but we find the millions already here able to live for a year on sums that would not support a European for a month. To India come mainly the commercial and managing class, and the tendency of our time here is to produce or manufacture under European guidance whatever may be specially profitable or suitable for consumption or export. The day is passing when Indian raw material will be exported to return as manufactures, and it becomes evident that sooner or later, for many things, Indian cheap labour, properly directed, will successfully compete with high-priced English labour, plus freight. But there are certain important industries, which, if care is taken, promise to become specially Indian; among them we may class tea, for we possess the two most important items of success on a large scale that are not possessed equally by any other country, i.e., the most suitable climate and unlimited cheap labour. For financial reasons alone it behoves Government to develop and sustain by all legitimate means such industries as are likely to become of great future importance to this Empire. There is no practical reason why India should not be able to produce tea for the whole world at a quality and price with which others could not compete; for with a plant more prolific, an equally good soil and nearer market, we beat China by some 20 deg. of temperature, and, if we can only get at it, have practically an unlimited supply of cheap labour. This latter is, however, the great difficulty so far, and to it we propose drawing attention.

The London correspondent of the Indian Tea Gazette says that the present year will probaby prove the most disastrous of any on record for Indian tea, and undoubtedly several adverse influences are at work, culminating in a great depression, such as a steadily falling market, disastrous blights, and threatened failure of the labour supply for large provinces. Each of these alone, though serious, might, perhaps, be dealt with successfully; but, combined, they threaten to injure tea to an extent that it may take years to recover from. The spectacle is a singular one of a valuable national industry started, and for a time fostered, by Government, which depends essentially on abundance of cheap labour, more or less crippled and even jeopardised by want of it, yet so near to Bengal, where vast masses of population are packed more closely over large areas than in any other part of the world, and where, partly from this cause, Government needs to adopt a unique system of famine insurance. But we may still more justly feel surprised when we find that Government, though anxious in the abstract to assist tea, has practically passed such regulations and restrictions in regard to the recruitment of labour, and such stringent and elaborate laws about its employment, that what really should be and was intended to be assistance utterly defeats its own object. The solicitude of Government on account of the emigrant at times borders on the ludicrous. Witness the spectacle of people who have been habitually poor feeders suddenly treated, on board ship, to unlimited or unusually full rations (including mutton), and as a result elaborate sanitary regulations passed because they very naturally fall sick through over-feeding and want of work. Or, again, take such a case as the Tezpur, a large steamer specially fitted at great expense for the carriage of coolies, compelled to put off and leave hundreds on the bank because the coolie shower bath was not quite finished. Again, there are in Assam wide wastes of the richest rice land lying idle, to reclaim which Government might well offer two years rent free to all labourers who have served in the province five years. Bengalis who settle in Assam are generally struck by the extreme fertility of the soil, and these settlers would soon obviate the necessity there now is of importing rice in large quantities, often at heavy loss. If matters are taken up in time the tea industry which fifty years ago Government was so anxious to start may go on and prosper. If not, we are likely to see tea die slowly off like indigo, and, instead of an important and specially Indian industry, sink into a second rate and precarious venture, unworthy of its origin, causing heavy losses to those who have sunk capital in it, and serious and widespread dissatisfaction both in India and England.—Englishman.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

BENGAL CIVIL FUND.—From the published accounts of the Bengal civil fund for 1878-79 we find the balance on March 31, 1879, was Rs.1,54,37,853-7-2 against Rs.1,46,82,559 5-4 on March 31, 1878, showing an increase for the year of Rs.7,55,294-1-10. Of the total sum on March 31, 1879, the investment in Treasury notes at 8 per cent. stood at Rs.86,24,788-9-2, uninvested at 8 per cent. at Rs.9,99,806-11-5, and uninvested at 5 per cent. Rs.58,13,258-2-7.—Indian Daily News.

A BURMESE RAID ON MUNIPUR.—Our readers must be chary in accepting the news that the Burmese have raided into Munipur. The eastern frontier of Munipur is lined with troops of Kookis and Kakhyens. The former are of the stamp of the Looshais. Later information leads us to think the raiders were Chussad Kookis from the Kubo Valley, probably belonging to the jurisdiction of the Sungkok Rajah, one of the petty border chiefs. There is a doubt whether their village is or is not within the boundaries of the Munipur State. They destroyed the village of Posheng and killed forty-five persons. As the Raja of Munipur has received 1,000 stand of arms and two mountain guns, he will, with the assistance of the political officer, probably be in a position to speedily restore order.—Indian Daily News.

A LAMA DANCE.—After this performance had gone on for some time a flourish of thigh bone trumpets, fog horns, cymbals, drums and other musical instruments announced the approach of the really spectacular portion of the entertainment. This consisted of the performers on the various instruments above-mentioned preceding the chief Lama of Pemionchi (a venerable old gentleman who on this side of the Himalaya holds the same ecclesiastical rank amongst the Buddhists as the Archbishop of Canterbury in England) who had come in from the far end of Independent Sikkim to pay his respects to the Viceroy. The Lama and the band having taken their seats the latter began playing a grand march, led by the head Lama of the Darjiling gumpha, who handled his cymbals in a really masterly manner, and several more Lamas entered on the scene. They were all attired in most gorgeous dresses of embroidered silk, and each wore on his head a grotesque, and in many instances hideous, mask, which completely hid their features. Some of the masks were really good representatives of cow, stag, and buffalo heads, while others were hideous representations of some sort of mythological monstrosities not at all unlike the masks worn by giants, millers, &c., in English pantomime. These gentlemen postured around for some time to slow and solemn music, and retired to change their dresses—the interval being filled up by some more comic business conscientiously performed by the clown and columbine, who at one period of the performance was assisted by two individuals dressed up to represent skeletons, and who performed what was evidently meant to represent a dance of death. The whole performance lasted close on two hours, and was a comparatively short one, as these Lama dances often last from "sunny morn to dewy eve."—Darjiling News.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At a general meeting of the Phœnix Tea Company of Cachar a dividend of 7 cent. was declared. At a meeting of the Shahabad Sugar Company the report and accounts were passed.—Englishman.

EDUCATION IN BRITISH BURMA.—The topic of education forms the subject of articles in both the local papers. The Times draws attention to the great cost of the High School, and questions if we are not "paying too dearly for our whistle." The Gazette, on the other hand, thinks that, as the experiment is a new one, its cost is not unduly high, and that it is too early yet to criticise the results of the Government scheme. Whilst there are many people here who think the time has come for having a good high school or college in Rangoon, the capital of the province, every one I have spoken to on the subject condemns the policy of withdrawing aid from the private schools in the interior and trying to bolster up Government schools with expensive establishments at such places as Tonghoo, Shwe Gyeen, Mergui, Tavoy, and other district headquarters. The cost of these, when the very trifling results attained are considered, is quadruple the amount of aid given to private schools, whilst the scholars are usually more numerous at the latter establishments. If the people at these outlying stations are not satisfied with the education to be had on the spot, let them remove to Rangoon; but it seems hard to make the public purse pay large sums for educating some few dozens of youths at outlying Government schools, not one whit better than the private establishments in the same stations, although so much more costly.—Rangoon Correspondent of Englishman.

THE RANGOON PRESS.—A new weekly paper, called the Eurasian, has made its appearance in Rangoon, and is said to be well supported by Eurasians and Anglo Burmans throughout the province.—Ibid.

MINING.—After lying idle for some years, the Kumaon (Government) iron mines have lately been leased out to a company, which propose working them for five years on trial at a very low rent.—Indian Herald.

MEMORANDUM BY THE HEALTH OFFICER.—The number of births registered in January was 549. It was less by 246 than the number recorded in the preceding month, but exceeded the corresponding months of the decade, with the exception of 1877 and 1878. The mean number of the last ten years is 477. There were 1,045 deaths registered in January against 1,239 in December, 1879, giving a ratio of 29·1 against 34·6 per 1,000 of population per annum. It is satisfactory to observe that the deaths in the month under review fell short of the corresponding periods of the last five years, and also of the decennial average, which is 1,124. This reduction is due to a falling off in all the principal diseases and amongst all races. Cholera shows a considerable decline in comparison with every year of the decade excepting 1871, 1874, and 1878. The number of deaths falls short of the average by 38, and of the total of January, 1879, by 2. Though the deaths from smallpox show an increase of 14 over those of the previous month they were fewer by 31 and 48 than those of the years 1878 and 1879 respectively. The number also falls short of the decennial average by 5. The deaths from fever amounted to 399, against 551 and 641 in 1878 and 1879. The number is also below the decennial average. There were 141 deaths from bowel complaints, which is lower than all the corresponding figures of the decade, except those of 1874. The deaths from "other diseases," though exceeding the decennial average, have fallen below the figures of those of the corresponding months of the last three years. Altogether the figures for January, 1880, indicate a satisfactory condition of the public health. Infant mortality reckoned on estimated births was 310·3 per 1,000 per annum. Among the different races the rates were as follow:—Hindus, 319·7; Mahomedans, 328·4; Mixed races, 336·8. There was no infant deaths among non-Asiatics, and the ratio resulting from one death among "other classes" was 82·5.—Indian Daily News.

GAOL LABOUR.—Government have ordered the general and systematised introduction of machinery into the central prisons of these provinces, with the view of thereby providing means for the exaction of really hard muscular labour from refractory prisoners, men on punishment drill, and short term convicts who cannot be made skilled workmen, or who cannot be taught or will not learn skilled labour. The financial results of gaol factory labour in these provinces continue most satisfactory, and the accounts now show a balance on the credit side of over three lakhs of rupees. During the past year, of all our central and district gaols, only eight realised less than 20 per cent. on the capital employed, notwithstanding the unfavourable circumstances of the past year.—Indian Herald.

WARDS' INSTITUTION AT LUCKNOW.—The Wards' Institution at Lucknow, which has been in existence for several years now, has lately been abolished by Government. Originally intended to assist in the liberal education of young talukdars, it once attained considerable prosperity, but lately, owing to the small number in attendance—only nine lads, none of whom were the sons of talukdars—and the unsatisfactory management generally, it was found that the expenditure far exceeded the receipts. The Government was unwilling, however, to close the institution summarily, and it was only when its affairs became so hopelessly involved that provincial funds had to be indented upon that orders were issued for its abolition. Such of the inmates as were deemed old enough were sent to their homes, and the others were sent to the Wards' Institution, Benares, which is now the only institution of the kind in the united provinces.—Indian Herald.

CONVOCATION OF THE CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY SENATE.—The annual convocation of the senate of the university, for the purpose of conferring degrees, took place on March 13 at the Senate Hall, Presidency College, in the presence of a large and distinguished audience. Amongst the fellows of the University present were:—H.H. the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, the Honourable Rivers Thompson, the Honourable Jotendro Mohun Tagore, Dr. D. B. Smith, Mr. C. Bernard, &c. The Vice-Chancellor (Sir Alexander Arbuthnot) then delivered an address, in the course of which he said that "the opposition has now assumed a different phase, and it is now often alleged that the high education which is imparted in our colleges and schools fosters political discontent, and that the seditious writing which defaced the pages of some of the vernacular newspapers a few years ago was the outcome of our collegiate and university system. I need hardly tell you that I should not be filling the position which I have the honour to hold if I shared this opinion. My opinion is, that the more thorough and the more complete the education is which we impart to the people of India, the better fitted they will be to appreciate the blessings of British rule, and the more they will deprecate any material change in the existing order of things."—Pioneer.

THE KHEDDAH OPERATIONS.—The Kheddah operations for the season in the Cachar forests have recently been closed. The total number of captures made is said to be about 243. Information has been received that herds of elephants have been frequently observed in the forests in the Naga Hills.—Times of India.

LANCERS.—It is stated that the officer commanding the 18th Bengal Cavalry has applied for sanction for his regiment to be equipped as lancers, and that the question of the equipment of the whole of the Bengal Cavalry with the same weapon is at present under the consideration of the authorities.—Times of India.

TOBACCO IN THE N.W.P.—In acknowledging the Government of India's letter of December last, giving cover to a report by Mr. Buck on tobacco operations in the North Western Provinces during 1878-79, the Secretary of State expresses satisfaction with the report, and joins with the Government of India in an expression of satisfaction at the success which has attended Mr. Buck's able exertions in the development of this industry in India.—Ibid.

A NATIVE JUDGE.—Sir Ashley Eden has greatly pleased the natives on his side of India by getting the Supreme Government to sanction the appointment of a native gentleman, who is now a subordinate judge, to an additional civil and sessions judgeship on a salary of Rs.1,200 a month.—Ibid.

THE MUIR COLLEGE.—We estimated the expenditure on the Muir College the other day at ten or twelve lakhs of rupees. We have since then been informed, on unimpeachable authority, that the aggregate of estimates only amounts to Rs.7,23,055. Up to Jan. 31, 1880, the outlay. has been Rs.5,67,854, which leaves a balance remaining to expend of little more than a lakh and a half. Time alone can show whether this sum will really suffice for the completion of the building. Even if the Public Works Department succeed in keeping within this estimate we imagine that a very considerable addition will be necessary on account of such items as library, chemical apparatus, and so on. The average daily attendance of pupils appears from the last educational report to be sixty-eight. It seems to be rather falling than increasing.—Pioneer.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARLET.—On March 17 the disengaged tonnage in port stood at 36,700 tons. London vid Canal.—The market closed quiet, but steaday, at rice, £2 7s. 6d.; wheat, £2 10; hides, tea, &c., £2 15s. to £3; vid Cape, firm, at rice, £2; linseed, £2 5s.; jute, £2 10; gides, &c., £2 12s. 6d. Liverpool vid Canal.—£3 10s. to £3 15s. for duty and measurement; vid Cape, rice or wheat £1 17s. 6d. to £2; linseed, £2 2s. 6d.; others nominal.—Englishman.

MADRAS.

STANDING INFORMATION REGARDING THE ADMINISTRATION.—In the revised edition, corrected to March 31, the general form of administration has a chapter to itself, from which we gather that the normal strength of the Covenanted Civil Service in Madras is usually taken to be about 155, and a list of the appointments reserved by law for the members of that service is also given. Under an Act of Parliament of 1870 the Government of India has power, under certain rules, to appoint natives of India direct to the service in supersession of the law referred to above. The following appointments are held by covenanted civilians by usage, though not by law:—Resident of Travancore, registrar of the High Court, commissioner of the Nilgherries, director of Revenue Settlement, and deputy director of Revenue Settlement. To these, perhaps, may now be added the president of the Madras Municipality. Although a certain number of the recent Mofussil Small Cause Court judgeships were usually held by covenanted civilians, their revival is not contemplated. The Staff Corps numbers about 550 officers, and of these about 149 are employed in civil duties. The Uncovenanted Service proper comprises every person in the employ of Government other than a covenanted civilian or an officer of the army, who is in receipt of Rs.10 a month or upwards. The officers in this branch of the service number 16,000. There are some 80,000 below this grade, all of whom, with a very few exceptions, are natives. Besides these, each village has its staff of officials; its magistrate, its accountant, its watchman and the distributor of water, and we must add to these the army of peons who, to the number of some 50,000, are all entitled to pension.—Madras Times.

EMIGRANTS FOR REUNION.—Emigration to Reunion from Pondicherry was suspended at the end of last year owing to the report of the royal commission that sat in Reunion in 1877, which recommended the adoption of rules similar to those in Mauritius. This the French planters in Reunion objected to, and we now learn that orders have been received from the Home Government to allow emigrants to be sent to Reunion for one year, pending further instructions. The fine French barque Berryer, Captain Berger, commander, who had taken a batch of 348 emigrants to Reunion in November last in excellent condition (his vessel being well adapted for carrying Indian emigrants), is expected at Pondicherry to take another batch of emigrants to Reunion.—Madras Times.

MIDDLE SCHOOL EXAMINATION.—The Government have approved of the arrangement of the Director of Public Instruction to add Latin and Sanskrit to the list of second languages for the Middle Class Examination.—Madras Times.

MADRAS POLITICAL PENSION LIST.—The history of the political pensions paid by the Madras Government is instructive and nteresting. On the death of the Nawab of the Carnatic in 1855, the Government, while taking the revenues allowed to the titular Nawabs, granted stipends to all members of his immediate family, and to all his chief officers, servants, and dependents. The total amount thus granted was upwards of five lakhs per annum. The stipends to the immediate members of the family are for two or three lives only; those granted to all others cease absolutely with the death of the holders. The total amount of the Carnatic stipends of 1855 now aggregate a little less than three lakhs thirty-one thousand per annum. The personal family of the Nawab of Kurnool were all pensioned when our Government assumed charge of the territory in 1800, and the amount at present annually paid to their descendants is upwards of seventy-five thousand rupees. A payment of some ten thousand rupees is given to the descendants of the officers of Hyder's and Tippoo's Court from a fund called the "Two Lakh Fund," which was a sum of two lakhs of star pagodas set apart by treaty for this special purpose. In addition to those on the fund just mentioned there are certain other descendants of the officers of the Court of Tippoo who receive from the Mysor State a yearly aggregate sum of Rs.7,184. All the Groomsur pensioners are dead, with the exception of a courtesan of the ex-zemindar. There are five Palcondah pensioners who reside in the North Arcot District, and receive in the aggregate Rs.2,928 yearly. The members of the family of Raja Pillay, a turbulent character, who created disturbances in the Ganjam District, reside in the fort at Vellore, and receive Rs.300 a-year. There are considerable sums granted as pensions to persons who belonged to the Tanjore Raj; some of these are inheritable for two generations, but not so with the rest. The Kandian pensioners are the descendants of two families which successively occupied the throne of Ceylon. In the early part of this century they were transferred to this presidency as a measure of State policy, and they have since been maintained in the Tanjore district at the expense of the Ceylon Government. They number at present twenty-five.—Madras Times.

MR. HARMAN, M.R.A.C.—This gentlemen, who, it will be remembered, was superintendent of the Mysor Government Experimental Farm at Bangalore, has left for England, for a few months' holiday. Mr. Harman will, we understand, return to India, having accepted employment under Messrs. Parry and Co., Madras, in connection with their numerous coffee estates in the Wynaad.—Bangalore Spectator.

THE SALT DEPARTMENT.—The official Gazette shows the appointment of Mr. Nepean Smith as assistant salt commissioner. Of this gentleman's qualifications and claims to such appointment nothing is known, as he has not been for any length of time connected with the Salt Department. A year or two ago Mr. Smith was appointed a salt preventive officer to check the weightment of salt at the Madras salt cotaurs, and his present elevation to the assistant commissionership is an elevation. The orders of the Government of India regarding the nomination of Europeans to appointments above the salary of Rs.200 in the Uncovenanted service evidently are a dead letter, as they have been seriously intringed in regard to several appointments which have recently come under our notice, and in this instance there are very many subordinates in the Salt Department who possess superior qualifications and claims for the appointment of assistant salt commissioner, both from the position they hold in the department and their long connection with it.—Madras Athenæum.

WYNAAD GOLD AND COFFEE.—It is stated that upwards of £360,000 have been subscribed to four companies for the purpose of working the Wynaad gold fields. The prospects of the coffee crop in Madras are said to be exceptionally good. The indigo trade in the same Presidency also shows signs of a marked improvement since the abolition of the export duty.—Englishman.

MR. MALTBY.—A petition has been brought before the High Court, Madras, for the removal of Mr. Maltby from the lunatic asylum, Kilpank, to England. Mr. Maltby, a member of the Madras Civil Service, was placed there in January last for shooting two natives whilst in a fit of insanity. Evidence was given that Mr. Maltby's health required removal to Europe; but the court eventually decided that it was for Government to take steps in the matter.—Pioneer.

DEATH FROM THE BITE OF A CHEETAH.—The death from the bite of a cheetah is announced of Mr. Octavius Butter Irvine, acting collector of Vizagapatam. The Madras Mail says it is stated that he went out with the Maharaja of Vizianagram and Mr. Willock, C.S., to hunt antelope with a cheetah, and that the animal either refused to follow the game, or sulked. Mr. Irvine then suggested that if the cheetah would not hunt it should be hunted, and the animal was thereupon let loose and speedily disappeared. The collector, the maharaja, and Mr. Willock then pursued it some distance, and were not aware that they were in its neighbourhood, when it suddenly leaped out from behind some scrub on to Mr. Irvine, and severely bit that gentleman's thigh, and injured Mr. Willock, when he came up, in the foot. Mr. Irvine was a man of full habit of body, and the wound is supposed to have caused erysipelas or lock-jaw.—Times of India.

RAMPA LAND.—Jampah Pandiah, a Rampa rebel, who was captured, but made his escape some time ago through the carelessness of the police guard, has come forward and offered his assistance to capture Taman Dora, on the understanding that Government grant him a free pardon. We learn that matters in the Vizagapatam District, in the vicinity of Jeypore, have assumed a rather unsatisfactory aspect. A band of 500 men has caused a disturbance at Madgole, about thirty-four miles from Vizagapatam. Mr. Clogstoun, the assistant magistrate, has proceeded to the scene with a detachment of fifty sepoys of the 29th N.I., under a native officer. At Paderu two constables were taken prisoners.—Mail.

BOMBAY.

THE PARSEES AND THE LATE GOVERNOR.—The Parsee

journals bear testimony to the general regret caused by the departure of Sir Richard Temple. One of them considers that in him Bombay will lose a most energetic ruler, who combines with great aptitude for work a ready sympathy with the people over whom he governs. His energy has contributed substantial good to many important public measures, while his sympathy has endeared him to all communities. During his governorship the Parsees have been brought to the front more conspicuously than before.—Bombay Gazette.

VACCINATION IN DHOLEPORE.—A correspondent informs an up-country contemporary that the "Maharana of Dholepore has established a vaccination department in his State, that the natives are readily sending up their children to be vaccinated, and that khilats have been bestowed upon those who have assisted in the undertaking."—Bombay Gazette.

DEATH OF THE ITALIAN CONSUL.—The sudden and melancholy death of Mr. Grondona, the Italian consul, has caused some excitement in Bombay. It appears that the deceased gentleman was suffering from a pain in his leg, and called in an Italian doctor, who proceeded to administer a hypodermic injection of a preparation of morphia. By some mistake an excessive quantity of morphia was used in making up the prescription, and although the mistake was discovered and remedies at once applied, Mr. Grondona sank rapidly and died the same evening. It appears that the doctor ordered two grains of morphia, and wrote the word "grana" in full, a course which is said to be unusual among English practitioners. The chemist who made up the prescription read this word as "grammes."—Times Telegram.

THE ICE COMPANY.—We see the report of the Bombay Ice Manufacturing Company for the last half-year announces that "the business of the company has continued to prove highly satisfactory and the profits realised during the half-year ending December 31 last will, in the opinion of the board, amply suffice to pay a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum on both the 'A' and 'B' shares, after deducting Rs.2,248-5-7 for deterioration of buildings and machinery carried to a renewal account, and Rs.500 in further reduction of preliminary charges account." The directors have allotted up to date 1,025 shares out of the issue of 1,400 "B" Ten per Cent. Preference Shares, authorised to be issued by the shareholders of the company, thus increasing the paid-up capital of the company by Rs.1,02,500. The purchase and cost of erection of the new ten ton machine has, up to date, amounted to Rs.1,02,430-12-1, thus nearly absorbing the total amount of new capital subscribed.—Bombay Gazette.

AN ICE COMPANY FOR KARACHI.—The prospectus for the formation of an Ice Manufactuting Company at Karachi has been issued by Messrs. Forbes and Co. The machinery proposed to be used is similar to that in operation at the Bombay Ice Manufacturing Company's premises. Suitable sites have been selected for the erection of a factory, and, as soon as a sufficient number of shares have been subscribed, steps will at once be taken to erect the buildings and machinery so that the company may be in a position to sell ice during the coming hot season of 1880. The capital of the new company is to be one lakh of rupees, divided into a thousand shares of Rs.100 each. Only 750 shares will be allotted at present. —Ibid.

DEPARTURE OF THE 2-15TH FOOT.—Her Majesty's Indian troopship Malabar, 4,173 tons, Captain John F. G. Grant, R.N., sailed on the 12th ult. for Karachi, with 18 officers, 2 ladies, 2 children, 2 warrant offieers, 542 rank and file, 1 commanding officer, 107 public and 47 private followers, and 7 horses of 2-15th Regt. The following is the list of the officers of this regiment and of other passengers:—2-15th Foot: Major R. L. Dashwood, Major A. E. H. Smith, Surg. Major G. Hore, Paymaster W. L. Barr, Capt. G. H. Johnston, Capt. G. C. Roupall, Capt. W. H. Rushbrook, Lieut. W. W. Ward, Lieut. C. J. Knott, Lieut. C. F. Garnett, Lieut. L. L. Steel, Lieut. G. H. M. Conran, Lieut. W. B. Piers, Lieut. P. J. H. Alpen, Lieut. W. T. Davies, Lieut. H. F. E. Hodges, Lieut. R. W. Sherard, Lieut. C. H. W. Munsell. Capt. J. E. Gordon, 3rd Sind Horse; Capt. W. A. Wetherall, Staff Corps; Surg. W. A. Barren, I.M.D.; Lieut. Hon. F. F. L. Colborne, 83rd Regt.; Assistant Commissary P. Nelson, Ordnance Department; Rev. A. G. Cane, Ecclesiastical Department; Mrs. Mayne and two children, wife of Capt. Mayne, 3rd Light Cavalry.—Bombay Gazette.

CIVIL COURTS.—A number of civil courts, established in several political agencies under the Bombay Presidency, comprising Kattywar, the Kolhapur State, the Southern Mahratta country, Rewa Kantha, Mahi Kantha, Palanpur, Sawant Wadi, Sholapore (Akalkote), Dharwar (Savanoor), Surat, Sattara, Khandeish and Colaba (Jinjira), have been recognised by the Governor General in Council for the purposes of section 229 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act X. of 1877). This section provides that a decree of any court, established by the authority of the Governor General in Council in the territories of any native prince or State in India, which cannot be executed within the jurisdiction of the court by which it was made, may be executed in the manner herein provided within the jurisdiction of any court in British India.—Times of India.

ANOTHER SAILOR DROWNED AT SEA.—The American ship J. W. Marr, which arrived recently from New York, reported that during the voyage on the 7th January, off Cape of Good Hope, one of the seamen, a native of Ireland, named James Rogers, while working on the poop at five o'clock in the morning fell overboard. Captain Morse immediately at the time tried his best to save him, cruising about the spot for five hours, but his efforts proved unsuccessful. A heavy cross sea was running at the time.—Ibid.

OPIUM ROUTE.—The Governor of Bombay in Council, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, notifies that the route specified below is added to the routes by which it is permitted to import opium into the Presidency of Bombay:—From Udaipur by Kaya, Barapal, Parsad, Rakhandes, Kherwara, Vichwara, Samera, Samlaji Tintoi, Bakrol, Lembhoi, Dhakrol, Modhuka, Harsol, Ujdia Dehgam, Naroda to Ahmedabad.—Ibid.

ARRIVAL OF TROOPS FROM ADEN.—The Government hired transport Culna, 1,533 tons, Capt. G. N. Brown, towing the Indian Government ship Czarewitch, 866 tons, arrived in harbour on March 16 from Aden, which she left on March 6, with the following officers and troops:—Col. Chapman, Major Withers, Capt. Lynch, Capt. Welch, Surgeon Dutt, Mrs. Chapman and three daughters, 366 rank and file, 71 women, 93 children, 105 followers of the 25th N.L.I., 3 rank and file, 16 women, 30 children of the 15-8th R.A., 18-8th R.A., and 1-9th R.A., one sergeant of the Aden Brigade, one Commissariat officer, wife and three children, and three officers of different departments. The Czarewitch brought the following passengers:—Lieut. Colonel Jamieson, Lieut. and Mrs. Nuthall and child, Surgeon Major Heffernan, 246 rank and file, 7 commissioned officers, 19 public followers, 3 lunatics, 60 women, and 76 children. The 25th Regiment N.I. will not be sent to Belgaum, as at first ordered, but is to be stationed at Bombay. This regiment occupies a high place for proficiency in shooting, and it would probably have been selected for active service had there not been of late a great deal of sickness among the men. It is to be hoped that the change to Bombay will prove beneficial to them. —Ibid.

DEPARTURE OF H.M.'S TROOPSHIP "MALABAR."—Her Majesty's Indian troopship Malabar, 4,173 tons, Commander John F. G. Grant, sailed on March 17 for England, with fifty-five officers, 22 ladies, 42 children, 832 men, 110 women, and 266 children. The following are the names of officers and their families:—Lieut. Col. and Mrs. R. Cuthbert and child, 2-15th foot; Major H. Kerr, 2-7th Foot; Major R. G. S. Marshall, R.H.A.; Capt. J. Chisholme, 9th Lancers; Capt. T. Kelly, 40th Foot; Capt. S. B. Triphook, 1-12th Foot; Capt. and Mrs. F. S. Yorke, R.A.; Capt. D. M. D. Waterfield, R.A.; Capt. W. Palmer, 63rd Foot; Capt. W. Welman, 85th Foot; Capt. F. S. Allen, 2-15th Foot; Capt. and Mrs. R. H. Fawcett, 33rd Foot; Capt. G. V. Turner, 8th Foot; Capt. C. M. H. Newington, 22nd Foot; Lieut. C. S. Cumberland, 39th Foot; Capt. C. H. H. Mayne, R.A.; Lieut. W. H. Coles, 100th Foot; Lieut. J. B. M'Donell, 1-12th Foot; Lieut. E. A. Ball, 1-6th Foot; Lieut. G. Wemyss, 2-14th Foot; Lieut. C. C. Townsend, R.A.; Lieut. H. J. Baly, R.A.; Lieut. F. G. Pogson, 2-15th Foot; Lieut. G. Bowring, 2-15th Foot; Lieut. H. M. Campbell, 90th Foot; Lieut. R. S. Graves, 83rd Foot; Lieut. W. P. St. John Mildmay, 4th Rifle Brigade; Lieut. D. W. Hickman, 54th Foot; Lieut. P. F. Durham, 10th Hussars; Lieut. A. H. Mason, R.E; Lieut. N. B. Inglefield, R.A.; Veterinary Surgeon S. Gillespie, R.A.; Veterinary Surgeon J. J. Phillips, R.H.A; Quartermaster and Mrs. T. Briggs and four children, R.H.A.; Quartermaster and Mrs. E. Hambly and child, R.A.; Quartermaster and Mrs. W. Cliffe and two children, R.A.; Quartermaster and Mrs. W. Gunn and three children, R.A.; Quartermaster and Mrs. B. Ashbee and two children, R.A.; Quartermaster and Mrs. E. T. Murray and child, 51st Foot; Quartermaster and Mrs. T. Langrish and six children, R.H.A; Surgeon Major J. Kellie, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major E. Low, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major and Mrs. W. Gattell and four children, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major T. S. Hollingsworth, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major I. Bourke, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major and Mrs. E. M. D. Fitzgerald, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major and Mrs. J. Candy and child, A.M.D.; Surgeon Major and Mrs. F. E. Scanlan and child; Surgeon Major W. D. Wilson, A.M.D.; Surgeon W. B. Miller, A.M.D.; Capt. and Mrs. C. H. Stevenson and two children, 1-18th Foot; Capt. and Mrs. R. K. Ridgeway and two children, 44th Foot; Lieut. L. Manwell, 89th Foot; Second Lieut. H. S. Vanrenen, 2-14th Foot; Quartermaster and Mrs. A. Walker and child, R.A.—Ibid.

THE COURT OF SMALL CAUSES.—In a resolution on the annual report of the Bombay Court of Small Causes the Government of Bombay, in the Judicial Department, record their appreciation of the celerity and industry displayed by Mr. Hart and his brother judges. Forty-six more suits were tried than in 1879, but the amount litigated was upwards of a lakh and fifty-two thousand rupees less than in that year. The increase is in the class of cases where sums not exceeding Rs.50 are sought to be recovered. The first judge attributes the decrease in the number of suits for larger amounts to the return of prosperity after the late famine, and the increase in the number of suits for smaller amounts, partly to an increase of the population, and especially the poorer population of Bombay, and partly to the fact that the poorer classes, against whom as a rule these suits are brought, have recovered from the effects of the famine more slowly than their richer neighbours. The success of the plaintiffs in this court is declared to be very remarkable, and as apparently showing that the vast majority of claims are well founded. There is, however, Government say, always a risk of a court of this description in a city like Bombay being resorted to merely to enable tradespeople to recover their undisputed dues without any trouble to themselves, and of its being used or threatened to be used as an instrument of annoyance to persons who would rather submit to considerable extortion than be compelled to appear as defendants in a small cause court. Future annual reports should show the number of cases during the year in which amends, under Section 42 of Act IX. of 1850, have been extracted from the plaintiff by way of satisfaction to the defendant for the trouble to which he had been put.—Ibid.

SERVICE ITEMS.—We learn that the appointment of cantonment magistrate, Deesa, has been reduced from the 1st to the 2nd class, effecting a saving of Rs.300 per mensem.—10-9 R.A., which takes the place at Colaba of the battery recently removed to Meean Meer, arrived in Bombay from Govindgrh on Thursday.—Major J. Jopp comes from Puna to succeed Major Adam as assistant quartermaster general, Bombay District.—Navigating Lieutenant James, R.N., has resigned his appointment in her Majesty's Indian Marine, and Mr. J. S. Barrett gets the pucka command of the Abyssinia and Magdala and the charge of the hulks and vessels in ordinary, Bombay.—Major P. Murray, formerly connected for many years with the Puna General Depot, and latterly with the Colaba Depot, has been appointed executive commissariat officer at Belgaum, and has proceeded to join his appointment.—Brigadier General Price gets the officiating appointment on the Divisional Staff, vacant by General Primrose proceeding on service; and Colonel Bray, C.B., of the 14th Regt. (not the 24th, as erroneously stated in Thursday's Government Gazette), joins the brigade staff temporarily with the rank of brigadier general whilst so employed.—Times of India.

THE PILOT SERVICE.—Under the provisions of Section 4 of Act XII. of 1875 his Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to authorise the following persons to pilot vessels in the port of Bombay:—Mr. J. T. Walke, Mr. J. Smith, Mr. T. Thorborn, Mr. T. H. Rawlins, Mr. J. Avent, Mr. H. Kennard, Mr. W. Pead, Mr. F. S. Piper, Mr. S. F. Melling, Mr. J. R. Deane, Mr. J. Smith, Mr. T. Canavan, Mr. J. L. Wright, Mr. T. R. Rean, Mr. T. J. Watt, Mr. W. Laythorpe, and M. C. J. O. Ringheim.—Times of India.

THE STRIKE OF RAILWAY EMPLOYES.—The six principal men among the employés in the G.I.P. Railway workshops at Parell again interviewed Mr. Barnett, the agent, on Thursday afternoon, and were told that as there was a press of work at present they would be required to work eight hours per diem as well as overtime. The men refused to comply, and demanded the month's pay due to them, their provident fund money and certificates. Their requests were not acceded to. The large crowd that had assembled in Elphinstone Circle then adjourned to the Esplanade, when they were informed of all that had transpired between the agent Mr. Jackson the locomotive superintendent, and the six principal men. After a short time they dispersed, resolving not to return to work, and to take steps to recover their pay and provident fund money.—Times of India.

CEYLON.

THE following items are from the Ceylon Times of March 9:—

THE WEATHER AND CROPS.—The accounts of weather and prospects of blossom from the planting districts vary according to the quarters whence they come. In nearly all high districts the rains have continued for too long a period to ripen the wood sufficient for an immediate blossom. Planters in those directions will have, therefore, to look to another blossom in March or early in April, as an addition to such crops as may have already set on the trees. In lower districts the accounts are of a more favourable character, and we hear of fairly good blossoms having been out at the close of last week, which have to all appearances set safely. From Ouvah the accounts are as good as could be desired. Recent rains will help to mature and ripen the spring crop, which is expected to be abundant.

SHIPMENTS.—The shipments of coffee to date amount to 367,457 cwt., as compared with 470,912 cwt. at the same period of last year. The exports of cinchona amount to 271,002lb., as against 87,437lb. last year. Shipments of tea have, on the other hand, declined from 30,506lb. to 13,368lb., showing how largely the local consumption of the article must have increased.

COMMERCIAL.—The affairs of the late firm of George Wall and Co. have been forced into insolvency.—Messrs. Macgregor and Co. have given public notice that the partnership existing between them is disolved by mutual consent, and that both partners will continue to sign the firm in liquidation. The business hitherto conducted by them will in future be carried on by Mr. James Whittall, under the style of Whittall and Co.

THE MEDICAL WANTS ORDINANCE.—The following gentlemen have been elected to serve as members of the Haputale Medical Aid Committee, in place of those whose term of office has expired, viz.:—Messrs. A. B. Haden, A. Macphail, J. Westland, A. Orchard, S. K. Unwin, J. H. W. Mayow, S. Agar. It is notified that Mr. R. Crowe has been elected to serve as a member of the Medical Aid Committee of Matale East, in place of Mr. J. J. de Havilland, resigned.

DELFT.—It is stated that steps are being adopted by the local authorities to collect the salt which forms in a certain part of Delft.

NEGOMBO.—J. Johnstone, Esq., has been appointed official member of the local board of health and improvement of Negombo.

BISHOP MELIZAN.—This prelate was consecrated Bishop of Adrara and coadjutor to the Vicar Apostolic of Jaffna, on Jan. 24 last, at the Church of Notre Dame du Mont, the consecrating official being Bishop Bonjean assisted by two Dominicans.

From the Ceylon Times of March 15:—

WEATHER.—After the departure of the last mail for Europe the weather, which had previously been unsettled became stormy; much rain fell accompanied by a good deal of thunder and lightning, which, although very heavy in the low country, was much less in the interior. Three days ago a favourable change took place, and we are now enjoying a return to fine bright weather such as we have a right to expect at this time of year.

PEARL FISHERY.—The pearl fishery commenced on March 8, when ninety-six boats proceeded to the banks, returning on the following day with upwards of a million oysters, which were all sold by auction, netting somewhat more than Rs.6,000. Unfavourable weather delayed the return of the second fleet of the boats, but their cargo of one million oysters were also sold, realising upwards of Rs.5,000. The weather was still changeable and unfavourable to fishing operations.

OUR EXPORTS.—The shipments of coffee to date amount to 367,457 cwt., as compared with 470,912 cwt. at the same period of last year. The exports of cinchona amount to 271,002lb., as against 87,437lb. last year. Shipments of tea have, on the other hand, declined from 30,506lb. to 13,368lb., showing how largely the local consumption of the article must have increased, since the growth and manufacture of this new product has so largely augmented during the last year; the imports of tea from China, British India, &c., have at the same time decreased to a very trifling extent, seeing that during last year there were imported 78,472 cwt. as compared with 86,430 cwt. in 1872.

THE GALLE MUNICIPALITY.—According to accounts given in the last Gazette the total revenue of this municipality for 1879 was Rs.47,575,43, the expenditure Rs.47,141.3. The assessment tax account showed receipts of Rs.14,524.41, cost of police Rs.14,719.77. Estimates for the current year show an anticipated revenue of Rs.48,591 and expenditure of Rs.47,772; whilst assessment tax is put down at Rs.28,867, and expenditure at Rs.28,867.

THE GAZETTE.—Saturday's Gazette contains the following notices:—Captain W. Thompson, to be acting inspector general of prisons in addition to his own duties; Mr. G. W. Paterson to be acting fiscal Western Province, &c., and Mr. P. W. Connolly to be acting district judge, police magistrate, &c., Kalutara. Mr. E. T. Noyes is appointed superintendent of the Tangalla prison; Captain C. C. Durnford to be acting assistant collector customs Jaffna. Mr. L. W. Booth, is appointed acting commissioner of requests and police magistrate for Gampola, Pussalawa, and Nawalapitiya; and the Hon. W. D. Wright is authorised to sign on behalf of the Hon. G. Vane, during the absence of the latter for the 15th inst.

THE INDO-EUROPEAN TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT.

A RECENT Gazette of India contains the administration report of the Indo-European Telegraph Department for the year 1878-79, by Lieut. Col. J. U. Bateman-Champain, R.E., the director in chief, together with the resolution thereon by the Government of India, Public Works Department. The net revenue of the year amounted to £7,328, which is a very great improvement on the previous year's working, when there was a net loss of £40,182, the length of lines worked remaining the same in both years. The interruptions causing stoppage to traffic on the Persian section amounted, in the aggregate, to a total interval of one day fourteen hours and twenty minutes, whilst on the Persian Gulf section there was no interruption to traffic throughout the year. These figures also compare favourably with those of the preceding year, and, in the opinion of the director, show as favourable a state of working as can ever reasonably be expected. The cables in the Persian Gulf were interrupted on several occasions, but there was never a simultaneous interruption of both cable and land line. The distance between London and Teheran is 3,800 miles, and the average time of transit of all messages throughout the year was seventeen minutes thirty seconds. The distance between Teheran and Bushire is 792 miles, and the average time of transit was two minutes fifty-eight seconds. General Fraser expresses his satisfaction with these figures. The accuracy of transmission of messages is also highly to be commended. About 35,000 messages, comprising 700,000 words, were sent in all, of which about 32,000 were through messages between Europe and India and the Far East. The Red Sea line during the same period transmitted nearly 140,000 international messages, but at a somewhat slower rate.

THE RESULTS OF THE CHANGE.

THE coming change of Ministry, resulting from the elections, has, we are told, excited keen speculation, not unmixed with apprehension, in India. For months past the leading members of the Opposition, who, by the voice of the constituencies, have been practically already designated as members of the Administration that will in almost a few days assume office, have vigorously denounced, both in its inception and its conduct, the policy of the Government which is still in office. That policy has recently been most ably and eloquently defended by the Viceroy in the debate on the Budget. It would almost seem that he was unconsciously aware of the great political change about to pass over England. It is universally admitted that one practical result of that change must be the demission by him, either spontaneously or as recalled, of that high office which he has exercised with so great public success. At all events, his last public utterance has been a powerful defence, not only of his administration against particular attacks, but of that State policy which has especially marked his viceregal career, and by which it will be famous in Indian history. How that policy became a matter of necessity to the welfare, and even the peace, of India; how it boldly met and removed growing dangers menacing our Empire, Lord Lytton's eloquent address abundantly demonstrates. We believe that when party passions shall have grown cold, and party voices silent, the historian who looks calmly back on the vicissitudes of States will endorse the declaration that in the interests of the Empire of India no other policy was possible. Certain it is that in the carrying out of that policy there has been no disgrace to darken our annals, no disaster to weaken our power. It is true that the work is unfinished, but, so far, it has advanced, if not with the speed that early success seemed to justify as an element in the calculation, at all events with an ever-increasing prospect of an ultimate settlement which would secure the desired object. We might find an analogy for the progress of affairs in Afghanistan in those gigantic enterprises which engineers conduct whose object is to construct an enduring breakwater as a defence against the ordinary force and the extraordinary vehemence of the ocean. However well planned, and however at first advancing with rapid steps to completion, unforeseen forces and chances combine to impede, even with temporary loss and destruction, the achievement of the work; but, once begun and partially completed, no temporary disaster, no unexpected delay, causes the men of science, who war with the forces of nature, to desist until they have perfected their defences. It is not fanciful to say that our frontier policy has had a similar object; has met with similar success and analogous delays. In Southern Afghanistan we have thrown out successfully a line of embankment. The establishment of the State of Kandahar, the rapidly advancing railway, which will be of such immense advantage both from a military and commercial point of view, are results which may be regarded as solid gains. In the more unquiet regions of Northern Afghanistan, despite the storms still threatening, there is growing a more distinct probability of such a settlement as may enable us to withdraw within the lines laid down by the Treaty of Gandamak. The reported overtures from Mahomed Jan may be true or not; the movement of Abdurrahman may be regarded as hostile or as controllable; it is certain that the withdrawal of armed intervention has been declared by the Ministry which is still in power to be their desire, just as clearly as it has been avowed by Lord Hartington to be the purpose of those who will soon assume the reins of government. The feelings and opinions which the recent telegrams describe as prevalent in India, we may assume, will not be disregarded in favour of a hasty and ill-advised reversal of policy by our statesmen at home. Whatever the hot declamation of election speeches may say in general terms, it is not probable that a strong Government will pander to any section of its supporters by measures of Indian policy that will undo all that has been done and sacrifice all that has been gained at the cost of so many brave lives. Whatever may have been the sincere opinions of the leaders who will be called to take especial charge of India and its interests as to the original change in our North Western policy, we may feel sure that the fears expressed by the exponents of public feeling in India will prove to have been exaggerated. To give good ground to the princes and people of India for belief in British instability of purpose, to leave Afghanistan unsettled, a prey to anarchy or to extraneous intrigue, fastening upon the distracted country like vultures on a dying animal, would be a much more grievous blot upon the statesmanship of those who advised such a course than the inception of the most indefensible and costly war imaginable. The principle that has won must still be observed in maintaining our Indian Empire, and, parcere subjectis, must not be dissociated from the concomitant law, debellare superbos. Whoever may be installed as Secretary of State at the India-office, it is hardly to be feared, to such a degree as appears to be the case in India, that any premature withdrawal of troops will be precipitated. We care not to repeat the rumours, more or less well founded, which have assigned the home direction of Indian affairs to a statesman who, according to other predictions, will return to India for a short period. It is no secret that another appointment which would seem a natural return to office would be received with strong disfavour, as likely to influence the action of Government in a retrograde direction, to say nothing of official friction likely to be produced thereby. If Indian experience and sagacity combined were ever needed in the Government at home, they are imperatively demanded at this juncture. Much depends on the selection of the Viceroy, but far more upon the choice of the Secretary of State for India. We are not, however, immediately concerned with these rumours. "Measures, not men," are the objects of the excited and timorous speculation which is reported from Calcutta. A programme which maintained the status quo in Kandahar and the line of frontier agreed upon in the Treaty of Gandamak would allay their fears. The strong objections which have been urged, and have been said to be justified by the event, against the establishment of an English Envoy at Cabul preclude the idea that the new Government will uphold this claim. To recur to the former system of native agents, however respectable and trustworthy, would be a dangerous mistake. A middle course will probably be adopted, and an Indian Mahomedan prince be appointed as Envoy at Cabul. The maintenance of garrisons at Kandahar and Jellalabad, at all events for some time after evacuation of the pacified Afghanistan, may be regarded as a temporary precaution and not as a definite establishment. Such terms of arrangement would be approved of even by those councillors who most strongly opposed the inception of Lord Salisbury's policy. As practised politicians and experienced Anglo-Indians, they see more clearly that premature retrogression must result in reawakening hostility among the Afghans, who now are disposed to treat, and in abandoning their country to a state of anarchy and tribal war. It would secure an immediate triumph for the Russian policy, whose agents would be able to point triumphantly to the wavering and insecure support given or recalled by England according to the change of parties. Lastly, there would result in India itself a dangerous sense of insecurity, a perilous contempt for the governing Power. The Eastern mind has not as yet been educated to the point of understanding how, in spite of constitutional changes of party and of Ministries, the Imperial Power will still prevail. The disaffected in India will point to the inherent weakness of the rulers who begin but cannot finish; and the policy due to the influence of the doctrines last year in opposition, but this year predominating, will be charged to English feebleness and English fear of war.

REGIMENTAL ORDER BY LIEUT. COLONEL W. S. HEWETT, COMMANDANT, B.V.R. CORPS.—Bombay, 14th March, 1880.—1. The Commandant has great pleasure in publishing for the information of the regiment the following farewell from his Excellency Sir Richard Temple, Bart., G.C.S.I., C.I.E., to the corps :—"My dear General,—I am desired by his Excellency the Governor on the eve of his departure for England to convey to you, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and all members of the Bombay Volunteer Rifles his hearty farewell and hopes for the future success of the corps. Although absent from Bombay his Excellency will always feel the greatest interest in the welfare of the Bombay Volunteers and their institutions, and Sir Richard Temple feels confident that the corps will continue to flourish and maintain that good name for efficiency and smartness for which it is at present remarkable, and which is due to the good feeling which exists among the members and the energy displayed by all concerned in the volunteer movement. It is a matter of great regret to his Excellency that, by reason of his sudden departure to England, he will be prevented from distributing the prizes won at the late rifle meeting, and from dining with the members of the corps on April 5.—Your, &c., S. RIVETT-CARNAC, major, 11th Hussars, military secretary to H.E. the Governor." W. S. HEWETT, general commanding Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps. By order, W. M. TENNENT, captain and acting adjutant, Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps.

THE CABUL FIELD FORCE.—With the sanction of Government the following alterations will be made in the command and distribution of the force now in Cabul and on the Khyber line :—The Second Division of the Cabul Field Force, hitherto under the command of Major General Bright, C.B., will be broken up. The Reserve Division, under Major General Ross, C.B., will also be broken up and absorbed into the line of communications. The force in Cabul, under Lieut. General Sir F. Roberts, will be divided into two divisions, 1st Division under Sir F. Roberts' immediate command, and the 2nd Division under Major General Ross, C.B. Major General Bright, C.B., is appointed inspector general of the line of communications, and will command all troops thereon stationary, in movable columns, or passing along the line. Major General Bright will report direct to army headquarters. The Peshawur District will be temporarily commanded by Brigadier General Hankin, 4th Bengal Cavalry, hitherto in command of the Cavalry Brigade Reserve Division. The line of communications will be divided into three sections :—From Jumrood to Busawul inclusive, under Brigadier General Gib; from Busawul to Safed Sung, but not inclusive of either, under Brigadier General Doran, C.B.; from Safed Sung to Bootkak inclusive, under Brigadier General Hill. The general staff for Major General Bright's command will consist of Colonel Wemyss, deputy adjutant and quartermaster general; Major Thompson, assistant adjutant general; Major Creagh, assistant quartermaster general; Lieutenant Maisey, deputy assistant quartermaster general. The divisional staff under Major General Ross, C.B., will consist of Major Boyes, assistant adjutant general; Capt. the Hon. C. Dutton, assistant quartermaster general; and a deputy assistant quartermaster general to be detailed by Lieutenant General Sir F. Roberts. Colonel Evans, commanding Royal Artillery on line of communications, will proceed with the Staff to Cabul as commanding Royal Artillery, 2nd Division. Lieutenant Colonel Purvis, Royal Artillery, taking up the duties of commanding Royal Artillery, under Major General Bright. Lieutenant Colonel Limond will proceed to Cabul as commanding Royal Engineers, 2nd Division, and Major Hill will assume the duties of commanding Royal Engineer to Major General Bright. Brigadier General Roberts (5th Fusiliers) will proceed to Cabul to command a brigade in the 2nd Division. Brigadier General Arbuthnot, C.B., will command the movable columns at Jellalabad and Safed Sung. The force under Sir F. Roberts in Cabul will be styled the Cabul Field Force, and the Force under Major General Bright will be styled the Khyber Line Force.

REWARDS FOR GALLANTRY.—The Gazette of India contains the following "Order of Merit" :—H.E. the Governor in Council is pleased to admit the undermentioned native officer and non-commissioned officer to the 3rd Class of the Order of Merit, for conspicuous gallantry in action in the Chardeh Valley on Dec. 11, 1879 :—14th Bengal Lancers—Jemadar Gopal Sing (since dead of his wounds) Duffadar Kanhiya Lal. H.E. the Governor General in Council is pleased to admit Sowar Bhagwan Sing, 10th Bengal (The Duke of Cambridge's Own) Lancers, to the 3rd Class of the Order of Merit, for gallant conduct on Dec. 15, 1879, whilst carrying the mail from Pezwan to Jagdalak. H.E. the Governor General in Council is pleased to admit Sowar Zeadeh Khan, 18th Bengal Cavalry, to the 3rd Class of the Order of Merit, for conspicuous gallantry in attacking single handed a party of marauders between Miadoria and Chapri, in the Kuram Valley, on Nov. 20, 1879, and compelling them to abandon their plunder and disperse.

PRESENTATION TO A SOLDIER FOR GOOD CONDUCT.—Sergeant A. Carnohan, of H.M.'s 78th Highlanders, has been presented with a medal for long service and good conduct. The presentation took place on the parade ground at Ghorepoorie before the whole regiment. Sergeant Carnohan was highly complimented for his long service and exemplary conduct by Col. Warren, the officer commanding, in a neat little speech.—Deccan Herald.

VOLUNTEERING IN AKYAB.—The Governor General in Council has sanctioned the formation of a corps of volunteers at Akyab, to be designated the "Akyab Volunteer Rifle Corps," and to be attached to the Rangoon Volunteer Rifles for administrative purposes, and to notify the following appointment :—Mr. George James Spence Hodgkinson, C.S., commissioner of Arakan, is appointed major commandant of the new corps.—Bombay Gazette.

THE ACTING GOVERNOR.

The following "Government Gazettes Extraordinary" have been issued :—

BOMBAY CASTLE, MARCH 13.—In consequence of the resignation by the Honourable Sir Richard Temple, Baronet, Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, Councillor of her Majesty the Queen and Empress of India, and Companion of the Order of the Indian Empire, of the office of Governor of Bombay and its Dependencies, the said office of Governor of Bombay and its dependencies devolves, in virtue of the provisions of Section 63 of the Act 3rd and 4th of William IV., cap. 85, upon the Honourable Lionel Robert Ashburner, Companion of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, as the senior Civil Member of Council, and he takes his seat accordingly.

The following proclamation is published for general information :—

"Whereas, in consequence of the resignation by the Hon. Sir Richard Temple, Bart., Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, Councillor of her Majesty the Queen and Empress of India, and Companion of the Order of the Indian Empire, of the office of Governor of Bombay and its Dependencies, and in virtue of the provisions of Section 63 of the Act 3rd and 4th of William IV., cap. 85, the said office of Governor of Bombay and its Dependencies has devolved upon the Hon. Lionel Robert Ashburner, Companion of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India; it is hereby proclaimed that the Hon. Lionel Robert Ashburner has this day taken charge of the said office of Governor of Bombay and its Dependencies, and taken his seat accordingly."

The succession of the Honourable Lionel Robert Ashburner, Companion of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, to the Government of Bombay and its Dependencies having created a vacancy in the council of this presidency, the Honourable Charles Gurdon Kemball has been appointed by the Governor in Council to be a temporary member of the said council under the provisions of Section 27 of "The Indian Councils Act, 1861," and has taken his seat in the council accordingly.

THE WITHDRAWAL INTO SHERPUR.

IN his despatch describing the evacuation of Cabul, General Roberts writes :—"I am much indebted to Brigadier General Macpherson, C.B., V.C., for the good services he has performed throughout the campaign, and to the following officers, whose conduct the brigadier general particularly brings to notice :—Lieut. Col. C. B. Knowles, commanding the 67th Regiment, who was greatly distinguished during the retirement; Lieut. Col. G. N. Money, commanding the 3rd Sikhs; Lieut. Col. A. FitzHugh, commanding the 5th Goorkhas; Major J. M. Sym, of the 5th Goorkhas; Capt. J. E. Blundell, of the 67th Regiment; Capt. R. E. C. Jarvis, of the 67th Regiment; Capt. H. R. L. Morgan, R.A.; Capt. C. W. N. Guinness, 92nd Highlanders (brigade major); Capt. A. D. M'Gregor, 92nd Highlanders (orderly officer); Lieut. C. H. Ferguson, 72nd Highlanders; Lieut. R. L. Milne, 72nd Highlanders. Brigadier General Macpherson also brings forward the gallant conduct of Hospital Assistant Nihal Chand, attached to the 3rd Sikhs, in going under a heavy fire to the assistance o the wounded. Lieut. R. B. W. Fisher, 10th Royal Hussars, isf reported as having behaved in a conspicuously cool and gallant manner while in charge of the transport animals during the withdrawal from the Bala Hissar hill. The retirement of Brigadier General Baker's troops down the eastern face of Asmai, under a very heavy fire, was most ably conducted by that distinguished officer. Col. Jenkins, C.B., who speaks with great admiration of the example set to their men by Lieut. Col. Brownlow, C.B., and Major C. M. Stockwell, 72nd Highlanders, and also of Lieut. Col. R. B. P. P. Campbell, Queen's Own Corps of Guides. Another officer who greatly distinguished himself on this occasion was Capt. A. G. Hammond, Corps of Guides. He had been very forward during the storming of the Asmai heights, and now, when the enemy were crowding up the western slopes, he remained with a few men on the ridge until the Afghans were within thirty yards of them. During the retirement one of the men of the Guides was shot; Captain Hammond stopped and assisted in carrying him away, though the enemy were at the time close by and firing heavily. I take this opportunity of expressing my thanks to Brigadier General Baker, B.B., for the great assistance he has at all times afforded me, and for the skilful and able manner in which he has conducted the several operations entrusted to him. Brigadier General Baker brings to special notice the following officers whose good services I have great pleasure in recording :—Lieut. Col. G. H. Parker, 92nd Highlanders; Lieut. Col. T. G. Ross, 14th Begal Lancers; Major W. R. Craster, R.A.; Major C. J. Griffiths, 3rd Sikhs; Major W. B. Aislabie, 3rd Sikhs; Surg. Major C. A. Atkins, A.M.D.; Captain D. F. Gordon, 92nd Highlanders; Captain W. C. Farwell, brigade major; Lieut. M. N. G. Kane, 72nd Highlanders (orderly officer); Lieut. B. T. Buston, R.E., 7th Company, Sappers and Miners; Lieut. F. B. Longe, R.E., 7th Company, Sappers and Miners; Lieut. G. C. P. Onslow, R.E., and Surg. J. Lewtas, Corps of Guides."

SIR ASHLEY EDEN ON THE RICE AND SALT DUTIES.

I AM sorry to see the prophetic eye of my honourable friend turned towards the abolition of the rice duty. If ever there was a customs duty which is alike productive and harmless, it is this. I will not go into a detailed statement of my reasons for thinking this, for I had an opportunity of doing so before this Council in 1875, and I had hoped the matter had then been set at rest for ever. No one asks for the reduction of this duty; no one pretends for a moment it is mischievous; the merchants chiefly interested in the trade have deprecated its abolition, and I cannot conceive what possible grounds there are for meddling with this highly productive duty, unless it is that England hopes to obtain still cheaper the material with which she adulterates and makes heavy her cotton goods for Eastern consumption. The soft rice is not used for food anywhere in Europe, and it is the soft rice from which the duty is chiefly raised. It is simply used for making starch for cotton manufacturers and spirits for Germany. As to the abolition of the duties on indigo and lac, I do not suppose that anybody will object to it, as my honourable friend has money to give away. The remission will certainly not benefit the trade in these articles of export in any tangible degree. It may, on the other hand, encourage the productions of inferior indigo, and thus help the scientific discovery of an efficient substitute for indigo which is so much feared. As regards the salt revenue I will only say that I believe that the increased consumption of salt in Bengal is not in any way attributable to the reduction of duty. The price of salt at the great markets in the interior has not been affected by the reduction. The money surrendered by Government went into the pockets of the traders. The increased consumption of salt is partly due to returning prosperity after years of scarcity and pinching, and partly to improvements in the means of communication. Salt is carried now with safety in a few hours to markets which before it only reached after a journey of some weeks, accomplished with much risk and wastage. These are among the indirect benefits of our railways which are so constantly ignored. Take the Northern Bengal Railway alone. In 1878 it only carried 2,000 maunds of salt, while in 1879 it carried over a lakh and seventeen thousand maunds. No doubt the differential duty which now exists to the disadvantage of Bengal is mischievous, and the Liverpool salt is being driven out of the Behar markets by Northern India salt, but the remedy for this is not to sacrifice still more revenue by a heavy reduction in Bengal, but gradually to level the other provinces upwards and make them pay what Bengal pays. No impartial man can believe that there is any reason why this should not be done, and why Madras, Bombay, and Upper India should not pay what the people of Bengal pay without a murmur, and with a constantly increasing consumption.—Debate on the Budget.

FOREST ADMINISTRATION IN THE CENTRAL PROVINCES.

THE report of the Conservator of Forests, Central Provinces, for last year, with the orders and remarks thereon by the Chief Commissioner, follows the footsteps of former ones, detailing the professional management of forests, and recording the success which has attended operations in this direction. By an arrangement, suggested by the condition in which the several forest tracts were, they were divided into first-class reserve forests, second-class of the same description, and the remainder were designated unreserved forests. The area of the first was 2,501 square miles, of the second 16,882, and of the last 222 square miles. The total number of criminal prosecutions for infraction of forest laws was 367, implicating 626 persons, and the percentages of convictions show that the procedure taken was correct. Considerable success was attained during the year in the matter of protection from fire, though the sowings and plantings to fill up blanks in some districts were not very successful. Useful works, begun in former years for opening out the forests, were continued, and the water-carriage from one to the other was hoped to be secured soon. A few bamboos and minor produce were secured from the first-class reserves, which purchasers were allowed to cut, collect, and remove. There was a restriction, however, in a matter of better growths such as teak biga and saj, the cutting of the first being carried on departmentally. There was a falling off of yield in 1878-79, though the charges were higher than those of the preceding year. Three different descriptions of licenses were issued for the removal of produce; first a general one, designed to supply all that the great body of the people required; 2nd a special license; and, 3rd, a monthly license for headloads of grass or fuel taken for sale in towns and villages. The advantages of the system were that the people had to pay for every article in proportion to its value. The income for the year for the eighteen districts into which the forests were divided was Rs.6,29,904; the costs, Rs.1,63,882. The yield of the different first-class preserves and some of the second, omitting that consumed by forest residents, was as follows:—Teak, 1,320 tons; sal, 485; saj, 395; other kinds of timber, 1,375; bamboos, 8,667; articles manufactured from bamboos, 45,575. Fuel reached to 8,886 tons; grass, 5,031; lac 4·3; harra, 20·4; edible produce 1·2. The demand for more valuable produce began to improve towards the end of the year. The expenditure on timber brought to depots was Rs.78,152; the value of sales, Rs.1,31,079, thus showing a net profit of Rs.52,927. Receipts from second-class reserves and unreserved forests increased by nearly one lakh. The following were the description and numbers of cattle grazed in the several forests :—Buffaloes 1,84,478; cows and bullocks, 7,39,577, sheep and goats, 2,28,985—a very fair index of the cattle wealth of the Central Provinces. The number and value of live stock belonging to the department are as follows:—Elephants 6 of the aggregate value of Rs.5,592; other live stock, 209, value Rs.2,696. Machinery employed was valued at Rs.6,195; other dead stock, Rs.27,324. Brief as our summary is of forest department work in the Central Provinces it will be seen that it surpasses in variety of details returns of forest work in Southern India, and it is but natural it should do so, seeing that a very considerable portion of these provinces lies under forest.

IN the interest of home correspondents we quote a paragraph from the Lahore journal which says:—"Frequent complaints reach us regarding the irregularity of the delivery of letters, newspapers, and book packets to and from the frontier. Of course the postal service comes in for a good round share of abuse—which may not be altogether undeserved. But we would take the liberty of suggesting that a portion of the blame may possibly rest on the shoulders of correspondents. Our own representative at Cabul lately drew attention to the flimsiness of the envelopes in which letters are addressed, and the careless manner in which packets are sometimes made up. The consequence is that letters are often found in the predicament of the tyke who ate up his own address, and who, therefore, as his Irish captor explained to the inquisitive policeman, did not know where to go."

THE Bombay Gazette learns that the acting command of the 3rd Cavalry, Hyderabad Contingent, vacant by the absence of Colonel Dowker, on two years' furlough, has been given to Major Oswald Fitzgerald, the second in command of the same regiment. The appointment was closely contested both by Major Fitzgerald and Colonel Hill, of the 4th Cavalry. Colonel Hill, although senior in rank, has not, we believe, been so long in the Contingent as Major Fitzgerald, and as the latter officer belongs to the same regiment it was but fit that he should get the vacant command. Major Fitzgerald is a gallant officer, and was present during a part of the Franco-German war. He is very popular with both Europeans and natives, and the men of his cavalry almost venerate him. We need not say that Major Fitzgerald's recent appointment has been received with much approval and satisfaction by the men of his corps and by his many friends.

TRANSPORT DEFICIENCIES.—We (Civil and Military Gazette) hear that the mismanagement of the transport arrangements has increased to so great an extent as to threaten a complete collapse. Mange among the animals is spreading with startling rapidity. A highly infectious parasitical disease of this kind demands great watchfulness and energy. The horse boxes on the railway lines should be disinfected after carrying animals with mange; but no precautions appear to be taken either in regard to this, or to the clothing, and we understand that the disease has spread to the troop horses with the columns in the field. The purchase of three-year-old mules for transport purposes is persisted in though the veterinary surgeons are unanimous in denouncing the system. But Sir Michael Kennedy is said to have decided against the experts. His theory is that young and weakly animals can be employed in carrying half loads, and, on the principle that half a loaf is better than no chuppatties, he insists on three-year-olds being pressed into service. Of course the obvious objection to his theory is that, once on the road, the wretched weaklings are as likely as not to have full or double loads put on them. We hear that the hospitals are now crowded with broken-down mules of tender age. The animals being purchased in Cashmere are, it is said, utterly unfit for transport purposes, and the greater part of the accounts we receive from the stations on the road are very favourable to existing arrangements. It may be convenient in some respects that the controller general of transport should be in Calcutta, but, if he is really to organise an efficient system, it seems to us that he should be on the road inspecting depots and hospitals, and seeing for himself what is going on.

COTTON MIXING.—The cotton inspector, Khandeish, has submitted a report to the Commissioner of Customs, Opium, and Abkari, in which he explains that he has given orders for all bales of Khandeish cotton mixed with Waradi cotton to be marked with a red cross, while all bales of foreign cotton (Hurda, Indore, Jubbulpore, &c.) will be marked with a black cross. The report further contains the following items:—"Cotton is being brought to Jalgaum in large quantities from Raneja, Indore, Ratlam, and other places. . . . A merchant by name . . . . . has bought 2,000 candies of Khandeish cotton at Bodwad, in the Bhosawal taluka, which have been forwarded to the address of 'G.I.P. Railway Station, Mulkapore, Nagpore Line.' This cotton is gained at Mulkapore and pressed at Khangaum. Besides this, clean cotton is also taken from Bodwad by road in carts and pressed at Khamgaum and other Berar presses."—Bombay Gazette.

NATIVE ARTISTS AT THE MADRAS EXHIBITION.—To "The Portrait of a Parsee Lady," by Pestonjee Bomanjee, of Bombay, has been awarded his Grace the Governor's prize for the best picture of some Indian subject by a native artist. This is a fairly well painted picture. The lady, engaged in needlework, is looking down, her face is in shadow, and the artist has certainly not flattered his subject in the manner of features or complexion; but the pose is natural, the right arm and hand are well drawn, and the light on the yellow drapery is effectively managed. The tone of the work is quiet, and it is free from the gewgaws and meretricious colouring which, as a rule, disfigure the production of native studios. The prize given by his Highness the Maharaja of Travancore for the best figure-subject in oils has been allotted to Mr. R. Ry. Ravi Varma Koil Thampuram's "Portrait of Dr. Furnell" (No. 70). Remembering the exhibits of this accomplished native gentleman five years ago we congratulate him with sincere pleasure on his advance in artistic skill. His picture is completely free from the finnikin work and over-finish to which native artists as a rule give way. The treatment of the light and shadow is excellent, and the flesh tint—the pons asinorum of Oriental students—admirable. We specially commend the artistic manner in which the high-lights are handled; M. R. Ry. Ravi Varma has caught the trick, if we may so term it, with which the best masters are wont to give life to their portraits. As a likeness the picture is beyond praise. For the best study in still life, H.H. the Maharaja's second prize, the judges have selected a capital little picture (No. 12) by B. Mootoolegery Naidu, a student of the Madras School of Art. There are two highly commendable paintings, Nos. 16 and 41, by other Academicians in the same style, but No. 12 seems to have captivated the arbiters on account of the familiar subjects selected by the young painter. To No. 144, "A Portrait in Chalks," by C. Varadargula Raju, Sir T. Madava Row's award for the second best picture by a native artist has been given. This is a praiseworthy effort of genius. Observe that the fifth finger—a very little one, with a pearl ring upon it—is faithfully portrayed; note the clever illusion produced by the wood "mount," all done by hand; and don't forget the watch chain, and the "diagonal" pattern of the cloth of the coat.—Madras Mail.

ON March 5 the 6th Punjab Infantry left Abbottabad for the front. The regiment was 770 strong, but had only four European officers. The Indian Daily News, noticing the fact, asks whether this regiment can be considered in an efficient state to take the field.

SUBSCRIPTIONS are being collected amongst the natives of Bombay in aid of the expenses for promoting the election of Professor Fawcett—known as the Member for India—to the New House of Commons.

THE Hurnai section of the Kandahar Railway has now fairly entered the Marri Hills, and work is progressing rapidly, there being about 6,000 labourers at work. The Marri clan viewed, at first, almost with consternation the act of taking the railway through a portion of their hills to Pishin, but have become reconciled to the fact, and have agreed to protect the labourers and the telegraph line. The chief Sirders, it is expected, will shortly meet the agent to the Governor General to enter into a formal agreement with that object.

THE BOMBAY VOLUNTEERS.—After the parade of the corps called on the occasion of the departure of H.E. the Governor on Saturday, Major General Hewett, acting commandant, who has been very popular with the regiment during his tenure of the command, addressed the men to the following purport:—"I must now, Bombay Volunteers, say a few words of farewell to you since it is the last occasion on which I shall be able to do so. Lieutenant Colonel Sexton, the permanent commandant of the regiment, is expected out by the next mail, and will resume command thereof. I have been the officiating commandant for well nigh a year now, and there have been no disagreeables or anything to disturb the harmony of the corps. All has gone on well. I desire to thank all ranks for their hearty co-operation in enabling me to carry on the duties satisfactorily. Especially are my thanks due to Major the Honourable Lyttleton Bayley, Major Fraser Hore, and the excellent captains and subalterns of the corps who have rendered me on all occasions ready and cheerful support. I thank the non-commissioned officers and privates for turning out on all occasions, whether for parade or guards of honour, &c., the large numbers they have. Finally, let me assure you, Bombay Volunteers, that whether I return to Puna or remain in Bombay, I will continue to take the greatest interest in all that concerns the corps. Its welfare will be near and dear to me. Volunteers, I bid you a hearty farewell.

THE Indian Government steamship Dalhousie, 1,060 tons, Captain W. Powell, was to sail on March 21 for Karachi, with 2 European officers, 10 native officers, 246 rank and file, 6 public and 16 private followers, 2 horses and 8 bullocks, of 24th N.I., and details of other regiments. The following is the list of officers:—Major C. P. Newport and Captain W. H. Lyster, of 24th N.I.; Major Greig, of R.A., and Captain Harris, of 30th N.I.—Bombay Gazette.

HOME NEWS.

ACHEEN.—News has been received at Batavia, vid Naples, of the arrival of the civil governor of Atchin, M. Pruys van der Hoeven, at Kotta Radja. Meanwhile, according to the Java Bode, the Indian situation is far from pacific. In the residency of Menado one Government official has been murdered and two others have been assaulted.

SINGAPORE GAS COMPANY.—The report of the directors shows a net profit of £3,291, which includes the balance brought from the previous half-year. A dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent. on the preference and 8 per cent. on the ordinary capital is recommended, and £849 is carried to the credit of the current half-year.

CHARTERED MERCANTILE BANK OF INDIA, LONDON, AND CHINA.—The directors have declared a dividend for the half-year ended Dec. 31 of 3 per cent., making 5 per cent. for the year. A sum of £12,454 has been added to the reserve fund, making, with £20,635 appropriated June 30, a total of £33,090 passed to this account for the year 1879.

MAURITIUS LAND, CREDIT, AND AGENCY.—The company will pay a half-yearly dividend to Dec. 31 last of 3s. per share, making, with the interim dividend declared in September last, a dividend of 15 per cent. for the year 1879.

NATIONAL BANK OF INDIA.—The directors report that the net profit for the year ended Dec. 31 last was £40,275, including £4,278 brought forward. A dividend of 5 per cent., of which half was paid six months ago, absorbs £23,262, and £15,000 is added to the reserve fund, raising it to £35,000. A balance of £2,013 will then be left to carry forward. The bank is due £2,072,218 on fixed and other deposits, &c., and £1,099,652 on bills payable. Its chief assets are:—Cash, £457,728; bullion, £288,739; Government securities, £421,356; bills of exchange, £2,064,673; and loans, £403,746.

LECTURE ON INDIA AT PECKHAM-RYE.—On Tuesday evening a large assemblage met in the Rye-lane Baptist Chapel school-room to hear Colonel Henry Dixon discourse on "Mysor and Orissa," with the aid of a series of magnified photographic views, with originals taken by the lecturer.

INDO-EUROPEAN TELEGRAPH.—The annual general meeting was held on March 31, at the City Terminus Hotel. Colonel James Holland, the chairman, presided, and in moving the adoption of the report, which announced a further dividend of 17s. 6d. per share, making 6 per cent. for the past year, said that the income had exceeded by about £1,100 that of the previous year, which he stated at their last meeting was the largest they had ever received; and, but for a few exceptional circumstances, the outturn generally would have been more favourable. Their expenditure was about £100 or £120 more than last year, but the expenses included an exceptional sum of £1,178, which they had expended on a freehold property and on the re-establishment of one of their stations. An extraordinary expense had also been incurred by the removal of their offices to Old Broad-street, in one of the best situations in London. They had been obliged to remove, having received notice from the Post-office, from whom they had hitherto rented offices. As to the items of sundry creditors, £10,000, and sundry debtors, £20,000, they might appear large, but they were all regular floating accounts, and were settled monthly. Up to the end of last month the only debt owing to the company was a sum of a few hundred pounds by the Indian Government. He alluded with satisfaction to the settlement, mentioned in the report, of a debt with Messrs. Siemens, and said that some years hence the £9,586 standing to suspense account would rank among the assets of the company. Referring to the telegraph congress which sat in London last summer, he expressed his belief that the settlement of telegraph affairs which they had made for a period of five years had been to the satisfaction of most persons. He regretted that they had not yet received the sum owing to them by the Russian Government for the destruction of some sixty or seventy miles of cable during the war with Turkey. The matter was still under discussion. Mr. Barlow seconded the motion, and, in reply to questions, the chairman said if the large shareholders generally desired half-yearly meetings the board would have no objection. It would be inexpedient to publish the receipts periodically. The report was adopted.

A RAILWAY ROUTE TO INDIA.—At a meeting of the Society of Arts on Friday, Mr. B. Haughton, C.E., read a paper on "The Best Route for a Line of Railway to India." The main feature of the route he recommended is that it passes through Northern Persia instead of descending the Euphrates and passing through that country on the south. The western terminus would be at Constantinople, and the eastern terminus at Shikarpore, on the Indus, 250 miles from Karachi. The Kandahar railway, already built as far as the Bolan Pass, forms part of the proposed line. The direction of the railway through Asia Minor was not determined, but it was suggested that a fresh line should be made to Swadia, on the Levant. This branch would touch Antioch and Aleppo. The railway would then run along the slopes of the Taurus, intersecting the various roads leading from Asia Minor into Mesopotamia. Tapping that great centre of traffic, the city of Mosul, it would cross the Tigris south of the junction of the Greater Zab. Passing the towns of Erbil and Kirkuk, it would come to Kefri, ninety miles from Bagdad, and close to the Persian frontier. Running through Teheran, the capital of Persia, the route would embrace the best part of that country. It was pointed out that Persia consists of but a ring of available country, the centre being a desert. It resembled a finger-ring, moreover, in that its jewels are embedded in one segment only, viz., that facing the north-west and north—the jewels being the cities and towns of Teheran, Chai, Tabreez, Reshd, Hamadan, Sharad, and Meshed. The railway would thence go east through Sharad, Nishapur, Meshed, across the frontier of Afghanistan, into Herat. The highest point would be 4,000ft. above the sea level. From Herat the line would run on to the Kandahar Railway. The whole distance traversed would be 2,800 miles, and, estimating the cost of construction at £10,000 per mile, £28,000,000 would be required. Only £19 per mile would be necessary to pay 5 per cent. interest, and the average receipts of the Indian railways were considerably above this rate. The charge for first-class passengers at 3d. per mile, to include the expense of food en route, would be £60, and the time occupied on the journey need not exceed seven days. The paper alluded to the merits of other routes, but it was pointed out that this route was greatly superior strategically for the defence of India. It also provided a railway system for Persia and brought Turkey into the line of traffic. Sir Arthur Cotton, Captain Cameron, Mr. Rumball, Mr. Hyde Clark, and Dr. Badger took part in the discussion which followed. The scheme was not approved in entirety; but it was said that such a railway by one route or another was a most urgent work. The chairman, Mr. A. Cassels, was of opinion that the great cost rendered the proposed railway impracticable, and thought the Suez Canal should be our mainstay. If we could not defend that we could defend no other communication with India. A vote of thanks to Mr. Haughton concluded the proceedings.

OBITUARY.—General William Couperus M'Leod, late of the Madras Infantry, died at 62, Gloucester-gardens, on the 4th inst. He served in the first Burmese war, and was present at Donabew, Prome, and many other affairs during the campaign in Ava. For these services he received the medal with clasp.

ROYAL MARINES.—In alluding to the volunteering of Marine officers for service in the Indian Staff Corps, the Hampshire Telegraph says:—"If any proof were needed that the officers of the Royal Marines were not altogether satisfied with their condition, and were ready to accept other employment, it would be found in the eagerness with which eligible subalterns have accepted the offer of the Indian Government to join the Staff Corps. The numbers who have applied are greater than those accepted, for many were not quite of the seniority and service required, but even the names of those who have been submitted will, if all accepted, cause a very considerable thinning-out of the lieutenants' lists of 1876 and 1877. From the Portsmouth division there volunteered Lieuts. William Taylor, Charles Herbert Powell, embarked in the Hercules; Robert Baillie, embarked in the Warrior; Archibald Cochran, and Douglas Kysh. From Chatham—Lieuts. Cyril Williamson and Everard Goldsmid, embarked in the Indus; Harry Powell, embarked in the Duncan; H. Abud, embarked in the Valiant; W. Quentin, embarked in the Asia; C. Edge, J. Plumbe, and J. Daniell. From Plymouth—Lieuts. Grey Skipwith, Clarence Hays, Ernest Paul, and Francis Atkinson, embarked in the Duncan; Arthur Hatton embarked in the Northumberland, William Langford, and George Stevens. Taking into consideration that only those of certain service can avail themselves of the offer of the India-office, and that volunteering has only been open to those on the home station, the rush has been very considerable. Even an officer of the seniority of October, 1873, who has given more than six years' service to the Marines, is anxious to transfer his services. Of the twenty-eight officers of 1877, twelve have come forward as candidates, as also have exactly half the officers of 1877. There is no reason to suppose that the light infantry officers can have been influenced by the uncertainty existing as to what the Marine Committee might recommend, for it is generally felt that even if the artillery branch should be in any way the losers by amalgamation the light infantry will have nothing to fear, but will probably reap some benefit. So it is only too plain that the Indian Staff Corps is more popular than the Marines."—United Service Gazette.

THE INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—At the meeting on Tuesday—Mr. W. H. Barlow, F.R.S., president, in the chair—it was announced that the monthly ballot resulted in the election of six members and sixteen associate members, including Messrs. Philip Henry Brown, late of the Indian P.W.D.; William Cooper, superintending engineer, P. and O.S.N. Co., Bombay; Edward Tickell Lang, late of the Indian P.W.D.; Alfred Howard Vincent Newton, assistant municipal engineer of Singapore; and Walter Morrison Vivian, resident engineer to his Highness the Raja of Chumba, Punjab. On Tuesday next there will be a discussion on "Explosive Agents," and, time permitting, the following papers will be read:—"Abingdon Sewerage," by Mr. C. F. Gower, M.I.C.E., and "Main Drainage of Torquay," by Mr. G. Chatterton, M.A., Assoc. M.I.C.E.

CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA, AUSTRALIA, AND CHINA.—The directors report that the net profits for the past year were £101,328, including £8,757 brought forward. An interim dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum paid last October absorbed £24,000, and it is proposed to make a like distribution now; £5,000 is placed to the credit of the superannuation fund and £40,000 to reserve, making the latter £190,000. This leaves £8,338 to be carried forward. The balance-sheet shows a liability on current accounts of £1,042,512, and on fixed deposits of £1,824,600. The notes in circulation stand for £370,818, and the bills payable, &c., for £3,869,261. On the asset side, cash amounts to £1,659,683, bullion to £375,372, Government Securities to £175,609, bills receivable to £4,587,562, and loans and advances to £1,257,584.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—The tenders for Rs.45,00,000 in bills on India were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs.25,61,000, at an average rate of 1s. 8·012d.; to Bombay, Rs.19,03,000, at an average rate of 1s. 8·033d.; and to Madras, Rs.36,000, at an average rate of 1s. 8d. Tenders on all Presidencies at 1s. 8d. will receive about 33 per cent., all above in full. Although there is practically no change, the increased proportionate allotment indicates a less favourable result. Forty-five lakhs more are be offered next week.

DELHI AND LONDON BANK.—The accounts submitted yesterday to the shareholders showed that the net profits realised during the six months amounted to £9,311 16s. 3d., which, added to the balance of £836 3s. 6d. brought forward from the previous half-year's account, made a total of £10,147 19s. 9d. at credit of profit and loss account. Out of this a dividend was declared for the past half-year at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum; the sum of £2,000 was credited to the doubtful debt account, and a balance of £551 8s. 6d. was carried forward to the current half-year.

HICKIE—March 10, at Newton Ville, Mussoorie, of diphtheria, Harold Ernest, the beloved child of Mr. C. J. Hickie.

HEDGER—March 13, at Calcutta, Georgiana Harriet, wife of P. F. F. Hedger, solicitor, aged 26.

HOSPITAL DIET.—The hospital diet question which is being agitated at Calcutta is a matter of much general interest. The Statesman writes of "the new method of saving money by starving hospital patients, introduced by Sir Ashley Eden and Dr. Payne," as follows:—"Dr. Smith is not one of those who resolutely opposed the 'reforms' from the commencement. He found them introduced when he took over charge of the hospital after his return, and seems to have done his best to give them a fair chance of success. But it has been impossible for him to resist the evidence daily before his eyes of the insufficiency of the new diet rates. He saw that the patients were only prevented from suffering from this insufficiency when their friends or relatives were allowed to bring them food from outside. He felt bound, therefore, to ask for an increase in the allowances both to native and European patients. To admit the necessity for this would, of course, be to admit that the new system had failed, and that the whole of the proceedings of Sir Ashley Eden and his committee had been a blunder—if not a crime—Dr. Payne, the surgeon general, accordingly requested Dr. Smith, so we hear, to withdraw what he had said, and we also hear that the terms of Dr. Payne's communication were such that Dr. Smith, in declining to withdraw what he had written, felt it necessary to his self-respect to tender his resignation. This is a blow which does not seem to have been looked for, and no doubt great efforts will be made to get Dr. Smith to withdraw his resignation."—Bombay Gazette.

THE NEW DIAMONDS, DIAMANTÉ BRILLIANTS,

have created an extraordinary sensation in Paris, and are rapidly and deservedly superseding real diamonds. Their cost is about 1-300th less. These magnificent Stones first attracted notice at the Paris Exhibition last year, where they were exposed side by side with real diamonds of great value, and they are now introduced into England for the first time. They are absolutely identical in size, brilliancy, lustre, and durability with real diamonds of the first water, and defy detection even by jewellers and experts. They are immeasurably superior to real diamonds of second-rate quality. THE MANUFACTURER GUARANTEES THE SURPRISE AND PLEASURE OF PURCHASERS. These brilliants can be worn in the strongest daylight, which is practically the real test of perfection, and the most sceptical will be utterly deceived. They can be mounted side by side with real diamonds of the first quality, and will be found undistinguishable therefrom. They are worn at the Court Balls, and upon all occasions in Paris and St. Petersburg. The prohibitive prices charged in England for real diamonds render their acquisition impossible to the middle classes, and the imitation diamonds hitherto sold are worthless, the imposition being manifest to the most careless observer. The DIAMANTÉ BRILLIANTS can, on the contrary, be worn with absolute and entire confidence at all times and for a lifetime, and, as we have said above, defy the closest scrutiny. Purchasers invariably repeat their purchases. The investigations and labour of two generations have been expended in bringing these remarkable jewels to their present state of perfection.

200 ,, 15 ,,
100 ,, 10 ,,
50 ,, 6 ,,
30 ,, 4 ,,

Smaller stones at a uniform price of four shillings. These diamonds cannot be obtained elsewhere at any price.

They were awarded a Prize Medal at the Paris Exhibition, 1878.

These diamonds can be supplied ready mounted, in 18 Carat Gold or in Silver-gilt. Designs and Estimates for Mounting submitted to purchasers of the diamond Free of Charge.

The diamonds will be forwarded packed in a box, registered by post, the same day upon receipt of order and remittance. Remittances may be made by cheques, post-office orders, postage stamps, or Cheque Bank cheques, direct to

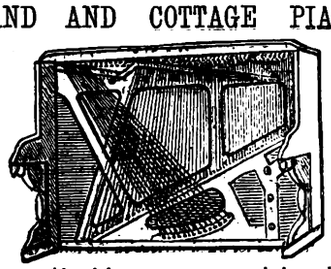
3 and 9, SOHO-SQUARE, LONDON, W.

KIRKMAN AND SON'S

PATENT STEEL FRAME

SHORT GRAND PIANOS,

SIX FEET LONG, IN ELEGANT ROSEWOOD OR WALNUT CASES,



Are considered by all who have heard them to combine a greater amount and resonance of tone, consistent with adaptability of size, shape, and elegance of appearance than hose of any other manufacturer.

KIRKMAN AND SON'S

OVERSTRUNG

GRAND AND COTTAGE PIANOS.

Is being considered by some competent judges that the German method of over or cross-stringing Pianos is attended with great advantage, Messrs. Kirkman and Son are now manufacturing both Grand and Cottage Pianos on this principle, the latter having the plain Sticker Action, which is not the case with Pianos of this class manufactured by other makers; in fact, the extreme simplicity of the action used by Messrs. Kirkman and Son in all their Pianos render them eminently suitable for exportation to the Colonies, where skilled workmen are few and far between All useless checks and complications are carefully avoided, thus enabling any tuner, with however superficial a knowledge of the business, to regulate them or repair any damage they may sustain.

KIRKMAN AND SON

Have a reputation extending over nearly a Century and a-Half.

There are now in the possession of the house Harpsichords and Virginals dated 1758 and 1778, manufactured by Jacobus and Abraham Kirckman.

The present members of the firm beg to call the attention of shipppers and exporters to the fact that in ordering of this house they are dealing with a firm who manufacture on principles derived from experience of this almost unprecedented length.

KIRKMAN AND SON

Have at present a Fine Selection at their Extensive Show Rooms in Soho-square.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, APRIL 15, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, March 27; Madras and Allahabad, March 25; Calcutta, March 24.

THE reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending March 16 state that some rain has fallen in Northern Bengal and Assam. The harvest of the spring crops is proceeding with a satisfactory outturn, but that of dry crops in the southern districts of Madras is generally poor. The public health is on the whole good.

A DURBAR was held at Cabul on Tuesday, at which the intentions of the Government were formally declared by Sir F. Roberts and Mr. Lepel Griffin to the assembled sirdars and chiefs, as they had previously explained them privately. These are that the army will withdraw whenever the chiefs can agree upon a ruler whose rule is likely to be stable and friendly to England. The only absentees were Mahomed Jan and the ex-Governor of Jellalabad. The demeanour of all present was respectful and friendly, and the way has been paved for a favourable solution of the question. The uncertain factor is now Abdurrahman, whose views and intentions must soon be declared.

RECENT telegrams are as follow:—

"A strong brigade was to march on Tuesday from Cabul in the direction of Maidan, eventually intended to co-operate with General Stewart's Kandahar force. There have been a good many outrages committed on the line of communication, due to the intrigues of the opposition chiefs, who wished to show their power before coming into Cabul; but these have been promptly and severely punished. The Khugianis, who attacked Fort Battye, have been visited and compelled to pay a fine of Rs.10,000. Five of their towers were blown up by the troops, the villages being spared. The chief of Hisarak, Maizulla Khan, has also been giving trouble. The murder of Lieut. Thurlow was committed by men from his villages, as also were several attacks on convoys; while on the 9th he attacked two military posts between Jagdalak and Seh Baba, taking prisoners thirty-one men in the Goverment employment and eight post horses, besides destroying the villages belonging to partisans of the Government. A fine of Rs.10,000 which had been imposed on his clan has, owing to this fresh outrage, been raised to Rs.15,000. A strong column of 2,000 men have been ordered to enter the Hisarak country to recover this penalty. These well-deserved punishments will have an excellent effect in quieting the country, as will the movement of the brigade into Maidan and Logar and the approach of the Kandahar column to Ghazni, which has till now hardly been believed in. The position of the Government in making a final settlement will thus be much strengthened. It is understood that affairs are progressing satisfactorily."

THE inscription on the coinage issued by Mahomed Jan is, "I rule till order is established; when the King appears this coin will be destroyed."

A BOUNTY is to be given to every recruit enlisted for field service in Afghanistan or in mobilised reserves. This payment is authorised by the Government of India with a view to facilitate recruiting for native infantry regiments and applies to all the three Presidencies. Rs.25 will be paid on enlistment to every recruit medically passed, and Rs.25 on discharge at the conclusion of three years' service. Those desiring to continue in the army at the end of their three years' enrolment will, if pronounced medically fit for further service, and if then permitted to re-enrol, receive the sum of Rs.25, to which they would have been entitled had they been discharged on the completion of their first three years' service. Men discharged on account of physical unfitness in and by the service before the termination of their three years' engagement will receive the deferred bounty. In no case is the augmented strength of regiments, 800 sepoys, to be exceeded. This grant of bounty does not apply to recruits brought to regiments by native gentlemen, who, in consequence, receive commissions under recently published rules. The grant of bounty is purely temporary, and is to remain in force for nine months.

WE regret to hear of the death at Bareilly of Lieut. Col. W. F. F. Gordon, commanding 63rd Regiment, stationed at Umballa. This regiment is very unfortunate in having lost seven officers within the last fifteen months.

THE Lahore paper has been told that it is under the consideration of Government to utilise the services of all native pensioners for garrison duties during the present emergency, giving them full sepoy's pay. There are in the Bengal district about 10,000, in Madras 7,000, and Bombay is able to supply 3,000, thus bringing the total up to about 20,000 well-trained soldiers, all willing and physically fit for garrison work.

ON March 23, at the N.W.P. Club, a farewell dinner was given to Col. Tyrwhitt on the eve of his return to England for good, after the completion of a service that has extended over more than thirty-five years. The Lieutenant Governor, Sir George Couper, took the chair, and, in proposing the health of Col. Tyrwhitt, described him as a distinguished soldier, a distinguished civil administrator, and a genial companion and friend.

COL. CLARKE, 72nd Highlanders, has died at Allahabad from illness contracted at Cabul. The deceased officer's commission bore date: Ensign, 1853; lieutentant, 1857; captain, 1860; major, 1872; and lieutenant colonel, 1878. He served with the 53rd Regiment in the mutiny campaign, including the actions of Chutra, Gopalgunge, Rhodagunge, entry ino Fattehghur, capture of Meeangunge, capture of Lucknow, &c., mentioned in despatches, medal with clasp.

COLONEL SIR POMEROY COLLEY, K.C.S.I., will remain in England for a month before proceeding to Natal to assume duty as Lieutenant Governor, it being arranged that he shall leave by the mail early next month.

A BOMBAY telegram states that an order has been issued at the headquarters of the army, notifying, for the information of officers at Kandahar, or on the line of the communications between Kandahar and Sibi, who are now engaged as newspaper correspondents, that they must arrange to be relieved of these duties by May 10.

A CALCUTTA telegram states that Theebaw's son and heir, an infant a few months old, has died from small-pox. The late King's brother, Paghan Meng, has also died. He was formerly king, but was dethroned in 1853, and has been a State prisoner since then. In consequence of these misfortunes the Court astrologers have advised Theebaw to remove his capital to Mount Shobo, the original seat of the present dynasty.

THE village which was the home of Alompra, the Mok-tsho, or Hunter, was named Mout-Shabo or Mok-tsho-pho, where he changed his name to Aloung-phura, or Alompra. He also re-named his native village Rutnathengha, and made it for a short time his capital. Ava and Amarapura, the latter selected by Bodau Phra, were in succession the seats of royalty, and we need not repeat the story of the foundation of Mandalay by the Mengdon-Meng.

WE understand that no official information has been received as to the reported human sacrifices, nor is the statement credited, at all events as regards the numbers massacred. The very possibility of such a rumour is almost a sufficient indictment of the present misrule in Mandalay.

WITH regard to this rumoured sacrifice of 800 human victims to propitiate the offended Nats, the Standard correspondent telegraphs as follows from Thayetmyo:—"The Burmese Ambassador, who has been detained here, has denied, in a written statement which he has caused to be published, that there is a particle of truth in the rumour of massacres at the capital. He also denies that any such sacrifice was contemplated, and states that a stringent inquiry is being made to discover the originator of the report; and that a census of the city, which is in course of being taken in order to allay the prevalent alarm, has, so far as it has gone, disproved the statement that a large number of arrests had already been made. The ambassador is anxious that the fullest publicity should be given to this contradiction."

THE same telegram states that leave of absence to British officers has been stopped; and the idea is generally entertained that some important step is pending. This, at all events, is good news, and credible.

THE suggestion put forward in the Times of Monday as to the instability of the Kandahar settlement is best disposed of by facts and dates. The decision communicated by Col. St. John to the Wali, Shere Ali, was approved by the Secretary of State ten days before the dissolution was decided on by the Cabinet. The opinions expressed by the Calcutta correspondent of the Times are an antidote to the dangerous doctrine that it will be possible for the coming Viceroy to disallow the carefully-considered measure of Lord Lytton.

THE dinner of the members of the old Indian Naval Service will take place on May 25 at the Criterion.

AMONG the peerages which will be bestowed by the Government will be an often predicted earldom. Lord Lytton will take his seat on his return as Earl Lytton of Lytton, and Viscount Knebworth of Knebworth.

IN the rejection of Sir Richard Temple this country, as well as India, has sustained a loss only to be remedied by finding him a wiser constituency and a secure seat.

THERE are grave reasons to suppose that if all the authorities here have heard is true some steps will have to be taken ere long for controlling the foreign relations of Kashmir. The official report is expected to reach England either by this or the next mail.

SIR JAMES FERGUSSON, governor of Bombay, and Col. Stracey, military secretary, left Charing-cross on Friday by the South Eastern Railway Company's mail train for India.

IT has been arranged between the Lords of the Admiralty and the Secretary of State for India that the Indian trooping service shall be placed on another footing, and that, instead of charges being made by one department upon the other for the pay, wages, allowances, and victualling of the officers and crews of the five Indian troopships, a fixed commuted rate for each ship per diem shall be paid by the Indian Government to the Imperial Exchequer. This makes the troopships which have been specially maintained for the services of India more disposable for the movement of troops generally either at home or to the colonies. The India branch of the Transport Department at the Admiralty is abolished under the new system.

DURING the recent kheddah season at Dhaka Mr. Sanderson and staff captured 243 elephants.

THE Pioneer states that Col. St. John has been permanently appointed to reside at Kandahar as the political representative of the Indian Government, and the scheme which would have transferred his services to the British Foreign-office has been abandoned. The Government of India represented to the Home authorities that they could ill spare Col. St. John, and intimated, at the same time, their desire to offer him the agency at Kandahar on terms which would enable him to decline the appointment at Astrabad without incurring personal loss. After a short interval the Secretary of State announced his consent to this proposal. Hitherto Col. St. John has been in subordination, in political matters, to General Stewart, but now he is to be recognised as in independent management of political affairs at Kandahar.

A SUBORDINATE branch of the Quartermaster General's office for intelligence has been formed with the concurrence of the Secretary of State for India. The functions of this branch will, says the official notification, extend throughout India, and all correspondence connected with it be carried on under the orders of the Commander in Chief by the Quartermaster General. He will correspond direct with the various departments of the Government of India, and the permanent minor departments under them in all questions connected with intelligence. "For the purposes of intelligence" he is empowered to communicate direct with local governments, heads of administrations, and civil authorities generally. As an ordinary rule, however, such communications should take place through the local military authorities as at present. Agents to the Governor General, Residents, and other political officers are to be communicated with through the Foreign Department.

THE latest reports from the tea districts state that the weather has been, on the whole, favourable, and the season is opening well. A syndicate is being formed in Calcutta for the purpose of trying to place Indian teas on the Australian market, from which they are at present practically excluded by cheap and inferior Chinese tea. It is hoped that this effort, if successful, will give a great impetus to the Indian tea industry. The Government has promised to contribute Rs.10,000.

THE trade and navigation accounts for the first eleven months of the last financial year show a considerable increase, both of exports and imports, on the corresponding period of the previous year.

THE Indian Daily News asks "Why does not the Government make an arrangement with Major Raverty, by which his Pushtoo manual, printed in a convenient form, may be placed in the hands of every officer and soldier in Afghanistan?"

SINCE the publication of the Government resolution enhancing the rate of interest on savings bank deposits, which came into operation from January last, a large number of accounts have been newly opened, and the total increase of deposits during the short period from Jan. 1 to March 15 is estimated at about five lakhs of rupees, which, together with the sum of thirty-seven lakhs previously deposited, makes a total of about forty-two lakhs of rupees. It is said that a large amount of deposits is to be escheated to Government during the ensuing official year, in consequence of those accounts not having been operated upon for several years.

THE Government of India has ruled that the wives of chaplains on service cannot be granted passages in her Majesty's troopships, their husbands being "purely civil officers."

THE Bombay admirers of Professor Fawcett have remitted an instalment of Rs.2,000 towards his election expenses. A suggestion is offered by the Pioneer to the "enterprising Parsees in Bombay" who are collecting subscriptions in aid of Professor Fawcett's election expenses that they "ask the professor if he is willing to accept such contributions from the already overtaxed people of India."

THE Ceylon Times says that the secretary of the Colombo Irish Relief Fund recently telegraphed a credit of £500 on the Oriental Bank in favour of the Duchess of Marlborough. The Cable Company at Bombay at first demurred, but finally telegraphed it, and sent in their claim for payment. Other Indian remittances have been wired gratis. Calcutta has collected nearly Rs.60,000 for the fund.

THE Colombo journal states that the weather, which had threatened to be injurious, has, since last mail, been fine and beneficial. The prospects of the season are said to be good. The current shipments of coffee to March 23 were 401,201cwt., as against 501,143cwt. last year.

PROFESSOR ARMINIUS VAMBERY has arrived on a visit to

Digitized by Google

Sir T. Douglas Forsyth, with the object of giving several lectures on questions connected with the politics and history of Asia. His first lecture will be given before the Society of Arts, Indian section, to-morrow evening. The subject will be "The Russian Advance in Central Asia."

IT was feared that the recommendations of the Simla army commission would interfere with, if not altogether prevent, the appointment of Quartermaster General at Bombay being sanctioned by the home authorities. The Times of India is, however, glad to be able to announce that the Secretary of State for India has, without hesitation, confirmed the selection of Colonel A. G. F. Hogg for the post, the duties of which he has since his return from Cabul been temporarily discharging, and that he will have the rank of brigadier general.

SMALL-POX is said to be prevalent in Prome and Rangoon. Several cases of typhoid fever are reported from Simla. The deaths in Calcutta during the week ending March 13 were 216, being a death rate of 27·2 per 1,000 per annum. In Madras in the same week there were 319 deaths, giving a rate of 41·7 per 1,000 per annum. In Bombay during the week ending March 16 the deaths numbered 557, a death rate of 43·09 per 1,000 per annum.

A RECENT Singapore telegram confirms the intelligence that M. Vallon, the French Commissioner, was assassinated on the 15th ult. by some natives of Sumatra on the river Tengung. The telegram adds that a military expedition had set out, with the Governor of Acheen, to search for the body and effects of M. Vallon and to punish the murderers.

COUNT SZECHENYI, who attempted to penetrate Thibet, but was obliged to adopt the Bhamo route, has arrived at Calcutta. He has visited countries not explored by any previous European traveller.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL GORDON.

LIEUT. COL. WILLIAM FRASER FORBES GORDON, whose death is announced, entered the army in 1855, and served with the 20th Foot in the Indian campaign of 1857-58, being present with the selected marksmen of the regiment at the action of Chunda, Umeerpore and Sultanpore, the Fort of Dhowreaha, and the siege and capture of Lucknow. He also took part in the subsequent operations in Oudh and the affair of Meangunge, also at the Churd and the Fort of Musjeedia. His name was mentioned in despatches, and he received the medal with clasp. He assumed command of the 63rd Regiment last year, when Lieut. Col. R. J. Hughes was appointed to a brigade in the Moultan Division.

CABUL CRUELTIES.

REGARDING the cruelties said to have been practised by some of our soldiers in Afghanistan upon their wounded enemies, one of the Catholic chaplains with our forces in Afghanistan writes: —"I see many of the papers are busying themselves with sensational stories of great cruelties and atrocities. The only cruelties and atrocities that have come under our notice here have been those practised by the enemy on our wounded who had the misfortune of falling into their hands. The horrid spectacle these poor fellows presented when found was enough to make one's blood run cold. It is impossible to describe it; some chopped into pieces; others with their brains dashed out; others again set on fire while yet living; all evirated and otherwise dishonoured. On the other hand, not a single outrage of any kind has yet been brought home to any of our men, or even hinted at; while all the prisoners who have been executed had the benefit of an impartial trial, and none were condemned if any reasonable doubt existed as to their guilt. General Roberts is a most humane man; in fact, there is but one judgment passed upon his treatment of the Afghans by all of us here, and that is that, had he been more severe, the rising of last December might have been prevented. We think that, if he has sinned at all, it has been rather on the side of humanity than otherwise."—Bombay Catholic Examiner.

TRAVELLERS THROUGH CHINA.

THE Austrian Government some time since sent out an expedition to China with instructions to make its way through China and Thibet to India. The object was purely to gain more accurate geographical knowledge of the interior of these countries. Herr Toczy, keeper of the Royal Museum, Buda-Pesth; Lieut. Krietner, of the Austrian Geographical Society, and a Lieut. Sebzwin, were the members composing the expedition. The party started from Shanghai fifteen months ago and appear to have been tolerably successful in their journey through China. A Chinese guard was allowed them, and letters were forwarded to the various officers of Government on the route directing a safe conduct to be given to the travellers. Though these advantages saved them from personal molestation they were constantly subject to insolence and abuse from the lower classes of the inhabitants. Many scientific observations were, however, made, and a large number of excellent photographs taken. A passage through Thibet was forbidden, and on turning off towards Bhamo they were taken prisoner by the Kachyens, but were, after three days' confinement, released on parting with all they had in the shape of money. The travellers then made their way successfully through Burma, and, when the latest Rangoon mail left, were in that town intending shortly to leave for Europe.—Englishman.

MILITARY CORRESPONDENTS.

WE have received the following communication from the Press Commissioner, dated Calcutta, March 22:—"The Field Marshal Commanding in Chief having observed a statement in the Press that officers of the army have been allowed to act as newspaper correspondents during the war in Afghanistan has pointed out to the Commander in Chief in India that the regulations of the service do not sanction any such arrangements, and has desired that instructions may be issued to prevent any infringement of the regulations in this respect for the future. In compliance with the instructions of H.R.H. the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief, it has become necessary to extend to regimental officers of both services the prohibition which has been already applied to staff officers. The Government of India, in carrying out the orders received from the Horse Guards, have decided, with the concurrence of the Commander in Chief in India, to allow a period of six weeks within which the present employment of regimental officers as correspondents shall cease, and the newspapers have time to make other arrangements. The Commander in Chief in India has received the necessary sanction for giving effect to the above instructions."

BURMESE EMBASSY TO EUROPE.

WE learn from a source which we believe is reliable that the Government of Upper Burma is sending an embassy to Europe next month with designs which it is of some importance to the Government of India to be fully aware of. The fact that the embasy is to be sent is no secret. It was published in the Mandalay Gazette of the 28th ultimo, but the object of the embassy was there stated to be to study the laws, customs, and institutions of the principal countries of Europe. Our information, however, is to the effect that the business to be transacted by the embassy is to negotiate a treaty with one Power in particular. The Ambassadors are said to be instructed to offer the cession of certain territory in order to induce that Power to enter into an alliance with King Theebaw. European (not English) capitalists will be asked to undertake the construction of railways from the British frontier to Mandalay and from Mandalay to Kain-Yung-Gye, on the Meikong River. It is added that heavy consignments of machinery are about to be sent—if not already on their way—from Genoa to Mandalay, and that these are wholly designed to turn out war material. If, as may be surmised from the visits exchanged at Hayetmy between our Chief Commissioner and Theebaw's Envoy, the Government of India are contemplating a renewal of friendly relations with that of Mandalay, it is to be hoped that they are fully cognisant of the proceedings which we have thus briefly indicated.—Statesman.

THE INDIAN BLUE BOOKS.*

THE fourteenth annual statement of the material progress and condition of India has been published. Under various heads the reader will find a complete, though necessarily condensed, account of all that can be included in the comprehensive title of the progress and condition of India during the administrative year of 1877-78. If the new legislators will only condescend to make themselves acquainted with the contents, that is, if they propose to speak on the subject of India, the deliberations of Parliament, or the extra-parliamentary utterances will be flavoured with more knowledge than usual. Under the head of Burma we read:—"With Upper Burma our relations during 1877-78 were friendly. Negotiations for a revision of the Treaty of 1867 were opened through the Resident at Mandalay, but concessions were demanded by the Burmese Government which it was impossible to grant, and no agreement could be settled." Turning from this still unsettled question to the important but also unsettled topic of manufactures, a valuable chapter tells us that, in the year under review, of fifty-three cotton mills working in the country forty-one were in the Bombay Presidency and three-fourths of these in the Island of Bombay. With regard to the coarser qualities of goods "it is said that the Indian industry, if judiciously managed, must inevitably in time supersede Manchester goods in Indian markets, and that, whatever may be the prospects of the export trade, there is a demand for internal consumption sufficient for double the mills now in existence." The Empress Spinning and Weaving Mills at Nagpore deserve and receive a special notice, but we confess that we can hardly reconcile the above statistics of "cotton mills" with the statement that there were "twenty-three cotton mills during 1877-78 in the Madras Presidency irrespective of private looms or small works." Of the Bengal jute mills we are told nothing more than that "the Calcutta Jute Mills were not as flourishing and successful as they should have been owing to discreditable management in many cases."

SIR ASHLEY EDEN ON AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENT.

THE Government of India in a recent resolution informed the Government of Bengal that "their province was especially deficient in opportunities for agricultural instruction, although, of all Indian provinces, it was perhaps the one where a reform of practice was most needed. A stinging addition is thus couched—"It is also the province of whose agricultural resources and capacities the governing body knows least." Sir Ashley Eden has replied by a bitter criticism of Mr. Buck's report, with which he is much disappointed. The experiments have either been costly failures or have had no bearing on agricultural improvement, while the successes are to be credited to private firms or to ignorant Bengalis. The Lieutenant Governor roundly asserts that the Bengali cultivators are best left alone in respect of their mode of agriculture, which "they understand and we do not;" and he declines to squander money on experiments in orchards and acclimatised seeds. We cannot follow Sir Ashley Eden through his elaborate anatomising of the director general's report, but cannot omit two gems of criticism. The collector of Banda has succeeded in folding some ewes, and some of these ewes have had lambs, but it remains to be seen if the new breed will suit the climate. Sir Ashley Eden objects to spoiling the excellent breed of sheep in India. In his own unmatchable words, "Whatever may be the case in the Upper Provinces, the collectors here know as much about folding ewes as the shepherds do of deciding suits for partition of estates, and rent suits, and settlements. So long as the ewes have lambs without the intervention or assistance of the collectors, as they now do in Bengal, I can see no justification for employing their expensive agency in such matters." Touching on the plough question, we are told that one objection to the improved ploughs is that the ploughman cannot twist the bullocks' tails, so that the services of two men are required. Other well-intended efforts at improvement are dismissed with similar contemptuous criticism, and we quote Sir Ashley's final conclusions from the report which he has kept before him according to orders :—

"That much money has been expended. That a great many experiment have been tried with a marked want of success, and that one or two, though hitherto quite infructuous, are still considered promising, though such an expectation is altogether unwarranted by the recorded facts connected with them. That futile attempts have been made to substitute for the agricultural implements of the people, with which they have already produced such wonderful results, useless and unsuitable implements, complicated, expensive, and in every way ill-adapted to the country, the means of the people, and the work to be done. That some useless and admittedly inaccurate statistics have been collected, and a large central shop for the development of the trade and commerce of the North Western Provinces by the sale of ornamental wares at Allahabad has been commenced."

The Lieutenant Governor thinks that there is no way in which the money could have been more uselessly spent, and recommends, as an economical alternative, that some of the competition wallahs should attend a course at Cirencester College, while others should serve a short apprenticeship at the co-operative stores, where they might learn to manage large retail shops for the sale of ornamental wares.

OFFICIAL PAPERS.

THE MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

THE following notification has been issued, under date March 15, in the Home, Revenue, and Agricultural Department :—In continuation of G.O. Nov. 13, dated Jan. 2, 1880, issued in the Military Department, and subject to such modifications as may hereafter be deemed necessary, the Governor General in Council is pleased, with the sanction of her Majesty's Secretary of State, to issue the following orders regarding the administrative staff of the Indian Medical Department in the several provinces of India. From March 31, 1880, the following administrative appointments will be made :—Monthly salary—One surgeon general with the Government of India, Rs.2,700; one deputy surgeon general, with local rank of surgeon general, for civil medical administration in Bengal, Rs.2,250; one deputy surgeon general, with local rank of surgeon general in the North Western Provinces and Oudh, Rs.2,250; one deputy surgeon general, with local rank of surgeon general in the Punjab, Rs.1,800; one deputy surgeon general for civil medical administration in the Central Provinces, Rs.1,800; one surgeon general, for civil medical administration in Madras, Rs.2,500; one secretary to the surgeon general, Madras, Rs.800 (consolidated); one surgeon general, for civil medical administration in Bombay, Rs.2,500; one secretary to surgeon general, Bombay, Rs.800 (consolidated). The surgeons general with the Government of India and with the Governments of Madras and Bombay will, in addition to performing civil administrative duties, be heads of the Indian Medical Departments in their respective presidencies. It will be their duty, among other matters, to propose transfers between the Military and Civil Departments; to recommend for promotion to the administrative grades; and to advise the Government on all questions relating to the admission of officers and subordinates to the Indian service, to the conduct and services of Indian medical officers of all grades, and to the supply of medicines and hospital stores. The surgeon general with the Government of India will be entitled to receive any information he desires from the surgeons general and deputy surgeons general attached to the local governments and administrations; but he will exercise no direct authority over them. These officers will be solely under the orders of the local government or administration to which each belongs. Officers will be selected for the above-named administrative officers by the Government of India for the Bengal Presidency and by the Governments of Madras and Bombay for those presidencies respectively. Selections will be made in each Presidency from the whole Indian Medical Service of that Presidency; and the principles of selection hitherto followed in making such appointments will be observed. Surgeons general and all deputy surgeons general, including those who may have the local rank of surgeon general, will count their five years' term of office from the date of their first entering on the duties of their rank, whether in the military or civil branch of the service. The deputy surgeon general for the Central Provinces will also be sanitary commissioner for those provinces. As already notified in the Military Department Order above quoted, "the deputy surgeons general of the Eastern Frontier District and of the British Burma Division will, in addition to their military duties, exercise the civil medical administration of their respective provinces, and will also perform the duties of sanitary commissioners in them." The deputy surgeons general of the Punjab Field Force and of Sind District will also exercise the civil medical administration of those circles. In respect of these civil duties they will be subject to the orders of the provincial surgeon general. In all provinces for which a separate sanitary commissioner is sanctioned the Sanitary Department will remain distinct from, and not subordinate to, the Medical Department. The sanitary commissioner of Madras and of Bombay will, in future, have the rank and privileges of a deputy surgeon general, as soon as he attains twenty-six years' service, or as soon as any officer below him on the list is promoted to the administrative grade; and, subject to the same conditions and limitations, the sanitary commissioner of Bengal, the North West Provinces, and the Punjab will have the rank, pay, and privileges of deputy surgeon general. The rule will apply to officers now holding the appointment of sanitary commissioner in these provinces. The five years' tenure of office by a sanitary commissioner in each province will reckon from the date of his attaining the rank and privilege of a deputy surgeon general. In the appointment of officers to be sanitary commissioners the same principles and procedure will be adopted as in the promotion to deputy surgeon general in the military and civil administration; but in the selection of such posts knowledge and experience as a sanitary officer will be specially considered. The supervision of the vaccination department will form an important part of the duties of the sanitary commissioner in each province. The separate appointment of superintendent general of vaccination, where it still exists, will be abolished, and this officer, as well as the superintendent of vaccination, will become a deputy sanitary commissioner under the orders of the sanitary commissioner, who will utilise not only them, but also the whole vaccination staff and the civil surgeons as far as possible in sanitary work. Although the administration of the Indian medical department is divided into two branches—civil and military—Indian medical officers will remain, as now, military officers, those in civil employ being only lent to the civil department and liable to be called on for military duty in the event of their services being required. Officers holding appointments which are abolished under these orders—viz., the superintendent general of vaccination, Punjab, and the sanitary commissioners for the Central Provinces and British Burma, will receive a personal allowance, making the emoluments of their future offices equal to the pay they now draw.

THE British Burma revenue accounts for the year 1878-79 show an increase of Rs.8,97,094 in the gross demand, and Rs.16,30,844, for 10·18 per cent. in the net revenue, as compared with the previous year. The net revenue for 1871-72 was Rs.1,23,79,440, while in 1878-79 it amounted to Rs.1,87,82,734, so that there has been an increase of more than 50 per cent. in the interval. During the same period the population has increased from 2,562,323 to 3,088,902, and the incidence of taxation per head from Rs.5-7 to Rs.9-8-11.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

THE USE OF IRON IN ENGINEERING STRUCTURES.*

THIS elementary work or compilation has been published for the special use of the students of the Madras Civil Engineering College. Although it contains nothing that cannot be found in other books on the same subject it has a value, as a text-book for the use of students of engineering who will specially have to deal with structures of wood and iron, where the question of strain is most important—we mean long railway bridges or viaducts for the Indian railways, and possibly aqueducts and roads, in time to come. The essence of a civil engineer's design ought to be a combination of strength with economy of material. In a country like India, where the iron girders necessary for construction have to be brought from England, and frequently transported for long distances inland at great cost, the question of economy of material in engineering works is of paramount importance. In order to accomplish this safely the engineer must have a correct knowledge of the strength of his materials and of the value of strains, so as to design his structure in a manner to combine economy with safety. Due regard must also be given to uniform strength. No structure can be stronger than its weakest part, and any additional strength in other parts is worse than useless. As Colonel Rogers observes: "The excess of material employed for useless strength gives additional weight, and therefore produces additional strains on the structure and renders it weaker than it would otherwise be." But, in order to design a structure having uniform strength, a study of the theory of strains is absolutely necessary, and the volume before us seems admirably adapted to assist the student. Only an elementary knowledge of mathematics is needful to comprehend all the examples and problems, and the student is assisted with numerous very clearly drawn diagrams on wood executed at the Presidency School of Arts. The book does credit to its author and to the Government publishing department of Madras.

THE MODEST RAINDROP.*

IN 1833 Mr. H. G. Keene, professor of Persian and Arabic at the old Haileybury College for Indian civil servants, published a little volume of Persian fables, freely rendered into English, for the amusement and instruction of young folk. To every fable was tacked its appropriate moral. The last in the book was called "The Modest Raindrop." It told how a drop of rain, falling into the sea, found refuge in the shell of an oyster, and there "grew into a pearl, which became in time the richest ornament of a monarch's crown." By way of moral, the author expressed a hope that his little book might some day "find shelter in the recesses of some poetic mind, and come forth again in a future age to receive the applause of its transmuted lustre." In the new edition just brought out by his daughter, Miss K. Keene, the heading of this fable has, by a happy thought, been taken for the title of the whole book, whose "transmuted lustre," in the shape of thick paper, good type, and an artistic binding, is further heightened by some pretty and telling illustrations from the designs of Mr. Fry, an artist of whose work we should like to see more. The whole getting up of this pretty little volume does credit to all concerned, and justifies the hope that this "Modest Raindrop" will find its way into the hands and hearts of a wide circle of readers. Even old folk will pay their tribute of approval to the meditative cat depicted in page 9, to the fox and the ass at page 31, and the group of animals' heads at page 49, while the fables themselves are racy of human wisdom in all climes.

A GOOD MEMORY.*

ANY suggestion of a work on memory recalls those curious puzzle books to which the title of "Memoria Technica" is applied. Four hens in a muff, as helps to remember the date of Henry IV., at once recur to the mind, and the first temptation is to throw the book away. "The Secret of a good Memory," however, should be read and pondered carefully, although the author honestly owns that his memory, "though fairly good, is of an impure type, and defective for many purposes." His distinction between sight memory and sound memory is well worked out, and we thoroughly concur in the view that it is a higher and better thing to possess the power, and know when to acquire information when it is wanted, than to carry about knowledge as "a packman bears his burden." We take that in and store it.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE FACTORIES BILL.

THE proposed bill has had one effect, namely, in bringing to notice the thorough selfishness of the so-called British Indian Association in Calcutta. This association has been induced by the removal of the permissive character of the bill to send in a memorial in which "they earnestly and respectfully pray that your Excellency in Council will be graciously pleased to exclude Bengal from the scope of the Factories Bill, 1880." Though called the British Indian Association, there is not a word in all this long memorial for India, but only an appeal for Bengal. This disinterested association plead for their own Presidency; but India itself, which, if one can judge from the name its members should care for, is entirely disregarded. The disingenuous character of the memorial and its special pleading would be amusing were it not disappointing to see an association so devoid of anything like a fair and catholic spirit. It states that they had not objected to the bill originally proposed, because from the permissive provisions attached to it they felt sure it would not be made applicable to themselves. They then fill their memorial with platitudes about the conditions of factory labour in the provinces being unequal; "that it would not be true statesmanship to bring them down to a dead level;" that due allowance should be made for "local peculiarities, conditions, and idiosyncracies;" that "this differentiation is unavoidable in the exigencies of practical administration for a population of two hundred millions differing so much in the elements of progress, in the conditions of material advancement, in temperament, and in industrial economy." We are told that in Bombay the "peculiar conditions have apparently suggested" this legislation, while "they are satisfied that the instincts of self-interest have had sufficient influence upon the millowners in Bengal in dealing with the operatives in a generous and kindly spirit." What these disinterested philanthropists fear is in Bengal—of course nowhere else in India—"the spirit of discord and dissension which it will foster in both the employer and the labourer and the clog which it will put upon the springs of industry." They ask for the advantage of the protection to their own industries which the permissive bill would give them in their competition with the rest of India for the sale of their manufactures. They tell us that the conditions of factory labour "differ so widely in Bengal and Bombay," though they wisely content themselves with this general statement, and do not attempt to point out these vital differences. They only add, "It cannot be just to make a hard and fast law for Bombay and Bengal alike, when the conditions of manufacturing industry in the two provinces are so widely different." The first thing one would recommend to this association is a change of name from Indian Association to Bengal Association, thus ceasing to sail under false colours. Meantime we may tell them that there is nothing in the conditions of Bombay industries which makes such legislation necessary there more than elsewhere in India, and that, in removing the permissive character of the bill, Government have done only what justice demanded. Because they have an independent governor who would not have saddled his Presidency with a restrictive measure to please those above him, when other Presidencies have not been perhaps so fortunate, is sufficient reason for removing from the Factories Bill a provision which would have led to protection and injustice. The bill was not passed at the last meeting of the Council, as more time was considered necessary for its consideration owing to the important changes made by the committee. It will no doubt be made law at Simla, and the permissive character will hardly be restored to it after the strong expression of the committee on this point, and supported, as that expression must be, by every impartial mind.—Times of India.

THE ROOT OF THE AFGHAN DIFFICULTY.

WE should like some one to explain what is meant by the Afghan nation, for over the majority of Afghans Dost Mahomed exercised no control. The Ameer's authority extended over the smallest half of the tribes, and the smallest half of the Afghans, taking all the tribes as one people. The independent area, too, of the districts held by Afghans is very much more than that governed by Cabul. How can any one speak of the Afghan nation and its independence when the country ruled over by the Ameer was the largest part of it, peopled by non-Afghan tribes, and only held in subjection by the sword? Taking Afghanistan, as it was on, say, Jan. 1, 1878, we find the districts from Cabul to Kandahar and westward under the Ameer; the districts between this territory and the English border, independent or nearly so, and the Afghan districts along the border under the English Government. So that one part of the "nation" was subject to England, one part independent, and a third part under the Ameer. Taking the portion under the Ameer, we find a bitter struggle going on between rival chiefs of the same House—the last act of the Dost was to march against a rebellious son-in-law; the first act of his successor was to march against rebellious brethren. We find a new central authority struggling to establish itself against tribal claims and tribal organisations; we find no system of law, no system of finance, life and property insecure, and the whole land covered with forts and fortalices. If this state of things be realised; if it be remembered that Dost Mahomed died a fortnight after putting down a rebellion at Herat, and that he died only seventeen years ago; that Shere Ali only put down his brothers in 1869, and had then to put down his son Yakoob Khan; if all this, especially the cardinal fact of the Dost's death and the circumstances preceding it, be kept in mind, then English statesmen will begin to comprehend what makes the difficulty of the Afghan question, and why it is that we have found the country without a system of government, and without a chief about whom the people can rally.—Indian Daily News.

THE JHANSI ENCUMBERED ESTATES BILL.

THE bill for the relief of encumbered estates in Jhansi has a special interest as being in the nature of an experiment to provide machinery for the rectification of defects in the zemindari system. The Jhansi district, in Bundelcund, consists of four pergunnahs—Jhansi, Gurotha, Mau, and Moth—and lies between the great sub Himalayan plain on the north and the high table land of Central India on the south. Before the British occupation the tenure of Jhansi was ryotwar. The whole agricultural community under that tenure were responsible for the revenue or rent to which the Government laid claim. Under the change of system introduced by the British Government the community at large was relieved of this liability for the revenue, and the whole burden and responsibility of it was undertaken, in consideration of the grant of proprietory rights by new made proprietors. These proprietors constituted only a fraction of the entire agricultural community, a fraction scarcely superior in intelligence or in the possession of capital to the rest of the cultivating class, and it is questionable whether, under any circumstances, the addition to their means which have accrued from proprietory rights would be sufficient to enable them to fulfil the engagements they have undertaken on behalf of the whole community. Under the abnormal circumstances which have prevailed of late years, famine, pestilence, and murrain, the zemindars have been simply overwhelmed and ruined. As for the tenants, they cultivate under precisely the same conditions as the landowners. They are exposed to the same losses from failure of rain. They have gone through the same misfortunes. The only point of difference between them and the zemindars is that they are no longer liable to the State for its revenues as they used to be. In a bad year the tenants do not pay, and the landlords neither can, nor dare to, proceed to extremities with tenants whom it is not easy to replace. On the other hand, the landowners are between the upper and the nether millstone. They are crushed between the impossibility of withholding their revenue from the Government above, and the impossibility of extracting their rents from the tenants below. This difference, Mr. Colvin thinks, explains the fact, which is admitted by everybody who knows the country, that the ryots of Jhansi are fairly prosperous, whilst the zemindars are almost all poor. The remedy embodied in the bill proposes to dispossess for a time the encumbered zemindars, to undertake the management of the embarrassed estates, to pay their debts for them, and restore to them by and by their properties.—Times of India.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At the general meeting of the Sungoo River Tea Company the accounts and reports were passed, Rs.12,000 being placed to credit of a working capital fund.—At the general meeting of the Tukvar Company a dividend of 6 per cent., or Rs.12 per share, was declared.—At the general meeting of the Indian General Steam Navigation Company some discussion took place as to the desirability of taking so much out of the earnings of the half-year for new steamers and flats, and whether or not a larger dividend than that proposed by the directors should be paid. The question being satisfactorily answered by the chairman, the following resolutions were passed:—"That the report of the directors for the past half-year be received and confirmed, and that the accounts, as audited, be passed as correct and satisfactory." "That a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent., or Rs.50 per share, be declared for the half-year ending Dec. 31, payable on after March 29. "That Messrs. F. G. Davison and H. F. Brown (ex-officio), be re-elected directors of the company for the ensuing year." "That Mr. C. Herbert be elected a director of the company for the ensuing year." "That Messrs. W. Nicholls and W. A. Browne be re-elected auditors of the company for the ensuing year." "That a bonus of Rs.1,000 be presented to each of the directors for their services to the company during the past half-year." The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chair.—Englishman.

ELEPHANT CATCHING IN THE GARO HILLS.—The very large number of 217 elephants were caught in the Garo Hills between Christmas and Feb. 20. Mr. Sanderson and his establishment have left the jungles with the captured animals, and are encamped at the Southern foot of the hills, where fodder is abundant. The large number of tame elephants (about 140) with the establishment attend to the daily wants of the captives, leading them to graze and to drink and bathe, and bringing fodder for their night's consumption. Herds of 49, 48, 46 and smaller numbers were captured. Capt. Hennessey, 10th N.I., was deputed this season on account of the Bengal Government to learn something of elephant catching as pursued in the Military Department's kheddahs, under Mr. Sanderson, with a view to kheddahs being worked in the Dooars next year; but an unfortunate attack of fever prostrated the gallant officer and obliged him to leave the jungles and to fall back upon Mymensing after witnessing the capture of seven elephants only. Elephants are very numerous in the Garo Hills; 129 were caught last year, and 92 the year before, which, with the extraordinary number recently secured, makes a total for three years of 438. In one stockade, which consisted of a circular enclosure about forty yards in diameter, surrounded by a barricade of timber twelve feet high, with a ditch seven feet wide by seven inside, two tuskers in the herd of forty-eight animals fought at intervals for several hours, until the less powerful animal was thoroughly beaten and was forced across the trench and against the stockade by his determined assailant. In his desperation, and with the assistance of his foe, who materially influenced his movements by the application of his sharp tusks about his stern, the fleeing tusker managed to break his way through the barricade regardless of guns fired against his head, prods from spears and from torches and digging tools made red hot. This elephant and his assailant had in their struggles killed four young elephants and a large Muckna, which died from a stab behind the shoulder that probably penetrated the lungs. Mr. Sanderson shot the escaped tusker's recent assailant to prevent further damage and mischief to the tame elephants that would have to enter the stockade at daylight to secure the wild ones. Fortunately not a single man was killed during the two months' hunting. Last year six were killed on the spot by elephants and several injured, one was carried off by a tiger and one was severely hurt by a wild buffalo. —Correspondent of Englishman.

A NEW INDUSTRY IN BURMA.—The Burmese have turned their hands to a new branch of industry. We saw recently specimens of billiard balls manufactured in Rangoon, which, in appearance, bid fair to rival those imported from England. We hear that these balls can be supplied, made from the ivory tusks of Burmese elephants, at a much more reasonable rate than that now charged for English billiard balls.—Englishman.

THREATENING TO REPORT AN OFFICIAL.—A clergyman in British Burma was recently prosecuted for threatening to report an official to the chief commissioner. He was actually convicted of an offence under section 189 of the Penal Code—of holding out a threat of injury to a public servant, &c. The future career of the magistrate who convicted will doubtless be very brilliant. Fortunately for the clergyman, an appeal was made to the judicial commissioner, who ruled that it would not be illegally injuring a man to report him to the chief commissioner. In a case like this the cost of an appeal might reasonably be deducted from the convicting magistrate's salary.—Pioneer.

THE PUNJABI LANGUAGE.—It is said that very considerable progress is being made by a society called the Singh Sabha, established last year at Umritsar, for the purpose of encouraging the cultivation of the Punjabi language. Similar institutions have since been established at Lahore, Gujranwala, and other places, and it is now proposed to unite them all under a provincial establishment to be fixed at Umritsar.—Times of India.

THE NEW DISEASE.—A new disease, the appearance of which in Calcutta was recently mentioned by us, formed the subject of a discussion at a recent meeting of the Calcutta Medical Society. Dr. Chambers took a most serious view of it, describing it as a scourge like the plague, and said it was identical with the relapsing famine fever. This theory was combated by Drs. Cayley and Macleod, municipal health officers, and by a native doctor, who had seen many cases of beriberi during the Madras famine, and who described the two diseases as identical. In the municipal mortuary returns it is called fever, with œdema.—Times Telegram.

MR. LALL MOHUN GHOSE.—The nature of the instructions given to Mr. Lall Mohun Ghose before starting on his electoral mission may be gathered from the resolution passed by the Indian Association at their meeting. The resolution ran as follows:—"That Mr. L. Ghose be instructed to bring forward, so far as may be practicable, Indian questions before the British constituencies during the coming general election; to help in the return to the new House of Commons of members interested in the cause of India and in the redress of Indian grievances, especially of Mr. Fawcett, the present member for Hackney, who has so long, so strenuously, and with such disinterested zeal advocated the best interests of the people of India." Then follows an address, which is scarcely so long as these addresses usually are, which begins by informing the British electors that "an all-merciful Providence has entrusted the interests of the people of this country" to their care. They are next asked to elect representatives who may feel especial interest in the people of India, and "who may be expected to do justice to their claims. Since the proclamation of the Empire in India and assumption of the Imperial title by her Gracious Majesty the Queen, a line of policy of a retrograde and repressive character has been pursued in reference to Indian affairs which is opposed to the beneficent traditions of British rule in this country, and which has filled the public mind of India with alarm." The Vernacular Press Law; the Arms Act; the discouragement "in several provinces of India" of the diffusion of higher English education; the saddling of India with the cost of the Afghan war "notwithstanding the declaration of the highest authority, the Prime Minister himself, that it had been undertaken to maintain the prestige of England in Europe, and that of Lord Lytton, Governor General of India, that the Central Asian policy of the Government was to be considered as an integral portion of the foreign policy of England;" "harassing taxation;" the repeal of the cotton duties; are among the grievances which are said to be at present pressing upon the people of India, and which the British constituencies are asked to declare shall cease. The address thus concludes:—"Electors of Great Britain and Ireland! The voiceless millions of India earnestly appeal to you to remember that in voting on this momentous occasion you are deciding issues of great importance, as affecting not only yourselves, but also your unrepresented fellow subjects in a distant dependency of the British empire. They confide their interests to your hands, and they feel assured that they do not appeal in vain to the generous instincts and the sense of justice which have at all times distinguished the British nation."

DR. D. B. SMITH, principal of the Medical College, Calcutta, has withdrawn his application to be permitted to resign his appointment.

HILL TIPPERAH.—In acknowledging the receipt of the administrative report of Hill Tipperah for 1878-79 the Secretary of State expresses satisfaction with reference to the conduct of the Maharaja in strictly adhering to his proclamation for the suppression of domestic slavery within his dominions, and considers that the success with which that measure has been carried out entitles that chief to commendation.—Times of India.

THE BARA BANKI DISTRICT.—The regular settlement of the Bara Banki District of Oudh, which was made about fourteen years ago, has lately received the confirmation of the Secretary of State. During that period the settlement has worked satisfactorily, and there is every reason to believe that the incidence of assessment is equitable.—Ibid.

OCTROI DUTIES.—The merchants of Nagpore memorialised the Government of India for the refund of octroi duties on dyes paid by them between 1868 and 1874, but were informed that their request could not be complied with. In this decision the Secretary of State concurs.—Ibid.

TOBACCO CULTIVATION.—In acknowledging a copy of the report by Mr. Buck on tobacco operations in the North Western Provinces during 1878-79 Lord Cranbrook says:—"This report is most satisfactory, and I join with your Government in an expression of gratification at the success which has attended Mr. Buck's able exertions in the development of this industry in India. I shall await with interest a report on the result of the sales in England of the tobacco crop of the past year.—Ibid.

VOLUNTEERS IN THE PUNJAB.—The volunteers serving in the Punjab are to be formed into three administrative battalions with the Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab (Sir R. E. Egerton) as honorary colonel. The 1st Battalion (1st Punjab Volunteer Corps) will consist of the companies of Lahore, Shahdara, Rupar, Rawul Pindee, and Peshawur, the headquarters are to be at Lahore and Lieutenant Colonel T. W. Rawlins is appointed commandant. The 2nd Battalion (2nd Punjab or Simla Volunteer Rifle Corps) will consist of the four companies at Simla, Major F. Peterson to be the commandant with the rank of lieut.-colonel. The 3rd Battalion (3rd or Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway Volunteer Rifle Corps) will also have their headquarters at the capital of the Punjab, the commandant being Lieut. Colonel Roscoe Bocquet.—Ibid.

IT is said that Major Biddulph, stationed on the Kashmir boundary, has prepared a report upon the customs, the languages, and the folk-lore of the singular communities among whom he has been residing for a long time. "From Major Biddulph's peculiar advantages and opportunities may be expected," says the Pioneer, "a complete account of people who are a survival of the old Aryans, from whom all civilised mankind of the present day is probably descended. Surgeon-Major Bellew, meanwhile, has been examining a few men from the cantons on the south west of Dardistan, peopled by a similar race, who in one respect are still more interesting, for their country has never yet been visited by a civilised traveller. But in appearance and language they closely resemble the Dards, and, unlike them, have not embraced the creed of their Mahomedan neighbours. The tongues spoken in all these hills are, for the most part, Aryan; not descended from Sanskrit, and, indeed, of earlier origin than that classical language. On the northern slopes of the mountains Parsee words prevail in the southern cantons. Some of the words resemble Greek, some Latin, some those of modern Europe. They make, and freely consume, grape wine, something like a crude Burgundy. Those who are not Mussulmans believe in one God, but employ the intercession of minor powers represented by images. They also occasionally canonise great men whom they have lost by death. They are usually monogamous, opposed to divorce, and strict defenders of the chastity of their unmarried girls. These latter have blue, grey, or hazel eyes; black hair is the exception amongst them, and, when young, they are of such remarkable comeliness as to be in great demand in the slave markets of adjacent countries. Authenfic information concerning these interesting races cannot but be anxiously awaited by all who realise the nature of the questions involved."—Ibid.

CALCUTTA FREIGHT MARKET.—On March 24 the disengaged tonnage stood at 39,054 tons. For London vid Canal—The market closed steady at £2 15s. for wheat or rice; the net nominal vid Cape, quiet at £2 5s. rice or wheat; £2 7s. 6d. jute, cotton, &c.; £2 7s. 6d. linseed. For Liverpool vid Canal.—£2 12s. 6d. to £2 15s. for weight, and £3 11s. for measurement vid cape, a good demand; rice, £2; linseed, £2 5s.; cotton, £2 7s. 6d.—Englishman.

A RUGBY DINNER.—On the 22nd March Sir Ashley Eden entertained about thirty gentlemen at a Rugbeian dinner at Belvedere, Calcutta. After dinner Sir Ashley Eden proposed the health of the Queen, and was followed by Sir Alexander Arbuthnot, on whom, as the oldest Rugbeian present, devolved the duty of proposing the toast of the evening—success to Rugby. Sir Ashley Eden's health was proposed by the Bishop of Calcutta, and in reply to the toast the Lieutenant Governor availed himself of the opportunity to pay a warm tribute to the services in India of Sir Alexander Arbuthnot. The latter briefly expressed his acknowledgments and the speeches were brought to a close.—Pioneer.

DIFFICULTIES IN THE THIBET TRADE.—The Thibetan authorities are reported by the Darjiling paper to have much hampered the trade between Thibet and British territory this year. The traders usually arrive in Darjiling in November, bringing with them ponies, sheep, blankets, salt, &c., and return to their own country about February, having purchased tobacco, broadcloth, &c., in India. This season, for some unexplained reason, Thibetan subjects were not allowed out of the country until very late; and when they were permitted to cross the passes they were prohibited from crossing the great Ranjit river into British territory. The result has been that the trade has been almost stamped out, and that what few ponies and sheep arrived from Thibet were actually smuggled across the Thibet-Sikkim frontier through passes which had been left unguarded.—Pioneer.

SUSPENSION OF PRIVILEGE LEAVE.—We believe an order has been issued restricting the privilege leave granted to all military officers. No leave can be granted except upon condition of an officer's being in a position to rejoin within a short time of his receipt of information that his services are required with his regiment or otherwise.—Indian Daily News.

MADRAS.

THE WYNAAD MOUNTED VOLUNTEER RIFLES.—The following is a list of the gentlemen who are willing to be enrolled in the abovenamed corps, to the formation of which the Governor General in Council has accorded his sanction:—Messrs. H. B. Winterbotham, J. M. Edwards, W. F. Gooding, F. J. Campbell, C. S. Moon, R. K. Walker, C. A. Mackenzie, J. Van Reesema, W. Chamier, S. H. Powell, L. Rose, J. Law, A. W. M'Rae, F. J. Budd, P. W. E. Watts, L. Mackenzie, J. Jardine, J. W. Little, E. C. Mitchell, I. J. Boosey, J. R. Malcolm, L. S. Achard, A. Trollope, P. Batty, W. E. Underwood, A. C. Griffin, S. L. Scott, J. H. Jones, A. S. Kearns, H. W. Baines, C. Featherstonhaugh, M.D., R. Lamb, J. C. Abbott, G. L. Yonge, W. V. Hudleston, H. Punnett, J. Bittleston, and C. A. Patterson.—Madras Times.

THE MADRAS IRRIGATION CANAL COMPANY.—The Government of India have at last sanctioned the appointment of an accountant on Rs.275 a month to supervise the accounts at Kurnal, and Mr. J. Maddox, the second uncovenanted assistant of the Public Works Department, has been appointed to the post.—Ibid.

FREE CHURCH MISSION INSTITUTION.—The report for the year 1879 states that the average number on the roll of the school for the year was 832, as against 806 in 1878; and of the college 197 as against 215. The total was thus 1,029 as against 1,021 in the year before. The slight falling off on the college roll and the slight rise in the numbers of the school are both accounted for by the unprecedented severity of the matriculation examination in December, 1878. So many failed who would in ordinary circumstances have entered the college that a third division of the matriculation class was formed. It is not intended to continue this arrangement; not for lack of candidates for admission; for of these there are enough and more, but because the building is inconveniently crowded, and the numbers quite as large as it is found possible to instruct efficiently. It may be interesting to note at this point the proportions of the various classes of the pupils and students. Of the 832 attending the school classes, eighty, or above 10 per cent., were Christians; ninety-three, or between 11 and 12 per cent., Mahomedans; the remaining 78 per cent. being Hindus. Of the 197 college students thirty-one, or 16 per cent., were Christians; only three, or 1½ per cent., Mahomedans, and the remainder Hindus.—Madras Times.

DR. COLVIN SMITH.—We understand that, though this officer applied for permission to retire on the higher rate pension of his grade, Government have refused to grant him this concession, as the recent G.O.G.G. restricts the number of retirements to but two, and as the retirements of two seniors (Drs. George Smith and J. R. Theobalds) have been accepted. As it is not likely that Dr. Colvin Smith will retire on the lower rate of pension, we believe he will continue in the service and be nominated as Dr. Theobald's successor as deputy surgeon general, I.M.D., of the Nagpore Force.—Madras Times.

THE LATE MR. IRVINE, M.C.S.—In Mr. Irvine's death the Government and the public have sustained the loss of a most valuable servant, and the Madras Civil Service one of its most genial members. The following is a record of his services:—"Student at the College, March 29, 1857. Assistant to the collector and magistrate, Coimbatore, Jan. 15, 1858. Officiating head assistant, Coimbatore, April 30, 1861. Head assistant to the collector and magistrate, Kistna, Dec. 13, 1861. On sick leave to Europe, from June 28, 1862, to Dec. 27, 1864. THE SALT DEPARTMENT.—The Secretary of State has sanctioned a scheme for the reorganisation of the Salt Department in the Madras Presidency. As previously organised, this department comprised twelve deputy collectors at salaries aggregating Rs.3,300 a month. It is now proposed to employ thirteen officers to be called assistant commissioners at a monthly cost of Rs.4,900, with travelling allowances restricted to Rs.3 a day for those drawing Rs.500 and upwards and Rs.2 for those drawing less than Rs.500. —Times of India.

THE MADRAS SURVEY DEPARTMENT.—The annual report of the Survey Department, Madras, for 1878-79 has been submitted to the Secretary of State, and shows that of the twenty-one districts comprised in the Presidency all survey operations have been completed in four and revenue survey operations in fourteen. Of the total estimated area of these twenty-one districts, 141,429 square miles, 48,478 square miles have been completed by the revenue and 41,195 by the topographical branch of the department, leaving 51,756 square miles for survey either revenue or topographical.—Ibid.

MADRAS GENERAL HOSPITAL.—The Duke of Buckingham and Lady Mary Grenville have paid a visit to the Madras General Hospital. In the Trevelyan Ward Lady Mary Grenville presented to nine passed sick nurses sea-green sashes and belts, her ladyship herself pinning them on. On the sash is the Duke's coronet, crown, and star, with the words, "General Hospital, Madras," in gold. Her ladyship also presented Mrs. Ambrose, the senior nurse, with a Bible. The nurses in turn presented bouquets to the ladies present. His Grace, after the presentation of the badges, spoke in praiseworthy terms of the conduct of the nurses, and advised them to obey strictly the orders given by the medical officers. He added that the nurses should wear their sashes and belts during their stay in the hospital, and when leaving the institution they were to make them over to their successors.—Times of India.

AGRICULTURE IN MADRAS.—The quinquennial statements of agricultural statistics for Madras for the five years ending 1876-77 have recently been laid before the Secretary of State. The returns are said to be not more unsatisfactory than was to be anticipated from the occurrence of the famine during the latter part of the year under review. Notwithstanding, however, the fact that in several districts people were compelled to resign a large quantity of land in consequence of the famine, there was a net increase on the whole in the occupied area of 271,000 acres, or about 1·4 per cent., part of which increase appears to have been due to more accurate measurements and part to the cultivation of land hitherto unoccupied. There is still a wide field for the extension of cultivation, as it appears that nearly ten millions of acres of assessed waste, or about half as much land as has yet been brought under cultivation, is still available to meet the wants of a growing population. Assessments increased, partly from revision of settlements, partly from extension of the area in occupation, by over eight lakhs during the quinquennial period. Considerably over twenty lakhs appear to have been expended during the period comprised in the statements by Government and by private persons on new works of irrigation, the new wells alone constructed by private enterprise exceeding 80,000 in number. On the other hand there was a serious increase, caused by famine, in agricultural stock, while the statistics of occupancy appear to indicate that the subdivision of landed property is making rapid progress.

WRONGFUL CONFINEMENT.—The Judicial Commissioner of Mysor has found Mr. Robert Ward, late an inspector of police in Tumkur, guilty of wrongful confinement for the purpose of extorting information, and has sentenced him to six months' simple imprisonment and a fine of Rs.500, and in default of payment to a further period of simple imprisonment for six months.—Times of India.

DEATH OF THE R. C. BISHOP OF MYSOR.—The Right Rev. J. A. Chevalier, Bishop Hierapolis, Vicar Apostolic of Mysor, died on March 25 at Bangalore. He arrived in India in 1837, and laboured with great zeal in the Mysor Mission for over forty-three years without relaxation.

THE RECENT MADRAS RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—The Madras Railway Company have granted compensation as follows:—To relatives of the subadar, Rs.4,000; of the 17th Sappers, Rs.6,800; of the native followers, Rs.200; to the 361 Sappers injured, Rs.5,000; and to the European servants, Rs.200.—Bombay Gazette.

MR. JUSTICE INNES.—Mr. Justice Innes was to have left Madras on March 21 in the Khedive for his eight months' leave of absence, but it was discovered at the accountant general's office that he seems to have exhausted all the leave due to him, or that he can take, and a reference has therefore been made to the Government of India. Mr. Kelsall, who is to act for Mr. Louis Forbes, has arrived in Madras; and Mr. Forbes is ready to leave Bellary at a moment's notice for the High Court, where he is to act as judge during Mr. Innes's absence.—Mail.

AN INSPECTOR OF POLICE ON SPECIAL DUTY KILLED.—We learn that, information having been received at Bellary of the depredations of a horde of dacoits, Mr. Hartnett, inspector of police of that district, was sent on special duty with a force of police constables to effect a capture of the robbers, and that Mr. Hartnett, after proceeding a few miles from Bellary, encountered the dacoits and was shot dead. Mr. Hartnett was for a long time police inspector at Ootacamund, and often gave proof of being a zealous member of the department to which he belonged.—Madras Times.

THE RAMPA REBELLION.—A correspondent writes that although Chendriah has come to grief yet the military force has work to do in hunting up some of the rebel leaders who are at large. A gang of rebels was reported to have been seen near Dhonalapilly, and, on intelligence being received, a party of the cavalry, stationed at Kottapailee, was sent after them, but the rebels managed to effect an escape before the force could have reached Dhonalapilly. While the cavalry was returning they captured nine men carrying supplies for rebels. Muttiala Chinnayya, a well-known rebel, his two sons and nephew were also captured. On the representation of the collector of Godavery, Rs.1,500 has been sanctioned for rewards to persons who may give information leading to the capture of the rebels.—Ibid.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON THE SOUTH INDIAN RAILWAY LINE.—We learn that an accident of a serious nature occurred on the South Indian Railway line on March 23. It would appear that on that day the 3.15 p.m. goods and ballast train passed over the 383rd mile between Thalahapate and Satur, and shortly afterwards a serious slip occurred at Satur on the Gagahperry Bridge, and five men who were at the place were killed.—Ibid.

BOMBAY.

THE RAJKUMAR COLLEGE.—We regret to see that with so many hopeful signs the Rajkumar College of Kattyawar has had the misfortune of alienating the regard of the several Maratha chiefs who attended it. Mr. Macnaghten is not sure if any of these princes will return, and this is certainly an unpleasant look out when the college can boast such an earnest and energetic principal, and the splendid accommodation for which his Highness of Bhownagar will be remembered by the coming generations of rajkumars. No small credit is due to Mr. Macnaghten for having initiated the Bishop of Bombay into the mysteries of Kattyawar life in a few hours. Advice to the young nobles of Kattyawar, whose mental and physical training seems to have interested him so much, is far from the hackneyed cant to be usually encountered on such occasions. That was the point of most value in his lordship's speech, in which he cheerfully agreed with the principal of the Rajkumar College that mutual sympathy and tolerance can bridge over wide differences in race and religion. This concession comes with exceeding grace from the eminent and zealous young prelate. It is on principles like this that India can be governed with advantage.—Indian Spectator.

MAHOMEDAN EDUCATION.—We congratulate the Anjuman-i-Islam on the success it has at last achieved, and are very glad to hear that Government has sanctioned the grant of Rs.500 a month for the purposes of Mahomedan education. This is a good beginning; but, unless the Mahomedans exert themselves and supplement the grant by large contributions of their own, they cannot be considered to have done their duty. They must rely more on themselves than on Government. We would suggest to the Anjuman that no time should be lost in calling a meeting of the Mahomedan population for the purpose of raising an adequate subscription. There are so many wealthy gentlemen of the Mahomedan persuasion, not only in Bombay, but all over India, that there ought not to be the slightest difficulty in collecting a sufficient amount for establishing a first-class Anglo-Hindustani and Persian school. We have no doubt that many Mahomedan chiefs and noblemen will be ready to aid in the good cause, and we think that the Anjuman ought to make an appeal to them as well as to the Mussulmans of Bombay. One Mahomedan gentleman has decided to give Rs.10,000 for educational purposes. We understand that the Government have lett it entirely to the Anjuman to spend the grant of Rs.500 a month in the manner the body may deem best, provided that the money is spent bonâ fide for educational purposes only. Whilst dealing with this matter the Anjuman should also direct its attention to the various charitable grants which have from time to time been made by Mahomedan donors for educational purposes. Cannot a portion of the Jumma Musjid Fund be used in founding an Arabic professorship? We understand that a very large sum—about 2½ lakhs—has for some time been in the hands of Mr. Ahmedbhoy Hubibbhoy, as trustee, and that a scheme is about to be drawn up for utilising this fund. It is a great pity that any time should be lost before so noble a donation is put to its proper use. What can be the cause of the delay?—Bombay Gazette.

THE KATTYAWAR STATE RAILWAY.—The Kattyawar State Railway is progressing rapidly. Although twelve months have not yet elapsed since the first sod was turned the earthwork throughout the 200 miles of the railway is all but completed; and now that the engines have been received from England, a progress of one to three miles per day of platelaying is expected. On March 9 the first train was run over sixteen miles of the new railway. Kattyawar is indebted for this work to the intelligence and enterprise of his Highness Rawul Sri Takhtsingjee, Thakore Saheb of Bhownagar, one of the most promising young chiefs of Western India.—Bombay Gazette.

CONSULAR CLAIMS.—The Bombay Government have replied, through the commissioner of customs, to the petition addressed by the Portuguese merchants in Bombay against the consul's announced determination not to accept any document as valid, though duly attested by competent authorities at Portuguese Indian ports, without his placet, that no consular attestations, in future, will be required, except in cases in which there may be reason to doubt the correctness or genuine nature of the documents presented.—Bombay Gazette.

A VETERAN MISSIONARY.—We learn from a private letter of the approaching retirement of the Rev. J. V. S. Taylor, of Gujerat. Mr. Taylor has spent the best part of his life in India, as did his venerable father before him; and we should be glad to hear that the memory of his long connection with Gujerat is perpetuated in a fitting manner. Mr. Taylor has been known as a man of rare linguistic attainments and ripe scholarship. But he will be best remembered in Western India by his comprehensive and classical Gujerat Grammar.—Indian Spectator, March 21.

THE SAILORS' HOME.—The annual meeting of the Royal Alfred Sailors' Home was held on the 22nd ult., under the presidency of H.E. the Naval Commander in Chief, Rear Admiral Gore-Jones. The attendance was good, there being amongst the audience the Hon. L. R. Ashburner, the acting governor, and General Warre, the commander in chief, besides a large number of naval and military officers and several ladies. Resolutions of the usual character were passed and speeches made by gentlemen interested in the home. The chief speech of the evening was made by the chairman, who, in the course of an interesting address, traced the rise and progress of the royal navy as at present constituted, and alluded to the connection between the mercantile marine and the navy, giving statistics as to each, and relating many personal and amusing anecdotes which made his discourse entertaining. Referring incidentally to the Vingorla disaster, he said he had attentively read the evidence given before the Marine Court of Inquiry, and he had no hesitation in saying that the ship was lost through the absence of a shipwright carpenter on board. The first mate in his evidence said:—"The carpenter was a Chinaman, who spoke pigeon English. I could understand him, but others could not," or words to that effect. Now here was a Chinaman speaking gibberish, a carpenter on a first-class mail steamer belonging to a first-class company. If the carpenter had been an Englishman the natural instinct of his profession would have taught him what was wrong, and if he had had no time to remedy what was wrong in the two or three hours which elapsed prior to the ship foundering he would have constructed a raft which would have saved every single soul on board." He called the attention of the authorities in Bombay to this fact, for he was of opinion that no ship carrying passengers ought to leave the harbour without a first-class shipwright carpenter on board." The chairman alluded subsequently to the practice followed by the Peninsular and Oriental Company of carrying lascar crews, and prophesied that this would one day result in a great disaster. He concluded his speech with a forcible appeal on behalf of the institution.—Times of India.

THE LATE MR. E. D. SASSOON.—Mr. Elias David Sassoon, youngest brother of Sir David Sassoon, died at eight o'clock on Monday, March 22, at Galle, to which place he had proceeded on the 13th ult. in the P. and O. Company's s.s. Kashgar, to recruit his health, which had been failing for the last month or so. His case was not considered to be serious, and it was thought that a change of air and a sea voyage would bring him round. Mr. E. D. Sassoon, in company with his father and elder brother, the present Sir David Sassoon, arrived in Bombay from Baghdad close upon half a century ago, and with characteristic energy the business which they started soon showed signs for further development and gradually acquired enormous dimensions. But it is admitted on all hands that these were principally owing to the zeal and tact displayed by the younger son, who gained the confidence of all who came in contact with him and was much esteemed. It was he who started his father's firms in Hong Kong and Shanghai; and in 1867 he opened a firm after his own name in Bombay, which rivalled in importance the original firm. During the share mania, the times of feverish anxiety, when reckless speculation brought down many a well established business house, the firm of David Sassoon was taken safely through the storm, and it was then that the deceased gentleman first brought himself conspicuously forward. It was only recently that Mr. Sassoon bought for Rs.6,10,000 the new Alexandra Spinning and Weaving Mills, one of the four mills that went into liquidation on the failure of Kessowjee Naik, and he was besides the possessor of large estates both here and in the mofussil. He was a director of the Bank of Bombay, and was one of its principal promoters on the new foundation; he was a shareholder in several companies and was the head of the Jewish community. His humanity and great liberality—conspicuous features of the Sassoon family—were well known, but the public never heard of half the good he did.—Times of India.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS.—The I.G. steamer Dalhousie, 1,060 tons, Captain W. Powell, sailed on March 21 for Karachi with Major C. P. Newport and Captain Lyster, 24th Regt.; Major Greig, R.A.; Captain Harrison, 30th Regt., N.I., Captain Cartwright, 48th Regt.; Surgeon Major R. Reith, A.M.D.; two Misses Brown, daughters of General Brown, Mrs Kirwan, wife of Lieutenant Kirwan, R.A., and details.—Bombay Gazette.

THE KANDAHAR COLUMN.—General Primrose will, on his arrival at Kandahar, exercise the supreme command. To Major General R. Phayre, C.B., who has had till now a brigade command in Western Afghanistan, whose ability and untiring energy have been so fully recognised by the Government, and who has rendered service in connection with the advance of our troops which have been fully and warmly appreciated by the Commander in Chief, Bombay army, has been confided the care of the whole line of communications from the frontier to Kandahar. It is but recently that the importance of the duties connected with the ordering of the line of communication has been fully understood in our armies. In the German army the function of the communications of the general have always been held in high estimation, and the officer to exercise them is always most carefully selected. The selection of General Phayre for this post shows the importance in which it is held by the Commander in Chief. The brigade commands in the division devolve upon Brigadier General Burrows, a well known, well tried, and highly valued officer of the Bombay Native Army; and Brigadier General H. Brooks, the greater part of whose service in India has been rendered on the Bengal side, but who is well known to the Bombay army from having held the office of adjutant general for the past two and a-half years. It is to the excellent way in which General Brooks has discharged the difficult and important duties of this last office, that he is indebted for his selection for the appointment to a brigade command on service. The command of the Royal Artillery devolves upon Col. W. French. Lieut. Col. Hills, R.E., is commanding the Royal Engineers. Surgeon Major O'Niel, A.M.D., will be principal medical officer, and Lieut. Col. Belville will be deputy judge advocate general. The assistant adjutant general and assistant quartermaster general to the force will be Major Burnett, 15th Foot, and Major Adam, S.C., respectively The brigade majors are Captain Nicholson, 27th N.I., Captain Cooke-Collis, 83rd Regiment, and Captain Larminie R.E. Captain Harris, 66th Regiment, will be deputy quartermaster general. AFFAIRS IN BURMA.

IF it can be gravely argued that, under the present circumstances, no settlement of Afghan affairs ought to be arrived at, there can be no room for hoping for a solution of the Burmese problem. Events, however, are not so kind as to wait for the Ministerial changes. And it is a new and most heterodox doctrine that the Government of India should pretermit an opportunity of useful action because a change of Government is imminent at home. At the present time it is still doubtful whether Theebaw has joined the majority or lives to do still more mischief. His penultimate predecessor, who lost his throne as a consequence of the loss of Pegu, has, we are told, died of small-pox in his prison. This fell disease has been raging at Mandalay, and the death of the youthful heir, for whom such gorgeous preparations were made, is reported in addition to that of the King himself. To the unreported ravages and terrors of the epidemic the wretched subjects of Theebaw have had superadded a greater horror. Following the example of several Burmese monarchs, Theebaw is said to have contemplated founding a new capital and removing his seat of government to the ancestral Moutshobi. But it is said that the Brahmin astrologers have made the royal savage believe that the Nats would be contented with the human sacrifices which are essential to the due founding of a royal palace. These Brahmins or their immediate predecessors suggested and carried out the farce of the second coronation of the late King, at which no Buddhist priests assisted. They alone are responsible for the perpetuation of those atrocities which, derived from the darker and more ancient demon worship, linger in the land whose people profess the creed of the mild and beneficent Gautama. It has often been asserted that the gateposts of the present palace of the King were erected over the bodies of human victims. Now we hear of hundreds of innocent people of all classes and ages massacred in the name, not of the religion of the country, but of a ruthless and obscure superstition. The story has doubtless been largely exaggerated, but it is in accordance with past history to suppose that there is some substratum of fact. The recent telegrams conveying these horrible facts might cause us to forget the older statements of the results arising from the unchecked career of King Theebaw. While the ambassadors sent by him have been waiting at Thayetmyo, seemingly in no hurry to return or to obtain power to enable them to proceed, the royal lotteries have been in full swing at Mandalay. The intense love of gambling which is inherent in every Burman has sent the labourers from the profitable harvest of British Burma to lose their money for the benefit of King Theebaw. While legitimate trade is checked, and the merchants of Rangoon know not what to prepare for, British subjects are winning poverty and distress to the enrichment of the King of Burma. Some, of course, have drawn prizes and returned home rejoicing, but this has been attended by another evil result. Never since the first years of our occupation of Pegu have crimes of violence and robbery been so rife. That the police of British Burma have never had the character of being especially efficient makes nothing for the present consideration. There is a distinct manifestation of lawlessness breaking out amongst the Burmese, accompanied by a feeling of something akin to contempt for the quiescent Kalas. This is demonstrated by the numerous cases of robbery which the police report as having been committed by men from up the river, who vanish over the border with their plunder. When we read the accounts that come by every mail, even making a large discount for Rangoon gossip and Mandalay mendacity, it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that a feeling has recently grown up amongst the Burmese that they can go great lengths without provoking reprisals. There is an especial arrogance at all times in the true Burmese, especially among those of the official or ruling class. It is a grave question how far they understand the cool indifference with which they have been left to themselves. They have grown accustomed to the absence of the British Political Agent from Bhamo and of the Resident from Mandalay. They know that the constant anxiety, the apprehension of the ever-menacing attack on the Residency, shortened the life of Mr. Shaw. Months are now counted since Mr. St. Barbe achieved what we may fairly call an escape from the city where, not so long ago, our Resident was greeted by its King as a friend; where our expeditions were received with all hospitality and honour. We declared that we could not hold as a friend a monarch who rioted in slaughter. Our friendship or our anger has been held by him as a subject only for a jeer. Although it seems that the Europeans who still remain at Mandalay are treated with careful respect, no secret has been made of the feelings with which the Government of India is really regarded. Wild and witless as the notion may be, and utterly unshared by the elder and wiser Burmese Ministers, the fancied power of the King, which no pressure from without has depreciated, has proved a potent agent for harm. The dacoities that we have already spoken of, the raid into Munipuri territory, are a like effects of it. The Raja of Munipur is now our loyal dependent, and we doubt not he will, by means of his own forces, give a good account of the Burmese brigands. But suppose that his little force suffered defeat, we must requite in kind the ready service he rendered in the recent Naga disturbances. Months ago we suggested that even the Naga rising was a symptom of the feelings excited by our attitude of contemplation. Doubtless, if Sir Ashley Eden and the Chief Commissioner of Burma had planned to let things go so far that the resulting anarchy might compel the annexation of Upper Burma, no better means of attaining this end could have been devised. Everyone who knows the country is agreed that for the mass of the population there could be no better change than to pass from under the tyrannous misgovernment of the King and his officials, and be incorporated with the subjects of the Queen-Empress. But there is no question of annexing, at least at present. There is, however, a very pressing question: Whether we are to be so sensitive of the feelings of independent Burma as to suffer the present state of things to endure. If Theebaw be really dead, it is hardly to be doubted that the horrors of Burmese civil war, waged between the partisans of this or that prince will be superadded to the evils which have afflicted the population of Upper Burma. If it is to be reserved as a first achievement for the new Secretary of State and the next Viceroy of India to restore order and re-establish something like law and justice in Mandalay the outgoing rulers will deserve the gratitude of their successors. Perhaps it is as a compensation for the difficulty of completing in Afghanistan a structure, the plan of which they have so persistently denounced, that the Liberal statesmen will be given an opportunity of regenerating so large and populous a portion of Chin-India. If a large number of commercial votes have been influenced at home by the badness of trade we wonder how a plebiscite among the merchants of Rangoon would result. The Administration which will, so far as is possible, take measures to prevent the recurrence of the state of alarm and the stoppage of commerce which has prevailed recently would command a strong majority.

REGIMENTAL ORDERS BY LIEUT. COL. W. S. H. HEWETT, COMMANDANT B.V.R. CORPS.—BOMBAY, March 23.—The accompanying farewell to the Bombay volunteers from Lieut. Col. J. M. Sexton, who has resigned the command, is published for the information of the officers and members of the corps:—"Dear General Hewett,—Having now, in obedience to superior authority, formally relinquished the command of the Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps, I cannot allow the occasion to pass without asking you, as their permanent commandant, to oblige me by tendering in regimental orders to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and members of the corps, my most sincere thanks for the cordial support I have received from them, and the soldierlike manner in which they invariably performed their duties during my tenure of command. In the discharge of these duties all ranks have displayed the most admirable qualities. Officers fully alive to the interest and efficiency of their men, non-commissioned officers being with their officers to the same end, and men loyally responding to their officers every call no matter at what sacrifice to themselves. To Majors the Hon. L. H Bayley and Fraser S. Hore my thanks are specially due for th able assistance and hearty co-operation rendered to me; the former first as junior and latterly as senior major and second in command, and the latter first as captain of 'C' Company and latterly as junior major of the corps. I am also much indebted to Captains Tennent, Kemp, Weir, Wyer, Noble, Scorgie, Cooke, and Sturrock for the zealous and able manner in which they have commanded their respective companies on parade, and superintended their interior economy. In the performance of these important duties they were well seconded by their subaltern officers. From Capt. Stokes, the adjutant, Capt. Crockett, the paymaster, and Lieut. Pearse, the quartermaster, I have received the most willing assistance. Both in the orderly room and on parade Capt. Stokes has given me entire satisfaction. Capt. Crockett has kept the accounts of the regiment from the first, and I take this opportunity of thanking him for the labour and care bestowed upon them, and for the extreme accuracy with which they have been kept. Lieut. Pearse, as quartermaster, looks well after his department, which, when I last inspected it, was in a most satisfactory state. In the discharge of their onerous and responsible duties the above officers were ably and zealously assisted by their respective non-commissioned staff. I beg, likewise, to offer my best thanks to Surg. Majors Hughes, Gray and Hatch, honorary surgeons, and to the Rev. Dr. Maule, Rev. J. Cooke, and Rev. D. Macpherson, honorary chaplains to the corps, for their kind assistance to me in their respective departments."

OUR ABKARI REVENUE.—From "Standing Information" regarding the Madras Presidency we gather a few particulars regarding our abkari revenue which will be found interesting. The income derived from the excise on spirits and drugs is more than sixty-three lakhs. The practice of deriving a revenue from the sale of intoxicating liquors is a very ancient one, having existed under Mussulman and Hindu Governments. The present sources of the Abkari revenue are the tax upon the manufacture and sale of country-made spirits, or arrack; the tax upon the sale of date toddy, palmya toddy, and cocoanut toddy; the proceeds of the licenses for the sale of country beer and European spirits, wines, and beer; the receipt from fees for licenses for the distillation of spirits by the European process and from breweries. Arrack, or rum, is distilled from sugar cane, jaggery, palmyra jaggery, date jaggery, and molasses, or from a combination of these substances, together with a small quantity of acacia bark. The spirit consumed in every district is made from these ingredients, excepting in Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Godavery, Kistna, Kurnool, Malabar, and South Canara. In Ganjam and Vizagapatam Messrs. Minchin and Co. are the renters, and they supply rum from their sugar factory at Aska. Date toddy is the fermented juice of the date palm, and is extracted by making an incision in the bark of the trees and letting it exude. It is taken from the trees for three months of the year only. It is largely used in the Bellary district, and is also used in Kurnool, Cuddapah, Godavery, Ganjam, and Vizagapatam. Palmyra toddy is drawn from the male trees from January to April, and from the female trees from February to May, the produce being about two bottles per day during the season. Cocoanut toddy may be drawn at any period of the year, but not for more than six months out of the twelve for each tree. In the Jeypore zemindari a fermented liquor is in use termed "sounda," which is somewhat similar to the rice beer of Bengal. Beer is brewed on the hills, its alcoholic strength not exceeding 6 per cent. In the town of Madras the arrack system is somewhat different from what it is in other places. All the arrack is distilled from jaggery and acacia bark under contract, and is taken to the deputy collector's office, where it is issued to the liquor shopkeepers. These latter enter into an engagement, called a "dowle," wherein they agree to sell, or, at any rate, pay the duty on certain quantities of liquor supplied to them daily from the Government stores. The revenue is obtained by issuing the liquor to the shopkeepers at a price higher than that at which it is obtained from the contractor, and the difference constitutes the duty. Colombo arrack, which is imported from Ceylon, is also sold to the dealers, and the duty on that as well as on country arrack is higher than the duty on imported spirits. There are at present in Madras forty-eight Colombo and ninety-three puttai arrack shops. The shopkeepers supply themselves with cocoanut toddy. Each shopkeeper is licensed by Government, and enters into arrangements with owners of gardens to draw toddy from the trees in those gardens. The Government officers stamp all the trees each season from which toddy is to be drawn, and fix a sum that the shopkeeper must pay daily as dowle or duty. Toddy cannot be extracted from any tree until the tree has been stamped and registered by the abkari officers. Besides the permanent shops for the sale of toddy, there are from 100 to 120 opened for the sale of palmyra toddy in the three months that the palmyra tree yields. The cost of the establishment for the Madras town abkari is about Rs.24,000 per annum. Those who retail European liquors in Madras town pay a license fee of Rs.100 or Rs.50 per annum, according to the extent of their transactions. In the mofussil the fee for a wholesale license is Rs.25, and for a retail license Rs.15 per annum. The fee for a license to distil by the European process is Rs.100. In 1800-1 the amount realised from the abkari dues throughout the presidency was but little over 2 lakhs of rupees. In 1832-3 it had risen to 18 lakhs, and from 1843 to 1855 it rose to 22½. In 1860 it stood at 30, and in 1865 at 42 lakhs, while in 1869 it reached 61 lakhs. Since 1870-1 there has been a slight falling off in abkari revenue. The greater part of this increase is due to the enhanced competition amongst abkari farmers. In one district with which we are acquainted the price of the contract has risen considerably more than 100 per cent. within the last fifteen years.—Madras Times.

MAHOMEDAN EDUCATION IN BOMBAY.—By the recent resolution of Government on this subject the Government guarantees a monthly grant of Rs.500 towards the expense of the proposed school, but as regards the formation of the school his Excellency in Council preferred that everything should be arranged and provided for by the Anjumani Islam, subject only to the usual half-yearly examinations by the educational officers. The Anjuman is expected by Government to do everything in its power to raise subscriptions in aid of this institution, and we understand that a meeting of the managing committee of the Anjuman was held on March 21 for the purpose of considering the best means of carrying into effect the terms of the resolution. All the leading members of the various Mahomedan communities of Bombay were present at this important meeting, and the expectations of Government as expressed in their resolution were fully realised. We shall watch with great interest the proceedings of the Anjuman, and the results of its endeavours to improve the status of the Mussulmans of this Presidency.—Times of India.

INCUMBERED ESTATES IN SIND.—The administration reports by the managers incumbered estates in Sind and in Thar and Parkar show that altogether 313 estates have been taken under management, and proposals have been submitted for fifty-four of the largest of them, representing more than half the actual liabilities. Of the remainder it is considered probable that many will be restored to their owners, and that this would not have come under management at all if the preliminary inquiries had been properly conducted. The total sum claimed by creditors was, it appears, Rs.30,77,693, of which only Rs.16,60,976, or little more than one-half, has been admitted, exclusive of Rs.78,637, not yet disposed of. In a large percentage of cases it is stated no claims were preferred at all, the reason of their abandonment being, as explained by the political superintendent, Thar and Parkar, "that the so-called creditors had already received full satisfaction of their just claims, and the balance which they told the zemindars was due consisted only of exorbitant compound interest, claims for which they did not care to advance to the manager." The Secretary of State remarks on the reports that they "are satisfactory, and reflect credit on the management of Colonel Boulton and Major Crawford."—Bombay Gazette.

BENGAL GAOLS.—The Press Commissioner informs us that the Secretary of State has sanctioned certain proposals made by the Government of Bengal for the reorganisation and improvement of the Gaol Department in the Lower Provinces. The specific proposals involved were the creation of a special gaol service and the increase of the pay of the inspector-general's personal assistant. By the special gaol service is meant that the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal should be authorised to select certain assistant superintendents of police not exceeding three in number, who might show special aptitude for work in the gaol department, and that after they had been trained in the central gaols, they might be transferred to the charge of a large district gaol and eventually be entrusted with the superintendence of a central gaol; the object being to induce men taking an interest in the work and showing qualifications for it, to remain in the department instead of seeking for more highly paid employment elsewhere. The arrangement will remove inconveniency in the present system, and will be attended with a small annual saving to Government.

HOME NEWS.

OBITUARY.—Lady Haines, the wife of General Sir Frederick Paul Haines, G.C.B., died somewhat suddenly on Wednesday week, at Austin-wood-cottage, near Gerard's-cross, Buckinghamshire. Her ladyship was Charlotte Jane Sophia, eldest daughter of the late Major General Edward Every Miller, and was married in 1856 to General Haines, who was created a K.C.B. in 1871 and G.C.B. in 1877, and is now Commander in Chief in India. The funeral took place at Stutton, near Ipswich, on Thursday last. Lady Haines, by her lively manners and accomplishments, made herself a general favourite in India, and her untimely loss will be felt by many sincere friends.

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE.—The Board of Oriental Studies have appointed the following subjects for the previous examination, 1880, for natives of India:—Sanskrit": The Story of Nala," books i.-xiii.; "Sakantala," acts i.-iii., ed. Monier Williams. Arabic: The Koran, sür, 6, 17, 18, 36, 39; Wright's Arabic Reading Book, pp. 177 to end.

THE JAVANESE IDIOTICON.—A Dutch judge in India, the editor of a Dutch-Indian law journal, has collected no fewer than sixteen Javanese words for the various phases of stealing, as used in Central Java. "Ngiwat" is to abduct, to decoy; "mbedog" seems to stand for poaching or cattle lifting; "njoeling" means organised brigandage; and "ngètjoe," a word supposed to be derived from the name of the Chinese pirate Keh Tjoe, clearly indicates garroting.—Times.

THE CENTRAL ASIAN QUESTION.—Professor Martens held a conference on the 13th inst. at the Navy Club of Cronstadt on the Central Asian question. The professor refuted the opinion prevalent in England that Russian dominion in Central Asia was a source of danger to the British possessions in India, and declared the idea of a Russian invasion of India to be absurd. Such an invasion would, moreover, be materially impossible, in view of the fact that the distance from Tiflis to the Indus was 2,250 English miles. From the Caspian Sea to Merv the distance was 700, and from Merv to the Indus 1,000 miles. Modern wars were not carried on now as in the time of Alexander the Great and Genghis Khan. Forage, water, ammunition, and artillery must be carried for the troops; and an army leaving the shores of the Caspian Sea would arrive at the Afghan mountains reduced to one-half its original strength, while only a few regiments would ever reach the Indus. "But it is said," continued Professor Martens, "that Russian influence in Asia diminishes that of England in India. That is impossible in the case of a nation possessing the resources of the British Empire, and the rivalry between England and Russia must on the contrary be a benefit to civilisation, instead of leading to war and bloodshed." The professor dwelt strongly on the irrationality of two great Powers weakening themselves to secure an impossible reciprocal surrender on barbarous territory when there was room for friendly emulation, and, in conclusion, advocated a Russo-English understanding for the benefit of trade, progress, and humanity. Professor Martens was loudly cheered at the close of his address.—Times.

WRECK OF THE STEAMSHIP "AMELIA."—A telegram from Aden reports that the Amelia, Captain Dixon, from the Malabar Coast for London, has been lost on Lacapedes Island. The master reports that the men who left in the mate's boat have not yet arrived. She was an iron screw steamer of about 1,000 tons burden, owned in Newcastle by Messrs. Hutchinson and M'Intyre, and classed 90 A1. A telegram from Cochin, dated April 8, states that the steamer will be a total wreck. When the captain left her she was parted amidships and breaking up, and the cargo was being washed out. The inhabitants were plundering her, and there was but little prospect of salvage. The Admiral at Bombay has been communicated with. A letter received at Lloyd's from the India-office on Monday morning says "there are native agents on the Laccadive Islands for the administration of justice, but no European officer resides on the islands. Under these circumstances the Secretary of State for India has been pleased to send a telegram to the Government of Bombay asking them if they can despatch a steamer to the wreck." A later telegram from the Admiralty states that her Majesty's ship Dryad would leave Bombay at daylight on the 11th for the wreck.

FIRE ON BOARD A P. AND O. MAIL STEAMER.—A Lloyd's despatch states that the Khedive, Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer, arrived at Malta, April 13, with fire in forehold, which was extinguished after four hours. Much cargo damaged, some jettisoned. Must discharge portions in forehold and orlop. No damage to ship. Hope to despatch her to-night. The Khedive left Calcutta on March 17 for Southampton and London, and brought the China and Australian mails to Suez.

ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION.—The directors report that the accounts for the year ended Dec. 31 last show a net balance of £66,188 after defraying all current expenses and providing for the deficiency of £39,095 arising from the sale of the Chilian bonds held by the bank. A dividend of 2 per cent. was paid for the first half of the year in November last, and it is proposed to make a like distribution now, making 4 per cent. for the year. This leaves £6,188 to be carried forward. Steps have been taken to introduce economies into the working charges, and the second half of the year showed a reduction on these of £14,000. As time goes on the improvement will, it is stated, become more visible. The balance-sheet, as compared with the figures for June 30, shows a reduction of nearly £2,500,000 in the liabilities due to the public, but the total of these, £12,652,229, continues to indicate a very large business. The deposits not bearing interest amount to £2,729,578, and those bearing interest to £6,252,201. On the asset side coin and bullion, £1,873,055, and balances due from other banks, £583,663, amount to much the same as they did six months previously. Government securities, including £121,875 consols, amount to £1,401,318, against £1,515,624 in June, 1879. Bills bought amount to £2,911,008, ditto discounted to £3,564,195, and loans and advances to £3,027,000, the three items showing a total of £9,502,210, as against £11,820,127 six months before. The balance-sheet is fuller than those hitherto made public, and indicates that the managers of the bank are doing their utmost to repair past mistakes.

COUNCIL DRAFTS.—Tenders were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England for Rs.45,00,000 in Government bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs.27,39,000, to Bombay, Rs.17,51,000, and to Madras Rs.10,000. Tenders on all Presidencies at 1s. 7 13-16d. will receive about 3 per cent.; above that price in full. Compared with last week this price shows a fall of 3-16d. The silver market showed no change as regards the tone until the result of the allotment was made known, when the tendency became depressed, and buyers were unwilling to offer more than 51¾d. per ounce for bars.

THE INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—The subject for the meeting of Tuesday next will be a discussion on sewerage and drainage works, and, time permitting, "The Amsterdam Ship Canal" by Mr. Harrison Hayter, M.I.C.E.

ROBBERY ON BOARD SHIP.—Martin M'Grath, a native of Liverpool, a seaman, was charged on remand, before Sir Robert W. Carden, M.P., at the Guildhall, on Wednesday, with stealing £40 in gold and silver, a draft for £20, and divers other goods, the property of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, on board the Mirzapore on the high seas.—Mrs. Clarence Watson said that she was a passenger in the steamship Mirzapore on her last voyage from India, and, with her sister, occupied a first-class cabin. On April 3 she went to her cabin about seven o'clock in the evening. The light had been put out, and when she got another light she found on the floor of her cabin her box broken open, a quantity of linen and other things having been taken out. The large bag produced was missing and a desk. She bought the bag at Calcutta for £6, and the desk cost her £3. There was also a hand-bag missing, and in that bag were four purses, two of which belonged to her. In one of them there was £19 in gold and some silver, and in the other a cheque for £20. She had received them back.—Hesketh Jones said he was third officer of the Mirzapore. On April 3 he was on the watch from eight to twelve o'clock, and he took the prisoner with him. The prisoner sat down on the deck, and pulled out a handkerchief. It was scented, and witness, believing that it belonged to one of the passengers, called the first officer. The prisoner then threw the handkerchief through a hole in the skylight. He (witness) went downstairs to get the handkerchief, and then he found in it 18 sovereigns and 4s. in silver in one purse, and a cheque for £20 in another.—Sir Robert W. Carden sentenced prisoner to six months' hard labour.—Standard.

INDIAN APPEAL CASE.—In the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on Tuesday judgment was given in the case of Ganesh Lall Tewari v. Sham Narain and others. This was an appeal from a decision of a Divisional Bench of the High Court of Calcutta on August 24, 1876, affirming a decree of Mr. Da Costa, the subordinate judge at Sarun, in the Bengal Presidency. Mr. Doyne was counsel for the appellant; Mr. C. W. Arathoon for the respondents. In December, 1851, the Raja of Ramnugger (Perhlad Singh) executed a mortgage of fifteen villages in his territory in favour of the predecessors of the appellant in consideration of the sum of Rs.49,453. Shortly afterwards one Binda Lall, who is now represented by the respondents, set up a lease of one of the villages, which, he alleged, had been granted to him by the Raja prior to the mortgage in question. A suit was brought by the Tewari family to set aside that lease, on the ground that it was obtained by collusion with the Raja, and to recover the village, of which they had been dispossessed, with mesne profits from the date of their ejection. They obtained a decree to that effect in 1860, but the litigation was continued until 1874, when a sale in execution took place. The question now was whether or not the appellant was entitled to recover the mesne profits of the property up to the date of the sale. Both the Indian courts held that he was not so entitled, and that the whole of his rights, including that to the mesne profits, passed to the purchaser. Their Lordships, in giving judgment, held that the courts below had taken an erroneous view of the sale, as far as it related to the mesne profits. The appeal must, therefore, be sustained, and the judgments of the Indian courts reversed. They granted the appellant his costs both in the tribunals below and in that appeal.

THE BANDA AND KIRWEE PRIZE MONEY.

THE Court of Appeal was occupied on Tuesday—present, Lords Justices James, Bramwell, and Baggallay—in hearing the arguments in the case of the Rev. Alfred Kinloch v. the Secretary of State for India in Council, which was an appeal from an order of Vice Chancellor Hall. The action arose out of the distribution of the Banda and Kirwee booty and prize money. In 1857, during the Indian Mutiny, Brigadier General Sir George Whitlock, who captured the town of Kirwee and the two Mahratta princes, Narrain Rao and Madho Rao, its then chiefs, in the course of the operations also captured a very large amount of money, notes, treasure, and jewels, of the aggregate value of about £700,000. Disputes having arisen as to who were entitled to share in the booty, in June, 1864, the Queen referred all claims in relation thereto to the judge of the Admiralty Court, and two years afterwards he decided that the only persons entitled to share in the booty were the personal representatives of Lord Clyde and his staff, and the officers and troops under Sir George Whitlock. In Nov., 1866, her Majesty granted the booty to the Secretary of State for India in trust to distribute the same among the persons who, under the judgment of the Admiralty Court, were entitled to share therein, and directed that if any doubt should arise as to the division of the booty the same should be determined by the Secretary of State for India. The plaintiff, who alleged that all the booty had not been distributed, brought the action on behalf of himself and all the other persons who, under the grant of June, 1864, were entitled to share in the booty, and claimed (1) an account of all the prize moneys and booty of war which had come to the hands of the defendant which formed part of the property of the ex-chiefs of Banda and Kirwee; (2) an account of all moneys paid or distributed under the royal grant of June, 1864; (3) and that any undisturbed balance might be paid and distributed in accordance with the last-mentioned royal grant. The defendant demurred to the plaintiff's claim on the ground that the facts alleged therein showed no cause of action. The Vice Chancellor, in overruling the demurrer, said that the grant being in a form which created a trust in the grantee there was nothing to prevent the cestui que trust from requiring his trustee to account. The question of obligation to account was not one determinable by the trustee within the meaning of the royal order; the case of "Alexander v. the Duke of Wellington" (2 Russell and My., 35), where there was only a scheme and no final grant, did not apply, and the demurrer must be overruled with costs.—The defendant appealed.—Sir J. Holker (the Attorney General), and Mr. Macnaghten were for the appellant; and Mr. W. Pearson, Q.C., and Mr. W. Bund were contra.—Their lordships were of opinion that the demurrer ought to have been allowed The warrant did not create a trust enforceable in a court of law, but was what it purported to be, a direction by the Sovereign authorising the Sovereign's servant having possession of the Sovereign's money to deal with it in a certain way. Another consideration was that in point of law there was no such person or body politic as the Secretary of State for India in Council. The words merely indicated the way in which the Government of India was to sue and be sued. It would be a violation of principle for a municipal court to take on itself to enforce the directions which the Crown was minded to give to one of its great officers of State. A provision in the warrant showed that the matter was meant to be a mere Government matter, to be determined, not by a court of law, but by the Secretary of State and an appeal only to the Queen. The appeal would be allowed without costs.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCING

PYRETIC SALINE.

USE NO SUBSTITUTE.—See perpetual injunction against imitators; also the unanimous judgment before the Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, Jan. 22, 1878, in H. Lamplough's favour.

Important to all, more especially English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in Tropical and Foreign Climates

Her Majesty's Representative the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a letter of request for an additional supply of PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of great value, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a tumbler of cold water. This can be repeated once or twice in two hours, if needful.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sea or bilious sickness.

For BILIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated secretions, Indigestion, and Eruptions on the Skin, a teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed. May be obtained of the Proprietor,

H. LAMPLOUGH, Consulting Chemist, 113, HOLBORN, E.C.,

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, April 3; Madras and Allahabad, April 1; Calcutta, March 31.

WE have received the following from the India-office:—

"FROM VICEROY, APRIL 19.—On the 16th, night, a large body of Pathans overpowered, after gallant resistance, the Dubrai post, between Chaman and Kandahar, held by local levies. Almost all the defenders killed, including Major Waudby, road commandant, who had halted there. A number of Kakar Pathans were also collected on Pishin border. Other gatherings reported since dispersed. Sir R. Sandeman is concerting with General Phayre measures for securing our communications."

NOTWITHSTANDING the apparently alarming news of an attack on the Kandahar line of communication, which was magnified into a reason for undoing the settlement already arrived at, the general tone of the news from Afghanistan is reassuring. That there is an excited feeling, which will lead to partial attacks on undefended posts, is probable. A Calcutta telegram also states that there appears to be considerable excitement among the Kuram tribes, and some uneasiness is felt at the stations along that line. It is reported that a gathering of Badda Khel, Mahomed Khel, Toozee Khel, and Hassan Khel Waziris has taken place at Zawa, within eight miles of Thall. Khostwals and Dawaris have raided on the road only four miles from Kuram Fort, near Edwardesabad, killed a few natives, and carried off some camels.

PARTICULARS of the attack in which Major Waudby was killed are given in the following telegram:—

"Sixteen hundred Pathans have appeared on the route between Kandahar and Quettah. They cut the telegraph wire, and attacked Major Waudby, who had with him a detachment of the 19th Bombay Infantry, consisting of seven native soldiers and fifty Pathans. The latter bolted at the commencement of the attack. Two sowars escaped; and all the rest, after making a heroic defence, were killed. Major Waudby's body has been recovered. Eleven dead bodies of the enemy were counted outside the post. Major Waudby was warned of the impending attack, and made every preparation to defend the post. He also sent a messenger to Chaman asking for assistance, and two companies of the 7th Fusiliers were ordered up. Seven thousand Pathans are moving about the hills, and their probable destination is Kandahar. The troops at Jacobabad are under orders to move at a moment's notice."

WE quote the most important items from the recent telegrams as follow:—

"Communication with Kandahar has been re-established, and the posts from Cabul have been strengthened and fortified. The guides and a wing of the 92nd, with two guns belonging to the Field Artillery, have gone into the Logan Valley. Reports have been received to the effect that the Hazaras, taking advantage of the British advance, have attacked and captured Ghuzni. According to reports from Turkestan Abdul Rahman has executed several of his followers on the ground that they had mutinied and that the Cabul levies have deserted.

"A movable column from Gandamak, under General Arbuthnot, has been operating against the tribes implicated in the murder of Lieut. Thurlow and the recent raids on convoys along the Khyber line. The column, which was about 2,500 strong, left Pezwan on the 12th and marched to the Hisarak Valley. Little opposition was experienced, although the pickets were harassed at night by the enemy. The Hisarak Valley was reconnoitred as far as the Anzamm Gorge. Five towers in Asmutullah Khan's forts were blown up on the 16th and the column returned to Pezwan, portions of it going on to Jagdalak and Sufed Sang. General Bright, who, with his staff, accompanied the expedition and personally conducted the operations, has now returned to Sufed Sang. The casualties were:—Lieut. Palmer, of the Commissariat Department, and one sergeant of the 51st Light Infantry killed, and some ten or twelve men of different corps wounded. A few of the enemy persistently followed and wounded several men of the rear guard. The Ghilzais of Lughman, among whom there were indications of moving some days ago, have now settled down again, and the last reports received state that all is quiet in that district. Sirdar Asan Khan, Govenor of Lughman, is trying to keep in order the Oot Khels, who are noted for their predatory habits. There are several rumours of gatherings among the Shinwarris, with the avowed object of attacking our outposts; but none of them have been confirmed. The telegraph line has been cut several times lately near Barikab, and a quantity of wire has been carried off. A considerable amount was cut and carried away yesterday (16th) beyond Pezwan, and the line has been interrupted. It is reported from Kunar that Syud Mahomed Padshah has repulsed the attack on his forts by the tribes, instigated by certain mollahs of Tonga Dak. Between Peshawur and Jellalabad, under the able management of Mr. Le Breton, chief inspector, the post-offices of Northern Afghanistan are working admirably. The hot weather is rapidly coming on. The heat at Jellalabad is great, the thermometer in the tents being over 110 deg. Fahrenheit."

THE firm tone adopted by General Roberts and the chief Political Officer at the durbar produced good effects on the chiefs, and the threatened opposition appears to be becoming weaker, although Mahomed Jan will possibly attempt it. A telegram says that a body of Suliman Khels, 6,000 strong, has joined Sherwan. Sherwan's force amounts to 12,000 men, and several of the native leaders are strongly in favour of an immediate attack. Others, however, advise the more cautious policy of postponing the attack until strengthened by the arrival of Muski Alum. The latter chief, with a force estimated at about 6,000, is marching down from Ghuzni to co-operate. From Mookar, the men of Hughes's Brigade can distinctly make out a considerable mass of the enemy on the march with banners flying. The whole country about is now deserted.

A COMMUNICATION has lately been received from Lieut. General Sir Frederick Roberts contradicting the statement recently published in the newspapers that considerable losses of treasure and supplies had been sustained by Government on account of thefts on the road between Peshawur and Cabul. The losses actually incurred are stated to be 300 and 600 wadded coats for the 67th and 72nd Regiments respectively, and 105 gallons of rum, six rum kegs, thirty sheets (English, waterproof), and twenty-two bags of dall in the Commissariat Department. The wadded coats belonging to the aforesaid regiments are believed to be in a village in Hisarat, and it is hoped that, at all events, a portion, if not the whole, of them will soon be recovered. The commissariat losses, it is said, were occasioned by the breakdown of carriage on the road, and the articles lost, it was expected, would be soon brought in by the local contractor. Deficiencies, however, are said to be noticed in bales of clothing and other consignments received in the Commissariat Department—a discrepancy existing between the quantity invoiced and that received in almost every item. The bales had no outward appearance of being tampered with, and hence the deficiencies are surmised to have been caused either by want of proper care or by peculation at the clothing depot whence the consignments were despatched. The matter was reported by the commissariat office of the force.

MAJOR SYDNEY JAMES WAUDBY, Bombay Staff Corps, 19th N.I., whose death in defence of the Dubrai post has been reported, entered the service on September 4, 1858, became lieutenant in 1859, captain in 1870, and major, 1878, in which year he was appointed wing commander of the 19th.

MAJOR GENERAL E. W. E. WALKER, Royal (late Bengal) Artillery, whose death is reported by this mail, entered the service in 1844. His commissions were dated—first lieutenant in 1847, captain and brevet major 1858, major and lieutenant colonel 1872, brevet colonel 1877, colonel 1878, and major general 1879. He served in the Punjab campaign of 1848-49, including the battle of Sadoolapor, Chillianwallah (mentioned in despatch), and Goojerat, medal with two clasps; Indian Mutiny, including action of Agra, relief of Lucknow by Lord Clyde (mentioned), occupation of the Alumbagh under Outram, from Nov. 25, 1857, to March, 1858, attack on Fort Rooyah, actions of Bareilly and Allygunge (brevet of major), medal with HER MAJESTY has been pleased to confer the honour of Companion of the Civil Division of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath on Mr. Horace Walpole, Clerk of the Council in India.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing to a contemporary with reference to the remaining orders of the Government respecting the Indian Medical Department, takes a very gloomy view of the matter. He remarks that the service is ruined for the benefit of a few individuals. All officers in the Indian Medical Department are informed that a legal opinion has decided that, if they elect for either civil or military employ when called on to do so, they will, by the very act of electing, forfeit all claim to the protection of the Henley clause, and also, by so electing, express their acceptance of any new conditions of service which Government may issue.

ABNORMALLY heavy rain has fallen in Assam. An official report from Sylhet, dated March 24, says:—"Such rainfall and flood in March never before seen; the bara dhan is probably destroyed; agricultural operations suspended; what remained uncut of cold weather crops destroyed." The amount of rainfall registered was 19·62 inches.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY was duly celebrated by the Irish officers of the Cabul Field Force. Sir Frederick Roberts presided, and in the course of his patriotic speech said:—

"I must acknowledge that under existing circumstances we are somewhat heavily handicapped as a nation in having no Irish regiments here, while such representative battalions of England as the 9th and 67th, and of Scotland as the 72nd and 92nd, are in the field. Finer troops than these, backed up by the grand native regiments which complete the Cabul Field Force, no general officer could ever hope or wish to command, but I cannot help feeling somewhat fearful that the total absence of Irish regiments from my force may be made the subject of parliamentary inquiry by some of those restless political free lances who have already had a thrust at me; anyhow, to this charge I can honestly plead not guilty, and must refer my assailants to the immutable laws which govern Indian reliefs. Gentlemen, on occasions like this political allusions are out of place, but I feel sure that you will agree with me when I say that I heartily wish that some of the most earnest advocates of Home Rule for Ireland would direct both their persons and their energies to the establishment of that most desirable result in Afghanistan. This would indeed be a work worthy of them, and attended with sufficient risk to be palatable to them."

A SHANGHAI telegram states that the board of princes and high officers appointed to try Chung-How, the late Ambassador to Russia, advise that he should remain in prison until the autumn, and then be executed. Prince Kung and Li-Hung-Chang are favourable to Chung-How; but their views are combated by other and stronger influences at the Imperial Court. The general feeling is adverse to the Kuldja Treaty, and a warlike tendency prevails. A native rumour is current here that Chung-How has committed suicide and that Prince Kung has resigned. The report has not, however, yet been confirmed. The Loochoo question is still unsettled.

THE conjecture that the fatal leak which caused the loss of the Vingorla was due to contact with a fishing stake at the mouth of the harbour of Bombay, has, says the Gazette, called attention pressingly to this growing danger. Three years ago the Chamber of Commerce drew the notice of Government to the dangerous practice of putting down and changing the position of these fishing stakes without notice. In 1878 Captain Taylor found a subaqueous chevaux-de-frise fourteen miles from the Prongs Light, and almost encircling the harbour mouth. The Port Trust found they could do nothing, and the Advocate General was of opinion that a new Act to deal with obstructions to navigation must be obtained. As the stakes are removed in May there is time to adopt proper precautionary measures before September next. The fishermen cannot have vested rights to contract the entrance to the harbour and endanger lives and property.

DURING the first eleven months of the current financial year the value of coin and bullion received for assay value at the mints in Calcutta and Bombay was Rs.9,48,88,932, of which Rs.2,06,92,475 was received in Calcutta, and Rs.7,41,96,457 in Bombay. The amount coined and examined in the same period was Rs.9,60,67,271, of which Rs.1,95,74,811 was in Calcutta, and Rs.7,64,92,460 in Bombay.

THE NEW C.I.E.

THE indefatigable efforts of Professor Monier Williams to establish the Indian Institute at Oxford might alone have been held sufficient to deserve the honour which we announce. His previous public services to Sanskrit literature extend over more than thirty years, for his dictionary of English and Sanskrit was published in 1851, and during that period his long list of important works include the Sanskrit English Dictionary, Sanskrit Grammar, Hindustani Grammar, an edition of the Hindi Drama "Vikramorvasi," besides his well-known translation and edition of "Sakuntala," "Indian Wisdom" and "Modern India and the Indians," embodied in English form, the results of his studies and travels, which will, we hope, find their lasting memorial in the Oxford Indian Institute.

ADDRESS TO SIR ANDREW CLARKE, K.C.M.G.

BEFORE the departure of Col. Clarke from India the representatives of the guaranteed railway companies presented him with an address in which was recorded, to quote the ipsissima verba:—

"The high estimation in which we hold the broad and liberal policy which has marked your general administration of the Public Works Department of the Government of India and our sense of the enlightened and liberal spirit which has pervaded the control of the railway branch of that department in particular, and feel that we would be wanting in due expression of this sentiment if we permitted you to quit India without acknowledging the obligation we are under for the improved relations between the Government of India and railway companies which have been established under your auspices."

In his reply, Sir Andrew Clarke, adverting to railway management, took occasion to say as follows:—

"The aid and co-operation tendered by the railways under your management during the crisis engendered of famine and war have assured me of their perfect efficacy under such control and management, and that no advantage is to be gained by placing them entirely in the hands of the State, as has been the tendency of our policy for the last few years. Firmly convinced as I am that the development of the country's resources by encouragement to private enterprise is in every way more desirable than a universal reliance on direct agency of the State alone, I consider the experience already acquired on our railways as of infinite value in determining our future policy regarding them. It seems to me, however, by no means improbable that a time may come, if it has not come already, when adverse influences upon the public finances may seriously check the extension of our railway system exclusively by the State, and that then attention will not unnaturally be again directed to the propriety of substituting for it agencies somewhat similar to those which you represent."

THE FOREST SCHOOL AT DEHRA DUN.

STEPS are at last being taken to utilise the forest school at Dehra Dun by the selection of young native gentlemen of good position and education to be admitted as probationers in the Forest Department. A resolution of the Government of India, containing the terms and regulations under which such appointments may be made, has been forwarded to all commissioners of divisions, with instructions to make known its conditions amongst the native gentlemen of position in the respective divisions. The Forest Department is divided into three great branches, viz., first, officers of the controlling staff in charge of forest divisions; second, officers of the executive staff in charge of forest ranges; third, officers of the protective staff in charge of beats. Promotion may take place within each grade, and also from one branch to another. The controlling staff is mainly recruited at present by the appointment of officers who have received a professional education in Europe, under the arrangements made for that purpose by the Secretary of State; but henceforth the sons of native gentlemen and other well-educated natives of India may obtain access to the controlling branch of the forest service by two modes; either by passing the entrance examination at the India-office, and going through the prescribed course of professional education in Europe; or by obtaining admission to the executive staff, and afterwards earning their promotion to the controlling staff by distinguished service as executive officers. The central forest school has, therefore, been established chiefly to make it easy for the sons of native gentlemen and of youths of other classes who have received a good education to acquire within a comparatively short time that amount of practical skill and theoretical knowledge which constitutes the professional training necessary for the executive staff. No apprentices will, as a rule, be received at the forest school who have not proved their fitness for forest work by service in the subordinate staff of the department during a period of not less than six months. The Governor General in Council states that "a staff of trustworthy and efficient forest rangers is the first condition of effective local forest administration, and the chief object of the forest school at present is the training of such a class of officers. In the course of their service forest rangers will learn by actual experience that honesty is enforced and rewarded, and that, without honesty and probity, efficiency is impossible. This plan must, however, be aided by professional education. It may be urged that probity and professional skill are two things apart, which have no necessary connection. But professional education will have this advantage, that it will increase a feeling of self-respect."—Pioneer.

RUSSIAN INFLUENCE OVER THE INHABITANTS OF CENTRAL ASIA DURING THE LAST TEN YEARS.

A LECTURE was delivered by Professor Arminius Vambéry before the Indian section of the Society of Arts on Friday last. Sir T. Douglas Forsyth, K.C.S.I., C.B., presided, and the overflowing audience manifested the intense interest excited by the topic and by the presence of the illustrious Hungarian traveller and savant. Professor Vambéry remarked that fifteen years ago there was an idea that Russian influence would benefit the Moslems of Central Asia. He admitted tranquillity and order, and a certain love of order, had superseded the former lawlessness and brigandage. But the reforms have only proved profitable to the Russians; the Moslem people are in a state of moral and material decay. Professor Vambéry showed that the domestic industry of Bokhara and Khiva had suffered greatly from the preponderance of Russian imports duty free. The industry was also injured by the increasing export of raw material to Russia without the consequent rise of prices benefiting the producers, owing to the exclusion of competitors. Formerly the commerce between Russia and Central Asia was carried on by the natives, whose place the Russian traders had taken. The Russian monopoly pressed heavily on trade from India, especially tea. The Russians had, moreover, done all they could to prohibit the import of Indian tea, both by heavy duties and by false statements. Afghanistan and Persia had also been commercially injured, the trade of Herat and Mashad being especially reduced. The lecturer expressed considerable doubt as to the actual diminution of the slave trade, especially in female slaves. As appears from the diminution of the number of pilgrims, the material well-being of the natives in Russian Turkestan had greatly declined. The people suffered under the great increase of taxation, which had increased five fold, independently of the extortion of officials, and the necessary payments to the mollahs, &c. The lecturer then adverted to the moral evils caused by the relaxation of religious observances and discipline. The mosques had become empty, and drunkenness and gambling had increased. The distrust of the mollahs shown by the Russians had diminished the influence of the former, and even the credit of Indian justice had suffered from the example of infidel rule among the Turkoman people. The authorities in St. Petersburg were ignorant of the facts, and the efforts at improvement in Russian Turkestan extended only to that portion which forms, from the lower Yaxartes to the middle course of the Oxus, the highway of future plans and schemes. To secure this bridges and irrigation plans were devised. The allegations as to educational reform were then considered and pronounced useless. The appointment of Aksakals and Kadis was useless in effect, as the officials were regarded as renegades. Russia was unable to introduce our civilisation into Central Asia, although she had exercised a beneficial influence on the nomadic peoples. It was different with the long-settled Moslems, whose culture the Russians despised, neglecting even the language of the Sarts and Usbegs. The professed enemies of Islam could scarcely be the protectors of Mahomedan culture. The Central Asiatics, as all Mahomedans, hate Russia, and desire to emigrate even to despotic Bokhara. The exodus of the Turkomans is a hard verdict against Russian civilisation. Professor Vambéry argued that the future of the Central Asiatics was very dark. The Sarts might obey the foreign ruler and become ascendent. The Turkish elements would be slighted and injured. The Moslem education would be obliterated before attaining to even Russian culture. He believed that the time had come to put a barrier to the dubious cultural mission of Russia, and concluded by saying:—"But it ought not to be permitted that the Muscovites should also extend their sway over the populations of Indo-Arian extraction. The frontier on the Oxus ought to constitute, as in antiquity, not only the political, but also the ethnical frontier; just as the cultural past and the degree of civilisation—but not the cultural capacity, as erroneously stated—have always been different in these two chief races of mankind. Hundreds, nay, thousands, of years have (in common with the conditions of the soil and of the climate) produced this difference, and our century of enlightenment cannot ignore it. Not in my capacity as a representative of the first-named (i.e., of the Turanian fraction), but from a humanitarian point of view, do I most earnestly desire that the unjustifiable ambition of Russia should be barred, once and for ever, and that the Arian elements of Asia should be made over to the guidance and the guardianship of that nation, who has become known in Europe by her high degree of culture, by her love of liberty and sense of justice, and who, having proved herself hitherto to be an excellent civiliser and a true representative of modern culture among the nations of the Old World, will never, and can never, become faithless to her noble vocation."

In opening the discussion the CHAIRMAN referred to his own personal observation of the strict order maintained by Yakoob Beg in Kashgar. He also pointed out that Russian orders, which were repudiated in St. Petersburg, had, nevertheless, prevailed in interdicting the import of Indian tea. Sir Erskine Perry remarked that the audience was evidently hostile to Russia. But he accepted the description of Central Asia as drawn by Professor Vambéry in his travels, and, comparing the present state of things, he concluded that the presence of Russia was a benefit to mankind. A Russian might draw a picture of our Indian rule similar to that presented by the lecturer. He thought that the civilisation of Central Asia was a task to be shared, without conflicting jealousies, between Russia and England. Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK considered the national boundary for our policy was the Oxus. Russia and China were both exclusive, and we did not want Russia to extend downwards. He referred to our former mistake in treating with Chinese rebels, and remarked on the subjugation of the Mahomedan rebels by China. In replying, Professor VAMBERY said that he did not know that he should be called on to defend England before Englishmen, a remark which was enthusiastically applauded.

MEETINGS OF THE INDIAN BANKS.

ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION.—The annual general meeting was held on Thursday, at the City Terminus Hotel. There was a large attendance. Sir W. J. W. Baynes, the chairman, presided, and, in moving the adoption of the report—after declaring the dividend recommended—said the first of the exceptional causes which had prevented their declaring a larger dividend was the realisation of the Chilian bonds at an unfortunate moment. Had it not been for this loss they might have paid 5 per cent. for the year and carried a handsome sum to the reserve. A second cause affecting the dividend had been that, owing to precautionary and other reasons, their business had been curtailed, but their agents wrote them that confidence in the bank's condition was restored after the receipt of the report of their October meeting, and their recent telegraphic advices were reassuring. He thought they might expect an improvement in next year's return. He must remind them of the express policy of the board to strengthen the bank's position by making from time to time all the reserves admissible under the charter. As to the working expenses, they had seen their way to introduce such changes without, they believed, impairing the effectiveness of the establishment, as would, they expected, make a substantial reduction of something like £30,000 a year, excluding the saving of the Port Elizabeth charges by the relinquishment of their South African branches. They feared, in the diminution of the number of officers, that in some cases individual hardship had occurred, which they regretted, but they had a duty to perform to the shareholders. As regarded the past, they had, like the majority of the creditors of the City of Glasgow Bank, accepted the offer of the liquidators to receive their claim in full, foregoing the interest. The increase in the item of "debts secured by landed or other property" was owing to certain circumstances having made it evident that it was to the collateral and not the personal security that they had to look to. It was foreign to their business to have landed security, and some of these securities were already in course of realisation. The indebtedness of the Ceylon Company to the bank was very considerably reduced last year, and had been further reduced this. The motion having been seconded, Dr. Thom complained of the increase in the item of "debts secured by landed or other property" and of the system of audit. One of the auditors protested against the observations of Dr. Thom as to the system of audit adopted by the bank. Dr. Mouat referred to what took place at the last meeting, and said he had received every courtesy and attention from the board. He was satisfied that, while they had not complied with his requirements, they conscientiously believed it would have been detrimental to the interest of the bank to do so. He moved an amendment receiving and adopting the report, and sanctioning the dividend, "but that, in view of the approaching expiry of the charter of the bank, and of the necessity of carefully considering the action that will then be required for the future constitution and regulation of the bank, it be an instruction to the board to incorporate in the next balance-sheet detailed and specific information regarding the securities held by the bank, the landed and other property of the corporation, the debts secured by landed and other property, and all other information necessary to place the shareholders in full possession of the actual state of the bank in every particular." He did not intend to convey any censure on the board. Captain Johns seconded the amendment. The chairman said that Dr. Thom was under an entire misapprehension as to the audit, which he believed had been most complete and thorough. There was no reason why the names of the directors and the managers of the branches should not be given with the report. The solicitor made a statement regarding the amendment, and said no information could be given about their customers. Sir E. Commerell believed if such an amendment were carried it would mean the dissolution of the bank. A shareholder, amid cheers, appealed to Dr. Mouat to withdraw the amendment; and Mr. Scobell, one of the new directors, also advised its withdrawal, and stated that the board were doing their utmost to restore the bank to the position it held in past years. In reply to other questions, the chairman said the charter would expire in two years. The amount reserved out of the profits of the past year for bad and doubtful accounts was £78,000. It would be contrary to their custom to state either the amount of the indebtedness to them of the Ceylon company or the rate of interest paid them by that company. Dr. Moual said all that he wanted was the production in the balance-sheet of the exact state of the affairs of the bank with regard to its securities, but without any reference to individuals. The report was then adopted and the retiring directors and auditors were re-elected.

CHARTERED MERCANTILE BANK OF INDIA, LONDON, AND CHINA.—The ordinary general meeting was held on Tuesday at the bank, 65, Old Broad-street; Mr. G. G. Nicol in the chair. The chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that the accounts were not so satisfactory as might have been desired, but, under all circumstances, he did not think the proprietors would regard them as disappointing. Although they had passed through a period of bad trade they had earned something like 9¼ per cent., which was an improvement on previous years. The circumstances under which the India and China trade had existed was sufficient to account for the somewhat inadequate profits which they had been able to make. Referring in detail to the several items of the accounts, he mentioned that the reserve fund, weich stood at nothing last year, now amounted to £33,090. This was a movement in the right direction, and he had every reason to believe that the amount would steadily increase. The special reserve fund was now closed, and the amount carried to liabilities £73,125. This fund was a provision for contingent loss on return at 1s. 9d. per rupee of sterling deposits employed in the East. The amount represented the gold liabilities at the different branches. The item of deposits stood at £3,163,537, which showed a falling off of about £600,000 as compared with the corresponding period of last year. Under ordinary circumstances they might have felt some inconvenience from this, but with their abundant resources and increased facilities for working it had rather tended to their advantage. The bills payable, £2,502,092, showed a falling off of about £600,000, which might be accounted for by the circumstance that a great deal of the business of the bank was carried on by telegraphic transfers. The valuation of the rupee paper on Sept. 30 showed a slight loss, but the sterling loans showed a profit. Bills receivable showed an increase of about £300,000 since last year. A great portion of the bills had run off, and with regard to the others in hand he could give an assurance that there would be no loss. The only bad debt made during the past year was in Ceylon, by the failure of a firm with whom the bank had done business. There was no doubt a great deal of bad and good in Ceylon, and they had therefore been particularly careful to conduct the bank's business there in such a way as would give them the greatest safety. They had got rid of the Ceylon coffee estates, and now, with the exception of a few small items, their assets were perfectly liquid, and could be converted in a very short time. The resolution was seconded, and after some discussion adopted, and the directors and auditors elected for the year.

CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA, AUSTRALIA, AND CHINA.—The twenty-sixth ordinary general meeting was held yesterday at the City Terminus Hotel; Mr. W. Paterson in the chair. The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that the proprietors might well congratulate themselves upon the satisfactory character of the accounts, which showed that they were doing a sound and profitable business. The statement of the bank's affairs could not fail to engender confidence in the minds of their constituents. It was just five years ago since they commenced to build up the reserve fund by placing to it £20,000, and they now recommended the addition of £40,000, which would raise it to £190,000. The depreciation of premises had been written down, and after providing for that and bad and doubtful debts there was a net profit for the year of £97,571. Out of this the board would gladly have declared a higher dividend, but they felt convinced that the mode of distribution which they recommended was the most advantageous. The increase in the reserve fund would add to the stability of the bank and to its earning powers, by inspiring confidence amongst its constituents. Although the cash balances with the agencies amounted to nearly £1,660,000, they could profitably employ more capital, and he would, therefore, like to see an increase in the fixed deposits; and with that view he urged the shareholders to influence such deposits, as they knew that the security was good, whilst the rate of interest was as high as in kindred institutions. They had settled with the liquidators of the City of Glasgow Bank by waiving their claim for interest; and in the balance-sheet they had provided for any probable loss on the small amount of overdue bills and doubtful accounts which they had. The past had been anxious and trying times, and such results as they had been able to present on the present occasion could not have been obtained without the most active zeal on the part of their officers, and he therefore thought that no objection would be raised to the proposition to place £5,000 to the superannuation fund. Mr. Whittall, one of the directors, had sent in his resignation, but, as it was probable that he would not long remain in the East, he hoped that the bank would again soon have the benefit of the valuable services of that gentleman at the board.—Mr. John Jones seconded the motion, which was adopted without discussion, and, the dividend therein recommended having been declared, Mr. E. Levita and Mr. F. Heilgers, the retiring directors, were re-elected, as were also the retiring auditors.—In answer to a question, the chairman said that it was the desire of the board to build up the reserve to £200,000, after which they would consider the question of declaring larger dividends.—The proceedings then closed with votes of thanks to the directors, the manager, and the staff of the bank.

THE deaths in Calcutta during the week ending March 20 numbered 230, giving a death rate of 27·9 per 1,000 per annum. The same week in Madras there were 308 deaths, giving a rate of 40·3 per 1,000 per annum.

OUR SCIENTIFIC FRONTIER.*

IN the pause of expectation as to the changes that may ensue in our North Western policy consequent on the changes in the home administration, Mr. W. P. Andrew has done well to place in the hands of all who will, a brief and compendious work on the "scientific frontier." An apostle of the development of trade in the Punjab and a forerunner who for long years has vainly advocated the railway extension which he has lived to see drawing to its accomplishment, Mr. Andrew has a full right to be heard on this subject. What can be accomplished by opening our restricted and secure trade communications with an Afghanistan, whether it be one State or a cluster of States, where order and industry prevail, must necessarily have been carefully studied by the man who has been so long identified with the commercial interests of the riparian countries of the Indus. The chairman of the first Indus Valley Railway has demonstrated in this volume that he has carefully studied and brought together all that may be known upon the strategic questions connected with the defence and the possible attacks upon the North West frontier. He justly fears that, notwithstanding the tutorial efforts of the Press, the English public still is rather hazy on the topography of the "scientific frontier." He is severe on the past neglect, which, during thirty years, refusing to improve our communications, and declining to throw a permanent bridge across the Indus, created the disadvantages that have been alleged by opponents to be inherent in a trans-Indian frontier. A succinct chapter on the history of Afghanistan and our relations with that country is followed by a full and instructive account of its natural resoures, its manufactures, and its trade. We have on more than one occasion called the attention of our readers to the future possibilities of an extended commerce, especially with Southern Afghanistan. We are glad to find that Mr. Andrew lays great stress upon this. The opening up of the Central Asian trade, which we have before dwelt on as an object to be attained by the extension of British influence to Kandahar, is insisted on. "Russia has," we are told, "monopolised that trade to a great extent; goods which in former days reached the markets of the Bokhara from Europe viâ Hindustan and Cabul now arrive viâ Orenberg and Tashkend. We have ourselves to blame for this. Instead of sending embassies to ephemeral potentates, had the communications with our North West frontier, strategically necessary, been completed immediately after the annexation of the Punjab, the commercial benefits, both to Afghanistan and to India, would have been incalculable." Manchester is credited with having pushed the futile attempt to open up trade with rebels against China, which was contrary to our treaty and discreditable to our common sense. Mr. Andrew takes his stand on facts and right when he urges that now is the time and the opportunity, both for English cotton and Indian tea to find new and ever-increasing markets, as a consequence of the bold and vigorous policy which the men of peace who have denounced it will condescend to profit by. Mr. Andrew devotes several chapters to the consideration of the passes, not forgetting the character and conduct of the frontier tribes. The means of communication and the conjectural route of an imaginary invader are discussed with the aid of the collective opinions of the greatest and most recent authorities. The reader is thus enabled to judge of the opinions he may hear, and form one of his own, as to the measures to be adopted, without reference to political party, for the insurance of peace on our frontier. Mr. Andrew has succeeded in his endeavour to "show how, with the smallest extension of territory, a virtually impregnable position may be taken which shall dispel at once and for ever the idea of Russian invasion." He has done more than this, as a man of peace, keenly alive to the necessity of civilising, but not by the sword. Taking for an illustration, the warrior merchants of the Povindah class or community, he shows that the development of trade with Afghanistan will do more to consolidate our rule than the erection of a dozen frontier posts. But even as they prepare for commercial enterprise by arms and discipline, and conduct it to a successful issue with military vigilance and bravery, so he insists on such a settlement as shall forbid the fear of war and leave the unchecked rivalry of commerce to contend for the prize of the markets of Central Asia. As to the political outcome of the present crisis, he modestly deprecates becoming a prophet or adviser. But prescient common sense dictates the words which must conclude our notice of this timely and useful work. "Let the Afghan princes and sirdars be allowed freely to choose the man they would have to rule over them, and then let us retire, having vindicated our supremacy and done our best to form a stable and friendly Government, retaining permanently only Kandahar and such portion of the country as might be considered essentially necessary for defensive purposes." We must not forget to add that the sketch map which illustrated General Hamley's lecture forms a most excellent help to readers who have not by them any other map of Afghanistan.

PERSIA AND HERAT.*

THE most recent application of the excellent rule of hearing both sides is to be found in a clever pamphlet by "A Persian Minister" on the subject of Herat. It is easy to guess the identity of the author, whose arguments in favour of the Persian rights to Herat are addressed to Sir Henry Rawlinson. Commencing with an ingenious placebo he tells "that profound Orientalist" that a Kandahar sirdar has written to him that the "feeling of the Afghans is, if it is desired to restore confidence to the people and re-establish order on a durable basis, let Rawlinson Sahib be sent to us." The author then proceeds to inquire why England has interfered to prevent Persia from ridding herself of the chronic infliction of Turkoman raids by the possession of Herat and the consequent occupation of Merv. He tells us that the Persians unite in blaming England for the continuance of the devastating inroads of the man stealers who waste Khorasan. He is careful to appease (whether ironically or not, the reader can form his own opinion) the amour propre of the English by a splendid declamatory assertion that Great Britain has ever been one of the most powerful centres of human freedom. "If the sacrifice of Herat is necessary to her greatness, perish Herat, perish Khorasan, that the British power may remain intact on behalf of the liberty and progress of the world." But he wants to know how that greatness is bound up with the non-possession of Herat by Persia and its subordination to the Afghans of Cabul. As for the importance of Herat as the key of India, that is dismissed as a ridiculous chimera. As for the chance of Russia using the Persian hands to hold Herat for herself, it seems that the Afghan cat will be as useful for that chestnut. As to the past, the British policy, with regard to Herat, has just done the opposite to what it was intended to accomplish. It has thrown Persia, smarting under a sense of wrong, into the arms of Russia, and has, moreover, given the latter an excellent pretext for interference in the unchecked ravages of the Turkomans. In fact, Herat is ruinous and an encumbrance to any Power but Persia; and "Dear Sir Henry" is advised to hold the scientific frontier, which was a necessity, but not "to harass the people who were made to be our natural allies." The case on behalf of the natural allies is strongly put and boldly argued, and it requires a reference back to the times of Lord Minto and a glance at the array of facts marshalled by Colonel Malleson to thoroughly fortify a reader to appreciate the splendid audacity of this most recent Persian apparatus. Still, as we began by remarking, it is well to hear the other side and the diplomatic counsel for the Shah, who presents an admirable brief, couched in vigorous English, which, we understand, proceeds from the pen of a well-known and veteran scholar.

UNCLAIMED MONEY.*

IN a small compass Mr. Preston has gathered together a great deal of useful information on this subject. Combined with the curiosities of remote heirship, missing heirs, misers, whimsical wills, are, among others, chapters containing the precise legal enactments and precedents relating to the subjects of Indian and colonial intestates, Indian and army or naval prize money, and unclaimed soldiers' balances.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

MILITARY CORRESPONDENTS.

CONSIDERING the extent to which the interests of the public are involved, we think it is to be regretted that the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief has not so far departed from military usage as to give his reasons for suddenly prohibitting officers of the army in the field from acting as newspaper correspondents. His Royal Highness states that the regulations of the service do not sanction such an arrangement; but it is perfectly well known that the restriction had been expressly waived by the military authorities in this country, so that he is, in fact, overruling their decision in the matter. As supreme head of the army throughout the British dominions he has, of course, full power to do this; but it is a power which we should hardly have expected him to exercise except under the conviction that it was essential to the interests of the public service, or without some appeal to the evidence on which that conviction was based. This much, it seems to us, was due both to the military authorities in India and to the public, in whose interests, after all, the concession by which military officers have been allowed to correspond with the Press was made. Instead of this, his Royal Highness prefers to ignore the official character of the concession and to refer to a statement in the Press as the source of his information regarding the existence of arrangements which were notified by authority and had long been perfectly well known to every officer in the forces under his control. As to the merits of the case, the arguments, as they present themselves to us, are all against the revival of the old prohibition. It is obviously to the interest both of the service and of the public that the operations of our army should be described and criticised by the most competent witnesses procurable; and it stands to reason that military men must be the most competent witnesses. We admit that there may be good reasons for preferring military men occupying an independent position to officers actually employed in the operations concerned. But under the circumstances of the war in Afghanistan the Indian Press has practically to choose between employing officers of the latter class and civilians without any special qualifications for the task. As, moreover, the class of literary men at large has no existence in this country, it is a matter of extreme difficulty to find civilians, with the requisite education and general qualifications, ready to take up work of the kind in question. The character of the war in Afghanistan, again, opposes formidable obstacles to the employment of correspondents unattached to the army engaged there; a fact of which the Government, by the orders on the subject published at the commencement of the war, showed itself to be keenly sensible. It is for these and similar reasons that the Indian military authorities have hitherto allowed regimental officers to supply war news to the Press; and we are not aware that the practice has been found prejudicial to military discipline, or productive of any such inconvenience as to call for the interference of higher authority. In the absence of evidence that the concession has been attended by any such results the suspicion naturally arises that the determination to overrule it has been dictated by a feeling that the war has hitherto been carried on too much coram publico, coupled with the belief that the press, deprived of its military correspondents, will be practically reduced to depending on official bulletins and despatches. A more serious mistake than this, however, could not be made. Though it may increase the expenditure of the Press the prohibition will not be allowed to curtail its usefulness.—Englishman.

THE MEDICAL SERVICE.

AFTER all the agitation which has been going on, and is still going on, in the ranks of the Bengal medical service, both in India and England, the last general order ought to be an agreeable surprise. Statements have been put forward to the effect that the service had virtually been dismembered, that it had been degraded by being placed under the Army Medical Department, that it had been robbed of nearly the whole of its prizes; some even went so far as to say that it was dead, and a touching epitaph to its memory was contributed to our columns. We are glad to find that none of these evils are even contemplated. The service, so far as its constitution is concerned, will remain exactly as it is now—a military service, the members of which are lent in part to the civil department, but are essentially military officers, and liable at all times to be called on to take their share in military work. Nor is there any subordination of the service to the Army Medical Department. To commence with, the head of the military branch will be a surgeon general of that department, and this will virtually be the ordinary arrangement, so long as two distinct services exist in India, for it is only fair that the highest appointment should be shared between the two. But the surgeon general of the military branch will have nothing to do with the Bengal Medical Service as a whole. He will merely give orders to those of the officers who, for the time being, are at his disposal, and for this purpose he will have assistance from eleven deputies, of whom five are members of the Indian service. As regards prizes, the Bengal Medical Department has at present one surgeon general and eleven deputies. Under the new scheme it will have one surgeon general and nine deputies, five of whom are in military and four in civil employ. There is thus a loss of two deputies; but to make up this loss three new deputyships are allotted to the local sanitary commissioners after a certain period of service. Moreover, two of the civil deputies, instead of drawing Rs.1,800, will have each Rs.2,250. To an unprofessional observer it does not appear that the service loses; it would seem to gain even in the matter of prizes; while, as regards position and usefulness, there can be little question that it gains enormously. The military deputies will no longer have only a few native regiments under their medical direction, but the whole of the troops of the circle, both European and native, while the civil deputies will, if possible, occupy positions of even greater importance and responsibility. The present dual system has been universally condemned as extravagant, cumbrous, and inefficient; a radical change was imperatively necessary to make the medical administration suited to the requirements of the country, and, at the same time, to supply supervision for the medical establishments of the local Governments which have extended so largely of late years, and which, until this scheme was acted on in anticipation not very long ago in Bengal and the N.W.P., were in this respect most inadequately provided for.—Pioneer.

MEETINGS OF COMPANIES.—At an extraordinary meeting of the Balliaghatta Company, held March 20, it was resolved that, in view of the present embarrassed position of the company, it is advisable that facility should be afforded to the mortgagees for taking immediate possession, by their receiver and manager, of the property of the company, if they should desire to do so, and for this purpose the company hereby waive their right to insist that the mortgagees shall not appoint a receiver or manager until after expiry of the three months' notice as provided for in the mortgage. Also that the managing agents of the company be empowered to join on behalf of the company with the mortgagees in selling the property. —At the general meeting of the Strand Bank Press Company, held March 20, a dividend of Rs.4 per share, making a total of Rs.14 per share for the half-year ending Jan. 31, was declared.—At the general meeting of the Durrung Tea Company, held March 18, a dividend of Rs.4 per share, or 4 per cent., on paid-up capital was declared.—At the general meeting of the Mothola Tea Company, held March 18, the report and accounts were adopted and passed. —At the general meeting of the Hoolungorie Tea Company, held March 20, the report and accounts were adopted and passed.—At the general meeting of the Burkhola Tea Company, held March 20, a dividend of Rs.7.8 per share was declared.—Englishman.

RANGOON AND SITTANG RAILWAY.—Although not yet officially announced, we have the best authority for saying that sanction has been accorded by the Government of India for the construction of the Rangoon and Sittang Valley Railway, to be at once proceeded with. We fear this sanction has been accorded too late for much to be done this season; but in this case it may well be said better late than never.—Rangoon Times.

THE ASSAM RAILWAY COMPANY.—An important step has been taken towards the development of the resources of Assam by the concessions which the Government have granted to the newly-formed Assam Railway Company. The object of this company is to construct a railway from the Brahmapootra River at Debrooghur to Oadibya, with branches to Nagagoolie, Hopewell, and Makum. The line will open an important tea district, and will establish communication between the terminus of the river steamers and some coalfields which are believed to be of great value, and which are said to yield coal of a quality superior to that of the Bengal fields. The Government has agreed to grant the company for a period of twenty years such annual subsidy as may be required to make up, with the net profits of the railway, a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. The subsidy is, however, in no case to exceed Rs.100,000 per annum when the whole line is opened, and is to become payable as each section is opened, proportionately to the length of the section. The Government reserves the right to purchase the line at the end of five years from its completion, or after each succeeding period of five years, by paying the company 20 per cent. in excess of the value of the property as a dividend-paying investment.—Times Telegram.

BRITISH BURMA.—The revenue accounts of British Burma for the year 1878-79 show an increase of Rs.8,97,094 in the gross demand, and of no less than Rs.16,30,844, or 10·18 per cent., in the net revenue, as compared with the previous year. This result, the official resolution informs us, was due chiefly to improved realisations under land revenue and customs. In the case of the former, there was a large addition to the area of culturable land liable to assessment; while under the head of customs there were no such excessive withdrawals of grain to non-dutiable Indian ports for famine requirements as in the two preceding years, and thus a larger quantity of duty-paying rice was available for shipment to England and elsewhere abroad. The rapid progress of this most paying of the provinces of our Indian Empire will be best seen from a comparison of the revenue with that of 1871-72, when the scheme of provincial services was first introduced. The net revenue for that year was Rs.1,23,79,440, while in the year under review it amounted to Rs.1,87,82,734, so that there has been an increase of more than 50 per cent. in the interval. During the same period the population has increased from 2,562,323 to 3,088,902, and the incidence of taxation per head from Rs.5-7 to Rs.9-8-11.—Englishman.

The administration report of British Burma for the official year 1878-79 has just been issued, and from it we gather that, notwithstanding the strained relations with Upper Burma, which injuriously affected commerce, trade continued to expand rapidly. Rice is the chief staple product of British Burma, and owing to the increased demand and consequent stimulus given to its production the purchasing power of the province has materially increased. Next to rice the chief exports of the country are teak, timber, cutch, cotton, and hides. The principal articles of import are cotton goods, raw silk, and piece goods. The total value of the sea-borne trade for the official year 1878-79 was £16,765,824, which is an increase of £1,080,904, or 6·89 per cent. over the previous year. As an instance of the great development which is taking place in that part of further India it may be mentioned that in [the last five years the value of country produce exported had risen from £3,023,763 to £5,329,551, or an increase of 76·26 per cent. The balance of trade is emphatically in favour of British Burma, as in the official year under consideration the exports of merchandise exceeded the imports by £1,577,187, while the importation of specie exceeded the export by £961,103. The condition of the public finances is also healthy, although from some important alterations made in the provincial system of finance there is a large decrease in what is termed "Imperial revenue." The gross receipts of the civil department from all sources amounted in 1878-79 to £2,218,573, as compared with £1,988,274 in the previous year; and of the total sum £1,051,367 was imperial, £967,910 provincial, £90,405 local, and £108,891 municipal. The total receipts give an incidence of taxation amounting to 14s. 4½d. per head, as compared with 13s. 2½d. in the preceding year, the population at the same time having increased considerably. The population of the province for the year is given in the revenue returns as 2,952,296, which shows an increase of 17,315 over the population in 1877. The prosperous condition of the province renders a slight increase of taxation easy to bear, and altogether British Burma shows symptoms of being one of the most progressive of British-Indian provinces.—Times of India.

MURDER OF A WIFE.—A clerk, named O'Rourke, employed in the Field Commissariat office, killed his wife by shooting her at Peshawur on March 28.

THE EGERTON MILLS COMPANY.—The promoters of the Egerton Mills scheme have not been able to obtain the large capital they required to float the undertaking on the scale described in the preliminary prospectus. They therefore propose to contract their operations, and to confine themselves for the present to the manufacture of blankets. This industry is thought likely to be little less remunerative to the actual shareholders than the large scheme would have been for a larger body of capitalists, and it is to be hoped that the spirited projectors of the Egerton Mills will ultimately be able to expand their operations, so as to introduce to this country the manufacture of the higher class of woollen goods which they originally aimed at producing. At any rate, the production by power-looms of an article of universal necessity, hitherto produced by hand labour, with satisfactory profit to the gaols and other places where it has thus been made, ought to be a remunerative enterprise.—Pioneer

AGRICULTURE IN BENGAL.—Amongst the suggestions made by the Government of Bengal with regard to the encouragement of agriculture on an improved system amongst the natives of Bengal, the Government of India is said to have approved a proposition to send out two graduates of the Calcutta University to England to learn the arts of agriculture in one of the colleges of the United Kingdom, both theoretically and practically.—Indian Daily News.

MEYWAR.—The political agent at Meywar, in announcing the demise of Rao Bahadoor Rao Bukht Sing, C.I.E., of Bedla, pays the following tribute to his memory:—"The eminent character and sterling qualities of the late Rao are too well known to need much comment from me. For his conspicuous loyalty to the British Government, and for his faithful services to five different rulers of Meywar, he received on the occasion of the Imperial assemblage at Delhi the title of Rao Bahadoor, and when the Order of the Indian Empire was instituted by her Majesty the Queen and Empress of India he was nominated a Companion of the Order. In the late Rao the British Government have lost a most stanch and faithful adherent. His loss will be universally mourned, for he was one of whom it may be said that, whilst possessing hundreds of friends, he could count scarcely one enemy."—Press Commissioner.

CAPT. WOOLCOTT.—With the departure of the Pekin to-day, Capt. W. Woolcott, so long and so favourably known as commander of the P. and O. steamers Nubia, Simla, Bengal, and Pekin, bids a final farewell to Calcutta. A genuine old Indian mariner is Capt. Woolcott, for he first came to this country in the Gloriana in 1843, and has been going backwards and forwards ever since, so that, as the captain himself says, if he had been in military instead of the marine service he would have by this time been entitled to colonel's allowances. But we are glad to say that Capt. Woolcott is by no means in a state to be superannuated, and retires from the P. and O. service to fill an appointment known as the Blue Ribbon of the Mercantile Marine, having been elected an elder brother of the Trinity House, and an appointment for which his great practical knowledge and experience eminently fit him. We think that we are only expressing the feelings of his numerous friends, not only in Calcutta, but throughout India, when, in bidding him good-bye, we wish him many years of continued health and prosperity.—Englishman, March 30.

COMPULSORY VACCINATION IN SCHOOLS.—Colonel R. M. Macdonald, Director of Public Instruction, has submitted to Government the result of his inquiries into the question of making vaccination in schools compulsory. Colonel Macdonald himself recommends that vaccination be made compulsory—(1) in all Government and aided schools of every grade in the town of Madras. (2) In all Government and aided schools in the Mofussil in which English is taught. He would leave it to the local fund boards and municipalities to decide whether vaccination should be compulsory in all or any of the vernacular schools under their control or aided by them. Dr. Cornish, the Sanitary Commissioner, generally approves of these measures and adds:—"I think, however, that the orders of Government as expressed in G. O., No. 2,049 of Oct. 28, 1879, Financial Department, in reference to the Chingleput and Saidapet Local Fund Boards, should be extended to all other local fund circles and municipalities. Practically it is found that unprotected children are not numerically great in Government schools, but they are numerous in local fund, municipal, and private schools, and it would be advisable to enable the local authorities to demand the vaccination of unprotected children admitted into them. From the commencement of the current year I have directed the deputy inspectors of vaccination to examine and report on the condition of pupils in all Government and aided schools in the towns and villages visited by them, and these orders are now being carried out." The Government have passed the following order on the subject:—"Until vaccination is made compulsory, Government cannot go as far as the Director of Public Instruction suggests. But Government wish that vaccination be made a condition precedent for holding a Government scholarship or stipend or free scholarship, and that it be required of all students in Government schools. It is not fair that vaccinated students should be exposed to risk (protected more or loss though they be) by the admission of unvaccinated fellow students. As regards local funds and municipal schools, the proceedings of Government, dated Oct. 28, 1879, No. 2,049, will be communicated to all local fund boards and municipalities."—Madras Times.

FURTHER MEDICAL REDUCTIONS.—One of the subjects that have been under the consideration of the Government of India in connection with the economies that have been exercising the souls of highly-placed officials on reductions intent is the abolition of the Presidency Medical Store Depot at Madras, which is now so ably superintended by Surgeon Major Cooper. This establishment has done good work in the past, and it is needless to say what an important place it has occupied among the Government institutions in this Presidency. It is, however, now to be numbered among things that were, and its death-warrant has been signed. Orders have been issued for the closing up of the depot. All indents for medicines from the hospitals of this Presidency are, in future, to be forwarded to the principal medical storekeeper of Bombay for supply, emergent indents alone being supplied in Madras, where there is to be only a small establishment to attend to these emergent requisitions. We do not know why this new arrangement should not work well, but if there are any defects in it there will be this to console the public—that a no inconsiderable saving will result from the measure.—Madras Times.

GOLD MINING.—A company is being formed in Madras to work the gold reefs in the Colar districts. Reefs in that district, as in Wynaad, have long been known to and worked by the natives. They are said to be well defined and to vary in thickness from 2 feet to 12 feet. The surface of the earth contains gold in minute particles, and some miners think that alluvial deposits may yet be discovered. Some ore taken from a reef in Colar now worked by the Ooregum Company gave over four ounces of gold to the ton.—Times Telegram.

AMERICAN BAPTIST TELUGU MISSION.—A correspondent writes:—"The annual report of the Baptist Telugu Mission for 1879 is published. Connected with the mission are seven stations, situated at Nellore, Ongole, Ramapatam, Secunderabad, Kurnool, Hanamaconda and Madras, with a Theological Seminary at Ramapatam. The station at Hanamacondah has been established during the year. The oldest station connected with this mission is at Nellore, which was established in 1840. The Ongole station has the largest church, numbering 13,106 members; and since Jan. 16 of this year about 1,000 more have been added, and all upon a profession of faith, after a thorough examination. The seminary at Ramapatam has six teachers, one missionary, and five natives. The students are divided into four classes and number 152. Connected with the seminary is also a church, in which the students work, and which numbers 418 members. Fever to a considerable extent has prevailed in the mission during the year, and the cyclone in November did considerable damage at Ongole and Ramapatam, yet the mission seems to be in a very prosperous condition. The people have in a great degree recovered from the effects of the famine; and the great mass of converts recently gathered in have, contrary to the fears and predictions of many, with few exceptions, stood firm in their new faith."—Madras Times.

THE REVENUE REPORT.—The annual revenue report of the Board of Revenue, Madras, for the year ending June 30, 1878, together with the orders of the local Government thereon, have recently been submitted to the Secretary of State. The administration of the land revenue is considered by Lord Cranbrook as, on the whole, eminently satisfactory. In a year, itself of deficiency of crops, depression of trade, and general unhealthiness which immediately succeeded the famine, the land in occupation exceeded by 50,000 acres the occupied area of 1874-75, while the total land revenue demand was eight lakhs in excess of the average demand before the famine, and fell short of it only by two and a-half lakhs when remissions are deducted. The collections within the year were 404 lakhs, only 10·2 per cent. short of the total demand in a normal year, and, adding collections up to the end of March, were about 523 lakhs; that is, 73 lakhs more than the usual demand were actually realised under most unfavourable circumstances. These facts, the Secretary of State considers, testify at once to a remarkable development of the power of the agricultural classes to resist and recover from the effects of unfavourable seasons, and to the energy of the Board of Revenue and of the officers under their control in realising the dues of the State. The realisations during the year under all heads of revenue amounted 841½ lakhs, while about 128 lakhs of the balance were recovered within the next nine months. In concluding his remarks the Secretary of State conveys his thanks to the Board of Revenue, both on account of their successful administration during the years 1877-78, and for the valuable report in which they have communicated its results to the Madras Government.—Press Commissioner.

THE FATAL ACCIDENT TO A SPORTSMAN.—A correspondent supplies a Madras paper with some further particulars about the fatal accident to Mr. O. B. Irvine. The correspondent writes:—"On the 6th ult. Mr. O. B. Irvine, H.H. the Maharaja, and Mr. Willock went out to shoot a cheeta which had been carried out in its cage trap to an open spot near Vizianagram. The animal on being let out was pursued by dogs and brought to bay twice; on the second occasion it suddenly charged Mr. Willock, who fired both barrels of his rifle at it, as also did Mr. Irvine. None of these shots taking effect, the brute seized Mr. Willock by the arm and threw him down, also cutting open his foot. Mr. Costobadie, engineer to H.H. the Maharaja, then shot at the cheetah, hitting him in the chest, upon which he turned on the Maharaja, who, it appears, stuck his light spear in the brute's mouth, but was overthrown by the force of the charge, though his Highness is a powerful man. Mr. Irvine was then knocked over and bitten through the knee, when Mr. Costobadie ran close up and shot the cheetah through the head."—Times of India.

THE HYDERABAD GAOLS.—The gaols in the Nizam's dominions require reorganisation, and the correspondent of a native journal states that it is intended to reconstruct them on the model of the gaol at Akola. The writer states that the existing gaols are quite inadequate for their purpose and under bad control and management, notwithstanding that their maintenance costs a large amount of money annually.—Bombay Gazette.

RAMOOSES v. POLICEMEN.—We are glad to hear that, with a view of suppressing robberies by private watchmen in the places where they serve, the district superintendent of police has announced that the services of policemen can be obtained; and we have no doubt that residents who have ramoosees to watch their property will employ men of the police force in future. Several thefts have been reported of late on the part of private watchmen.—Puna Observer.

THE TOWN COUNCIL AND THE MUNICIPAL ENGINEER.—The result of the Bombay Town Council's consideration of the charges against the chief municipal executive engineer was that the council adopted the municipal commissioner's view, that the engineer had been guilty of great carelessness, but did not consider that his services ought to be dispensed with, and resolved that the commissioner's report should be officially communicated to Mr. Walton.—Bombay Gazette.

TESTIMONIALS AND RESOLUTIONS.—There is at the present moment a big secret in the Political Department of this Presidency which we have no desire to disclose prematurely. But there is no great harm in mentioning that a certain energetic collector who was much liked by those over whom he had borne sway for several years, was, upon the time drawing nigh for his transference to another collectorate, the object of addresses and good wishes and memorials, just as if he had been a governor going home to the elections. There was nothing to be said against that apparently, but one of his subordinates sent round circulars with a view to procuring a practical embodiment of the prevailing good will in the shape of subscriptions. The subscriptions were forthcoming, and there was a dinner and a portrait, and an overplus which was put aside for the establishment, in commemoration of the collector's term of office, of some institution in connection with the Education Department. So far everything went swimmingly. But when the Government was asked to take charge of the educational endowment it of course learned officially that there had been a subscription, and a subscription, too, set on foot by an official for the glorification of another official, his own superior. Then came the storm. Were not the parties concerned aware of resolutions made and provided to prevent this very scandal? "Grave derelictions of duty" and other phrases equally terrible were written all over sheets of foolscap and sent to the culprits. It was assumed—plausibly, but we are pretty sure unjustly—that the collector was perfectly aware of the steps taken by his subordinate, and he was the more severely reprimanded of the two. And the subscriptions are to be returned. Altogether a terrible wigging has been administered all round, and a number of well meaning people have been made very unhappy.—Bombay Gazette.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL WARDROP, deputy adjutant general, will be adjutant general, Bombay Army, during the absence of Brigadier General Brooke on active service in Southern Afghanistan.

M. VAUVERT DE MEAN, French Consul at Bombay, went home on April 1 on six months' leave.

THE PORT TRUST.—Bombay Castle, March 30.—With reference to section 9 of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, the Honourable the Governor in Council is pleased to publish the following return received from the secretary of the Bombay Chamber of Commerce:—Return of persons elected by the Bombay Chamber of Commerce in accordance with the provisions of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, to be members of the board of trustees of the Port of Bombay in place of the elective trustees, who retire on March 31, 1880. Date of election March 9. Persons elected:—The Honourable M. Mowat, of the firm of Messrs. Ritchie, Steuart and Co.; James N. Graham, Esq., of the firm of Messrs. W. and A. Graham and Co.; S. D. Sassoon, Esq., of the firm of Messrs David Sassoon and Co. The Honourable the Governor in Council is also pleased, under the said section, to reappoint the following gentlemen members of the board of trustees of the Port of Bombay:—

CRICKET AT BARODA.—On Good Friday a cricket match was played at Baroda between eleven officers of the Gaekwar's regiments and an eleven from the Baroda High School. The former team consisted of five Europeans and six natives, while the school team was made up of seven Parsees, three Hindus, and one Mahomedan. Play commenced at 6 a.m., in the presence of a large concourse of spectators. The school went in first and succeeded in putting together 126 runs, the chief scorer being Framjee with 61. Framjee is the son of Khan Bahadur Cursetjee Rustomjee, the Chief Justice of Baroda. The officers then went in, but only scored 24 runs, so of course had to follow on. In their second essay they were rather more successful, making 39. The school team thus won the match in a single innings with 63 runs to spare. —Times of India.

THE LONDON, BOMBAY, AND MEDITERRANEAN BANK.—On March 30, before Mr. Justice West, the suit filed by the agent to the official liquidators of the London, Bombay, and Mediterranean Bank against Gunputrao Ballajee to recover Rs.1,400 and interest on calls due by the defendant to the bank was called on for hearing and final disposal. Mr. Starling, instructed by Messrs. Tobin and Roughton, appeared for the bank; the defendant did not appear. His lordship gave an ex parte decree for the plaintiffs for the amount claimed, with interest and costs. Another suit filed by the same bank against Lukhmidass Morajee was dismissed with costs. In a third case against Kessowjee Wagjee, who appeared and produced a schedule of his debts and liabilities, judgment was passed for the bank for Rs.6,000 with interest at 5 per cent. from March 15 last up to date, with costs; further interest on judgment at 6 per cent. until payment. Execution of the decree to be stayed until Wednesday, April 7.—Ibid.

THE COTTON DEPARTMENT.—The annual administration report of the Bombay Cotton Department, together with a resolution of that Government, very fully reviewing it, has recently been laid before the Home Government. The report, which is an interesting one, shows that the season was generally unfavourable and the yield short. Prices were somewhat more favourable to the producer than in 1877-78, and there was, on the whole, an increase in the area cultivated with cotton as compared with that year. This increase was, however, confined almost entirely to the districts of Khandeish and Belgaum, and to the native States of Kattiawar and the Southern Mahratta country, while in the Guzerat collectorates there was a decrease of nearly 200,000 acres. Correct estimates were difficult to procure, and this was engaging attention. There were sixty-two prosecutions, all but six of which were successful, under the Cotton Frauds Act, and the new Act VII. of 1878 is said to have worked satisfactorily.—Press Commissioner.

A STATE PRISONER.—Lord Cranbrook has declined to interfere in the matter of a memorial from Sultan Hussein bin Ahmed, praying that he might be released from confinement in the Fort of Ahmednugger. It will be remembered that the petitioner was suspected of being connected with the murder of his brother, the Sultan of the Fudhill tribe, and that owing to his action in endeavouring to raise a rebellion against the young chief who succeeded to the throne he was deported to India.—Times of India.

THE CONTAGIOUS DISEASES ACT.—The Contagious Diseases Act was revived in Bombay on the 1st ult. after a long interval, but the revival has been so sudden, and the authorities are so unprepared, that for some weeks to come the Act can only be nominally enforced. According to a Government resolution the Act will be worked by the Commissioner of Police, and the Government appeal to the "patriotism" of the inhabitants of Bombay and the "good sense" of the members of the corporation to see that it is properly enforced. But the inhabitants of Bombay and the members of the corporation have a right to learn something more about the way in which the cost of administering the law is to be defrayed before they commit themselves to a policy suddenly sprung upon them. At present nothing is popularly known, and we can ascertain little more than that three medical inspectors and a preventive and detective department are to be established. We also hear that a lock hospital is to be started as soon as a suitable building can be found, and that Dr. Anderson will probably be the resident surgeon. Dr. Doolittle is likely to be the European inspector, Dr. Sukharam Arjoon the Hindu inspector, and there will be one Parsee inspector. Beyond this nothing is even rumoured, and the corporation, who were invited to discuss the practicability of introducing the Act and to vote a sum of money for working it, are, we think, justified in regarding its sudden and unannounced introduction as a breach of faith that should free them from any possible responsibility. But we do not believe that the Act can be really put into force until the municipality is again asked to take proper cognisance of its existence. —Times of India.

ADMISSION OF NATIVES INTO THE PUBLIC SERVICE.—Rules regarding the educational test for the admission of natives into the public service have been issued: (1.) Candidates who have passed the matriculation will have a preferential claim to vacant appointments over candidates who have merely passed the Public Service Examination (first class), unless these last hold the second year certificate for the Agricultural High School Class. (2.) Candidates who have passed the F. A. Examination will have a preferential claim for situations of Rs.30 and upwards over candidates either in or out of the service who have merely matriculated. (3.) At least one-half of all vacancies in departments other than the Revenue Department, of the value of Rs.50 per mensem and upwards, will be given to graduates, especially to graduates of distinction.—Times of India.

MORTALITY IN BERAR.—We are glad to announce that our repeated notice of the great mortality in Berar during the years 1878 and 1879 (from 8,000 to 15,000 deaths monthly!) has at last attracted the attention of the British Resident. Sanitary rules have been framed and have received the sanction of the Government of India. Sir Richard Meade, K.C.S.I., truly calls it "the terrible mortality of the years 1878 and 1879." We trust the sanitary rules will be strictly enforced by all the European district officers; if they are left to patels of villages they will be useless. The total deaths in Berar for December, 1879, are 5,252 in the six districts, of which 3,370 deaths were from fever.—Bombay Gazette.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS.—The following officers embarked on board the B.I.S.N. Co.'s steamer Umballa on March 27 for Karachi, en route to join the Bombay column at the front:—Brigadier General Brooke, Captain Anderson, Captain William Cooke Collis. The Indian Government steamer Dalhousie 1,860 tons, Captain W. Powell, was to sail on the 2nd inst. for Karachi towing the sailing ship Czarewitch, with 1 officer, 2 commanding officers, 76 rank and file, 1 public and 20 private followers, and 8 horses of 2nd Light Cavalry; 1 officer, 1 lady, and 2 children of 14-1 R.A., in Dalhousie; 1 officer, 3 commanding officers, 69 rank and file, 2 public and 72 private followers, and 42 horses of 2nd Light Cavalry, in Czarewitch; 1 officer of 29th N.I. The following is the list of officers:—Lieut. Col. A. W. Macnaghton and Captain W. H. D. James, 2nd L.C., Captain Radford, R.A., Captain C. E. Yates, 29th Regt., and Major Moore, 9th Regt. N.I. —Bombay Gazette.

H.M.'s TROOPSHIP "MALABAR."—The Indian troopship Malabar, Capt. Grant, arrived at Portsmouth last Thursday morning, having, notwithstanding the foul condition of her hull, made a good passage. She brought 153 invalids and 13 time-expired men belonging to the Royal Artillery for Woolwich; 481 invalids, 158 time-expired men, and ten insane persons for Netley, besides 96 women, 231 children, and the following officers:—Major Kerr, 7th Foot; Lieut. Baly and Quartermaster Ashlee, R.A.; Capt. Allen, 15th Foot; Major Marshall and Veterinary Surgeon Philips, R.H.A.; Lieut. M'Donnell, 12th Foot; Lieut. Varrener, 14th Foot; Lieut. Bowring, 54th Foot; Capt. Waterfield, Lieut. Townsend, Quartermasters Walker and Cliff, and Veterinary Surgeon Gillespie, R.A.; Capt. Ridgeway, 44th Foot; Capt. Chisholme, 9th Lancers; Lieut. Mason, R.E.; Capt. Turner, 8th Foot; Capt. Newington, 22nd Foot; Capt. Kelly, 40th Foot; Capt. Palmer, 63rd Foot; Lieut. Coles, 100th Foot; Lieut. Mildmay, 4th Rifle Brigade; Lieut. Graves, 3rd Foot; Capts. York and Mayne, Lieut. Inglefield, and Quartermasters Gunn and Hambly, R.A.; Lieut. Col. Cuthbert and Lieut. Pogson, 15th Foot; Quartermasters Briggs and Langrich, R.H.A.; Capt. Triphook, 12th Foot; Lieut. Wemyss, 14th Foot; Lieut. Hickman, 54th Foot; Capt. Fawcett, 33rd Foot; Lieut. Maxwell, 89th Foot; Lieut. Durham, 10th Hussars; Lieut. Ball, 6th Foot; Capt. Stevenson, 18th Foot; Lieut. Cumberland, 39th Foot; Quartermaster Murray, 51st Foot; Capt. Welman, 85th Foot; Lieut. Campbell, 90th Foot; Surgeons Major W. Wilson, J. Candy, W. Cattell, Scanlan, Bourke, J. Kellie, Hollingsworth, E. Low, and Fitzgerald; and Surgeon A. B. Miller, of the Army Medical Department. The men for Netley belong to the 2nd Battalion 7th, 2nd Battalion 11th, 2nd Battalion 15th, 29th, 66th, 78th, and 83rd Foot, stationed in the Bombay Presidency; the 2nd Battalion 16th, 2nd Battalion 13th, 33rd, 43rd, 44th, 48th, and 89th Foot, stationed in the Madras Presidency; and the 9th Lancers, 2nd Battalion 1st, 1st Battalion 5th, 2nd Battalion 8th, 2nd Battalion 9th, 1st Battalion 12th, 2nd Battalion 4th, 1st Battalion 25th, 39th, 40th, 51st, 54th, 65th, 73rd, 82nd, 92nd, and 100th Foot; and the Rifle Brigade, stationed in the Bengal Presidency. There were seven cases of measles. The deaths during the voyage were those of twelve men, one woman, and three children. One of the men committed suicide in the Indian Ocean by jumping overboard. One woman was confined of twins, both of whom died. The Malabar, having completed her programme of troop service, was inspected at Portsmouth on Monday by Admiral Ryder, the commander in chief. It is not intended this year to reduce her complement, as is usually the case at the termination of the trooping season, but her crew will receive a fortnight's leave of absence in watches. This departure from precedent is rendered necessary by the circumstance that the Crocodile and Serapis, which are the only ships of the type which still retain the simple horizontal engines with which they were originally fitted, are about to be provided with vertical compound engines by Messrs. Humphrys and Tennant, of Deptford, who engined the ship, and will, consequently, be unfit for service for some time.

THE COBDEN CLUB.—Intimation has been received from Calcutta that Manmathanath Ghosh, of the Calcutta University, by gaining the first position in political economy in the honour examination in history, becomes entitled to the Cobden Club silver medal for 1880.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1880.

THE REORGANISATION OF THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

THE question of the strength of and the treatment to be accorded to the important branch of the public service in India is one that cannot be settled offhand, nor without some regard, at least, being paid to the fair claims and aspirations of the able officers, whether military or civil, that compose it. The circumstances of our Indian Empire cause immense importance to attach to the maintenance of a permanent body, whose numbers shall not be diminished beyond the needful supply, nor recruited from applicants inferior in ability, by reduction of the status and emoluments pertaining to the engineers of India. In an able minute, so far back as June, 1877, Sir Andrew Clarke recorded his opinion that engineer officers, both military and civil, had won a claim to consideration from the loyal way in which they had abstained from embarrassing the Government by petitions or representations. It was then an object to place the establishment on a permanent basis, relieving it from the difficulty of overcrowding, and providing for a suitably proportionate strength, with fitting pay and prospects. As our readers know, the economical pressure put upon the Government of India, especially in the direction of expenditure upon public works, led to consequent reductions being peremptorily called for. It is of course an impossible method of carrying on the business, as it may be termed, of Indian engineering, or, in other words, of maintaining and extending as may be possible those great public works which in India are a State necessity, to have constantly increasing discontent, only relieved by uncertain depletion, among this important class of State servants. Both in working and in recruiting the injurious effects of such an unwise system, or rather want of system, must be felt to the exceeding detriment of the public service. The skilled warders who watch to prevent or repair the seeming freaks of nature in India cannot be men insufficiently trained or held in cheap esteem. The department may have been overcrowded in late years, but it cannot be reduced to too low a strength. A peace establishment of an army may be so reduced that the outbreak of war entails unnecessarily heavy outlay and finds helpless unpreparedness. Still, there may be some time, though short of expectation and preparation; but the army of engineers must always be at work, always prepared to resist outbreaks of physical agencies which give no note of warning and which require constant vigilance and caution. It is easy to point to blunders of construction on the part of the Public Works Department, but the successes, the constant usefulness, of the Indian engineers may escape note because they form part of the conditions of existence, and are only noted when withdrawn or pretermitted. The establishment deserves, therefore, every consideration, if only from purely selfish motives, from the Government of India. Not only to the members of the department, but to all who are interested in the progress and condition of India, the report which has been recently presented to Government is of interest. The committee, composed of the following officers:—Major Generals Fraser (president), Trevor, and Crofton, Col. W. S. Trevor, Major Filgate, and Mr. A. B. Sampson, had it proposed to them to consider the reconstruction of the department on a reduced scale. They have, as their report shows, very carefully gone into all the branches of the question, and have offered to Government the recommendations which are summarised in another column. The report itself is too long and too crowded with tables of averages and scales of pay for reproduction. It commences by showing that, taking the provisionally sanctioned strength of the department under the Government of India—viz., 717, of all classes and grades, the annual rate of disappearance from its ranks will be 4·131 per cent., made up of 2·25 from death, and the rest from retirement after attaining the fifty-sixth year. The committee are very careful to point out that though they have elected to take a low scale of casualties rather than a high one, to prevent the accumulation and disappointment of supernumeraries, yet nothing like a uniform flow of promotion can be expected. The officers of Royal Engineers constitute now about 25 per cent. of the whole strength, and the committee consider their case at length in the latter part of the report. The committee, in dealing with the prospects of promotion, have gone carefully into the probable retirements and disappearances up to the year 1904, and have arrived at the result that during the next ten years there will probably be an average of twenty vacancies annually, and, if it is decided to absorb the eighty-six supernumeraries, that there then will be only twelve appointments every year up to 1890. The prospects as at present held out to aspirants, even without the additional discouragement caused by the recent stagnation, are judged by the committee to be disheartening. Assuming that retirement is made compulsory at fifty-five, a young man joining at twenty years of age must expect to remain till his sixteenth year of service in the class of assistants. Unless exceptionally fortunate, he cannot hope to rise beyond the executive class till his twenty-ninth year of service. He may or he may not obtain subsequent promotion to superintending engineer, and thence to the rank of chief engineer for a brief period. If he does not attain promotion he has to retire on a low scale of pension, inasmuch as his pay for the last five years of service has been below Rs.12,000 per annum. The committee has addressed itself to removing this discouragement and to ameliorating the prospects and position of the members of the department. For the first year or two of his service an officer is only a learner in departmental ways, then he becomes of some practical use, but is not competent for an independent post till after five or six years more. During the next decade officers generally are employed in detached charges, practically doing the work of an executive engineer, after which they become fitted, if not incompetent, for a divisional charge. Eight or ten years of independent divisional practice enables the heads of the department to estimate a man's fitness for promotion, which the committee seem to think, of course, always goes by merit, at least in India. As the committee cannot reduce the numbers provisionally sanctioned, and are unwilling to increase the higher classes on account of the consequent increase in cost, they have applied themselves to the repartition the number in the grades of the lower class, the creation of a new class intermediate between assistant and executive engineers, and the readjustment of the salaries of the latter, whom it is proposed to designate divisional engineers, the gradation system being altogether abolished. Out of the 381 assistant engineers it is proposed to constitute a new class, in two grades of 100 each, to be called deputy engineers. The remaining 181 would, according to the proposed scheme, be divided also into two grades, the first containing, on an average, 150 officers, the remainder being included in the second. The proposed system of annual increments of salary is strongly urged by the committee in order to do away with the hardships to which many deserving and hardworking officers are now exposed, simply on account of the paucity of the higher posts, which prevents nearly two-thirds of the divisional engineers from rising beyond that rank. It is recommended to raise the average pay from the present scale of less than Rs.720 to not less than Rs.850 per mensem, the range being from Rs.650 to Rs.1,050 as the maximum for the last five years of service. Under the new system the estimated length of service would be 1·07 years assistant engineer, second grade; 5·57 years first grade; 4·19 and 4·56 years as deputy engineer, second and first grade respectively, while the period of service of the divisional, including chief and superintending, engineers would be 14·61 years under and five over fifty years of age. Increments in no case are to begin until all officers are thirty-six years of age, but all executive engineers, 4th grade on the present list, would at once become divisional engineers at the rate of Rs.650 per mensem, but would not receive any increase until they had completed their thirty-sixth year, if under the age, or until one year after appointment, if over it. In order to prevent an undue accumulation of men on high rates of pay it is proposed that the beginning of increments in the case of executive engineers in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd grades should be limited to the ages of forty-eight, forty-two, and thirty-six respectively in the case of those younger. Those older than the above who had served one year or more in the grade to begin at once, and the others after they had completed one year's service. An advantage claimed for the system of increments, coupled with the extension to all of the privileges of attaining the highest rate of pension, is that the claims of seniority will not clash with merit in selection for the higher appointments, with regard to which no change is proposed. An objection brought against the scheme is that questions of age are mixed up with questions of increase to salaries, and that the benefit of exceptional abilities and good service is not given either to the possessors or to the Government. Another alleged feature of the scheme is that Royal Engineer officers are placed in a more advantageous position than the civilians, as well as their comrades in the regular army. The committee, however, bring forward many facts and figures to show that officers serving in the purely military branch of the army are practically as well, if not better, paid than Royal Engineer officers in the Public Works Department, and that the present departmental standing of these officers is better at present than it may be calculated to be in the future. The elaborate comparison of rates of pay and chances of promotion has led them to a conclusion which is thus stated:—

"Under the circumstances presented in the foregoing review, and considering the wide field for obtaining distinction, civil, military, political, enjoyed by the officers of the Staff Corps, the committee cannot recommend, in the interests of the State and of the department, as well as in those of the officers themselves, that their allowances should in any way be reduced. They recommend, on the contrary, that officers of Royal Engineers should benefit with the civil engineers by the proposed increase of civil pay in the lower classes, such increase being practically not quite equivalent to compensation for the disadvantages under which they labour in comparison with officers of the Staff Corps."

The distribution of the four deputy surgeons general to the circles of medical superintendence defined by the Government of India will rest with his Excellency the Commander in Chief. All needful subsidiary orders for effectually carrying out the separation of the military and civil administrative offices should be issued in concert by the surgeons general of the Indian and British Medical Departments. The surgeon general of the Indian Medical Department (to be appointed under Order No. 150, dated March 15, Home, Revenue, and Agricultural Department, Government of India, for Civil Medical Administration in Bombay) will, as heretofore, advise Government on all questions relating to the admission of officers and subordinates of that department for military service and regarding the transfer of military medical officers employed in civil capacities for the temporary performance of military duties. With reference to Government Order No. 249 of this date, the undermentioned officers will form the staff to be posted under the order of his Excellency the Commander in Chief to the administrative medical circles in this Presidency:—Surgeon General J. Fogo, M.S., A.M.D.; Deputy Surgeon General M. F. Manifold, A.M.D.; Deputy Surgeon General W. J. Moore, L.R.C.P., I.M.D.; Deputy Surgeon General G. Auchinleck, M.D., A.M.D.; Deputy Surgeon General T. G. Hewlett, C.I.E., I.M.D. In conformity with the notification by the Government of India in the Home, Revenue, and Agricultural Department (Medical) No. 150, dated 15th inst. (paras 2 and 4), the Honourable the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following appointments, with effect from April 1:—Deputy Surgeon General T. B. Beatty, M.D., F.R.C.S., to be surgeon general for Civil Medical Administration in the Bombay Presidency; Surgeon Major T. Cody, L.R.C.P., to be substantive pro tem. secretary to the surgeon general for Civil Medical Administration.—Ibid, April 1.

A MARRIAGE QUESTION.—A case is pending before Mr. H. M. Birdwood, district judge, Surat, in which a sub-inspector in the Cotton Department is alleged to have connived at the betrothal of his sister to a Mahomedan in Bombay. An order has been made for the removal of the minor to the temporary custody of the wife of a catechist attached to the Irish Presbyterian Mission at Surat pending the arrival of evidence from Bombay.—Times of India.

HOME NEWS.

HER Majesty has been pleased to confer an earldom on Lord Lord Lytton, the Queen's Viceroy of India, by the style and title of the Earl of Lytton, in the county of Derby, and Viscount Knebworth, of Knebworth, in the county of Hertford.

THE LATE MR. LAW.—We deeply regret to announce the death of Mr. David Law, which occurred in Edinburgh on the night of April 9. Born in 1845, he was educated at Edinburgh University, and in early life became associated with Indian journalism, chiefly in Bombay. His constitution, never very strong, was visibly impaired by the Indian climate, and about seven years ago he resigned his post on the editorial staff of a Bombay daily newspaper. Prior to returning to England he visited many countries of Europe, deriving from foreign travel all the advantages which it usually confers upon men of quick and intelligent observation. On arriving in London he resumed his professional vocation, and he was the original editor of the English Mail when it was successfully launched on its career. In 1875 he was called to the bar at the Middle Temple, and his talents were rapidly recognised in a wider sphere. From the beginning of 1878 until the end of 1879 he was on the editorial staff of the Times. His health subsequently gave way, and the rest of his life, with brief intervals, was a period of acute suffering. In the great and populous republic of pressmen in the metropolis there are numbers who have had the advantage of Mr. Law's personal acquaintance and good offices; and in that smaller band who represent Indian journals in London there was none held in higher respect than he whose sad death, while barely at the prime of life, it is our melancholy duty to record. "By those," as the Times truly says, "who had the privilege of being associated with him in his labours, he will be remembered as a man of far-reaching attainments, generous sympathies, and most genial manners."—English Mail.

THE ROYAL NAVY.—The following information respecting the movements of ships is supplied by the Admiralty:—From the East Indies letters have been recived from the Commander in Chief, at Bombay, up to March 27. The Beacon was at Bombay, and was to sail for the Persian Gulf on March 3; the Dragon was at Zanzibar on March 20, and was ordered to Tamatave, Madagascar; the Dryad left Aden for Bombay on March 18, and after examination will proceed to Rangoon; the Philomel was ordered to Jeddah, from Aden, to relieve the Hart on March 26; the Ready at Bahrein, Persian Gulf, on March 11; the Ruby was to return to Zanzibar, from cruising, on March 24; The Seagull was at Aden on March 26; the Sparta was at Rangoon, waiting relief by the Eclipse; the Vestal was to leave Mozambique for Zanzibar, Aden, and England, on March 24; the Vulture at Busreh, Persian Gulf, until 10th inst.; the Wild Swan arrived at Bombay on March 24 (flag-ship from the 1st inst.), will be docked for the repair of copper before proceeding to Zanzibar. From Jeddah the Eclipse arrived on March 25, and the Hart on April 2, to remain until relieved by the Seagull and the Philomel respectively; the Philomel left Aden on March 28, and the Seagull on April 1. From China letters have been received from the Commander in Chief, at Hong Kong, up to March 10.

BANKRUPTCY OF AN INDIAN AGENT.—In the Court of Bankruptcy on Friday the case of Alexander Leslie was before Mr. Registrar Hazlitt. The bankrupt was an East India agent, carrying on business in St. Mary-axe, under the firm of Leslie, Rivington, and Co. The failure occurred in August, 1875, the liabilities being returned in the balance-sheet at £47,121, with assets £355. At a meeting recently held the creditors passed resolutions attributing the bankruptcy and debtor's inability to pay a dividend of 10s. in the pound to circumstances for which he could not justly be held responsible, and this was an application for an order of discharge. His Honour granted the order.

INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—On Tuesday, April 27, a paper will be read on the Amsterdam Ship Canal by Harrison Hayter, M.I.C.E.

SHIPPING CASUALTIES.—The Gertrude, from Calcutta, arrived at New York on April 20 leaky. The Hart steamer, from Rangoon, according to a telegram from Port Said, received yesterday, has arrived at Suez in tow of a steamer, with machinery broken down.

THE REPORTED MASSACRES IN BURMA.—A City firm write to the Times:—"With reference to what has recently appeared in the public newspapers in connection with the disquieting rumours from Burma we have pleasure in informing you that our foreign correspondents, who have a representative at present in Mandalay, have to-day telegraphed us as follows, viz.:—'Mandalay rumours untrue. Recommend contradict newspapers.' We may mention that the same gentleman wrote from Mandalay on Jan. 10 last regarding the massacres that occurred about eighteen months ago, as follows, viz.:—'There cannot be a doubt that though the massacring was done with the knowledge of the King and of the Kinwoon Mingyee, they were passive in the matter, and it is quite certain that no massacring has been done since Feb. 1 last (i.e., 1879). After Shaw's remonstrance there were no more massacres, and all that you have seen in the Rangoon newspapers are pure inventions.'"

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—Tenders were received yesterday at the Bank of England for Rs.40,00,000 in Government bills on India. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, Rs.23,75,000; to Bombay, Rs.16,20,000; and to Madras, Rs.5,000. Tenders on all Presidencies at 1s. 7⅞d. will receive about 25 per cent.; above that price in full. Compared with last week this price shows a rise of 1-16d. In the silver market there has been an absence of animation, more especially as regards the demand for bars, which have receded 1-16d., to 51 15-16d. per ounce.

SINGAPORE GAS COMPANY.—The annual meeting was held at the City Terminus Hotel on Tuesday; Mr. H. P. Stephenson in the chair. The Chairman thought that on the whole the report was fairly satisfactory. The profit for the half-year, after writing off the usual amount for depreciation of works and plant, &c., and £100 for the depreciation of fittings, amounted to £2,475, making, with the balance brought forward, a total of £3,291, out of which the directors recommend the declaration of a dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum on the preference, and at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum on the ordinary shares, leaving a balance of £349 to be carried forward. The loss by exchange for the half-year, £780, on £4,350 remitted, had been charged to revenue account. An extension of mains had been carried out, and further extensions would soon become necessary. Their manager had lately tried some Takisima (Japan) coal, and had found it very good for production of gas and coke, and 500 tons had been purchased. The stock in hand had been reduced by £1,497, and it was hoped that it would be further reduced in the future. The report was adopted and the dividend declared.

EASTERN EXTENSION, AUSTRALASIA, AND CHINA TELEGRAPH COMPANY.—The thirteenth ordinary general meeting was held at the Cannon-street Hotel yesterday afternoon; Mr. J. Pender, M.P., in the chair. The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, stated that the reserve fund now amounted to about 8 per cent. of the share capital. The duplicate Australian cable had been successfully completed since the last meeting. It was laid direct from Singapore, avoiding the Java lines, and thereby effecting a considerable saving in time as well as securing increased accuracy. The result was that they were now able to deliver telegrams in London four or five hours in advance of the sun. The whole system had never been in a more satisfactory state than it was at present, and he congratulated the shareholders on the position of the company. With regard to the reserve fund he considered that telegraph property could not be considered secure unless they had a duplicate system and the reserve fund maintained at a point which would meet any emergency which might arise in connection with putting the system in order. Mr. Marshall thought that the dividend should be increased, and moved that it be raised to 6 per cent. Mr. M'Laren Smith seconded the amendment. After some discussion the amendment was withdrawn and the motion was agreed to. A resolution was also passed recommending the directors in future to take into consideration the receipts, with a view to increasing the dividends.

REORGANISATION OF THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

THE committee appointed to consider this subject have submitted the following summary of proposals:—1. That retirement at the age of fifty-five be compulsory. 2. That no promotions to a higher class be made after the age of fifty. 3. That no alterations be made in the classes, grades, and pay of chief and superintending engineers. 4. That the several grades of executive engineers be merged into a new class called divisional engineers, with salaries commencing at Rs.650 per mensem, rising, by monthly increments of Rs.25 for each year of approved service, up to a maximum of Rs.1,050. Such increments not to commence until an officer has entered on the thirty-seventh year of his age. In the case of officers now drawing higher pay than the above, minimum increments not to commence until they have entered on the forty-third and forty-ninth years of age, according as they belong to the second or first grade of executive engineers (see Paragraph 33 of Memorandum). 5. That the present assistant engineers be broken up into classes, to be called deputy and assistant engineers, each divided into two grades. That the salaries of deputy engineers be fixed at Rs.500 and Rs.450, and of assistant engineers at Rs.350 and Rs.250 per mensem. 6. That the number of deputy and assistant engineers be fixed on a proportion, which will ensure promotion to the rank of divisional engineer in less than sixteen, and to deputy engineers in less than seven years. 7. With a view of securing this rate of promotion, that the following proportion be for the present accepted as the sanctioned scale of the department:—Chief engineers, 2; superintending engineers, 5; divisional engineers, 40=47; deputy engineers, 28; assistant engineers, 25=53=100. 6. That the net pay of royal engineer officers be added to the consolidated salaries on the proposed scale of their departmental appointments in order to place them on an equality with other military officers of their rank employed on the ordinary staff of the army; and that in future all military officers be brought on to the consolidated civil departmental salary, and be no longer allowed to draw staff pay and allowances. Officers who may at present be drawing more than is admissible under these rules to be allowed the difference as a personal allowance, until it disappears with the increase of consolidated pay. 9. That these proposals be submitted to Government with an intimation that their adoption will involve an increase in pay of Rs.7,200, and in pension of Rs.800 per mensem, per 100 officers.

THE new postal money order system is reported to be a great success.

WITH a view of hastening the work on the Kandahar Railway the Government of India has given orders for a number of electric lights to be forwarded to the scene of operations.

THE Pioneer's Bushire correspondent estimates that in the last season 7,000 chests of opium have been embarked from the Gulf ports for China and London, and states that the manufacture of opium in Sheraz, Yezd, and Ispahan has steadily increased year by year, great care being now taken to render the quality as pure as possible. During the next season, May, 1880 to 1881, it is expected 10,000 chests will be forthcoming. A wealthy Bushire merchant has, it appears, in contemplation a scheme for running steam vessels direct between the Persian Gulf and the free ports of China, principally for opium traffic.

THE order of the Madras Government respecting the reorganisation of the Neilgherry Commission, which was recently ordered to be held in abeyance for the present, will, it is stated, come into effect so soon as the rescinding by the local Legislature of the Madras Act I. of 1868 can be effected. The Madras Government were desirous of introducing from April 1 the new form of administration into the Neilgherry district, but nothing could be done while this Act remained in force. Steps will, however, soon be taken in the Legislative Department to introduce a bill for cancelling the Act. Mr. C. A. Galton proceeded to Ootacamund on the 25th on special duty, in connection, it is supposed, with the contemplated changes in the revenue administration of the Neilgherry district.

THE NEW DIAMONDS, DIAMANTÉ BRILLIANTS,

have created an extraordinary sensation in Paris, and are rapidly and deservedly superseding real diamonds. Their cost is about 1-300th less. These magnificent Stones first attracted notice at the Paris Exhibition last year, where they were exposed side by side with real diamonds of great value, and they are now introduced into England for the first time. They are absolutely identical in size, brilliancy, lustre, and durability with real diamonds of the first water, and defy detection even by jewellers and experts. They are immeasurably superior to real diamonds of second-rate quality. THE MANUFACTURER GUARANTEES THE SURPRISE AND PLEASURE OF PURCHASERS. These brilliants can be worn in the strongest daylight, which is practically the real test of perfection, and the most sceptical will be utterly deceived. They can be mounted side by side with real diamonds of the first quality, and will be found undistinguishable therefrom. They are worn at the Court Balls, and upon all occasions in Paris and St. Petersburg. The prohibitive prices charged in England for real diamonds render their acquisition impossible to the middle classes, and the imitation diamonds hitherto sold are worthless, the imposition being manifest to the most careless observer. The DIAMANTÉ BRILLIANTS can, on the contrary, be worn with absolute and entire confidence at all times and for a lifetime, and, as we have said above, defy the closest scrutiny. Purchasers invariably repeat their purchases. The investigations and labour of two generations have been expended in bringing these remarkable jewels to their present state of perfection.

£300 size, 20 shillings.
200 ,, 15 ,,
100 ,, 10 ,,
50 ,, 6 ,,
30 ,, 4 ,,

Smaller stones at a uniform price of four shillings. These diamonds cannot be obtained elsewhere at any price.

They were awarded a Prize Medal at the Paris Exhibition, 1878.

These diamonds can be supplied ready mounted, in 18 Carat Gold or in Silver-gilt. Designs and Estimates for Mounting submitted to purchasers of the diamond Free of Charge.

The diamonds will be forwarded packed in a box, registered by post, the same day upon receipt of order and remittance. Remittances may be made by cheques, post-office orders, postage stamps, or Cheque Bank cheques, direct to

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, 1st Dec., 1864.

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

THE CITIZEN, besides giving the fullest attention to the municipal affairs of the city of London, publishes every week full particulars of all new joint-stock companies as they are registered. This speciality has obtained for it a circulation among projectors, investors, and financiers of special value to advertisers who wish to influence the moneyed classes.—Office, 117, Cheapside.

A RIDE TO KHIVA

BY

CAPTAIN FRED. BURNABY,

Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 18:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken; and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cockle's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheik, who was impervious to all native medicines, when I administered to him five will never fade from my memory; and a friend of mine, who passed through the same district many months afterwards, informed me that my fame as a 'medicine man' had not died out, beut that the marvellous cure was even then a theme of convrsation in the bazaar."

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1880.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, April 10; Madras and Allahabad, April 8; Calcutta, April 7.

THE reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending the 30th of March state that rain fell in Madras, Bengal, Assam, and Mysor and Coorg. Rabi harvest continues; agricultural prospects fair. Small-pox prevalent in parts of Bengal and British Burma; otherwise the public health is generally good.

WE have received the following from the India-office:—

"FROM VICEROY, APRIL 23.—Following from Cabul, dated 23rd. Following message received from General Stewart by heliograph, through General Ross's camp:—Camp Ghuzni, April 22. On the 19th inst. the division under my command, while marching from Mushaki, encountered an armed gathering of Andaris, Tarakis, Suleiman Kheyls, and other tribesmen, who numbered some 15,000 men, horse and foot. Preparation was made to attack strong position held by the enemy, twenty-three miles south of Ghuzni, when a body of some three thousand frantic swordsmen poured down on our troops, spreading out beyond either flank of our line; fighting lasted one hour, after which entire body of enemy spread broadcast over the country. The protection of the baggage prevented pursuit by cavalry. The division, however, marched forward nine miles to Tani after the engagement, and the day before yesterday, the 20th, the advanced cavalry entered Ghuzni. Over 1,000 of the enemy's dead were counted on the ground, and their loss in killed and wounded stated to be 2,000. Casualties on our side, seventeen killed and 115 wounded. The following are the wounded:—Lieut. Young, 19th Bengal Lancers, dangerously; Captain Corbit, Royal Horse Artillery, severely; Lieut. Col. Lawson, 59th Foot; York, 19th Bengal Lancers, Lieut. Watson, 59th Foot, Lieut. Stewart, 2nd Punjab Cavalry, all slightly; no officers killed; all wounded doing well."

"FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, APRIL 25.—The force under Col. Jenkins at Charasiab was attacked on 25th, morning, by bodies of men from Logar. Jenkins reinforced at noon from Cabul. His casualties slight. All quiet in Kohistad and in Maidan direction. General Stewart expected at Shakhabad with his brigade 27th, unless delayed by his arrangements for provisional Government of Ghuzni and country round, which is in disturbed state."

"FROM VICEROY, SIMLA, APRIL 26.—Continuation telegram last night Macpherson and Jenkins most successful, beating enemy at all points and driving them from positions. Cavalry pursued some distance. Enemy left 100 dead. Our casualties, six killed, twenty-six wounded. Stewart heliographs from Ghuzni, 23rd, gathering of six or seven thousand, chiefly Andaris and Suleiman Kheyls, collected near village Azoolume. General Palliser sent to dislodge them, position being strong. Stewart reinforced. Palliser attacked and dispersed enemy. Their loss estimated 400. Ours very slight. No officers wounded. Stewart's march from Ghuzni delayed one day."

THE Times correspondent states that Ressaldar Mahomed Afzul Khan brought in last week fifty of the principal Kohistani chiefs, who, while wishing to support British interests, petitioned for Abdurahman as Ameer. The correspondent adds:—

"It is impossible to portray the situation without expressing a fervent hope that the impending political changes in England will not be allowed to interfere with the settlement of Afghanistan upon lines which are now shaping themselves. The moment is extremely critical, and any violent wrench to the still fragile political scaffolding will certainly lose us the returning confidence of the country and throw everything back into the confusion from which we seem now to be emerging. The present arrangement is that Sir Donald Stewart leaves his division at Ghuzni and proceeds to Cabul, where in virtue of his seniority he assumes the chief military command."

WE quote the following telegram from the Daily News of this morning:—

"Native messengers reaching Cabul report that a large force of Maidans, Logaris, and Wardaks has attacked General Ross near Sydabad. The enemy fought bravely, and lost 1,200 men. Communications between General Ross and Cabul are cut off. General Ross and General Stewart are expected to reach Cabul on the 3rd or 4th of May. The enemy is reported to be gathering in Kohistan, but the news is not confirmed."

THE Times correspondent telegraphs from Calcutta that the report of Theebaw's death has not yet been confirmed; but official intelligence has reached India that he is suffering from some dangerous malady, and that attempts are being made to stay the disease by sacrificing virgins.

THE Standard correspondent hears from Simla that Lord Lytton will leave India in about a fortnight. The text of Lord Hartington's speeches on the Afghan question have quite removed the bad impression which the telegraphic summary of them created.

HER Majesty has been pleased to appoint the Marquis of Hartington Secretary of State for India, and the Marquis of Ripon Governor General of India.

TO-DAY'S Times announces that the Marquis of Lansdowne will be the Under Secretary of State for India. The new period of Indian history will be known as that of the three Marquises.

THE World understands that the Marquis of Hartington has employed himself in amassing a wide fund of information on Afghanistan, the result of which will be seen in a scheme of settlement widely different from that enunciated by Mr. Lepel Griffin.

THE Standard says that Lord Cranbrook attended the India-office for the last time on Tuesday in the capacity of Indian Secretary. The Indian Council, usually held on Tuesday, met this week on Monday. The next Indian Council will be presided over by the Marquis of Hartington.

THE result of the general election is said to have been regretted by the Europeans, and to have been rejoiced over by the natives, who look for some indefinable benefits from the new Government.

OPINION in India, or Anglo-Indian opinion, need not be ignored. All the Pi. can say as to Afghan policy is a good deal: "To abandon Kandahar now would be criminal folly." We disagree with Allahabad in the sequence, "that is no reason for predicting it will not be abandoned."

THE Raja Sourindro Mohun Tagore, C.I.E., has lately received the Cross of Commander of the Order of Francis Joseph from the Emperor of Austria.

THE Princess of Tanjore, C.I., has offered to endow a girls' scholarship in the Madras Presidency, in memory of the late President of the National Indian Association, H.R.H. the Princess Alice.

THE Viceroy and Governor-General has conferred upon Muhammad Amin Khan, of the Khan Khel of the Miranzai Valley, the title of "Khan Bahadur" as a personal distinction in recognition of his services to the British Government.

IN acknowledging an address presented to him by the British Indian Association just before his departure from Bombay Sir Richard Temple expresses his utmost regard for the natives of India.

THE commandant of the 19th Bombay Native Infantry, Col. W. Creagh, has retired from the service.

TWENTY old Cooper's-hill men are to be offered commissions in the Staff Corps.

GENERAL MASSY, who had an interview with the Commander in Chief at Umballa, is, says a Bombay journal, at Simla. It is rumoured that he has been offered a brigade in India.

THE interest in General Massy's case continues. It is said that he has been offered another brigade command if he will consent to remain quiet regarding the Chardeh Valley affair. This he is not likely to do. His letter to General Roberts, replying to the Commander in Chief's censures, contains an exhaustive explanation of the whole affair. It may be remembered that Sir F. Roberts stated that his instructions to General Massy contained a positive order that he was not to engage the enemy on any account. General Massy holds that he did not so interpret his instructions, and that he had no option but to open fire when he did. He denies that he advanced without advanced guards or scouts, and that he came suddenly upon the enemy. The latter were seen at two miles distant. The cavalry charges in which the 9th Lancers suffered so severely were, it appears, ordered by General Roberts himself, and so also was the advance of the guns after the charge, for which H.E. Sir F. P. Haines blames General Massy.

THE forced abandonment of the guns is now declared to have been owing to General Roberts' order to retire them behind a low wall near a village where it was found that a deep wide ditch, quite impassable for artillery, barred the further line of retreat. There was then no alternative but to spike and abandon.

AN attack has been made by Mr. St. Barbe on the Government of British Burma for their offences in the matter of Burmese spelling. He charges them with having countenanced "the most frenzied modes of spelling and transliteration," and with allowing the Education Department to publish a most cacographical collection of Burmese texts. He urges the application of the Latin alphabet to the unwritten Khakyen language. A bolder exemplification of the unwritten English character might also be useful in our dealings with Burmans and Singphos.

THE Arabic journal of Constantinople, El Jawaib, announces that the chief inhabitants of Zafar, having petitioned the Imam of Muscat to extend his rule over their country, their request has been granted and a governor has been appointed. It remains to be seen whether Sheikh Fazil, who is said to rely on Turkish support, will acquiesce in this expropriation.

IN a recent competition for prizes at Coorla one of the Bombay volunteers, who had on previous occasions won prizes, including a cup, was discovered to have obtained a very high score without the troublesome formality of shooting. The register keepers, three corporals of the 2-11th Regiment, admitted that they had signed the scoring ticket, which had been brought to them already filled in. The chief delinquent had been watched, and it was proved that he had not shot for the match at all.

DISCUSSING the question of advances to coffee planters, a Madras journal says that there are at present about 80,000 acres of land held by planters in the Wynaad, and about 20,000 acres in the Nilgiris, and 10,000 in the Shevaroys. The total, including the plantations in the Pulnis, in the Coimbatore, and Tinnevelly Districts, and the estates in Travancore and Mysor, amounts to over 700,000 planted acres, the actual annual value of the crop being more than £1,500,000 sterling.

THE Madras Mail informs us that the directors of the South Indian Railway have "urged upon their agent the necessity of increasing their fares still further, so that the net revenue may at least be able to cover the guaranteed interest." It will be remembered that it was the returns of this South Indian Railway which were used by "C. E." last year to challenge the correctness of Mr. Carroll's estimate of the comparative working of the narrow and broad gauge railway lines. The South Indian Railway did show in 1877 very favourable accounts, and in reply to Mr. Carroll's note on some points of the traffic working of the Rajputana line and the G.I.P. and B.B. and C.I. Railways, "C. E." published a similar paper, simply substituting South Indian for Rajputana, and apparently coming to the opposite conclusion, and in favour of the narrow gauge. It would appear now that this favourable statement of the South Indian was owing to exceptional circumstances, and that it has now taken its place by the side of the other non-paying narrow-gauge lines.

THE Times of India says it is rumoured that eventually an officer of the Royal Navy of high standing will be placed at the head of the Port Trust establishment in Calcutta. An officer of the army of high standing having been placed at the head of the Port Trust establishment in Bombay, the arrangement about to be carried out at Calcutta seems to be natural and proper.

THE Indian Salt Revenue for the year 1879-80, from April to February, amounts to Rs.6,31,87,479, as compared with Rs.5,92,96,842 in 1878-79, the total quantity of salt being 25,358,321 maunds, as compared with 23,087,904 maunds in the preceding year.

THE Financial Secretary of the Straits Settlements announces a surplus of 16,000,000 dols. at the close of the last year.

MESSRS. ALLEN AND CO. are about to publish a sketch of Lord Lawrence's public career, written by Capt. L. J. Trotter, author of "Warren Hastings: A Biography," for the purpose of promoting subscriptions to the Lawrence Memorial Fund. This little volume, which is not at all intended to compete with Mr. Bosworth Smith's full biography of the great Anglo-Indian statesman, is now in the printer's hands, and will appear very shortly at a price not exceeding eighteenpence.

THE committee of the Athenæum Club have included in their last special election of members for this year the name of Sir John Strachey, financial member of the Viceregal Council.

THE following new works in the press will be issued during May by Messrs. Wm. H. Allen and Co.:—"Twenty-one Days in India, being the Tour of Sir Ali Baba, K.C.B." By George Aberigh-Mackay. "The Garden of India; or, Chapters on Oudh History and Affairs." By H. C. Irwin, Bengal Civil Service. "A Pleasure Trip to India during the Visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and afterwards to Ceylon." By M. E. Corbet. With photographs. "The Conjurer's Daughter: A Tale." By J. W. Sherer, C.S.I., author of "Who is Mary," &c. "Indian Reminiscences." By Col. S. D. White, late Bengal Staff Corps. "Destruction of Life by Snakes, Hydrophobia, &c., in Western India." By an Ex-Commissioner. "Indian Industries." By A. G. F. Eliot James.

AN improved diving apparatus is now being exhibited at the Aquarium by the inventor, Mr. Fleuss. He has succeeded in dispensing with the necessity for a supply of air by means of pumps and tubes; a reserve of compressed oxygen is contained within the diving dress, and is so regulated as to re-oxygenate the air breathed, so that the quantity originally taken down within an unusually capacious helmet supplies sufficient respiratory power during a longer period than five hours if required. The diver is also free to move in any direction and place himself in almost any posture. Many of our readers will be more interested when they are told that the clever inventor served for several years in the Peninsular and Oriental Service, which he left, as third mate, to carry out his inventions on shore. His ability to dispense with external supplies of air could be utilised in a mine full of choke damp as well as under water.

THE Times of India gives us the following:—

OBITUARY OF THE WEEK.—Lady Haines, wife of his Excellency the Commander in Chief; Mr. N. Spencer, Bombay; the only son of King Theebaw; Pagan Meng, uncle to King Theebaw; Surgeon R. H. Robinson, Madras; Babu Banowari Lal Roy, a noted shikaree.

THE fortress of Ghuzni is briefly described in the telegram received as ruinous and armed with only ten guns.

THE Globe learns from St. Petersburg that the Russian Government has telegraphed to Kuldja giving instructions to the local authorities there not to allow any corn to be despatched thence to the Chinese forces cantoned in Kashgaria. Interest is excited in Russian circles as to the effect that this decree will have on Tso Tsoun Tan's forces, as it is known that they are largely dependent upon Kuldja corn for subsistence. The Moscow Gazette contains a paragraph from the Semipalatensk Vedomosti, stating that two Chinese officers have arrived at the Russian frontier from Kashgaria, bearing despatches from Tso Tsoun Tan to General Kolpakovsky.

A RECENT number of the Golos contains a lettter from Kuldja, announcing the death there of Sultan Abil Ogla Ibrahim. The deceased was struck with apoplexy while out hunting, and died shortly after, being borne home insensible by his attendants. Abil Ogla raised himself to the rank of Sultan of Kuldja shortly after the insurrection against the Chinese in 1865. When the Russians invaded the country six years later he was deported to Viernoe, when a pension of 2,500 roubles a year was settled upon him. He has left behind him a wife and three children—two girls and a boy, who, according to the Golos correspondent, are penniless.

CONSEQUENT on the death of Major General E. W. E. Walker, Col. John Fulton, Royal (late Bengal) Artillery, obtains promotion to the establishment of general officers. Col. Fulton's present commission is dated August 1, 1877, over eleven years later than that of Col. Barry, C.B., who heads the so-called British list.

THE Madras Army has suffered a considerable loss lately in Capt. R. H. Fawcett, 33rd Regiment, who has been obliged to take leave to England, owing to ill health. Capt. Fawcett was for some time employed on special service at Indian headquarters, and has been acting for the last year as a deputy assistant adjutant general on the Madras establishment. The Army and Navy Gazette says "that as an officer of exceptional ability, and one who has enjoyed most thoroughly the confidence of the highest authorities in India, he can ill be spared at a time when there are so many pressing questions awaiting settlement which closely affect the future well-being of both the British and local forces in India."

SOME six or eight retirements may be anticipated shortly among the senior veterinary surgeons, owing to the disinclination which is shown by the senior members of the department to fall in with the requirements as regards service in India. Complaints will doubtless be made of hard treatment, but it must be admitted that those juniors have really a grievance who are compelled to proceed on service after having spent but two and a-half years at home, whilst seniors who have enjoyed their ease at home stations for twenty and twenty-five years persistently refuse to believe in the existence of such a thing as a roster.

THERE were 219 deaths in Calcutta during the week ending March 27, giving a death-rate of 26·6 per 1,000 per annum. The same week in Madras there were 256 deaths, giving a death-rate of 33·4 per 1,000 per annum. In Bombay, during the week ending March 30, 514 were registered, giving a death-rate of 40·5 per annum.

SIR JOHN STRACHEY'S BONUS.

IT is quite true that a sum of money is to be paid to Sir John Strachey in compensation for the pecuniary sacrifice he incurred in giving up the lieutenant governorship of the North West to become Financial Member of Council. And a recognition of the fact that is quite right and fitting for Sir John Strachey to accept this money is compatible with the most emphatic disapproval of the policy he has carried out as financial member. He made no stipulation about money when, in 1876, the Secretary of State expressed a wish that he should become financial member, and merely claimed six months' leave of absence to England before taking up the new appointment; the doctors having declared that it was necessary for him to have this change. After he left England, however, on his return to India, it was determined by, we believe, a unanimous vote of the Secretary of State's Council, that, in consideration of the loss he incurred in giving up the lieutenant governorship, and accepting, in accordance with the wish of her Majesty's Government, and in the interests, as it was conceived, of the public service, an appointment of lower pay and dignity—he should, on ceasing to hold the office of financial member of Council, receive a special allowance of £5,000. The difference between the pay and other allowances of a lieutenant governor and a member of Council is about Rs.25,000 a-year; and, as the former is supplied with houses, both in the plains and the hills, at public cost, the actual difference between the emoluments of the two offices is considerably more.—Pioneer.

MR. LEPEL GRIFFIN'S ADDRESS TO THE SIRDARS.

MR. LEPEL GRIFFIN has made known to the Barukzai sirdars here what is to be the future of Afghanistan; and although many details of the scheme sanctioned by the Government of India cannot, of course, yet be settled, the outline is distinct enough. As to the difficulties to be overcome before the new arrangements mature, they are incidental to our position as conquerors of Cabul, and will be dealt with either diplomatically, or by force of arms, according to the temper of the tribal chiefs and others. As Mr. Griffin's short speech to Wali Mahomed Khan, Hashim Khan, and the other Barukzai sirdars was of an informal kind—though necessarily carrying weight as an exposition of Government policy—I shall be only able to give its general purport, about which there can be no manner of doubt. It was to the effect that certain wrong impressions had got abroad concerning Yakoob Khan and his possible return to Cabul. Such return the Government had decided could under no conditions take place; tribal chiefs and their followers had believed that if a sufficient turmoil were kept up, and turbulent demands made persistently for Yakoob Khan's return, that end might be gained. This was a total mistake. The ex-Ameer would never be allowed to resume the power he had forfeited, and all disturbances with that object would be unavailing. It had also been found that during three generations the Durani sovereigns of Cabul had been unable or unwilling to carry out treaty obligations with India, and it had now been decided that their power should be curtailed and certain sub-divisions made of Afghanistan. While the British Government had no desire to annex the country they were resolved that Kandahar and Herat must henceforth no longer appertain to the sovereign of Afghanistan. They would be separate and distinct, and the future ruler of Cabul would have to look upon them as removed from his jurisdiction. It had also been determined that the army of occupation should remain in Afghanistan until a new ruler had been appointed strong enough to accept and carry out the obligations to be imposed upon him, and such a ruler would have to be found. He must be strong enough to ensure the protection of such Afghans as were the friends of the British, in order that, when the army withdrew, there might not be a risk of such men suffering for their faithfulness to us. Our friends must be the friends of any ruler placed in power, and he must be prepared to protect them.—Correspondent of Pioneer.

THE KOHAT MOUNTED BATTERY.

THE following farewell order has been published at Cabul:—"The Kohat Mounted Battery being about to leave the force under the command of General Roberts, he wishes to record his sense of the service rendered by Capt. Morgan, the officers, and men of the battery. Joining the Kuram force on its first formation in 1878, the battery shared in the assault on Peiwar, where its gallant commander, Capt. Kelso, fell in action. The general has much pleasure in bringing to notice its excellent services at Shutargardan and in the operations in December, 1879, and feels sure the reputation acquired for accuracy and skill will always be maintained; his best wishes for the future accompany Capt. Morgan and the Kohat battery."

GHAZIS AT KANDAHAR.

THE correspondent of an Indian journal with the Bombay troops met, near Quetta, a convoy of sick from Kandahar. They were taking down three Ghazi prisoners under sentence of transportation to the Andaman Islands. Quite boys they looked, sitting chained heavily together in charge of a considerable guard. Tommy Atkins has made great friends with them all, and they are in fact almost pets with the men guarding them. One lad had stabbed an artilleryman with a shoemaker's awl, the weapon fortunately breaking on his ribs. This prisoner asserted on his trial that he was worked up with bhang by a mollah, and remembers nothing that happened after he was intoxicated with it; another lad of fourteen had selected the same dangerous weapon—viz., an awl, and had stabbed an artillery officer, inflicting a painful wound which prevented his riding with any comfort for a long time. When asked for his defence this prisoner replied that he had had no food for some time and was starving, so he committed the assault for the purpose of obtaining food from the sirkar, for he had observed that a comrade of his who had committed a similar crime was rapidly fattening in his prison. It will be necessary to take some decided steps to put a stop to these Ghazi murders, which are rapidly becoming more frequent in Kandahar and its neighbourhood. In the first week of April there were three cases of this sort; a naik of the 25th Punjab Infantry was stabbed while standing at a butcher's stall within thirty yards of his own camp; in another, a doolie-bearer was killed; in a third, a Ghazi attacked a soldier with a bayonet fixed on a stick. However, Tommy was too smart for him, and after knocking him down out of hand conveyed him ignominiously to the guard-room. Several methods have been proposed to put a stop to this series of attempted murders; one is that suspected mollahs should be executed or transported; another that heavy fines should be levied on all villages in the neighbourhood of Kandahar which can be proved to have entertained Ghazis. In any case strong measures will have to be resorted to speedily.—Times of India.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

THE MAHOMEDAN LAW OF INHERITANCE.*

MR. RUMSEY has already made himself a name by his former Charts of Family Inheritance, both according to the Hindu and the Mahomedan laws. These two works are recognised authorities, and now that he has undertaken a larger book we expect the subject to be treated in a complete and masterly manner. And we are not disappointed. Mr. Rumsey shows both analytical and synthetical capacity, for he has dissected the complicated statements of ancient Arab authors, and from them built up a system of principles suited to the use of Western lawyers. A precise knowledge of the Mahomedan law of inheritance is of considerable importance to Indian civil servants, more especially since 1864, when the native assistants were withdrawn from the courts in India. This change compelled our judges to master the subject for themselves, and it is not an easy one. The laws regulating succession to property in Mahomedan countries differ markedly from those which prevail in Western Europe. The relatives of a deceased person inherit indefeasibly two-thirds of his property, it being unlawful for anyone to bequeath more than one-third of his wealth. No distinction between real and personal estate is recognised, and rights of primogeniture are unknown. The property is not, however, merely left to the household, or to anyone with skill enough to appropriate it, as is the custom in Europe; on the contrary, all possible relatives to a remote degree have a well-recognised and carefully-adjusted right to inherit certain definite shares of the estate. When claims of the first degree have been satisfied the residue is distributed among those of the second degree, and, when these last are satisfied, what remains passes on to distant kindred. But, as the various classes of kinsmen do not inherit proportionately, but in fixed shares, it stands to reason that some combinations of relatives would require more and some less than the entire estate. This gives rise to additional complication by requiring the application of certain principles of "increase" and "return," by which shares of the same class are proportionately diminished or increased to adjust them to the exact amount to be distributed.

The above is not, by any means, the whole of the mystery, for there are numerous exceptions, limitations, and special cases which call for much careful adjustment. Thus, on the face of it, it would seem that every estate would be, at every succession, split up into an indefinite number of fragments among all possible degrees of relationship, down to the ninety-ninth cousin. Such a contingency is provided against by the laws of "exclusion," which operate on exact principles, and limit the heirs to a reasonable number. But to compensate this there can be, in certain cases, inheritance by other titles than relationship or marriage, and there are persons who may not inherit at all. There are many other special rights and disabilities tending to complicate this curious subject, such as the recovery of debts, composition of inheritance and dower, the application of the law to slaves, aliens, and infidels, and the duties of executors in all cases.

The whole subject is highly creditable to Arab ingenuity, and is, on the whole, founded on a finer sense of justice than are the crude principles of inheritance which obtain in Europe. This circumstance gives general interest to the work of Mr. Rumsey, as it contains much which is highly suggestive to both the lawyer and the legislator. Mr. Rumsey bases his work on the Hedaya, the Sirâjiyyah, and the Shirâfiyyah, three excellent authorities; but, as he points out, the English translations of these works were made from a Persian rendering and not from the Arabic original. They were, furthermore, made in the infancy of Oriental scholarship by the far-sighted sagacity of Warren Hastings.

It is time that new and more accurate translations were made; but, with the extinction of the old Court of Directors, all hopes of the execution of such useful works passed away. We gladly welcome Mr. Rumsey's book. It turns available material to the best account, and will prove more extensively useful than even the former works of the author. The very full and analytical index at the end greatly increases the value of the book for purposes of reference.

* "Moohummudan Law of Inheritance, and Rights and Relations Affecting It. Sunni Doctrine." By AMARIC RUMSEY, of Lincoln's-inn, Barrister at Law, Professor of Indian Jurisprudence at King's College, London. London: W. H. Allen and Co., 13, Waterloo-place. 1880.

THE RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE TURKOMANS.*

IN the preface to this important narrative of Russia's unsuccessful raid against the Akhal Tekke Turkomans in 1879 Mr. Marvin warns his readers to expect no fresh revelations from that Foreign-office with which his name was so unpleasantly connected two years ago. But although "not a single item of information in this volume is derived from Foreign-office sources," it contains a great deal of matter at once new and interesting to all those among us who, from curiosity or some stronger motive, care to learn what the Russians have lately been doing or designing against the hardy warriors of Southern Turkistan. The title of the book in no way belies the character of its contents. "The Eyewitnesses' Account" consists, for the most part, of copious extracts and careful compilations from the letters of Russian and other correspondents at the seat of war. Those who fancy that nothing good or trustworthy can come from a Russian source will be surprised to see how largely the author has drawn upon Russian newspapers for an authentic narrative of a campaign which ended so disastrously for the Russian arms. Disclaiming all sympathy with extreme views on either side, and heartily disliking the prospect of a Russian advance to Merv, Mr. Marvin is perfectly satisfied with the trustworthy character of his materials, and invites the reader to believe in his impartiality, and to accept the fruits of his painstaking researches as "a plain connected narrative of recent events in the trans-Caspian region."

The first two chapters trace the preliminary movements of Russian troops and reconnaissances, from the first erection of a fort at Krasnovodsk in 1869, down to Lomakin's retreat from Khoja Kála in 1878. Chapter III. describes, chiefly in the very words of Gospodin Arsky, the curious country inhabited by the Akhal Tekke Turkomans. The Akhal Oasis, a long clayey plain varying in breadth from eight to thirty miles, is sheltered on the east by a mountain wall, 300 miles long, and surrounded by deserts on every other side. It is well watered by thirty-two streams, and guarded by twenty-eight Turkoman forts, while thirty-five villages dot the plain, with a fair expanse of cornfields, meadows, and gardens. "It is not such a bad place, after all. One could live very pleasantly here," was the cry of many a Russian soldier weary with long marching over hills and deserts. The people are supposed to number about 140,000 souls, most of whom prefer a settled to a wandering life. Their manners, habits, appearance, and means of living are described with sufficient fulness. The remainder of the book—that is some 300 pages—takes us step by step through the campaign of 1879. To General Lazareff was entrusted the conduct of an enterprise which might have ended differently had he lived to carry it through. A man of immense stature, of unrivalled strength, invincible energy, and tried soldiership, he was beloved by his troops in spite of his hot temper and stern discipline. But for all his energy, endurance, and strength of will, Lazareff could not avoid his fate. He fell ill at Chikishlar and struggled on to Chát only to die of blood-poisoning and overwork. The portrait given of him at page 134 tells us in every lineament how brave and sturdy a soldier was lost to his country at a critical moment.

His successor, Lomakin, had already stamped himself a failure, and the result appears to have fully justified the dislike felt for him by his own troops. Cowardice and cruelty often go together, and these in his case were combined with an excess of stupidity which threw away in an hour the fruits of an enterprise planned and carried forward at a heavy cost; an enterprise which, under any other leader, would have ended in complete success. Within the Dengil Tépé were collected some 20,000 Turkomans, with their families and goods. Not content with showering shells and rockets into the crowded entrenchment, and with driving back thither a crowd of fugitive women and children, Lomakin launched his infantry, about 1,400 strong, against a place which, after some hours of deadly bombardment, was still defended by 15,000 men, fighting with the courage of despair and fanaticism amidst the corpses of their comrades, wives, and children. The Russians fought bravely, but against such odds mere courage was of no avail. One-third, at least, of their number were slain or wounded, and the rest were chased back in wild disorder by their maddened opponents. Hardly waiting even for the morrow, Lomakin began his slow and painful retreat across the Kopel Dagh, harassed from time to time by parties of exulting Tekkes. But we must refer the reader to Mr. Marvin's pages for a full, true, and particular account of that day of bootless butchery and of what happened during the subsequent retreat. The whole story is full of interest, mostly, indeed, of a melancholy sort. A word of thanks is due to the author and his publishers for the number of good maps, plans, and portraits scattered through the volume, which is further enriched by some useful appendices.

PUBLIC OFFICES.*

WE have received a copy of the second edition of Mr. Marvin's work, in which he has given his personal experience of several public offices, gained as a writer. The many persons who share the opinion that recent reforms in the civil service have been by no means improvements, will be able to enlarge their stock of proofs from this narrative.

INDUSTRIAL GEOGRAPHY.*

MR. BEVAN'S name is well known as that of an accurate worker in the field of industrial statistics, as well as that of guide books, to those who want to become better acquainted with their own country. In his most recent publication he has given an almost too concise account of the industries peculiar to the various counties and districts of England. The sources of the raw materials, the centres of manufacture, and the ports of import and export, are successively enumerated and distinguished in such a manner as to leave little but expansion to be desired by an instructor of youth.

LONG LIFE.*

THE Long-Life Series, commencing with an eponymic little handbook, and treating three others successively of the best means of conservation of "Eyesight," "Mouth and Teeth," and "Throat and Voice," contains a great deal of valuable information. Like soothing syrups, these little books must be a real blessing to mothers. Those who delight in taking care of themselves and other people will find endless maxims easy to enunciate, and impossible to be put into steady practice by the foolish crowd, who find that the occupations of life leave little leisure to think about the best means of evading the ills to which poets and experience assure us that "flesh is heir." These handbooks, in sober earnest, are carefully written, and contain sound help to self-knowledge and self-preservation, and should go far to assist in producing some unquestionable centenarians in the remote future.

CORRESPONDENCE.

HURNAI.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—A railroad has been constructed from the Indus at Rook, eight miles south of Shikarpoor, to Sibi, but Sibi is too hot for English troops. Some fifty or sixty miles to the north of Sibi is the valley of Hurnai, watered by a tributary of the Nari River. Hurnai has a climate said to be very well suited for Europeans, and there a British army would not only dominate Southern Afghanistan but would also be in a position to paralyse any intending invader of India. The Eastern part of the Hurnai Valley ought to be found in No. 7 of the Indian Atlas. At present the greater portion of No. 7 is blank paper. The Indian Government is in possession of surveys which enable it to fill in correctly most of the blank paper. Will you urge it to do so?—Your obedient servant,

April 27. T.

CULTIVATING THRIFT.

THE State Railway Savings Bank, established by Government General Order No. 128 of Jan. 10 last, will prove a great benefit to the large class of railway employés who are serving on the Government lines and are drawing pay of various amounts. The idea is not a new one; but it might be hereafter extended to other services with very great advantage to them and to the Government. From Jan. 1 one anna in the rupee is to be deducted from the salary of every married, and one half anna from the salary of every unmarried, railway servant. In proportion to the compulsory deposits made by the railway servants during each half-year a sum equal to ½ per centum of the net railway earnings during the half-year is to be distributed as bonus. If the net earnings of the railway exceed 4½ per cent. an additional bonus of ½ per cent. is to be distributed to the depositors in proportion to their compulsory deposits. Railway servants may at their discretion make other deposits in the savings bank in addition to the sums they are compelled to save, such sums being at their free disposal as in any private bank; while the compulsory deposits, like the various service funds, can only be drawn upon when the depositor retires from the service or upon a great emergency, with the consent of the manager, or upon the decease of the depositor. If a depositor be dismissed all sums voluntarily and compulsorily saved are to be handed to him, but not any bonus with which he may have been credited. Such bonus is not, however, to lapse to Government, but is to be distributed amongst the other depositors of the railway on which the dismissed man served. Englishmen serving in India are obliged to retire when at home they would be considered in the prime of their working career. The provision they can secure for the long period of enforced idleness they must look forward to becomes, therefore, a matter of peculiar importance to them. Hardly any of the Government servants who year by year leave India for their native country can do anything towards increasing their income at home. A small minority of energetic individuals could get their living under almost any circumstances, and find means of supplementing their pension on retirement; but the great majority must look to it alone for support in their declining years, and often, too, at a period when their children are still upon their hands and their expenses at their greatest. The establishment of a service fund secured an ample provision to the members of the regular civil service, and a provision, though a far less adequate one, has been made for military officers by recent introduction of a compulsory fund. The uncovenanted service is, however, still out in the cold. Mr. F. Goldsmid, then assistant to the revenue commissioner, tried hard to secure the establishment of a fund for the uncovenanted service years ago, but without success. Any fund to include all members of the uncovenanted service would apply to persons in receipt of such different salaries, and under such different inducement to retire, that it would be very difficult to bring them under one set of rules. The pension already granted by Government, although insufficient provision for those who have to retire to England when fifty-five years of age, is absurdly liberal to natives of this country, who are in their own climate and can often find means for increasing their income. A sepoy who, after twenty years' service, can induce the doctor to give him a certificate obtains four rupees a month for life, commencing when his age is probably about thirty-eight. He may, according to the ordinary space of humanity, expect to enjoy this pension for twenty-eight or thirty years, and often does enjoy it for a much longer period. In this case Government, after having paid their sepoy Rs.1,680 pay for twenty years' service, undertakes to pay him Rs.1,324 as an inducement to retire just when he is most useful. He has all the old means of livelihood open to him. His share in the ancestral wuttun remains, and, when supplemented by his four rupees a month, will enable him to live the life of ease and comfort so dear to the indolent Asiatic. Take, again, the case of a karkun in the Survey Department, whose profession is one which entails a great deal of hard work. After twenty years, if he can induce a doctor to give him a certificate, he can retire on the maximum pension he can ever hope to obtain, and, if that is not sufficient according to his ideas of income, he is certain of being able to obtain employment in a native State often at a higher salary than he obtained before. Government offer the man an absurdly high pension to induce him to malinger just when he is most useful. The consequence is, that an incalculable amount of fraud of this kind is perpetrated every year. Under present rules, about 30 per cent. of the cost of sepoys and native officials' services is allowed to remain a liability for future years. Pensions form, in fact, a heavy, although generally unrecognised, addition to the debt of the Government of India. The comparative difference between the pension offered to higher officials and the cases we have just described is very marked. A civilian after twenty-five years' service in a foreign land gets a pension from Government of less than £500 a year, his pay being from Rs.2,000 to Rs.3,000 a month. His service fund doubles this sum. It is clear that no Government would venture to pension their higher officials at the rate they offer their private soldiers. It seems, however, that the effect and cost of a pension is such a complicated matter that those who have to consider, effect, and arrange the amount of pensions always lose their heads. Thus, when the Staff Corps was instituted, a pension of nearly £1,200 a year was offered to certain officers, provided they chose to wait and claim it; and this, although Government had no idea of offering an inducement to remain, for they wished to get rid of most of their officers. All these anomalies and difficulties are found when we examine the existing rules regulating pensions. —Bombay Gazette.

DR. BEATSON.

AMONG the names of the passengers by the Pekin was that of Doctor Fullarton Beatson, who thus proceeded to a well-earned rest after a brilliant career of long and honourable service. Dr. Beatson first landed in India in 1843, and was at once directed to proceed to take charge of the troops at Chinsurah, and, shortly after taking charge, accompanied the soldiers to Ambala, marching by the Grand Trunk Road, these being the first troops to perform the journey by that route. Hitherto a considerable portion of this journey had been performed by boat, but an alarming accident to the 62nd Regiment a few months before, while proceeding to Dinapur, had led to the abandonment of the river route. On reaching Ambala Dr. Beatson was attached to the European Bengal Artillery. After some service in various portions of Upper India with troops he was employed on civil duty at Khytul in 1845. On the breaking out of the Sutlej campaign he was transferred to military work again, and put in charge of the 4th Division Staff, serving throughout the campaign. In 1846 he was appointed to the medical charge of Simla, but soon after was transferred to active duty in the field during the Punjab campaign, and on its conclusion continued in military employ. In 1851, during a time of "terrible sickness and mortality" at Anarkhalli, he was specially selected for duty with the 96th Regiment because of his "wide experience with European troops."
